...NE HEIR ALONE CONDUCTING FIGHT

...thers Not Joining in Attack — Mrs. Alexander Hamilton's Claim Taken Under Advisement.

...y a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

...PHILADELPHIA, April 17.—The ...dministration of a $36,000,000 ...pendthrift trust" fund set up under the will of the late Rodman ...anamaker is the basis of an attack on his will now being made ...Orphans' Court in suburban Norristown.

One more skirmish in the long ...al contest over the Wanamaker ...illions has just been concluded in ...e Norristown court. Back of this ...ntest is a bitter feud, a long and ...mplex tale of marriage, divorce, ...marriage, and always money, the ...oney that was amassed by old ...hn Wanamaker when he founded the mercantile fortune that is at ...ake today. This is in Philadelphia ...here, as one witty observer has ...mmented, the rich do not buy ...ckets for the opera or the theater ...instead they hire a lawyer and ...o to court. A city of old wealth ...nd old family, the law courts have ...ome to supplant ordinary places ...f amusement.

The Trustees.

The seven trustees named in the ...anamaker will were leading ...hiladelphia bankers and lawyers. ...he managing trustee was designated as William L. Nevin, long associated with old John Wanamaker. Nevin's compensation was fixed ...n the will at $200,000 a year.

The six associates each was to ...eceive, under the terms of the will ...0,000 a year. Levi L. Rue, now ...ad, was chairman of the board of ...irectors of the Philadelphia National bank. William P. Gest is ...hairman of the board of the Phil...delphia-Fidelity Trust Co. Morris ...Saul is a prominent Philadelphia ...ttorney as is also R. H. Montgom...ry. J. Willison Smith is President ...f the Land Title Bank & Trust Co. ...he seventh trustee was Justice ...wen D. Roberts of the United ...tates Supreme Court, who at the ...me of his appointment as trustee ...as regarded as probably the fore...ost lawyer in Philadelphia.

Payments by Estate.

The trustees began to draw their ...ompensation in April, 1928, one ...onth after Rodman Wanamaker's ...eath. Justice Roberts served as ...trustee until February, 1934 and ...eceived for his services during that ...eriod a total of $55,416. During ...he depression the trustees reduced ...he amount of their compensation ...o that the six were paid approxi...ately $8500 each. Justice Roberts ...estified in June of 1935, in earlier ...itigation over the trusteeship, that ...e resigned as a trustee, effective ...eb. 15, 1934. The record does not ...how why he resigned. He was ...amed to the Supreme Court bench ...n May, 1930. In addition to the ...ompensation he received for his ...ervices as trustee, Roberts re...eived, as one of two chief counsel ...or the estate, half of $500,000, as ...id Saul. That was in 1929. Mont...omery received a legal fee of $50,...000 which was in addition to the ...500,000.

The heirs, according to com...plaints in the records in the Nor...istown court, have received no in...come from the trust fund since ...December of 1932 although it in...ludes all the common stock of the ...reat Wanamaker stores in New ...ork and Philadelphia.

Since Wanamaker's death in ...March, 1928, the seven trustees re...eived in fees nearly $1,500,000. In ...ddition three executors, who are ...lso trustees, have received $1,140,...000. And lawyers for the trustees ...ave been paid $500,000.

BERTRAND RUSSELL, FATHER AT 64, IS PLEASED—VERY

British Philosopher Insists, However, Rearing of Family Is "Private Affair."

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 17. — Bertrand Russell, who has felt free to advise other fathers how to rear their families, insisted the upbringing of his family was a "private affair."

His third wife, 27 years old, has given birth to a son; Russell is 64. Concerning which he said, "I am pleased—very."

Russell succeeded to an earldom in 1931 when an older brother died. Besides his advocacy of companionate marriages, Russell is a pacifist and favors total disarmament and the surrender of all Great Britain's colonies to the League of Nations.

Russell's third wife formerly was his secretary and was named corespondent when Russell's second wife sued him for divorce in 1934.

5 IN AUTO DROWNED AT FERRY ON WABASH NEAR TERRE HAUTE

Car Plunges Into River; Two of the Bodies Not Yet Recovered.

By the Associated Press.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., April 17.—Five persons were drowned at the Merom Ferry on the Wabash River south of this city today when an automobile in which they were riding plunged into the river.

The dead were: Peter Milam, his wife, Mrs. Blanche Milam and their 4-year-old son, Jack Warren and Mrs. Warren. All were residents of Riverton, Ind.

The bodies of Warren and the child had not been recovered early tonight.

It was reported that the automobile, driven by Mrs. Milam, entered a ferry boat on the Illinois side of the river, plunged through a guard chain and into the water.

ADMIRALS ON HORSEBACK

Criticism of Their Participation in Coronation Parade.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 17.—Admirals on horseback will be seen in King George VI's coronation procession.

This anomaly has aroused criticism in the Royal Navy on the grounds that mounted Admirals look ridiculous. The Sea Lords of the Admiralty never have participated in coronations and only are doing so on this occasion because members of the Air Council have arranged to.

CALHOUN APPLE BLOSSOMS

Display Expected to Be at Height This Week.

Apple blossoms are expected to appear this week in Calhoun County, Illinois. Each year thousands of motorists view the orchards. The Hardin Lions Club will mark a trail for the convenience of visitors.

Owners of orchards announced that on Wednesday or Thursday and for several days thereafter, the blossoms probably will be at their best.

STRIKERS DECIDE TO STAY ON IN EMERSON PLANT

Statement Asserts They Will Leave When Assured That Union Will Have Sole Recognition.

WON'T GET TO HEAR THEIR PRESIDENT

C I O Organizer Says They Can't Even Risk Parading to Municipal Auditorium Today.

Stay-in strikers at the Emerson Electric Manufacturing Co.'s plant, 2018 Washington avenue, dug in deeper yesterday, the forty-first day of their strike. They decided against abandoning their strategic position until given definite assurance the company would sign an agreement recognizing the United Electrical and Radio Workers' Union of America as sole collective bargaining agent for 2000 striking production employes.

Evacuation of the plant at noon today, in time to allow the 200 stay-in strikers to parade to the Municipal Auditorium, where James B. Carey, their national president, will address a mass meeting, was considered. William Sentner, C I O organizer, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that the union Executive Committee and representatives of the stay-in strikers, in conference, rejected the idea of moving out of the plant today "through fear the strikers might be unable to obtain their demands in the negotiations." The Emerson company on Thursday agreed to begin negotiations toward a settlement of the dispute at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Statement Issued.

The position taken by the executive committee and the stay-in strikers was explained in the following statement:

"The union will evacuate the plant when it has assurance there will be a written contract recognizing the union as the sole collective bargaining agency for Emerson employes, as is provided in the Wagner Act. At present the stay-ins will be instructed to make as many preparations as possible for resumption of operations.

"Should the company desire to inspect the machinery, or make further inspection of the plant, the union will be glad to accompany representatives of the company on tours of the premises."

Sentner added that the union would consider a promise by Joseph Newman, company president, before a representative of the National Labor Relations Board that the company would sign an agreement recognizing the union as sole collective bargaining agent a "definite assurance" that a satisfactory settlement of the dispute would be reached.

"In Black and White."

Following announcement on Thursday by Leonard C. Bajork, regional director here for the Labor Board, that the Emerson management had agreed to negotiate toward a settlement, it was proposed to decide the question of evacuating the Washington avenue plant at a union meeting held Friday afternoon at Carpenters' Hall, Grand oulevard and Cozens avenue. Frank Schlieman, leader of the stay-in strikers, who left the plant long enough to attend the meeting, told the 650 fellow strikers, who crowded into the hall, that the stay-ins did not propose to terminate their demonstration until assured "in black and white" that negotiations would be carried through.

"This is not rebellion," the veteran tool and die maker stated, "but I know Newman, and I do not believe the company will give anything easily, only what is dragged out of it." It was then agreed to leave the question with the stay-in strikers and the Executive Committee, with the result announced yesterday.

The stay-in strikers, who are furnished food and other necessaries by the union, pass the time with self-imposed duties and amateur entertainment. On Friday they were visited by Carey, who was presented with the "key to Emerson City."

Second Meeting Tomorrow.

A second meeting between Bajork and representatives of the Wagner Electric Corporation to discuss prospects for negotiations between the company and its employes is scheduled for tomorrow. Bajork announced he had held a "very satisfactory" meeting with Wagner Corporation officials on Friday.

The United Electrical & Radio Workers' Union of America is pushing organization of Wagner Corporation employes, 1200 of whom were reported to have signed mem-

SCHOOL FOLDS UP AFTER GIVING 6600 COURSES BY MAIL

Public Service Institute, With $79,000 Reserve, Driven Out by 'Ruthless Competition.'

OFTEN CRITICISED FOR ITS CLAIMS

Admits 'Growing Animosity' of Federal Trade Board and Better Business Bureau.

Established less than two years ago with a capital of $5000, the Public Service Institute, Inc., which enrolled 6600 students in correspondence courses offered at $80 a head, is going out of business because the competition is too severe.

Clarence D. DeMontreville, president of the institute, which has headquarters at 425 De Baliviere avenue, told the Post-Dispatch last night "ruthless competition" had developed to a point where it seemed to him to be good business to get out of the field.

De Montreville's school, with an enrollment of 6600 students during its existence, should have grossed more than $500,000 in tuition fees, and the school now has, its president said, a cash reserve of $79,000, "which belongs to our students until we have fulfilled all our obligations."

The institute, he said, would continue until all students now enrolled, about 4000, had completed their courses, but no new business would be solicited.

"Growing Animosity."

In addition to competition from other schools, De Montreville mentioned as influencing his decision to withdraw from the lucrative business "growing animosity" toward such schools on the part of the Better Business Bureau, the Federal Trade Commission, the Civil Service Commission and the Post-office Department.

The Federal Trade Commission's "animosity" took the form of a complaint against the Public Service Institute last February in which the commission alleged the institute was competing unfairly with others in the business.

The commission alleged the school misrepresented that it had a staff of 20 instructors, many former Government employes; misrepresented that "thousands" of its students had received Government jobs; and that students were misled to believe that their tuition fees would be refunded if they did not get Government jobs.

Most of the institute's courses were offered as training persons for civil service jobs with the Government, but there were also accounting and commercial art courses.

Better Business Findings.

The Better Business Bureau, which has frequently criticised the operations of correspondence schools, reports that 75 per cent of those who enroll for civil service training courses never finish them; that 50 per cent of those who take Government civil service examinations pass them and are certified as eligible for Government jobs; and that about 5 per cent of those on the eligible list obtain appointments.

In an "open letter" to other correspondence schools, mimeographed copies of which were sent to the Better Business Bureau, the Federal Trade Commission, the Post-office Inspectors, and others, De Montreville states his reasons for going out of business.

On the subject of competition, he says: "There are now 90 schools offering civil service coaching, compared to about 20 when we went into business in 1935. Advertising costs have practically doubled, and we feel that by continuing we are facing eventual bankruptcy, while at the present time we are very comfortably financially sound.

Salesmen on Commission.

"With increased competition, many schools are doubling and tripling their field organizations. This is resulting in cut-throat competition, and we feel we cannot adequately control our sales organization, working on a commission basis, under such conditions.

"New schools are, in some instances, reported as paying as high as 70 per cent of total collections as commissions, which we cannot pay and still render service on a high plane.

"It requires no great amount of foresight to recognize that the 'grief' in this field within the near future will undoubtedly be far more serious than anything experienced heretofore.

"These conditions are undoubtedly known and recognized by the vari-

$12,000 IS FOUND ON TRAIL OF TWO TRAPPED GUNMEN

Part Recovered in Kansas City Hotel Room, Keys to Which They Had Given to Kansas Doctor.

$18,000 WAS TAKEN AT BANK IN EAST

Men Being Held in West Because of Serious Condition of Federal Agent Shot in Topeka Fight.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 17.—Nearly $12,000, virtually two-thirds of the amount stolen in a bank robbery at Katonah, N. Y., March 12, has been found along the trail of Robert Suhay and Alfred Power, New York gangsters brought here after their arrest at Plattsmouth, Neb., last night.

The men had fled from the scene of a fight yesterday at the Topeka (Kan., postoffice, in which Wayne W. Baker, 27 years old, Federal agent, was seriously wounded. A trap had been set at the postoffice, but the gunmen fought their way out.

Baker's condition is reported unchanged after two blood transfusions and his recovery is said to be doubtful.

Keys to Money Given to Doctor.

Dwight Brantley, in charge of the Kansas City division of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, disclosed that a Kansas doctor, presumed to be Dr. S. M. Hibbard, Sabetha, led officers to $6954.15 left by the two men in a hotel room here.

Brantley said Power and Suhay, who captured Dr. Hibbard in their flight from Topeka yesterday, gave a "Kansas doctor" keys to a Kansas City hotel room in which they told him there was "a lot of money and he could have it."

The keys, Brantley said, were turned over to authorities by the doctor, whom he declined to name, and, as a result, Kansas City officers found the money at the hotel.

Dr. Hibbard was captured by the fugitives at Sabetha and forced to treat one of them for a wound.

Homer Sylvester, 5-foot, 4-inch Sheriff, who arrested the men without a struggle after they lost their way through the streets of Plattsmouth, a town of 3700, said they had about $4800 concealed in their clothing.

Are Held at Kansas City.

Brantley said Suhay and Power probably would be held here pending recovery or death of Baker. He declined to say which of the two men fired the shots in the Topeka postoffice lobby that wounded Baker. J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, announced at Washington the two had admitted participating in the shooting.

Suhay was wounded in the arm as the pair fled from officers at Topeka. Brantley said the wound was not serious. "An individual identified as Suhay approached Baker from the rear and both Power and Suhay began shooting," Hoover said.

Brantley said the men were not in the Jackson County jail, which is on top of the skyscraper courthouse here, but would not say where they were being held.

S. S. Alexander, United States Attorney for Kansas at Topeka, said the pair would be indicted for the shooting of Baker. If the agent should die, Alexander said, they would be tried for murder. If he recovers, they probably will be tried for the Katonah $18,000 bank robbery, the prosecutor said.

Baker, wounded on his first assignment as a Federal agent, in the Topeka shooting, is a former Yuma, Ariz., deputy sheriff.

Bureau of Investigation records show both Power and Suhay have served pri on sentences in New York State.

Joseph Heckl, 28 years old, operator of a Brooklyn (N. Y.) motorcycle shop, who was taken into custody in connection with the robbery March 17 of the Katonah (N. Y.) bank, was held in $5000 bail for the grand jury today. Heckl, described by Department of Justice Agents as a cousin of Robert Suhay, was arrested last night on a charge of conspiracy to violate the Federal bank robbery statute.

Arrests in New York.

Heckl is accused by Federal agents of being the contact man in the Katonah bank robbery. Rhea Whitely, New York head of the criminal investigation bureau, said Heckl admitted he had bought an automobile last February for Suhay

TWO MEN DROWN IN BOAT ACCIDENT ON MISSISSIPPI

Elmer Savage, 23, and Frank Standing, 27, Thrown Out When Craft Swamps in Rough Water

Two men were drowned in the Mississippi River at the foot of Olive street yesterday afternoon when an outboard motorboat in which they were riding was suddenly swamped in rough water and they were thrown out.

The men drowned were Elmer Savage, 23 years old, of Halls Ferry and Chambers roads, St. Louis County, and Frank Standing, 27, 4047 Lincoln avenue, partners in a small tire-retreading business.

The owner and operator of the boat, Perry Faust, 3653 McDonald avenue, clung to the bow of the boat until it floated to a point opposite the foot of Miller street, a mile and a half below, where he was rescued by a policeman and two other men who paddled out to him in a flatboat with one oar.

At City Hospital, where Faust was treated for shock before being sent home, he said he and his companions had started up the river about 4 o'clock in the 14-foot boat from a boatyard at the foot of Franklin avenue, then began the trip back.

"Everything went lovely until the motor began missing," he told a Post-Dispatch reporter. "I can't understand what happened. The motor cut out and all of a sudden the stern of the boat went down, then up and down again. Then it filled with water and just went out from under me.

"I yelled to the others, 'I'm going to swim' and they said they would swim too. I told them to try to make it and started swimming but my shoes were heavy and I couldn't get them off. Then I saw the bow of the boat sticking up and I swam for it and grabbed a rope. I just barely made it. I didn't see the others go down."

The bodies of Savage and Standing were not recovered.

The accident was witnessed by Faust's stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Borchers, 4982A Mardel avenue, who, by a coincidence, were seated in their automo-

55 HELD IN PLOT TO TURN MADRID OVER TO REBELS

Loyalists Assert Several Are Monks Financed by Religious Organizations in Italy.

By the Associated Press.

MADRID, April 17.—Several men whom the Madrid defense junta asserted were monks financed by religious organizations in Italy were among the 55 persons arrested here today and accused of taking part in an insurgent plot to turn the city over to Gen. Francisco Franco.

Agents of the junta's public security section made two raids. They seized a reputed "fifth column" outpost within signal distance of the insurgent lines on the city's outskirts and uncovered what they called the largest spy ring found in the capital since the war started.

Besides the "monks in disguise," 12 women were reported taken when police raided the meeting places of insurgent conspirators and seized plans for their intrigues.

The ring, police officials said, were organizing secret troops within the city to attack the defense barricades from the rear.

One of the alleged monks was quoted by police as saying he had come to Spain from Italy at the outbreak of the civil war and had established contact with the insurgent conspirators after making his way to Madrid in disguise.

Police said he tried to escape arrest by slipping across to the insurgent lines outside the city.

Maria Herraiz, one of the women arrested, they said, gave the alarm when the police descended on one meeting place. They accused her of trying to destroy the organization's secret documents.

Copies of a manifesto signed by the "Madrid junta of the Jons Fascio," which were seized, were to have been distributed if the insurgents entered the city, police declared. A quantity of bracelets inscribed with the Fascist emblem were confiscated.

A Mexican woman, whose name was given as Carmen Gabuccio Sanchez-Mamot, charged with being a go-between for the insurgents with sympathetic refugees in foreign embassies and legations, also was arrested. She was described as a well-known figure in Madrid's literary and art circles.

SHRAPNEL BLAST TAKES LIVES OF 7 WOMEN SHOPPERS

Many Caught in Burst of Missiles Along the Gran Via in One of Most Severe of Recent Bombardments.

BASQUES BEAT BACK 3 ATTACKS

Loyalists Strive to Encircle Teruel and Remove Communication Menace; Insurgent Bombers Downed.

By the Associated Press.

MADRID, April 17.—Shells fell all along the Gran Via today when Insurgent artillery pounded the center of Madrid in one of the most severe bombardments in months.

Explosives tore new holes in buildings on the city's principal business streets. Semi-official estimates placed casualties at 18 killed and 60 wounded. One shell which fell on a queue of shoppers killed seven women.

After a noon lull Madrilenos, who have come almost to ignore the cannonadings, were caught in another burst of missiles and dodged from doorway to doorway to find safety.

Shrapnel Spray in Street.

A big insurgent shell struck a theater building on the Gran Via and shrapnel sprayed across the thoroughfare, piercing the plate-glass windows of a hotel. Four women and three men were injured by this explosion, one of the men gravely.

The Duchess of Atholl, Conservative member of the British House of Commons, and Miss Ellen C. Wilkinson, Laborite member, were sitting with friends in the hotel dining room when the shell burst.

Another projectile landed in the patio of the Madrid jail, killing one prisoner and wounding five. Still another exploded in Madrid's "Times Square," the Puerto del Sol, injuring several persons.

Madrid Dominates "Corridor."

On the siege front there were no important changes. Government troops, communiques said, maintained their positions dominating the Manzanares River "corridor" between the main Franco forces in Casa de Campo Park and 3000 isolated Insurgents in University City.

The Insurgent garrison in the devasted model educational center, hemmed in for days by a siege-within-a-siege, were said to have exhausted their drinking water and to be holding their outpost with difficulty.

Official reports said Government troops met fierce resistance as they strove to encircle Teruel, about 150 miles east of Madrid and 75 miles northwest of Valencia. That is the most easterly point of the Insurgent advance across Spain and constitutes a menace to Government communications between Barcelona and Valencia.

The attack was an attempt to revent the insurgents from driving through to the Mediterranian shore, 60 miles from Teruel, and cutting off the temporary Spanish capital of Valencia from Barcelona, seat of the autonomous Catalan administration which is loyal to the main government.

Government planes bombed and machine-gunned insurgent positions within Teruel and at towns nearby.

5 NEW SENTENCES FOR VOTE FRAUD IN KANSAS CITY

Judge Otis Orders Three Men to Prison and Two to Jail—Defends Charge to Jury.

'OTHERS MORE GUILTY BEYOND THE POLLS'

Jurist Says He Doesn't Know Who They Are and Comments on Defendants' Silence.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 17.—United States District Judge Merrill E. Otis sentenced three more men to prison and two to jail for vote fraud conspiracy today after Defense Attorney John G. Madden, arguing for a new trial, had charged the Judge "absolutely directed" the verdict against them.

Charles Cartello, Democratic election judge; Robert McKinney, Republican election judge and Edward C. Duncan, Republican election clerk, were sentenced to two years in Leavenworth Penitentiary, and fined $500 each.

Dan Brown, Republican judge, was sentenced to six months in jail, and Edward J. Schmidt, Democratic precinct worker to one month. Brown was fined $200, Schmidt $100.

All of the defendants were convicted of conspiracy to deprive voters of their rights of franchise in the national election last Nov. 3.

Judge Otis overruled Madden's motion for a new trial, in which the defense attorney argued the Judge had exceeded his authority in charging the jury.

Judge Otis had given Madden 30 minutes for argument, and had indicated he would allow the Government equal time for reply. When Madden finished, Judge Otis turned to Thomas Costolow, an assistant United States District Attorney.

"I will take a few minutes to consider this motion," he said, "and determine whether time will be given the Government to reply."

Then the Judge said no Government argument would be necessary.

Defense Argument.

Madden argued that no conspiracy had been proved by the Government's testimony.

"There was not a single instance in which a ballot was changed as to the vote for congressional candidates," Madden said. "All the changes made on ballots, that I recall, were made in the votes for Governor or Presidential electors."

Then Madden cited a case in which a Circuit Court of Appeals had held under somewhat similar circumstances that there had not been a conspiracy to deprive voters of their rights, but to arrive at a given result. Because of that, he said, the defendants could not be held for conspiracy to deprive voters of their rights of franchise.

"There was no word of testimony," he continued, "of any act, direct or indirect, which was directed against the voters. Neither was there a conspiracy against individuals because testimony was that voters in the precinct exercised their right to vote.

"What did occur, apparently occurred after the polls were closed and therefore the voter exercised his rights."

Criticises Judge's Charge.

Then Madden accused the court of overstepping itself in its instructions to the jury. He said the charge of Judge Otis to the jury was "an absolutely directed verdict to the jury to convict the defendants." He cited passages from the court's charge.

In commenting on the point, Madden raised that there was no specific conspiracy against any individual voter proved by the Government, Judge Otis said he did not think the "conspiracy statute" could be so strictly construed.

"There may be a conspiracy within a conspiracy," Judge Otis said, "a lesser purpose within a greater purpose, and if that is true the conspiracy to secure more votes for all Democratic candidates necessarily involved a conspiracy to obtain more votes for the Democratic candidate for Congress than he actually received. The object of that conspiracy was included in the larger conspiracy, and thus Republican voters were deprived of their votes for the Republican candidate for Congress.

"I think the statute should be construed so that if it is proved the conspiracy necessarily involved voters in a certain precinct, it is proved persons were deprived of their votes, without reference to their identity as named individuals.

The conspiracy is not to deprive John Smith, an individual Republican voter, of his vote, but deprive any Republican voter of his vote."

Severity of Sentence.

Madden, when he pleaded for lenience in sentences, had asserted he believed the sentences imposed in preceding vote fraud cases had been "too severe."

Judge Otis, before he sentenced the defendants, said he could not agree. He termed the previous sentences "most moderate."

"We know what Congress thought of this particular crime," he said. "Congess provided for a maximum sentence of 10 years in prison and a fine of $5000. I don't see how anyone can think a conspiracy to deprive a citizen his rights is a trifling thing. What greater right does a citizen have than to cast his vote?

"I say this is a most serious crime. This crime strikes at the rights of an individual, and what is more important—and it is not mere rhetoric to say it—this crime strikes at the very life of the Republic.

"To this case I have given hours of thought. It is one of the most baffling cases of all. The defendants didn't testify and had nothing to say to the court. I have no knowledge of any mitigating circumstances.

"Others More Guilty."

"I believe, but I have no way of proving it, that somewhere beyond the polling place that day, there were others who are more guilty than these defendants. Those who are really guilty were those whose names do not appear on the indictment. Yet I do not know who they are and the defendants have not said."

Relative to Madden's criticism of his charge, Judge Otis said he regretted to discuss the point. He said Madden's argument "was frank" and he accepted the argument that way. The objection had reference to an illustration of a conspiracy, as outlined to the jury by the Court.

"I made it clear," Judge Otis continued, "that it was only an illustration. I said the jury must remember that what the Court might have said was not binding upon them. I do not believe that in the United States courts the Judge, charging the jury of the principal matters, is forbidden to make that comment by illustrations. I have been making illustrations for years."

PAY INCREASE OFFER IN AKRON STREET CAR AND BUS STRIKE

Union to Vote on Company Offer of 72 Cents an Hour at Meeting Today.

By the Associated Press.

AKRON, O., April 17. — Akron residents, deprived of street car and bus service by a strike of operators, looks hopefully to a union meeting tomorrow.

The Akron Transportation Co. has offered to increase the 300 operators' hourly wage seven cents to 72 cents an hour. They will vote on its acceptance.

The local union of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America had asked for $1 an hour.

The number of pickets guarding the car barns has been reduced.

WINE OR BEER BUT NO WATER

Salt Ruins Drinking Supply When Liner Goes Aground.

By the Associated Press.

CRISTOBAL, Canal Zone, April 17.—The 63 passengers and the crew of the French liner Bretagne had to drink wine or beer or else go thirsty while the San Francisco-bound ship was aground 60 hours on the Colombian coast, officers related when the vessel reached here today.

Ocean water leaked into the fresh water tanks through a hole made when the 5500-ton ship struck bottom near Puerto Colombia. The drinking water was unfit for use, even for coffee or tea. The craft was freed early yesterday.

REBEL SHELLS KILL 18, WOUND 60, IN MADRID STREETS

with artillery and machinegun fire. Eibar is just northeast of Durango. Durango is 16 miles southeast of Bilbao, Basque capital. Clear weather brought the renewal of the Insurgent offensive against Madrid's northern allies.

A spectacular air battle was fought over Bilbao — the "Pittsburgh of Spain." Insurgent and Government planes dived and roared at one another over the city's war industry factories, which are closed for seven days by a shortage of fuel. The Insurgent squadron consisted of seven bombers and was driven off before it could unload its cargo of bombs.

Lequeito and Saik.

The Basques said another Insurgent attack at Lequeito, on the coast, east of Bilbao, had been beaten back. An Insurgent attack against the mountain peak of Saibi, five miles from Durango, broke under stiff Basque resistance. The Basques contended German officers were leading the Insurgents.

President Juan Aguirre of the autonomous republic has been told, meanwhile, that the Spanish Government has no men to spare from other fronts to bolster his defense forces. Aguirre is determined to evacuate all non-combatants over 45 years old from Bilbao.

The Basque Government has offered prizes of 5000 francs ($220) to vessels bringing food through the Insurgent naval blockade, but the prizes are to diminish 1000 francs each day after today. Ships carrying food to Bilbao must go eight miles up the River Nervion after leaving the waters of the Bay of Biscay.

Four German Planes Reported Downed by Loyalist Flyers.

By the Associated Press.

VALENCIA, Spain, April 17.—The Air Ministry tonight announced four insurgent Heinkel (German) airplanes were downed by Government airmen on the Teruel front. In one fight a Government pursuit plane crashed into an insurgent Heinkel and fell to the ground with it, pilots of both meeting death. (An insurgent communique issued in Talavera de la Reina said three Government planes were shot down in the Teruel sector.)

The air fight started when Government pursuit ships, which were protecting bombers en route to insurgent points, encountered a group of enemy planes.

Government bombers were active throughout the day. Two objectives were the town of Teruel, 72 miles northwest of Valencia, and insurgent batteries near Chuda. Insurgents in Teruel were hemmed in on three sides by Government troops.

The downing of four insurgent planes coincided with allegations printed in the press here that the Lufthansa Airline between Germany and Burgos was serving as a blind for the delivery of German aircraft to Spanish insurgents. Newspapers reported 36 planes already had left Hanover for the insurgents, being flown over France at night at high altitudes. They said German civil pilots were receiving 1000 marks ($400) for each airplane delivered.

COURT SCHEME ADVOCATES AVOID TEST ON HEARINGS

Agree to Let Testimony Continue for 10 Days Rather Than Face Charge of 'Gagging.'

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 17. — The Senate Judiciary Committee avoided a test of sentiment on the Roosevelt court scheme today by working out a compromise to end its hearings on or before April 28.

Unanimously, it decided to continue the hearings for another 10 days, with a possibility that they would be closed at the end of next week. No further progress can be made with the bill until the taking of testimony is concluded.

All next week will be given over to the presentation of witnesses opposing the bill. The first three days of the week following will be given to the proponents of the measure. Chairman Ashurst (Dem.), Arizona, was doubtful that the proponents would use that opportunity.

The hearings have been in progress for six weeks, the last four of which were given over largely to opposition testimony. Recently, administration spokesmen began charging that the opposition was filibustering to prolong the hearings.

Tactics of Administration.

The accusation was heatedly denied. The result has been a situation in which the pro-administration forces, claiming enough votes to close the hearings, have said they hesitated to exercise the votes lest charges of "gagging" should folllow.

Thus, the forces favoring the bill have taken a policy, followed in today's meeting, of letting the opposition go ahead, and seeking to end the hearings by agreement.

At today's committee session, with nearly all of the committee's 18 members present, each was asked to express his views on when the hearings should end. It became apparent that the opposition wanted another week and this was agreed to, with the understanding that the presentation of opposition witnesses would end next Friday. In addition, both sides were given the privilege of presenting the written statements of 10 individuals.

Schedule for Monday.

The office of Senator Burke (Dem.), Nebraska, an opponent of the bill, announced later that one witness would appear on Monday, Alan Linburg, a New York attorney. The usual afternoon session of the committee will be omitted because several members wish to attend the opening game of the American League season.

Another opponent, Senator Wheeler (Dem.), Montana, issued a statement today protesting against a proposed increase in the Land Bank interest rate. Wheeler asserted incidentally it was not "necessary to pack the Supreme Court or to change the Constitution in order to help the farmers of this country get out from under the load of debt he has been carrying."

From Catherine Curtis, chairman of the Women's National Committee, for hands off the Supreme Court, came a protest that she had twice requested an opportunity to appear against the bill, and had had no reply. Ashurst made no comment.

SCHOOLS BAR ANTI-WAR OATH

New York Superintendents Issue Peace Day Pronouncement.

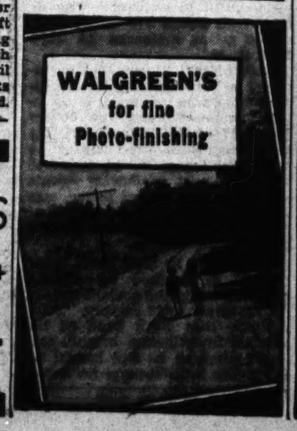
By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 17. — The Board of School Superintendents of New York City instructed all principals today that anti-war oats—particularly the so-called Oxford oath against bearing arms—must not be administered to public school children on Peace Day, April 22.

The board felt, its announcement said, that such pronouncements were "far too sweeping" for school children. The announcement said student participation in peace demonstrations outside school buildings might result in withholding of diplomas.

Pigeon Gets Aid; 15 on Ship Saved.

THE SCAW, Denmark, April 17. —A pigeon led to the rescue of 15 seamen aboard the German steamship Erika which foundered here at Denmark's northernmost point in a gale. The bird was released with a message tied under its wings. A farmer near the coast found the bird and immediately summoned rescue squads.



FEDERAL PRISON GUARDS TO BE 'CUSTODIAL OFFICERS'

New Name Part of Plan to "Professionalize" Service, Divorce It "From Politics."

By the Associated Press.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., April 17. —James V. Bennett, director of the Federal Bureau of Prisons, said today that the men who watch the prisoners of Federal penitentiaries no longer will be known as "guards," but as "custodial officers."

Bennett, in an interview following a two-day conference of Federal prison officials here, said the new term was being adopted as part of an effort to "professionalize" the prison service, which, he said, has been "definitely divorced from politics."

Warden J. A. Johnson of Alcatraz Prison, explaining why he would not discuss the notorious criminals who are in his island stronghold, said:

"You know there are many men in prison today who are there merely because of their display. They have been exhibitionists. We take their identity away from them."

RETIRED ARMY CAPTAIN SHOOTS WIFE IN CALIFORNIA HOME

Deputy Says A. D. Boggs Mistook Young Stepson in Room for "Another Man."

By the Associated Press.

SANTA CRUZ, Cal., April 17.—Mrs. Sally Boggs, 37 years old, was shot and critically wounded today and her husband, Allan D. Boggs, 53, wealthy retired U. S. Army captain, formerly of Detroit, was charged with attempted murder.

Deputy Sheriff Orrie Dunlap said the shooting occurred at the home of J. A. Harris, near Olive Springs. Boggs threatened the Negro caretaker, Dunlap said, and then rushed into his wife's room, brandishing a pistol. He saw his 12-year-old stepson, Danny, in one of the twin beds and thought he was "another man," the officer said.

Mrs. Boggs grappled with her husband for the gun and was shot twice. A third shot missed and then Boggs attempted suicide, but the shell misfired, Dunlap said.

Complaints of Anheuser-Busch and Premier-Pabst Against Pennsylvania Ruling Are Dismissed.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, April 17.—Judge Howard A. Davis dismissed today complaints of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., St. Louis, and the Premier-Pabst Co., a Delaware corporation, against a ruling of the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board the certain types of beer sign he removed from taprooms.

The firms asked that the board be prevented from enforcing the law forbidding outdoor signs costing more than $75 which indicate the manufacturer or place of manufacture of any beverage, or similar indoor signs that cost more than $25.

MAN ACCUSED OF KILLING MOTHER-IN-LAW WITH BOMB

Former Official Indicted in Florida; Two Others Injured When Auto Exploded.

By the Associated Press.

WEWAHITCHKA, Fla., April 17. Theo D. Levins, former tax collector of Gulf County, was arrested today on an indictment charging murder in the alleged bombing of an automobile in which his mother-in-law was killed.

Mrs. M. P. Clark, the mother-in-law, was injured fatally and his sister-in-law, Miss Myrtice Clark, and Milton Whitfield, driver of the car, were hurt Nov. 21, 1935, when the automobile exploded near Loxley, Ala.

Levins was indicted by the grand jury yesterday. Authorities did not disclose testimony on which the indictment was returned. Miss Clark, her mother, and Whitfield were driving to Mobile, Ala., when the alleged bombing occurred.

38 MORE ANTI-NAZI GERMANS ARE DEPRIVED OF CITIZENSHIP

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, April 17.—Thirty-eight anti-Nazi Germans, including eight children from 4 to 8 years of age, were deprived of citizenship in an official decree today.

They are relatives of a group who lost their citizenship two days ago for "acting detrimentally to the Reich's interests." Action has been taken against 135 persons since Thursday.

Labor Department and N L R B Far Apart on How Many Workers Come Under the Wagner Labor Law

One Estimates 20,000,000 to 25,000,000, Other Half as Many Out of Assumed Total of 50,000,000.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—There is a decided difference of opinion on the scope of the Wagner Labor Relations Act, as validated by the United States Supreme Court this week in three manufacturing cases, between the National Labor Relations Board and the Labor Department.

Neither agency has announced its views officially, but unofficially the Labor Department believes that not more than 10,000,000 persons can be covered by the Federal law, while the N L R B statisticians put the figure between 20,000,000 and 25,000,000.

Attorney-General Cummings declined to give an opinion on the scope of the act under the decisions, saying that the courts by later decisions would have to define the boundaries of interstate and intrastate commerce.

President Roosevelt, at his press conference yesterday, said that he could not comment on the question because he had not had time to read the Supreme Court's decisions.

20 Per Cent or 40 or 50?

If the Labor Department is correct, less than 20 per cent of the workers in the United States can claim the Federal protection of collective representation and bargaining. If the N L R B is correct, between 40 and 50 per cent can do so.

Both the Labor Department and the N L R B, bringing the 1930 census figures up to date, assume there are slightly more than 50,000,000 workers in the country. They disagree on certain borderline categories.

There is no doubt that certain large categories are definitely excluded. Among these are 12,000,000 agricultural workers, which include farm owners and tenants, managers and foremen, laborers and unpaid family workers. Another group includes the 5,000,000 persons in domestic service. Other categories are the 4,000,000 in clerical positions, although some of these may be brought under the act; 3,000,000 professional men and women, and 3,000,000 in Government service and 1,000,000 employed on the railroads who come under the Railway Mediation Act.

23,000,000 to Account For.

This leaves about 23,000,000 workers to be accounted for. They are divided roughly as follows: Manufacturing and mechanical industries, 14,000,000; mining, 1,000,000; public utilities, 1,000,000, and trade, distribution and finance, 7,000,000.

The Labor Department and the N L R B agree that, despite the decision of the court on the Guffey Bituminous Coal Control Act, mining comes under the collective bargaining provisions of the Wagner act. They base their conclusion on the court's citation of the second Coronado case, in which it was held that a strike called with the intent to affect interstate commerce came within the authority of the Federal Government.

But the 14,000,000 persons engaged in manufacturing and mechanical industries are divided into many classifications. What about local job printing plants and local public utilities? What about lumber mills in those states where the timber of the state is consumed mostly within the state? Only the courts can decide.

In the category of trade, distribution and finance, are chain store employes to be given Federal protection to bargain collectively and will the purely local retail stores be exempt? That is a nice legal question. Do domestic servants in hotels come within the scope of the act, while domestics in homes are exempt? At present these are hypothetical questions, but they may become real legal issues.

Three Main Divisions.

Thus there are three divisions of workers in this country so far as the Wagner act is concerned: (1) Those engaged in industry and manufacture comparable to those employed by the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation, the Fruehauf Trailer Co. and the Friedman-Harry Marks Clothing Co., who, according to the court's decisions, are beneficiaries of the Wagner act; (2) borderline workers, such as clerks in chain stores, who may want to claim the protection of the act, and (3) those workers who are obviously engaged in purely local activities such as barbers, household domestics and workers in cleaning and dyeing establishments.

Attorney-General Cummings and officials of the Labor Department and the N L R B are agreed that if past actions of the Supreme Court are any criterion, the court, having laid down a broad concept in the first decisions on the Wagner act, will now hew to that line with the result that Federal jurisdiction will not be expanded in later decisions. Cummings said this week that this had been the history of the anti-trust and the Federal Trade Commission laws, and he expected similar applications of the Wagner act.

If this view is correct, the Labor Department is on firmer ground in its estimate of 10,000,000 workers eligible to the benefits of the Wagner act, than the N L R B in its calculation of 20,000,000 to 25,000,000 workers.

WANTS FARM MORTGAGE MORATORIUM ACT PERMANENT

Frazier to Ask Congress to Continue It; It Will Expire Next April.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 17. — Senator Frazier (Rep.), North Dakota, said today he would ask Congress to make permanent the farm mortgage moratorium clause of the Frazier-Lemke law. The present clause, providing machinery for farmers to secure three-year mortgage moratoriums, will expire next April.

"There is no reason why that section should not be permanent as well as the rest of the bankruptcy law," Frazier said, adding he did not expect much difficulty in obtaining passage of the proposed amendment.

The moratorium section of the law was upheld recently by the Supreme Court.

RETIRING NAZI ENVOY ASSAILS HITLER CRITICS

Dr. Luther, at Embassy Beer Party, Denounces Censure of Reich.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 17. — Hans Luther, retiring German Ambassador to the United States, attacked American critics of Germany tonight in an unexpected speech to members of Congress and newspaper men attending his annual bock beer party.

"You must accept Germany as she is," he said. "You may not like some of the things about her, but you must recognize her as a strong and unified country under the leadership of a man who has the courage and the wisdom to lift it out of a grave emergency."

About 300 guests, seated at tables in a room in the Embassy decorated as a Bavarian beer garden, heard the Ambassador. He had risen to acknowledge a toast with the request that he be accorded "freedom of speech."

With flushed face and emphatic gestures Luther criticised writers and speakers in this country who, he said, had sought to convey the impression that some sections of the German people were unsympathetic to the Government of Adolf Hitler.

"My chief aim during the four years I have spent in the United States, has been to give your people a better understanding of mine, their hopes and their ambitions," he said. "But recently I have been made melancholy by suggestions I have read and heard of political disunity in my fatherland.

"Nothing can be farther from the truth. Germany today is a nation actuated by a single purpose, which is to recover from the fetters placed upon her by the Treaty of Versailles. Germany wants to live in friendliness and amity with other nations of the world. But such a peace must be constructive peace if we are to achieve the friendly co-operation among nations which you seem so much to desire here."

Luther's remarks were interpreted by some listeners as a reference to Mayor LaGuardia of New York but the Ambassador did not mention the New York Mayor by name.

Shortly after the LaGuardia incident, the Berlin Foreign Office announced that Luther would be replaced by Dr. Hans Dieckhoff, Acting Undersecretary of Foreign Affairs. Dr. Dieckhoff is expected to assume his new duties shortly. No new post has been announced for Dr. Luther.

Just before Luther spoke the gathering stood and drank a toast to him proposed by Senator Ashurst (Dem.), Arizona.

After the envoy's remarks Ashurst rose again and said: "Gentlemen you have just listened to historic speech.

INVENTOR FILES $4,000,000 CLAIM ON HOWARD ESTATE

A. F. Howe Declares $5,500,000 Is Due Him for Use of His Device by Commonwealth Steel.

BASIS IS JUDGMENT FOR ACCOUNTING

He Asks Court to Remove Clarence H. Howard Jr. as Executor and Set Aside Distribution Orders

Andrew Frank Howe, 60-year-old inventor, who was persuaded by the late Clarence H. Howard, president of the old Commonwealth Steel Co., to assign two of his patents to the company without compensation, filed claim for $4,000,000 in probate Court at Clayton yesterday against the estate of Howard's widow, the late Mrs. Minnie Morey Howard.

A former employe of the Commonwealth company for 25 years and a member of Howard's "happy family" in the company's "Golden Rule" foundry in Granite City, Howe based his claim on a Federal Court judgment in his favor for an accounting for use of the inventions.

Notice of the claim accompanied Howe's motion seeking to remove Clarence H. Howard Jr. as executor of his mother's estate, to have set aside all orders of partial distribution of assets, and to have applications for any further orders refused until the claim is satisfied.

His Estimate of Money Due.

The claim set forth that an accounting, pending under the judgment of the United States District Court at Springfield, Ill., in 1930, had progressed far enough to indicate that Howe would be entitled to recover in excess of $5,500,000 from stockholders of the old Commonwealth company.

Since the Stockholders' Committee which sold the Commonwealth to General Steel Castings Corporation for $35,000,000 in 1929 still held about $1,700,000 subject to the accounting, Howe continued, he was entitled to recover at least $4,000,000 from the estate of Mrs. Howard as a former Commonwealth stockholder and a beneficiary of the estate of her husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Sr., as owners of more than 30,000 shares of Commonwealth stock, received $6,750,000 in cash and $3,000,000 in par value of preferred shares of General Steel Castings as their share of the proceeds of the sale of Commonwealth, Howe alleged, stating that such share was now in her estate.

Motion Against Howard Jr.

In the motion for removal of Clarence Howard Jr. as executor of his mother's estate, Howe contended that Howard could not act "legally and impartially" in that capacity as well as in the capacities of executor of his father's estate and a beneficiary of both estates. Howard inherited one-quarter, and his mother three-quarters of the $3,000,000 estate of his father, who died in 1931. The entire estate of the mother, not yet inventoried, went to the son. She died last February.

Asserting that there were insufficient assets in the mother's estate to meet all debts, the motion alleged that unless distribution were stopped there would not be enough in assets to satisfy Howe's claim.

Clarence Howard Jr., the motion set forth, knew that Howe had a valid claim against the mother's estate. Soon after her death the son obtained permission to distribute $42,000 among persons whom she had designated.

The motion said that Howe had a claim pending against the estate of the elder Howard and that he would file a motion for refund of the assets distributed to Clarence Jr. and his mother.

Previous Court Ruling.

In ordering the accounting the Federal Court pictures Clarence Howard Sr. as a fatherly counselor who took advantage of the "almost childlike simplicity" of Howe, an employe for about 25 years, in persuading him to assign his steel mold and sand mill patents to the Commonwealth on promises "he never intended keeping" that the inventor eventually would be compensated generously.

A confidential relationship between Howard and his employes in the Commonwealth foundry, known as the "Golden Rule" foundry because of Howard's expressed emphasis on a spirit of brotherhood in industry, raised a presumption of constructive fraud in the transaction, the Court said.

The judgment was appealed, vainly, to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Chicago and to the United States Supreme Court.

Howe, who resides at 6820 Delmar boulevard, is represented by Joe T. Davis, as chief counsel; Bruce A. Campbell of East St. Louis and Lawrence C. Kingsland, a patent attorney.

Quits Judicial Council Post.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 17. — Resignation of A. M. Meyer, Kansas City, as secretary of the State Judicial Council, was accepted at a council session here today. The council voted to ask the State Supreme Court for $3000 for the two-year period, to employ a secretary and maintain headquarters in St. Joseph.

STRIKERS DECIDE TO STAY ON IN EMERSON PLANT

bership cards last week. The plant employs between 5000 and 6000 workers.

The C I O union had demanded that the company enter into collective bargaining, but received no reply to the request. This was reported to Bajork, who stated, following Friday's conference, that he was hopeful the company would meet the employes without direct action of the Labor Board being necessary. The union is openly soliciting members in opposition to petitions which are being circulated for a "Wagner employes' representation plan."

Bajork also is seeking a conference with the management of the Century Electric Co., where 1450 workers are idle because of a strike called last Monday. A hearing on an application for an injunction against picketing, sought by Century Electric and 25 representatives of its "works' council," will be held tomorrow before Circuit Judge Robert J. Kirkwood. Nine of the works' council representatives, who joined the C I O union, announced they intended to withdraw as plaintiffs.

American Car Conference.

A conference on collective bargaining between the management of the American Car & Foundry Company and John Doherty, organizer for the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee, will be held this week, Doherty announced yesterday. The plant employs 1500 men, approximately 1150 of whom are members of the C I O affiliated Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel & Tin Workers, Doherty said. The organizer told a Post-Dispatch reporter that the conference was precipitated by workers' complaints of unsatisfactory conditions in the plant. The union will demand recognition as bargaining agent and other concessions, Doherty stated.

Doherty began negotiations Friday with the Crunden-Martin Manufacturing Co., 760 South Second street, where the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel & Tin Workers claim to represent a majority of the 250 shop workers. The union is seeking recognition, a 40-hour week, time and a half for overtime and higher wages.

Strike at Certain-teed Products Mill in East St. Louis.

About 200 employes of the Certain-teed Products Co. warehouse and roofing mill at 1700 Broadway, East St. Louis, went on strike yesterday at the call of Leo Quick, director of the A. F. of L. organization campaign on the East Side.

Employes reporting for work found a picket line in front of the plant. Many of them joined the pickets, increasing their number to about 300. Office employes were permitted to enter, but the warehouse and mill employes remained outside.

Quick said to a Post-Dispatch reporter he had called the strike because the employes wanted to organize. No request for negotiations had preceded the strike call, he said, but the unions would ask for recognition and negotiations on wages and working conditions.

The unions concerned, Quick said, are the boilermakers, machinists, millwrights, electricians, laborers and stationary engineers. George Knapp, plant manager, said the employes had made no demands.

JUSTICE VAN DEVANTER, 78, 27 YEARS ON SUPREME BENCH

Young Neighbor Offers Him Flowers When He Starts for Court Conference.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—A bouquet from an 11-year-old girl and attendance at a conference of the Supreme Court marked Associate Justice Willis Van Devanter's seventy-eighth birthday today.

Sarah Kimball, a small neighbor of the Justice, greeted him with the flowers, when he left his apartment house this morning.

The Justice spent part of the day at the regular Saturday court meeting in which cases already argued are considered. Justice Van Devanter was born in Marion, Ind., in 1859. He moved West in 1884 and in 1889 became Chief Jupstice of the Territorial Supreme Court of Wyoming as an appointee of President Harrison. The eldest associate member of the Supreme Court in point of service, Justice Van Devanter was appointed by President Taft in 1910.

and Power and obtained license plates for the car, using the name of Thomas Malley, an alias of Power's.

The Katonah Bank was robbed of $18,000 March 12, two weeks after Merle Vandenbush, notorious gangster, and two companions were arrested while fleeing from a holdup at the same bank. Raymond McNeely, ex-convict arrested yesetrday, was held in the Federal detention house at New York tonight on a charge of conspiring with Suhay and Power to perpetrate the robbery.

Farm Woman's Experience.

Mrs. Jacob Garver, Richardson County (Nebraska) farm woman, said today she cooked eggs and coffee for the two fleeing gunmen yesterday while they waited in her farm home for medical aid. Mrs. Garver said one of the men "never once put away his gun."

"He didn't seem to mind my going on with my work," she said.

The gunmen were unable to eat after she prepared the meal they requested, Mrs. Carver said. "They were nervous, I expect."

"I told them neither one looked like a criminal but they grinned and went on talking to Jean," her 4-year-old daughter.

TWO MEN DROWN IN BOAT ACCIDENT ON MISSISSIPPI

bile at the foot of Olive street, listening to the radio, when they recognized the boat as Faust's and saw it go under.

Mrs. Borchers said the boat was about 150 feet from shore when they noticed it bucking the waves, whipped up by a brisk wind. When they saw the men thrown out and start swimming for shore, the Borchers called to them to swim instead to the boat, which was kept afloat by an air compartment in the bow.

The men who pulled Faust out of the water were Patrolman Michael Sosenko of Central District; William Patterson, 3209 Portis place, and Otto Schrader, 4709 Virginia avenue.

Rescuer's Account.

Sosenko said he and Patrolman Harry Helfrich were driving north on the levee in a scout car when at Polar street they saw two of the men in the water, then saw one go down and the other swim to the boat. The policemen drove south to the Municipal Bridge, where Sosenko started to row out in a small boat with a Negro, but was forced to return to shore almost immediately when the boat began to leak badly.

The policemen then drove half a mile farther south until they found the boat at Miller street and were joined by Patterson and Schrader.

Faust's motorboat was recovered later at the foot of Potomac street.

Both Victims Left Families.

Faust, 24 years old, conducts a tire shop at 2945 Washington boulevard. Savage and Standing operated the S. & S. Tire Regrooving Co., at Standing's home.

Savage, well-known as a lightweight in local professional boxing circles, is survived by his wife and three daughters, two of them six-month-old twins. Relatives said he was an expert swimmer and that his inability to save himself undoubtedly was due to the weakening effect of stab wounds he suffered in a fight with a Negro man and woman last October. He was at a hospital for several months as a result of the wounds.

Standing is survived by his wife and two small sons.

MAN FOUND DEAD IN HOTEL WITH $400 IN SUITCASE

Registered as Hil Vass of Ironton, O.; Succumbed Apparently to Natural Causes.

A man registered as Hil Vass of Ironton, O., was found dead, apparently of natural causes, in his room at the Manhattan Hotel, 1803 Chestnut street, last night, with $400 in a suitcase in the room.

The money, $250 of which was in bills and the rest in coins contained in bank wrappers, was wrapped in envelopes and towels of Hotel Lennox. Since he registered at the Manhattan Hotel last Thursday, he had been receiving mail from Montgomery, Ala., addressed to R. K. Nelson. A Social Security card bearing the name Roy K. Nelson, Montgomery, Ala., was found in his pocket.

TAXABLE INCOME IN ST. LOUIS SETS FIVE-YEAR RECORD

Corporation and Individual Total of $131,047,313 in 1936 Exceeds 1935 by 36 Per Cent.

Taxable income of St. Louis corporations and individuals in 1936, as returned for the State income tax, aggregated $131,047,313, exceeding the annual amounts for the five previous years. The increase was 36.8 per cent over 1935.

Last year's returns, compiled yesterday, came within about $8,000,000 of the 1930 total of $139,323,859 but was considerably below the $195,947,510 returned for 1929, generally considered the peak predepression year. The low point in the interval was $73,482,735 for 1932.

In the case of individuals, last year's taxable income, $86,808,825, stood second to the 1929 record of $107,118,167 and constituted an increase of 28.3 per cent over the 1935 income. Last year's income for this group exceeded that of 1930 by $2,990,960, but the number of individual taxpayers declined by 12,871, or 23.8 per cent, from 53,998 in 1930 to 41,127 in 1936. Similarly, taxable income of individuals last year was 18.9 per cent less than in 1929, while the number of these taxpayers fell by 17,758, or 30.1 per cent, from 58,885 in 1929.

A breakdown of individual incomes by income classes has not yet been prepared for 1936. Such a breakdown for 1935 showed that 81,200 taxpayers with taxable incomes of less than $2000 each had aggregate taxable income of $19,800,764, and 4010 taxpayers with incomes between $2000 and $5000 each had aggregate taxable income of $12,700,705, while the remaining 2694 taxpayers with incomes exceeding $5000 had aggregate taxable income of $38,889,634.

Corporations in 1936 and 1929.

Corporations had taxable income of $44,138,488 in 1936, or almost exactly half of the 1929 record of $88,829,343 and about 80 per cent of the next largest sum, $55,505,994 in 1930. For corporations the low point was $26,734,858 in 1934, but this varied by only a few thousand dollars from 1932. Last year's corporation income showed an increase of 57 per cent over 1935.

Although the aggregate taxable income of individuals and corporations was only 5.9 per cent less last year than in 1930, the number of taxpayers was 23.1 per cent fewer. The number of taxpayers in both groups fell from 62,439 in 1929 and 56,597 in 1930 to 32,605 in 1933 and rose to 43,504 last year. The State began requiring verified copies of Federal income tax returns in 1934 and about the same time undertook more intensive efforts to levy on incomes.

Bills for individuals were completed for Collector William F. Baumann by Assessor Ralph W. Coale yesterday, while the corporation bills were forwarded Friday.

New Federal Tax a Factor.

Coale, in answer to an inquiry by a Post-Dispatch reporter, expressed the belief that the increased income of individuals and corporations was due to improved business conditions generally. He thought the new Federal tax on corporate surpluses, which brought about larger dividends, was one factor in increasing individual incomes.

The increase in individual returns for 1936 over 1935 was 4826, or 13.2 per cent, there having been 36,601 in 1935, when the taxable income was $67,690,008. Some delayed 1936 returns will be added later.

Taxes of individuals under the 1936 returns will be $1,890,875, compared with $1,425,909 for 1935, the increase being $464,965, or 32.6 per cent. The rate, unchanged for the last five years, ranges from 1 to 4 per cent, depending on the volume of taxable income, the maximum applying on taxable value of $9000 or more.

Personal exemptions allowed individual taxpayers are $1000 for a single person, $2000 for the head of a family and $200 for each dependent. These and various other items are deductible from gross income, in arriving at the net, or taxable, income.

Returns for 1935 and 1934.

For 1934 there were 33,440 individual returns, showing taxable income of $54,266,774 and a tax of $1,078,493. The 1935 taxable income was 24.7 per cent larger than the 1934.

Taxable income of 2377 corporations in 1936 was $44,138,488, with $870,359 in taxes at the flat corporate rate of 2 per cent, compared with $28,052,704 for 1936 concerns, with $554,077 in taxes, for 1935.

Incomes of residents of the St Louis County suburbs who are employed or in business in St. Louis were not included in the City Assessor's report, as they file their returns at Clayton.

Taxable Income Increase in City

DECREASE of taxable income of St. Louis individuals and corporations in the depression, and the ensuing upward climb, as shown by State income tax returns, are set forth in the appended table, taken from the Assessor's reports. Taxable income is the net amount left after deducting personal exemptions, business expenses and other allowable credits from gross income, the amount of which is not made public. The term "bills" means the number of taxpayers.

Year.	Individ. Income.	Corp. Income.	Total.	Bills.
1929	$107,118,167	$ 88,829,343	$195,947,510	62,439
1930	83,817,865	55,505,994	139,323,859	56,597
1931	72,515,219	35,569,505	108,084,724	49,387
1932	46,745,794	26,737,441	73,482,735	34,270
1933	51,019,466	31,778,931	82,789,397	32,605
1934	60,250,429	26,734,858	86,985,287	37,157
1935	67,690,008	28,052,704	95,742,712	38,597
1936	86,808,825	44,138,488	131,047,313	43,504

On incomes of 1929, generally regarded as the pre-depression peak, and 1930, the State tax rate was a flat 1 per cent. On 1931 incomes, due to an adjustment, the rate was 1.9 per cent for individuals and 1.3 per cent for corporations. From 1932 on it has been 2 per cent for corporations and from 1 to 4 per cent for individuals, varying with volume of income, the maximum applying on taxable value of $9000 or more.

RESCUE PARTY PULLS YOUTH FROM PIT HE WAS IN 3 DAYS

Finds Him Ill From Exposure in Abandoned Iron Ore Mine Near Mineville, N. Y.

MINEVILLE, N. Y., April 17.—Trapped for three days in a 50-foot pit, Alfred Douglas Lewis, 20 years old, was hauled to safety by a rescue party today, suffering from exposure and hunger.

Lewis, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Lewis of Mineville, disappeared Thursday. Three of a searching party of 50 persons found him in the pit, an abandoned iron ore mine in the Pelfryspire district, and took him to the Mineville hospital.

Although his condition was reported serious due to exposure, examination disclosed that he escaped injury in the fall.

HAVANA BAR OWNER FOUND HANGED ON SHIP

Autopsy Report Says Partner in "Sloppy Joe" Saloon Was Assaulted First.

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, April 17.—Jose Cancela, one of the partners in a well-known Havana resort (Sloppy Joe's), who was found dead aboard the Hamburg-American liner Orinoco, was probably murdered, it was disclosed tonight.

Cancela's body was found hanging in his stateroom yesterday morning when the Orinoco arrived from Lisbon. A piece of his pajamas was used as a noose.

Officers of the ship told the authorities he had shown signs of extreme nervousness and precautions had been taken to keep him from jumping overboard.

An autopsy was performed after Cancela's partners told police they thought he had been killed. The report was signed by Dr. Esteban Valdes Castillo, chief medical examiner, and two assistant examiners, presented to the Court of Instruction.

It said in part:

"Lesions on . . . parts of the body indicate the dead man was assaulted while alive for the purpose of torturing him or reducing his resistance.

"Lesions on his body are characteristic of those suffered in defense and show that a fight preceded his hanging . . .

". . . death by hanging seems to have been carried out with homicidal intent."

Police unsuccessfully sought to detain the Orinoco to permit further examination of officers and crew members. It sailed at 8:45 p. m. for Mexican ports.

Cancela was a nephew of Jose Garcia, original owner of the resort which Garcia turned over to Cancela and two other employes more than 10 years ago.

Cancela returned to Spain last May on a pleasure trip and was caught there by the outbreak of the civil war. Relatives and friends said he had fled from conscription to Portugal, where he embarked at Lisbon for his return to Havana.

U. S. FLEET BEGINS "ACTION" MANEUVERS

All Units Take Part in All Types of Formation on Way to Hawaii.

By the Associated Press.

ABOARD BATTLESHIP PENNSYLVANIA IN PACIFIC MANEUVERS, April 17.—The United States fleet was "fighting" its way to the Hawaiian Islands tonight. Every hour is an hour of action. All units are engaged—the battle force, scouting force, aircraft squadrons, destroyer divisions, cruiser divisions, submarine divisions, minecraft and the base force of supply and repair ships.

The units form and reform in various types of opposing force to stage every conceivable kind of naval maneuver.

Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn, commander-in-chief, took his fleet to sea Friday morning.

From the bases at San Pedro and San Diego the warships moved out under actual battle conditions. The minesweepers and patrol boats cleared the channels. They mopped up just as they would in time of war, when an enemy might seek to block a harbor entrance with contact mines.

Rendezvous at sea followed and exercises began. They will continue day and night as the fleet twists its way westward.

The six weeks' interval before return to California will be marked by operations in various parts of the 5,000,000 square mile area bounded by the Alaska, Hawaii, California regions.

It is problem XVIII, the eighteenth in a series of annual war problems mapped by the Navy General Board for fleet training. In the major action the fleet will be divided into a black fleet and a white fleet.

Admiral Claude C. Bloch, battle force commander, commands the black fleet. Vice Admiral William T. Tarrant, scouting force commander, commands the white fleet.

HOME UNDER CONSTRUCTION IN PASADENA HILLS BURNED

Cause of Fire Undetermined; Owner Estimates Loss at $6500, Insured.

A secen-room, two-story brick house under construction at 7244 Roland drive, Pasadena Hills, was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The structure, to cost $11,000 when completed, was being built for Harry S. Surkamp, a real estate dealer, 7702 Augusta avenue, Normandy. He estimated the loss at $6500, covered by insurance. The roof was finished Friday.

William H. Duenke of Vinita Park, the contractor, said he had no idea what caused the fire. Surkamp said he was there with a real estate salesman about an hour before it broke out. The blaze was discovered by neighbors. The Pine Lawn fire department arrived too late to save the house.

ONTARIO PREMIER ASKS STRIKERS TO REPUDIATE C I O

Hepburn Makes Appeal After His Second Attempt to Open Negotiations Collapses.

DELEGATES REFUSE NON-UNION STATUS

Canadians Sent by Martin to Official's Session Keep in Touch With Organizer in Corridor.

By the Associated Press.

TORONTO, Ont., April 17. — Premier Mitchell Hepburn urged 3700 General Motors strikers at Oshawa, Ont., tonight to forget about the United Automobile Workers of America and to send a workers' committee to his office to discuss a settlement with the company.

This message to the workers, who walked out April 9 when the company refused to recognize the John L. Lewis union as their collective bargaining agent, followed the collapse of Hepburn's second effort to arrange a settlement between the company and union officers.

Hepburn blamed Homer Martin, U A W A president, and Hugh Thompson, union organizer in charge of the strike, for failure of his conciliation efforts.

"I have declared in no uncertain terms that there is no room in this country for John L. Lewis hirelings," Hepburn said. "I am calling on the workers to end this economic loss by organizing and sending to this office men who truly represent them.

"Here they will find a friend in court who will not attempt to fool them as Martin and Thompson have done.

"Prepared to Sit In."

"I am prepared to tell them that General Motors executives are prepared to sit in on this conference.

"There is no doubt in my mind that the difficulty can be solved in that way."

Following the Premier's repeated attacks on "outside agitators" and the collapse of last Saturday's negotiations because the union committee included Thompson, Martin, sent two Canadians to represent the union at today's conference. They were C. H. Millard, president of the Oshawa local, and J. L. Cohen, Toronto labor lawyer.

Thompson, however, went to the Parliament building and stayed in the hallway outside Hepburn's office while Millard and Cohen went inside.

Hepburn said to reporters that he asked Cohen and Millard to sign a statement that they "had no instructions from and in no way represented the C I O." This, he said, they refused to do.

Hepburn talked to Millard and Cohen in his outer office. The union representatives made frequent trips to the outer hallway to talk with Thompson. At one point, Hepburn said they had talked with Martin by telephone from the outside office.

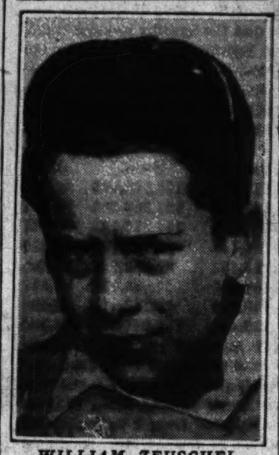
About half an hour before the conference broke up, Thompson, Cohen and Millard inquired for a long distance telephone. A reporter took them to a large, open vault.

Hepburn Stops Call.

A secretary rushed into the Premier's office, and Hepburn, flushed and angry, rushed to the vault and stopped the union men from putting in their call.

"This thing isn't going to be settled by remote control," he shouted.

BICYCLIST KILLED



WILLIAM ZEUSCHEL.

BOY, 15, ON BICYCLE, IS KILLED BY A BUS

Orphan, Riding Home From Work on Parking Lot, Run Down at Crossing.

William Zeuschel, 15 years old, 3111 North Whittier street, was killed by a Public Service Co. bus when crossing St. Louis avenue at Spring avenue on a bicycle at 6:45 o'clock last night.

The operator of the bus, Ralph Snider, 1123 Kentucky avenue, was driving east on St. Louis avenue, and the boy was riding south toward his home after having spent the afternoon working at a parking lot near Sportsman's Park.

His parents are dead, and he lived with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Crump, and a sister, Miss Hazel Zeuschel, 18. He attended the Bryan Hill School, 2128 East Gano avenue.

TWO-HOUR STRIKE IN BIGGEST HOTEL IN CINCINNATI

Service Employes Called Out in Chief Hostelries in City, But Respond in Only One.

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, April 17.—Service employes of the Netherlands Plaza, Cincinnati's largest hotel, struck today, but returned two hours later to relieve executives and office help who abandoned their usual work to serve as bell boys and elevator operators.

Ben Lash, secretary of the Cincinnati local, Building Service Employes' Union, said an agreement to negotiate points of dispute included employes of the Greenwood office building, where elevator and maid service likewise was temporarily abandoned.

Lash said the strikers' demands included union recognition and a 35 per cent wage increase.

Fred H. Rasser, vice-president of the International Hotel Workers' Union, said the hotel had agreed to recognize the organization and Attorney A. C. Fricke, in addressing a strike meeting, said the hotel men had admitted workers were underpaid.

The management of the 29-story Netherlands Plaza said about 100 workers were involved, although in issuing the strike call Lash declared about 1000 men and women in three hotels and the Greenwood Building would be affected.

Employes of the Gibson and Sinton hotels remained on duty.

UNION TO LIST DEMANDS ON HUNTER PACKING CO.

Meeting Called for Wednesday; Organization Work Going on at Armour and Swift Plants.

Members of the recently-organized C I O union at the plant of the Hunter Packing Co., East St. Louis, will meet at Polish Hall, 736 North Sixth street, East St. Louis, Wednesday night, to formulate a list of demands to be made of the company, including recognition of the union; adjustment of wages and hours, and the checkoff for payment of union dues. Leaders of the organization, Industrial Butchers and Laborers' Union, Local No. 305, claim 100 per cent membership of the 500 employes of the Hunter company.

Organization work in also proceeding at the two other principal packing plants at the National Stockyards, Armour & Co., and Swift & Co., under direction of Angelo Verdu of Fairmount City, field representative of the International Union of Mine, Mill & Smelter Workers. A separate international union for packing house employes will be organized later, Verdu said.

At Armour & Co., Verdu stated, a little less than 51 per cent of the 2000 employes are now members of the United Packing House Workers of America. Armour employes will meet at Polish Hall Thursday night.

Organization work at Swift & Co. is still in the preliminary stage, Verdu said. Applications for union membership are now being sent out to the 1500 employes.

ST. LOUIS AWARD COMMITTEE ACCEPTING NOMINATIONS

They May Be Made to Gilbert Harris, Secretary; Selection for 1936-37 Period.

Nominations for the 1936-37 annual St. Louis Award, $1000 and a certificate given to the person adjudged to have performed the most outstanding service to the community, may be made to Gilbert Harris, secretary, 724 Union boulevard.

The award was established in 1932 by an anonymous gift of $10,000. Members of the Committee of Selection are J. Lionberger Davis, banker; Dean Isidor Loeb of the Washington University School of Business and Public Administration; George T. Moore, director of Shaw's Garden; Frank C. Rand, shoe manufacturer; Dean Alphonse M. Schwitalla of the St. Louis University School of Medicine.

MRS. HELEN W. LOVE TO PRISON

To Leave Tomorrow for Tehachapi; In Trance After Killing.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, April 17.—Mrs. Helen Wills Love will be taken to Tehachapi prison Monday to begin serving a sentence of seven years to life for killing her secret husband, Harry Love, broker, the Sheriff said today.

Mrs. Wills recently remained in a death-like trance for a week after announcing she could will her own death. Psychiatrists said, however, that the coma was not self-induced.

EDITORS OPPOSE UNION AFFILIATION

But See No "Impropriety in Organization;" American Society Elects Officers.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The American Society of Newspaper Editors declared by resolution today that it "sees no impropriety in organization of newspaper workers in editorial departments, but feels that it is not suitable for journalists to affiliate with trade unionists."

"We believe they are professional people and not artisans," the resolution added.

The only negative vote was cast without explanation by J. Charles Poe, executive editor of the Chattanooga News.

The editors also indorsed passage of bills by state Legislatures guaranteeing to newspapers the right to hold in confidence sources of news, and deprecated "efforts in Congress to prevent newspapers owning and operating radio stations."

Another resolution deplored "the hounding and persecution by newspapers of persons mentioned in connection with crimes, but not formally accused of crimes."

Election of Directors.

Four members were elected directors as follow: Tom Wallace, Louisville Times; John S. Knight, Akron Beacon-Journal; W. S. Gilmore, Detroit News, and M. V. Atwood, Gannett Newspapers, Rochester, N. Y. Marvin H. Creager of the Milwaukee Journal and Grove Patterson, Toledo Blade, will serve on the board ex-officio by reason of having served as president of the society.

After election of directors, the full board elevated A. H. Kirchhofer of the Buffalo Evening News from first vice-president to president. Other officers chosen: First vice-president, D. J. Sterling, the Portland (Ore.) Journal; second vice-president, Wallace of Louisville; treasurer, Dwight Marvin, the Troy (N. Y.) Record; secretary, Atwood.

Sibley on Sit-Downs.

Harper Sibley, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, opposed "sit-down" strikes in an address today before the editors.

"The right to strike," Sibley declared, "so long as it does not endanger the public interest or impose upon others intolerable hardships, is fundamental. The right to the possession of property by its owners, free of trespassers, is equally fundamental."

Joseph P. Kennedy discussed his new duties as chairman of the Maritime Commision, and emphasized the necessity for elevatinig standards of Government service by attracting brains to Government positions. He also asserted the country had arrved at a new phase in Federal activities.

"The trend toward centralization in government has become a tide, the explanation of which is interwoven with the analysis of the kind of society we have developed," Kennedy said.

"If there were any doubt, the developments of the last few years, particularly the political developments—the vote of the people, the vote of Congress, and more recently the decision in the Jones & Laughlin Steel Co. case—are a convincing demonstration of this phase of our national life. The commerce clause has had to be expanded to permit the assumption by the Federal Government of powers heretofore undreamed of."

1000 CHILDREN SIT-DOWN ON PITTSBURGH MOVIE MAN

After Hour He Finally Gives in and Shows Feature They Waited to See.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 17.—One thousand boys and girls turned a 10-cent children's matinee into a sit-down strike today until the manager of an East Liberty District theater acceded to their demands to see the feature picture.

Manager George Bronson announced last week that the children would not be permitted to remain for the picture which was to follow their program.

Bronson repeated his announcement today and was greeted by boos. He summoned police and the boos increased. At the end of an hour and a half, Bronson explained, "we finally gave up and started the picture."

MRS. WINSLOW RANDOLPH DIES

Mrs. Winslow Hoxton Randolph, former St. Louisan and daughter of the late Archibald Robinson, St. Louis fire insurance agent, died early yesterday at Washington, D. C. after a lingering illness. Funeral services will be conducted today near her home, Seminary Hill, Va.

Mrs. Randolph, who is survived by several nephews and cousins here, is survived also by her husband, three sons, a daughter and a sister Mrs. W. W. Mathewson, of Washington.

$36,000,000 Wanamaker Trust Attacked

inal John Wanamaker, founder of the family fortune. Warburton was also a cousin of Capt. John. That is an indication of the complexity of this financial and family history.

Mrs. Hamilton is alone among the Wanamaker heirs in her effort to break the will and the trust agreement. Capt. John's two sisters, Mrs. Marie Louise Manamaker Munn and Mrs. Fernanda Wanamaker Munn, indicated in court through their attorneys yesterday that they were not joining in this attack on the trust. In fact the two Mrs. Munn, with members of their family, sat on one side of the small court room, and Mrs. Hamilton with her husband and her brother sat on the other side and exchanged no word or look, except inadvertently.

$1,400,000 Fee in Earlier Case.

But behind the present action, with all its ramifications, is a background of earlier litigation involving the Wanamaker fortune. Frank F. Truscott, at present attorney for Mrs. Hamilton, represented the widow in challenging the trust device set up by Thomas Wanamaker, a son of the original John. And in that case Truscott received a fee of $1,400,000. If he is as successful in the present case—if he succeeds in obtaining one-third of the body of the trust for Capt. John's heirs—he can expect another generous legal fee.

The original John Wanamaker before his death gave to Rodman Wanamaker the block of 65,000 shares of common stock in the Wanamaker stores that forms the present "spendthrift trust." The governments of the United States and the State of Pennsylvania maintained that this was a "gift in anticipation of death" and claimed estate taxes on it when the original John died shortly after he had turned over the stock. Owen D. Roberts was the attorney for Rodman Wanamaker in that case and he successfully resisted the Government's claim to about $8,000,000 in taxes.

Will Called Unique.

What Rodman Wanamaker sought to do by his extraordinary will—characterized yesterday by Judge J. Burnett Holland as a unique document—was to put not only his estate but the Wanamaker business itself in the hands of a legal and financial brain trust.

The trustees were to have sole discretion as to the payment of income to the heirs. And what is more the "spendthrift trust" was to continue until all of Rodman Wanamaker's great-grandchildren should reach the age of 21. That is the intention of the "spendthrift trust"—which has flourished in Philadelphia above all places to hold an estate together in spite of the heirs.

It happens, incidentally, that two of the trustees are now under Federal indictment, charged with using the mails to defraud through the Philadelphia company to guarantee mortgages. One of these, Smith, was an original trustee. The other, C. Stevenson Newhall, is a "succeeding trustee," one of two who took office when Levi Rue died and when Justice Roberts resigned. Walter Biddle Saul, a brother of the Morris Saul who is a Wanamaker trustee, is also one of the 12 "leading citizens" of Philadelphia under indictment in the Philadelphia company case.

Mrs. Hamilton's Charges.

Mrs. Hamilton, through her attorneys, Truscott and William N. Trinkle, challenges the will and the trustees' administration of the estate on a number of points.

First of all it is charged that the will violates the laws of Pennsylvania forbidding establishment of a trust beyond a certain term of years. In reply to this counsel for the trustees point to an agreement signed by Capt. John and his two sisters three months after Rodman Wanamaker's death in which they agreed not to contest some of the more remarkable provisions of the will. This agreement, too, is invalid, Truscott contends, because the Wanamaker heirs were not aware of its significance when they signed it.

One of the charges concerns the way in which the trustees have taken their fees. Under the terms of the will William L. Nevin, long closely associated with the original John Wanamaker, was made managing trustee and his compensation fixed at $200,000 a year. Incidentally, it has been said that he drew up the Wanamaker will but he denies authorship of the extraordinary document and just who wrote it has never been established. The six other trustees who were to act, presumably, in a supervisory capacity, received compensation of $10,000 a year.

Charge of Irregularity.

As is shown in the trustees' audits, these amounts were taken not from the dividends accruing on the Wanamaker stock in the trust but directly out of the Wanamaker corporation itself. This, Mrs. Hamilton's attorneys charge, is illegal. During the depression the trustees reduced their compensation so that Nevin received about $110,000 a year and the ordinary trustees about $6500.

Furthermore, Mrs. Hamilton's counsel asserts Roberts had no right to resign as a trustee in February, 1934. They say that in order to comply with the law it is necessary for him to file a petition asking the court to relieve him of the duties of trustee. Judge Holland said yesterday that Justice Roberts was a "party to the account" with all "legal implications."

Reply of the Trustees.

Counsel for the trustees in replying to Mrs. Hamilton's charges—they take the legal form of exceptions to the accounting of the trust—stand on an oral agreement of compromise which they say was made between Capt. John and the trustees on Oct. 31, 1934, three weeks before Capt. John's edath.

Justice Roberts, on the witness stand in connection with earlier litigation, said he had been informed of the existence of this compromise, shortly after it was made. Under the terms of this oral compromise, it is claimed, Capt. John agreed not to challenge the accounting of the trustees. Therefore, it is argued, even if he were alive, he would not have the right to file the exceptions which Mrs. Hamilton's attorneys have sought, so far unsuccessfully, to file for his widow.

Judge Holland has taken the case under advisement and his ruling is not expected for many months. Most observers believe that he will rule against Mrs. Hamilton, upholding the trust accounting. Then, according to Truscott, the case will be carried to the State Supreme Court.

Puzzle for Philadelphia Lawyers.

Thus briefly it is only possible to indicate the general lines along which this financial-legal battle is being fought out. There is still another important phase with Mrs. Hamilton's attorneys charging that part of a sinking fund created under the will of Rodman Wanamaker has been used improperly by the trustees to build a combined store and office building in downtown Philadelphia. There is involved in this charge about $2,700,000, and it is asserted that the building has not been operated at a profit.

The whole case is, of course, merely in its first stage. If Mrs. Hamilton is awarded the one-third of the 65,000 shares of Wanamaker stock that she is seeking, there is a probability of further litigation. Capt. John's first wife, the former Pauline Diston, and a son and daughter by this wife, are living and might be expected to come into court and claim their share. Also there is involved a separate insurance trust fund of $5,800,000, from the income of which Capt. John's two children by his first wife are being supported.

It is not difficult to understand, when one studies even cursorily the tangled maze of litigation that surrounds the Wanamaker millions, the significance of the saying, "It would take a Philadelphia lawyer to understand that." The Wanamaker will case is so intricate that it takes a number of Philadelphia lawyers to understand what it is all about.

Justice Roberts Gives Reasons for Resigning as Trustee.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Justice Owen D. Roberts today gave to the Post-Dispatch his reason for resigning as a trustee of the Wanamaker estate. He said: "In the autumn of 1933 the trustees decided that they should become directors of the two corporations, Wanamakers in New York and Wanamakers in Philadelphia. I informed them that, of course, I could not become a director of any corporation because of my position on the Supreme Court.

"In that event I should have been the only remaining trustee to act solely in that capacity. I did not think I could sustain my position as trustee under such circumstances, with the others who had become directors reporting solely to me. Therefore I informed the other trustees that I should have to resign. I wished to resign as of Jan. 1, 1934, but they prevailed upon me to remain several weeks longer."

OLD-AGE PENSION REVIEW TO BE SOUGHT AT ONCE

Government Will Ask Supreme Court to Take Up Boston Decision Next Week.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Attorney-General Cummings announced today the Government will seek an immediate Supreme Court review of the decision yesterday by the First Circuit Court of Appeals at Boston, holding old age benefit provisions of the Social Security Act unconstitutional.

The decision was returned in a divided opinion, two judges holding the title unconstitutional and one judge dissenting.

"The Government will request that the case involving the old age benefit provisions of the Social Security Act be set down for argument at the session of the Supreme Court beginning April 26," Cummings said. "This will make possible a determination of the matter prior to the adjournment of the court at the end of the present term."

The question of the constitutionality of unemployment provisions of the act, also declared invalid in the Boston decision, is already before the Supreme Court, in another case.

GIRLS ACCUSE HEAD OF CHILDREN'S HOME

Connecticut Starts Inquiry Into Conduct of 65-Year-Old Superintendent.

By the Associated Press.

PUTNAM, Conn., April 17.—With a promise by State Senator Pierre J. Laramee to "blow the lid off this thing," a speci. l legislative committee, armed with full powers to subpena witnesses, opened today an investigation into the alleged maltreatment of young girls at the Windham County Temporary Home for Children.

The nine-man committee, headed by Laramee, summoned state police Lieut. Ross V. Urquhart as the first witness to relate conversations held with girls at the orphanage concerning amorous advances allegedly made by 65-year-old Philip Provandie, its superintendent.

Provandie, nick-named "Old Creepy" by some of the girls as the result of what they described as his habit of creeping up behind them and trying to "get fresh," is at liberty under $1000 bail. He will be given a hearing in Putnam Town Court next Wednesday on charges of indecent assault.

Meanwhile, as the official investigation got under way, State Representative Dorothy R. Bartlett said that dozens of former girl inmates of the home, now grown to maturity, had volunteered to testify as to their experiences under Provandie's management.

"Some of them were afraid to talk before because they have younger sisters or brothers or friends still at the home—and they were afraid of what might happen to these youngsters if they told what they knew," Mrs. Bartlett said.

The investigating committee was appointed yesterday by Windham County delegates to the General Assembly, stirred by reports of mismanagement at the home and the charges against Provandie.

Provandie's wife, nearly blind from cataracts of the eyes, is under arrest on a charge of embezzlement in connection with the handling of county funds advanced to the home. Her brother, Wendell D. Ford, of Malden, Mass., faces charges of receiving and concealing stolen goods. Police said a large quantity of food supplies, intended for the children at the home, was found in his Malden residence.

MEETING OF LIQUOR DEALERS

Excise Commissioner McDaniel to Address Gathering Tuesday.

A mass meeting of liquor dealers in the St. Louis area will be held Tuesday evening at Hotel Mayfair. The meeting is sponsored by the Federated Retail Liquor Dealers' Association of Missouri, but those in other branches of the business are urged to attend.

Among the speakers will be Walter L. Bouchard of the Missouri Department of Liquor Control; City Excise Commissioner Lawrence McDaniel, and H. P. McKee, Washington, president of the National Retail Liquor Dealers' Association.

Human Bones Found in Sack.

SECOND APPEAL TO SUPREME COURT FOR BOND BALLOTS

Circuit Attorney to Apply for Writ of Certiorari After Judge O'Malley Again Denies Subpena.

JURIST STANDS PAT ON FIRST VIEW

If Higher Tribunal Grants Plea There May Be Chance to Get Boxes Before Grand Jury.

Application to the Missouri Supreme Court for a writ of certiorari, in the matter of the grand jury's proposed opening of ballot boxes in the $7,500,000 river front bond issue election of Sept. 10, 1935, will be made this week by Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller, following preliminary action which he took yesterday in Circuit Judge Frank C. O'Malley's court.

For the second time within a week, the Circuit Attorney filed, and for the second time Judge O'Malley denied, an application for a subpena for the ballot box of the Fifth Ward, first precinct, in the grand jury's investigation of disclosed frauds in the bond election. The application, setting forth the prosecutor's view of the legal facts of the case, will be part of the record presented to the Supreme Court, which will be asked in a certiorari proceeding, to review the whole matter and to quash the record of Judge O'Malley's action, leaving the way open for the granting of a subpena.

Circuit Attorney Miller, in his application to Judge O'Malley, argued that the ballots of the bond election, preserved by the Election Board at his request, were available as evidence under the special election statute applying to St. Louis, which provides that ballots may be held more than one year in case of a contest, prosecution or grand jury investigation. Judge O'Malley, in denying yesterday's motion, referred to his similar decision of Wednesday, in which he held that the general State law, requiring the burning of ballots at the expiration of one year, must be held to apply to the case.

Calls Miller's Pleas Conclusions.

In yesterday's application, the Circuit Attorney said that an investigation of the bond election frauds "was undertaken by the grand jury and the Circuit Attorney" Sept. 8, less than one year after the election. In denying the application, Judge O'Malley said that this assertion was "the statement of a conclusion of the pleader on a highly controversial fact, and of which there is no proof before the court."

Judge O'Malley also characterized as "a conclusion" the Circuit Attorney's statement that, "Thereafter, said investigation of said criminal frauds has been continuously kept alive by the Circuit Attorney, and has been and is now a pending investigation before the present grand jury."

The Circuit Attorney's view is that, as he is the legal adviser of the grand jury, his statement as to a pending investigation should be accepted by the Court; that a grand jury investigation is a secret proceeding, into which the Court is not entitled to inquire in detail. He will contend, in his application to the Supreme Court, that he has kept the proceeding alive and met the requirements of the law.

Basis of Argument.

It thus appears that the argument before the Supreme Court, if it grants a writ of certiorari, will be on the question whether the ballots can still be used as evidence. Judge O'Malley, in his ruling of Wednesday, said that question was "the meat of the thing." The point has not been argued before him, but was argued before Judge John W. Joynt last month, before he denied an application for a subpena.

Judge Joynt at that time upheld a motion of counsel for dummy plaintiffs, objecting to the opening of the ballot boxes, and asserting that the ballots could not be used as evidence. The Circuit Attorney applied to the Supreme Court for a writ of mandamus to compel Judge Joynt to issue the subpena, but the Supreme Court denied the application, without a written opinion.

That action of the Supreme Court showed that another mandamus proceeding would be useless; hence the certiorari method will be followed in the attempt to overturn Judge O'Malley's ruling.

Inquiry Further Delayed.

Because of the time required for arguments and notices to counsel, in a certiorari proceeding, it now seems likely that the bond election inquiry, if made possible by a Supreme Court ruling, will not get under way before the term of the June grand jury.

Judge J. Wesley McAfee, who will impanel and instruct the June grand jury, discharged a previous body, that of the December term, in the middle of its service, because had refused to investigate the bond election frauds. Judge Eugene I. Padberg, who impaneled the December grand jury, had given it no specific instructions as to the inquiry, and the grand jury, some of whose members had City Hall connections, rejected the Circuit Attorney's request.

FRANK W. SCHRAMM FUNERAL TO BE TOMORROW MORNING

Services at Our Lady of Lourdes Church for Veteran Real Estate Dealer.

The funeral of Frank W. Schramm, veteran real estate dealer and former City Assessor, who died of cancer early yesterday at St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis, will be held at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, at the Donnelly mortuary, 3840 Lindell boulevard, with services at 9 o'clock at Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church, Forsythe boulevard and Asbury avenue, University City. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Mr. Schramm, who was 79 years old and resided at 33 Bluff road, Signal Hill, Belleville, in recent years, had been ill for a month. He was born here, educated at St. Louis University and entered the real estate business as a bookkeeper 55 years ago, forming his own concern, Frank W. Schramm, Inc., about 30 years ago.

He was elected president of the old Board of Assessors as a Democrat in 1913, retaining it when the 1914 Charter changed the title to Assessor and declining to relinquish it in 1917, as he was offered a two-year extension by gubernatorial appointment. However, Mayor Kiel named the late Louis Wollbrinck for the place, under the Charter, and Mr. Schramm surrendered it in December, 1917, under a State Supreme Court order. He is survived by his wife, three sons and a daughter.

ST. LOUIS GIRL'S PLAY IS BEST IN MIDWEST COLLEGE CONTEST

"Summer Ducks," by Alma Louise Moore, Is Awarded First Prize.

By the Associated Press.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., April 17.—Representatives of seven colleges participated in the annual Midwestern folk drama festival at Southeastern Missouri State Teachers' College here today.

Play tests of the various drama groups will be completed tonight and the winner decided. Dr. Walter W. Parker, president of the college here, will present awards to the best individual players taking part.

The prize-winning play was announced as "Summer Ducks," by Alma Louise Moore, freshman at Harris Teachers' College, St. Louis.

Dramatic groups of the colleges taking part in the festival are McKendree, Lebanon, Ill.; State Teachers' College, Eau Clair, Wis.; State Teachers' College, Edmond, Ok.; Flat River Junior College, Flat River, Mo.; Washington University, St. Louis, and the State Teachers' College here.

PICKETING RIGHT ARGUED IN KRESGE AND M'CRORY SUIT

Judge Moore Overrules Motion to Dismiss Injunction Action—Application Up Tomorrow.

INFORMING PUBLIC, UNION LAWYER SAYS

Employers' Attorney Alleges 90 Pct. Are Outside Union, 'Employes Happy and Content.'

Applications of the McCrory Stores Corporation and the Kresge Co. for temporary restraining orders to prevent picketing of their stores by three labor unions will be heard at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning before United States District Judge George H. Moore, who yesterday overruled a motion to dismiss injunction suits in which the temporary orders were asked.

The motion to dismiss was filed by Paul Dillon, attorney for the union, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, and their business agents named in the petitions. They were: Kitty Amsler, Waitresses' Union Local 249; Vernon Housewright, Clerks' Union Local 655, and Jesse K. Keller, Cooks' Union Local 26.

Dillon appeared after accepting notice of the suits from Wayne Ely, attorney for the companies, who served him after Judge Moore had dismissed restraining orders Friday upon finding that in issuing them he had not complied with a court rule providing that notice must be served on the opposite party unless showing is made that irreparable damage or loss would result from failure to obtain an immediate restraining order.

What Companies Allege.

The injunction petitions alleged that more than 90 per cent of the employes at the McCrory store at 425 North Sixth street, and the Kresge stores at 516 and 522 Washington avenue had voted to select committees of fellow-workers as their representatives for collective bargaining. Consequently, it was contended, under the Wagner Labor Relations Act, the companies could not recognize the unions since majorities of employes had organized company unions and selected their own committees for negotiations with the managements.

Arguing against Dillon's motion for dismissal of the injunction suits, which seek to prevent picketing, singly or in groups, or any interference with the companies or their employes, Ely contended there was no way to take the matter before the National Labor Relations Board since there was no dispute between employer and employes and because there had been no complaint of unfair labor practices. Wages were as high as the union scales, he said, and other working conditions were as good, or better, than in other similar stores selling merchandise priced from 5 cents to $1.

"Right to Picket."

Dillon contended that the Norris-LaGuardia anti-injunction act gave his clients the right to picket peacefully and that there was no evidence of any violence in connection with their demonstrations. Pickets had the right, he asserted, to inform the public that none of the stores' employes were union members and to ask that the places be not patronized.

The companies, he said, were attempting to deprive the unions of their privilege of boycotting stores not employing union workers.

At one point during the argument, Dillon asked if there had been any sit-down strikes at the stores. Ely said he would answer with permission of the Court. The Court nodded.

"There have been no sit-down strikes nor strikes of any kind," he said. "Our employes are happy and contented and will continue so if your clients will leave them alone."

Applause From Audience.

The statement brought applause from some 50 young women employes of the stores who had taken seats in the courtroom. The Court admonished them and Ely offered their apologies, explaining that he had asked permission to answer Dillon's question anticipating the possibility of some such demonstration.

No change was made in the date for hearings on orders to show cause why permanent injunctions should not be issued, previously set by Judge Moore for April 30.

The three unions named in the injunction suits have been recognized by F. W. Woolworth Co., and agreements have been made on wages, hours and working conditions for its 1500 employes in 33 5-and-10-cent stores in St. Louis and St. Louis County. American Federation of Labor representatives also have obtained contracts from the managements of all East St. Louis 5-and-10-cent stores.

MORE TIME FOR FILING CLAIMS AGAINST REAL ESTATE FIRM

But Judge Refuses to Give Company an Extension on Reorganization Plan.

The time for filing claims against the John McMenamy Investment and Real Estate Co., which is seeking reorganization under the bankruptcy laws, was extended by United States District Judge Charles B. Davis yesterday until May 17.

At the same time the Judge refused to extend the time for filing the company's reorganization plan, which must be submitted to the Court by next Tuesday. Jacob M. Lashly, attorney for the company, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter prospects for filing an acceptable plan were "very hopeful." About 20 purchasers of subdivision lots in St. Louis County who complained that they had not received title to their property after completing payments would get titles within the next few days, Lashly said.

Last Friday had been set as the last day for filing claims. When the time expired there were on file the claims of 64 customers for about $96,500. In its petition for reorganization, the company stated its debts were $145,000 and its assets $131,000.

Alphonse J. Walsh and Malcolm McMenamy, president of the concern, which has an office at 1308 North Grand boulevard, are under bond on charges of embezzlement.

WOMAN MURDERED IN MISSOURI HOME

Nephew Discovers Body in Her Small Hut at Anderson.

By the Associated Press.

ANDERSON, Mo., April 17. — Lynn Breene of Anderson found the body of his murdered aunt, Miss Etta Breene, 60 years old, in her small hut here tonight. She lived alone.

The Coroner said the woman apparently had been dead four days. A silk stocking was tied around her throat. He scheduled an inquest for Wednesday.

Miss Breene usually went to the business district of Anderson two or three times weekly. When she did not appear this week, her nephew became suspicious and went to her home.

No motive for the murder was established.

She is survived by a brother and sister.

HEIRESS TO $800,000 ELUDES COURT GUARD AND DISAPPEARS

Mary Helen Daingerfield Leaves Home Before Sanity Commission Is Through.

By the Associated Press.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., April 17.—A 56-year-old heiress who fled while a sanity commission was considering her mental status left searchers a blind trail today. Mary Helen Daingerfield, member of an old Virginia family, eluded a court guard at her home last night and ran across a field to a waiting automobile.

Miss Daingerfield is heiress to an estimated $800,000 estate of her father, Edward C. Daingerfield, founder of the Citizens' National Bank of Alexandria.

She lived alone in a house on the Daingerfield estate, Malvern, on a quiet street at the outskirts of Alexandria.

Sanity proceedings were instituted by Arthur Bryant, former director of the bank. A commission of two doctors was named by Judge William P. Woolls early this week. The two doctors recently submitted conflicting opinions and the court named a third doctor to the commission, meanwhile designating a guard to stay ata the Daingerfield home.

CORONATION MARCH REHEARSAL TODAY

First of Two Such Processions to Go Over Route at 6:30 A. M.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 17.—A coronation procession rehearsal, complete to the gilded coach of state, will file through London streets early tomorrow morning.

It will be the first of two important rehearsals for the crowning of King George May 12.

Troops, royal coachmen, police officials and military bands will be in the "preview," which will be staged to determine just how long the actual procession will require to pass.

The colorful uniforms of coronation day will be missing, and most of London will be asleep. The procession will get under way promptly at 6:30 a. m. Police with stop watches and note books will check its progress carefully.

Lady Mary Howard, sister of the Duke of Norfolk, may represent the queen at the second and detailed rehearsal on May 10—a "crowning" of the king and queen with cardboard diadems at Westminster Abbey. The name of the person who will rehearse for the king has not been disclosed.

The king's coronation day escort, headed by the household cavalry, will accompany the state coach tomorrow from Deans Yard to the door of Westminster Abbey. The marchers will be joined at Waterloo Place by troops and more bands. The entire procession then will march along the processional route.

The cavalcade of coronation visitors now is well under way.

A liner arrived today from India bearing sultans, maharajahs, rul- Marley made his "warning' at San came to visit and see. Entire floors in hotels are being taken over by some Indian potentates.

Coronation officials said they were not disturbed by the Laborite Lord Marley's advice to Americans to stay away from the May ceremonies or be "generally exploited and overcharged." Lord Marley made his "warninX" at San Francisco.

The coronation committee said of 90,000 rooms offered it by Londoners only 100 were rejected as too high, showing there was "no profiteering." Hotels said they had added "only 40 per cent" to rates.

Liner Bremen Leaves New York With Vanguard of Spectators.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 17.—The trek to London and the coronation is on. The liner Bremen set sail tonight with the vanguard of an army of tourists bent on seeing England's new monarch crowned May 12.

The ship carried about 125 coronation spectators, including Fannie Ward and her husband, J. W. Dean; Chalres and Kathleen Norris, the novelists; Mrs. Clara Fargo Thom... the muralist; Mrs. Alvin T. F... wife of the former Governor Massachusetts; Mrs. Russell ... Detroit, and Mrs. Robert He... Boston.

A fleet of 36 liners will follow the Bremen's wake before the B... men and the Queen Mary ret... for the final coronation dash, M... 5.

CITY CHALLENGES TAXI RULING OF JUDGE JOYNT

Moves for New Trial on Injunction Against Insurance Law Enforcement.

In a motion for a new trial, filed yesterday, the city expressed dissatisfaction with a decision by Circuit Judge John W. Joynt approving the form of liability insurance furnished by the Taxi Owners' Association, Inc., operator of the Black & White Cabs.

The Court issued a permanent injunction restraining the city and Police Department from interfering with the association in the lawful conduct of its business. The city contended that an insurance company which furnished the liability insurance was not licensed in this State to write that type of contract, and that it did not conform to the ordinance regulating taxicabs.

The motion for a new trial avers that Judge Joynt erred in his decision, that the relief granted was broader than was sought, and that the judgment imposes on the city the duty of determining at its own risk and peril whether the plaintiff is violating the ordinance.

It is further alleged that Judge Joynt exceeded his jurisdiction in rendering the judgment and that the decree subjects the city to liability for contempt of court should it interfere with or molest the plaintiff, although the city might act on reasonable grounds. The motion was signed by City Counselor E. H. Wayman and Oliver Senti, an associate.

Judge Joynt also ruled in favor of the constitutionality of the ordinance, which had been attacked as illegal by the plaintiff.

FARLEY STILL SURE OF COURT SCHEME

Dedicating Postoffice, Says He Is as Sure as He Was Last November.

By the Associated Press.

PERTH AMBOY, N. J., April 17.—Postmaster-General James A. Farley dedicated the city's new Federal building today and, as has become his custom on these occasions, predicted victory for President Roosevelt's court scheme.

He deviated from his prepared address to say "I am just as certain as I was about Maine and Vermont that the reorganization plan will be carried out."

"When the Senate and House finish their hearings and decide to vote on the plan it will be adopted and become a law," he said. "I believe that the same people who supported President Roosevelt last November want the court program carried out."

Introduced by State Attorney-General David T. Wilentz as "one of the ablest men in the President's Cabinet," the Democratic National Chairman traced development of the postal service and emphasized the "great strides and improvements made in the air mail service."

"It is now possible for mail to be transported by air from the Atlantic to the Pacific in 16 hours," he said, "and, within the past year and a half, we have instituted a trans-Pacific air mail service which has reduced transmission time of mails between United States and the Far East from 18 days to five and one-half days."

DRIVER GETS 90 DAYS; LICENSE SUSPENDED TILL DEC. 24, 1938

J. R. Crowley Pleads Guilty After Series of Offenses; Receives Consecutive Penalties.

James R. Crowley, 24-year-old laborer, 3815 Philbrook avenue, Pine Lawn, was sentenced to the Workhouse for 30 days, fined $85 and costs and forbidden to drive his automobile in the city until Dec. 24, 1938, by Police Judge Edward M. Ruddy yesterday.

On pleas of guilty, Crowley was fined $25 for careless driving and his license was suspended for six months. For driving when his license was already under suspension he was sentenced to 30 days in the Workhouse and his license was suspended an additional six months. For destruction of city property he was fined $10. These charges grew out of an accident in the 5500 block of Natural Bridge avenue April 3, when Crowley's automobile knocked down a light standard. He told police a tire blew out, causing the accident.

An additional $50 fine and another six-month license suspension was assessed against Crowley for speeding 40 miles an hour March 24 on Natural Bridge avenue. At that time he was on his way to police court to answer an earlier speeding charge. When that case was heard, Judge Ruddy suspended his license for six months, or until June 24.

This was the first time license suspensions have been allowed to run consecutively instead of concurrently. Thus, instead of three concurrent six-month suspensions, Crowley received an 18-month revocation, starting June 24.

BOYLE CLARK ON BAR AND ROOSEVELT PLAN

If Latter Fails, He Says, It Wil Be Because Court Got 'Abreast of Public Thought.'

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 17. — If President Roosevelt's court reform plan fails, "it will be simply because the Court has voluntarily brought itself abreast of modern public thought and action," Boyle G. Clark, general chairman of the Bar Committee of Missouri, said tonight in an address at the annual Law day banquet of the University of Missouri School of Law.

Clark, former State Bar president, warned that the profession of law should benefit by the Supreme Court's experience by maintaining a standard of public service "in excess of popular demand" if it expects to escape public regulation and interference.

"We are today witnessing a historic struggle in which the adequacy of the private conscience of the Supreme Court of the United States is being tested," he said. "So long as the majority of that court measured the obligations of government to the public with their private consciences developed in another era, inadequate and immune to change, it appeared practically certain that that institution would be supplied with a public conscience attuned to an advanced and modern conception of social and public responsibility.

"Knowing that maintenance of a private conscience is its greatest protection against regulation, a majority of the Supreme Court, created by the action of Justice Roberts, is trying to demonstrate that the court realizes and will discharge its social and public obligations. The regeneration of the conscience of the court comes under adverse circumstances and it may be too late to protect it from the imposition of the prevailing public conscience.

"If the President's proposal fails, it will be simply because the court has voluntarily brought itself abreast of modern public thought and action. If the court fails to develop a conscience equal to the obligations generally demanded by the ever-evolving public conception of what is right and proper, the general public interference cannot be stayed."

Spring Campaign For Standard Oil Co. Outlined at Meeting

Newspapers to Be Foundation of Heaviest Advertising Drive in Concern's History.

The Standard Oil Co. of Indiana was host to 250 of its salesmen, resellers and wholesalers of the St. Louis, Decatur and Peoria divisions, at the Coronado Hotel Thursday, April 15.

The conference chairman, L. W. Cameron, assistant general manager of the central sales division, opened the meeting for talks by the St. Louis, Decatur and Peoria division managers, H. R. Cochran, R. W. May and H. C. Griffin, respectively.

Amos Ball, general manager of Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, made the address of welcome. H. A. Lewis, assistant general manager, outlined the sales possibilities and increased potentialities of the company's 1937 sales campaigns.

H. L. Porter, sales promotion manager, Chicago, demonstrated how to bridge the gap usually separating the seller and buyer.

R. F. Balty, resale sales promotion manager, stressed the selling opportunities sometimes overlooked and told how to take advantage of them.

The advertising campaign was outlined by Wesley I. Nunn, advertising manager, who showed how newspapers formed the foundation of the program and the intensive coverage planned—the most extensive in the company's history.

The various phases of the program were explained and also shown was the close tie-up of the Standard Oil dealer and the advertising program.

A new feature length motion picture, "Stan," was then introduced by H. A. Lewis. Written by Homer Croy, the Missouri novelist, adapted to the screen by Houston Branch and produced in Hollywood, the picture dramatized the part Standard Oil agents and dealers play in their communities. The cast was composed of 28 stars and feature players, 37 bit actors and more than 200 extras.

The closing address was delivered by General Manager Ball, who reviewed the past year's work and accomplishment, the outlook for the oil industry and general business conditions.

T W A Preparing Two Moves Toward World Air Transport

Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc., operator of the shortest route across the United States, soon is to offer broadened connecting services through two moves in world air transport.

The first will came April 21 with extension of the trans-Pacific service of Pan-American Airways from Manila to Hongkong, China. The other will materialize May 6 when the dirigible, Hindenburg, will resume its regular service over the North Atlantic Ocean.

Completion of a globe-encircling system by air has awaited only filling in of the gap between Manila and China. Following inauguration of the new Pacific service and resumption of the Atlantic air crossing, the airplane will be available for world passenger flight, except for the section over the Atlantic which will be traversed on the Hindenburg.

The day of the transport airplane over the North Atlantic Ocean, however, is not far off, since Pan-American now is preparing for this service as are certain foreign air organizations. Flights by French and German aircraft and by the Graf Zeppelin have been going on over the South Atlantic two or three years.

In the beginning of the world air service, air mail facilities will be offered only as far as India, but passengers will be enabled to continue where air mail, in this case, terminates.

Company Organized To Distribute Nash Cars in St. Louis Area

L. M. Sprinkle and L. A. Miller Lease S. Kingshighway Building for Headquarters.

Appointment of the Nash St. Louis Co., organized by L. M. Sprinkle and L. A. Miller, as distributer of Nash and Nash Lafayette cars in the St. Louis territory, is announced by C. H. Bliss, vice-president in charge of sales for the Nash Motors Co. The firm has leased the building at 2323 South Kingshighway and will hold its official opening and display this week.

Sprinkle is president of the firm and Miller is secretary and treasurer. The sales manager is F. A. Yardley, for 18 years well known in automobile retail circles here. William Myers has been appointed parts manager and H. W. (Bob) Easterly, wholesale manager. The firm's territory includes the northern half of Missouri, Southern Illinois and part of Arkansas. Sprinkle has been in the automobile business 22 years and Miller has had a similar long experience in merchandising cars.

The firm's building, which fronts 75 feet on Kingshighway, and has 13,000 square feet of floor space, has been remodeled and renovated. The showroom is large enough to dispay the three series of Nash cars—the Ambassador Eight, with twin ignition, eight-cylinder engine and 125-inch wheelbase; the Nash Ambassador Six, with twin ignition engine and 121-inch wheelbase, and the Nash Lafayette "400," with Nash monitor sealed engine and 117-inch wheelbase.

A feature of Nash cars is the cruising gear which reduces engine speed at 40 miles per hour and faster with saving of gasoline and motor wear. Another feature is the Nash bed which, like the cruising gear, is available in any model. This enables a motorist to make up a full-sized bed in the rear seat of a Nash car in 10 minutes.

The Nash St. Louis Co. has equipped a large service department with modern machinery.

Production and retail sales of Nash cars are double those in 1936. Last month more than 10,000 Nash cars were delivered at retail.

Largest Newspaper Advertising Drive by Socony-Vacuum Co.

In view of prospects for increased motor travel and a corresponding rise in consumption of petroleum products the Socony-Vacuum Oil Co. has inaugurated one of the largest advertising campaigns in its history.

Hundreds of newspapers will carry the new campaign for Socony-Vacuum's Mobilgas and Mobiloil, it was announced by Roy B. Dill, advertising and sales development manager of the Lubrite Division of Socony-Vacuum at St. Louis.

"Newspaper advertising has always played an important part in Socony-Vacuum merchandising activities throughout this section," Dill said. "It has proved itself to be one of our most effective methods of reaching motor car owners."

The advertising will be educational in nature, according to Dill, and will feature important services in the preparation of the car for warm weather driving such as draining winter-worn oil, flushing the radiator and applying fresh lubricants.

Proper protection of the car during spring and summer entails ridding the car of dirty, winter-worn lubricants and replacing these with lubricants suited to warm weather operation. So, the theme of the new advertising will be "Drain Out Winter."

Presented at the meetings were charts and business indices of the petroleum and automotive industries which indicate, it was stated, that the year 1937 will be characterized by major increases in the consumption of petroleum products, and justify increased advertising expenditures on the part of the company.

In February, retail sales of new automobiles throughout the country were 34 percent ahead of those in February last year and more than 20 per cent greater than in February, 1935. The aggregate value of new cars sold the first two months of this year was 30 per cent above that in the same period last year and more than 44 per cent higher than in the first two months fo 1935.

The placques are awarded to winners of each group on the basis of the lowest frequency of accidents per 100,000 operating hours. The presentation was made in the company's warehouse yard at 4017 Park avenue, by Edwin A. Kayser, president of the Safety Council, and the placque was accepted on behalf of the company by E. G. Rounds, assistant manager of the St. Louis division, who is eighth from the left in the picture.

Trailers Help Solve Housing Plight

According to George Terburgh of the Federal Reserve Bank Board, in Chicago, Ill., automobile trailers are helping to solve the nation's housing problem. He says between 40,000 and 50,000 trailers are used as permanent homes. He estimates the total number of trailers used as full or part time residences at 300,000.

Cord Car in First Place In Its Price Class in Gas Economy Contest

In an economy run of 352 miles to and from Yosemite Valley supervised by the A. A. A. in California recently, a Cord Westchester sedan was awarded the cup for best performance in its price class, $1801 and up. The car carried five passengers and baggage, the total weight being 5000 pounds.

The run, it was said, was made under the worst conditions encountered in years on similar tests in California. A message said:

"Of the 352 miles, 88 were in snow and ice. Temperatures in the mountains were as low as 18 degrees above zero. Snow on the level in Yosemite Valley was four feet deep. The entire 'Ridge Route' was ice-coated, and there was a cross wind estimated at 60 miles per hour. On the run, there were 94 miles of grades up to 15 per cent."

The message said that the Cord did 18-24 miles to the gallon of gasoline for 352 miles, and covered the distance in 10 hours and seven minutes despite the grades and bad weather and the fact that skid chains were not used, and anti-freeze could not be used in radiators.

In a previous test on dry roads with favorable weather, the same Cord, it was stated, averaged 22½ miles to the gallon of gasoline, the car carrying the same load as in the run to Yosemite Valley. On level roads, it was said, the car did as high as 25½ miles per gallon at 47 miles per hour speed.

New Coke Ovens, Fuel Gas System Installed In Ford Rouge Plant

Installation of two new coke oven batteries, and a modern fuel gas distribution system and a unique supervisory control of this system has just been completed at the Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Co. The new coke ovens provide increased gas production of 8,000,000 cubic feet daily.

The new supervisory control enables a dispatcher at a central desk to exercise constant control over the major gas supplies being pumped to scores of furnaces throughout the 1096-acre plant by manipulating buttons and switches on the desk top. The dispatcher's post faces panels on which are mounted dials recording electrically conditions existing throughout the complicated fuel gas distribution system.

The new gas system has two distinct fuel gas sources—the coke ovens, the blast furnaces and a new "standby" station, where gas for emergency uses is supplied from propane tanks.

...ing Service Drive By Plymouth, Dodge, DeSoto and Chrysler

...g spring drive on service will be ...oduced nationally this month ...a series of 15 regional meetings ...der a plan developed by T. W. ...ss, general service manager for ...lymouth, Dodge, De Soto and ...hrysler.

Under this national program, Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto and Chrysler dealers will undertake a campaign to educate car owners on the importance of putting their cars into proper condition for spring and summer driving.

As part of the "safety through service" campaign originated by Plymouth, dealers will be instructed in periodic check-ups to maintain the many safety features built into every Chrysler Corporation car.

Part of the program will be devoted to technical instruction helpful to spring conditioning. In addition a complete merchandising plan for the warm months will be explained.

March Best Month Pontiac Has Ever Had

More new Pontiac cars were delivered by dealers in the United States in March than in any other month of the company's history, according to C. P. Simpson, general sales manager.

The month's total was 25,609 units, compared with 23,750 for the next highest month's deliveries of Pontiacs, which was in April, 1929.

Asks Adjustment on Tires He Has Had in Use for 37 Years

A request for adjustments on tires recently received from Brian Stack, 7 Mowbray road, Edgware, Middlesex, England, by the B. F. Goodrich Company is amusing officials. It asks for an adjustment on tires, or "tyres" as the English put it, that have been in service 37 years, since 1900. The letter says:

"Dear Sirs: I am in trouble with some of your tyres. They leak gradually and not through the valve. They are rather old, being single tube tyres of 1900 date of manufacture. They are on a Locomobile steam car that I am overhauling for a famous collector in this country, R. C. Shuttleworth of Old Warden Park, Briggleswade, Bedfordshire. He is very keen on using the same tyres on the few runs that are made in this country every year to show how motoring used to be. The size is 28 by 2½ with five lugs.

"Have you any useful ideas on how to treat these internally to cure their porosity? For instance, how about putting a half-pound of thick rubber solution in each tyre?

"The treads are supple and as good as new as far as I can tell, a wonderful tribute to the quality put into them. One out of the four is holding up well after a fortnight. Therefore I am hopeful of restoring the others and preserving in use a world's record that can never be beaten, pneumatics in use after 36 years."

Goodrich is sending Stack a special compound developed by its technical men which it hopes will preserve the tires for several more years.

Auxiliary Headlight Designed to Prevent Overdriving Lamp Rays

A new driving light, designed to help motorists not to overdrive the rays from their headlights, is announced by the F. S. Wiemeyer Co., distributer. It is called the Trippe safety light, and is being used by many truck operators and transcontinental drivers. It was first marketed in this country six years ago, then was introduced in England where it was hailed as of distinct value for driving in fog, mist and bad night conditions generally.

The light is affixed permanently to the lower part of a car bumper, on the bumper bracket. It can be adjusted for distance and beam spread to suit the driver. It has special bulbs and double reflectors and lenses to concentrate the light. It is said to throw no stray beams and to develop a candlepower beyond that of any other auto light without glare in the eyes of approaching drivers.

Because of its position low down on the front of the car, the light reaches far ahead of a car and to the side of a road. In fog or snow, its beams give light where it is needed.

MAYOR'S INAUGURAL TO BE HELD TUESDAY

Nolte and 14 Aldermen Also to Be Installed in City Hall Ceremony.

Bernard F. Dickmann, thirty-fourth Mayor of St. Louis, will be inaugurated for a second four-year term at City Hall Tuesday, while Louis Nolte will be installed in his sixth four-year term as Comptroller and the 14 Aldermen from the odd-numbered wards will be seated. Nolte will continue to be the only Republican in elective municipal office.

Seven newcomers will be inaugurated as Aldermen—Thomas V. Walsh, First Ward; William B. Walsh, Seventh; Philip Bouckaert, Ninth; Emil J. Rachota, Eleventh; Edward F. Judge, Fifteenth; John Pierce Cullinane, Nineteenth, and William Clark, Twenty-first.

The seven who will take their places for second terms of four years will be: Otto L. Listcher, Third Ward; Harry L. Israel, Fifth; Phelim O'Toole, Thirteenth; Hubert A. Hoeflinger, Seventeenth; Allan E. Petersen, Twenty-third; Whitelaw T. Terry, Twenty-fifth, and Emmett Golden, Twenty-seventh.

Two-Year Terms for 14 Aldermen.

Thus the city's first Democratic administration in a quarter of a century will enter a second term. President William L. Mason of the Board of Aldermen and the 14 Aldermen from the even-numbered wards, all Democrats, will remain in office for two more years. Dickmann, Nolte and Mason form the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, the powerful fiscal body.

Tentative plans for the inauguration were announced yesterday, awaiting the return of the Mayor from a vacation in the Ozarks for final approval. He left April 9, three days after the election, and was expected back today.

Ceremonies will begin at 11 a. m. Tuesday, under the tentative program. The Board of Aldermen will convene at that hour in its chambers, which have been specially decorated with plants and bunting in the national colors. Temporary officers will be elected, credentials of the 14 newly-elected members will be examined and the oath of office will be administered to them in a body by City Register Michael J. Cullinane, uncle of the new Nineteenth Ward Alderman.

Expected to Be Re-elected.

Then permanent elections of officials will be held. It was anticipated that the following would be re-elected: Vice-president, Lawrence P. Walsh, Twelfth Ward Alderman and third member of the new board with the same surname, though they are not related to each other; clerk, Harry W. O'Brien; assistant clerk, Marshall McTigue; stenographer, Miss Gertrude Coyne, sergeant-at-arms, James Ferguson, a Negro. Jerry Beshir may be re-elected janitor, or a Negro may be given the place and another city job found for Beshir.

Next, the board will send committees to bring Dickmann and Nolte from their offices, and the Mayor and Comptroller will take the oath in the aldermanic chambers. They may make addresses there, if they desire.

The board will then adjourn to the marble-walled rotunda of City Hall for public exercises, with President Mason presiding. The Register will again administer the oaths to the 16 officials, the Mayor will deliver a speech and Nolte may speak. A singer will lead the audience in the national anthem and a clergyman will be invited to deliver an invocation for each part of the ceremony.

City Officials Have Tickets.

A platform, which will be decorated with ferns and flags, has been erected on the landing of the grand staircase in the rotunda and seats have been placed on the main floor. Tickets for these seats and for the small gallery in the aldermanic chambers have been given city officials for distribution. Spectators unable to obtain seats will find other vantage points.

After the public program the Board of Aldermen will reconvene for routine business, starting the new fiscal year. The three most important measures at the commencement of the year will not be ready for introduction for about two weeks. These are the annual budget bill, the bill fixing the 1937 municipal tax rate, and the standardization bill, setting salaries of city employes.

The first Mayor of St. Louis was William Carr Lane, serving in 1823-28 and 1838-39. The last Democratic Mayor before Dickmann was Rolla Wells, who was in office in 1901-09. Dickmann is the first bachelor Mayor in many years.

MRS. SARAH RAINWATER WILL

Bulk of Estate Divided for Benefit of 35 Relatives.

The will of Mrs. Sarah H. Rainwater, who died last Monday at the age of 97 years, was filed in Probate Court yesterday. She divided the bulk of her estate in 51 parts for the benefit of 35 relatives, heirs of her late sisters and brothers. Other bequests include $1000 each to the Lafayette Park Methodist Church and Bellefontaine Cemetery, and her residence at 21 Benton place to her former housekeeper, Mrs. Hilda Hackmaster.

By the terms of the will, realty at 1300-12 St. Ange avenue is to be sold as soon as possible, as is other property in the estate, the value of which was not estimated. Mrs. Rainwater appointed Frank G. Maxwell, 7137 Maryland avenue, and the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co. as co-executors. She was the widow of Maj. Charles C. Rainwater, hat merchant.

C. OF C. OPPOSES LAW TO LIMIT STORE HOURS

Executive Committee Writes Mayor Urging Him to Veto Ordinance.

Mayor Dickmann was urged by the Executive Committee of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday to veto the ordinance passed by the Board of Aldermen April 9, which would limit business time of retail establishments with sales exceeding $35,000 a year to 10 hours a day and 60 a week.

Thomas N. Dysart, president of the chamber, in a letter to the Mayor for the Executive Committee, declared, the measure was "highly discriminatory."

"There is no reason," he continued, "why a concern doing $35,000 worth of business annually should be limited to this time, while a nearby competitor doing $34,000 of business or less annually is allowed to remain open for a longer period. Our committee, after carefully reviewing this bill, believes it is unsound legislation and, therefore, urges you to veto it."

The Mayor has referred the bill to City Counselor Edgar H. Wayman for an opinion on its constitutionality, before deciding whether he will veto or approve it. The Counselor has given no indication yet of his opinion. Merchants have asked the Mayor to grant a public hearing before making up his mind.

The ordinance was sponsored by the Retail Clerks' International Protective Association and other labor organizations.

Representatives of 17 city-wide and neighborhood retail merchants' organizations, meeting at the York Hotel Friday, unanimously opposed the bill and appointed a committee to draft a resolution to the Mayor, setting forth their objections.

The meeting was called by Independence, Inc., whose secretary, George Schulte, presided. Schulte said the exemption of stores dealing in "articles of immediate necessity" would defeat the purpose of the bill by encouraging wide-spead evasion.

Ben H. Gude, managing director of the Missouri Retail Hardware Association, asserted the ordinance would force half the outlying furniture stores out of business.

Joseph E. Burger, representing the Greater St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association, declared the law would work a hardship on many automobile owners accustomed to have repair work done at night.

Enters Detroit Mayoralty Race.

DETROIT, April 17. — Duncan C. McCrea, Wayne County prosecutor who aided in convicting a number of men accused of Black Legion crimes in the past year, announced today he would be a candidate for Mayor of Detroit next fall. Announcement by Mayor Frank Couzens that he will not seek re-election has resulted in the entry of several candidates.

Drunkenness Is a Disease!
This FREE Booklet Explains Facts That Every Person Should Know
HERE is a treatise written on the disease of inebriety and its cure, written especially for the Keeley Institute. It is based on 57 years' experience, embracing the treatment of more than 400,000 patients, including men and women from all walks of life.
It tells you "why" the medical profession recognizes drunkenness as a disease; what famous medical authorities say about the disease of drunkenness . . . and "how" drunkenness can be cured. The booklet is free, and mailed in a plain envelope. Write at once for your copy. NOW!

WOMEN'S WAGE BILL PRESSED FOR PASSAGE

Expected to Be Approved by Missouri House Without Opposition; Its Provisions.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, April 17.—Sponsors of the bill to establish minimum wages for women and for minors under 18 years of age are making every effort to put the bill in shape for passage during this session of the Legislature, despite the late date of its introduction.

The bill, which is based on the Washington State minimum wage law, recently declared constitutional by the United States Supreme Court, has been ordered perfected by the House and probably will be ready for passage when the House returns following its recess throughout next week. The bill is expected to be approved by the House without opposition and sent to the Senate.

The measure was amended on perfection to eliminate all provisions relating to the establishment also of standard working conditions for women and minors, and is now, in its present form, a pure minimum wage proposal.

Representative Edgar J. Keating of Kansas City, who is handling the bill in the House, said the provisions for standard working conditions had been eliminated in order that the act would not jeopardize or conflict with present State laws covering that subject.

"We have a wealth of good statutes in Missouri covering hours of labor and setting up basic requirements for healthful working conditions," he said, "and any new provisions which might be established under this bill would be superfluous. Besides, we do not want to propose anything which may later be construed to interfere with the presents laws."

Provisions of Measure.

The bill would make it unlawful to employ any woman or minor in any industry or occupation within the State "at wages which are not adequate for a reasonable and decent standard of living."

It proposes the creation of an industrial welfare commission which would be empowered to inquire into and establish minimum wages for these persons. In making its investigations, the commission would have the authority to subpena witnesses and to examine all books, records and payrolls of any firm or corporation employing women and minors, relating to the matter of wages.

If, after investigation, the commission should find that wages paid to women in any trade or industry were inadequate "to supply them necessary cost of living and to maintain the workers in health," it could call a conference of representatives of employers and the workers, together with representatives of the public, to study the matter. It would be the duty of the conference to recommend minimum wages in that particular industry.

The commission would review and approve or disapprove any of the recommendations. Those suggestions not approved could be resubmitted to the same or a new conference for further study. Recommendations for minimum wages approved by the commission would become effective within 60 days.

Fines and Wage Recovery.

Employers who failed to pay the minimum wages would be guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of $100 for each offense. Women employes paid less than the legal minimum could recover the balance due them in civil action, notwithstanding any agreement they might have made to work for smaller wages.

The bill was introduced March 31 at the request of representatives of organized labor in Missouri, nearly four weeks after the time for filing House bills had expired. Keating and 29 other members of the House sponsoring the measure obtained the unanimous consent of the House to present the proposal.

3 Years for Unlicensed Still.

By the Associated Press.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., April 17.—W. R. Perry, Stoddard County farmer, convicted by a Federal Court jury on a charge of possessing an unlicensed still, was sentenced to three years in Leavenworth Penitentiary and fined $500 by United States District Judge Charles B. Davis today. He was the second liquor case defendant to be convicted by a jury, while 55 others have pleaded guilty since the present term began Monday.

Member of Unofficial Treason Hearing Board Resigns After Clash With Trotsky and Lawyer

Carleton Beals Says It is Not "Serious Investigation"—Colleagues Rebuke Him—Exile Concludes Defense.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO, D. F., April 17.—Carleton Beals, American magazine writer, quit the unofficial commission of liberals "trying" Leon Trostky today, declaring he did not think the hearing represented a "true and serious" inquiry into charges against the exile.

Trotsky etonight closed his defense against accusations made in recent treason trials as Moscow that he plotted widespread sabotage of Russia's industries and railroads.

The commissioners, anxious to finish their work so Dr. Dewey might leave for New York tomorrow night, listened to Trotsky late into the night as he read his long summation.

Trotsky devoted most of the summation to the testimony in Moscow of Vladimir Romm, former Washington correspondent of the newspaper Izvestia, that he received terrorist instructions from Trotsky in Paris in 1933. The exile sought to show, by detailed evidence concerning his movements in France, that the alleged meeting never could have taken place.

Documentary Evidence.

He adduced documentary evidence purporting to show also that Gregory Piatikov, one of the defendants in the January Moscow trial who subsequently was executed, could never have made the flight to Norway to see Trotsky he said he made in December, 1935. Trotsky, in closing, charged it was for the present Russian leadership "a matter of life or death to kill the fourth (Trotsky) International in its embryo."

That, he said, was the reason for the Moscow trials.

Beals resigned after a sharp exchange between himself and Trotsky.

In a letter to Dr. John Dewey, New York educator and chairman of the commission, Beals said:

"I do not consider the proceedings a true and serious investigation of the charges against Trotsky. For this and other reasons my further services would not be fruitful."

Story of Resignation.

At yesterday's session, Beals asked if Trotsky had sent Michael Borodin, Communist leader in China and former Soviet news agency official, to Mexico in 1919 as a party organizer.

Trotsky denied he had instructed Borodin to go to Mexico. He added Beals' informant was a "liar," saying Beals "sought to compromise my position."

It was learned authoritatively that Beals subsequently engaged in a vigorous argument with John Finerty, of Washington, counsel for the Commisson, who contended Beals' questions about Borodin "had no place in any court of law."

That discussion was said to have culminated in Beals' declaration that either he or Finerty would have to quit. Other members backed Finerty, it was said, and Beals' "irrevocable resignation" followed today.

Statement by Dewey.

The commission met in executive session today. Dewey later announced receipt of Beal's letter and said the "jury" had "formally expressed its awareness of the complete impropriety of Beal's questions."

Dewey added, "this commission gladly leaves to the public whether the investigation is fair, serious and complete."

Trotsky, in summing up his defense, referred to Beals' question about Borodin and said "the falsehood which he has utilized has a definite purpose, to compromise my situation in Mexico."

Trotsky declared he never had any personal relations with Borodin, that he knew him only by his activity in China, and had openly attacked him as "the most harmful man in the Chinese revolution."

Trotsky added he had never concerned himself with Mexican political questions and had never sent anybody to Mexico.

Trotsky's View.

Trotsky said he had given "great importance to the question and its obvious purpose—to throw upon me through other means new suspicions in the eyes of the Mexican people," and demanded the commission throw light on the source of Beals' information.

Questioned by Benjamin Stolberg, a commission member, Trotsky said he had once disavowed "for diplomatic reasons" the "testament" in which Nicolai Lenin is said to have recommended the ousting of Joseph Stalin, secretary-general of the Communist party.

Trotsky said Max Eastman, New York editor, had published the document without consulting him while he was a member of the Russian Government and that "sharpened an inner struggle" which it was feared might result in civil war. Trotsky's disavowal, which was "not a lie, not the full truth" was imposed upon me by the situation."

Finerty asked Trotsky if the commission would not be justified in considering his present political situation in weighing the truth or falsity of his testimony.

Chuckling, Trotsky replied: "You must not consider me an angel." He recommended a check and recheck of all his testimony.

BORAH, WHEELER FIGHT RISE IN FARM INTEREST

Idaho Senator Says FCA Head's Proposal Would Aggravate Tenancy Problem.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—A congressional controversy developed today out of an administration proposal to increase farm interest rates.

Senators Borah (Rep.), Idaho, and Wheeler (Dem.), Montana, quickly challenged the suggestion by Gov. W. I. Myers, of the Farm Credit Administration, that the emergency 3½ per cent interest rate on Land Bank loans be permitted to expire July 1.

Wheeler, who forced the low emergency rate through the Senate, characterized as "sheer nonsense" Myers' statement that its continuation might stimulate a harmful land boom.

Borah, calling attention to the administration bill to relieve farm tenancy, said the "best way to handle farm tenancy" is "to make it possible for the farmer who now owns his farm to continue to own it."

Myers, testifying before the House Agriculture Committee yesterday, said "it appears quite possible that if the Federal Land Banks continue to finance the purchase of farms at an artificially low interest rate, it may have the effect of stimulating a land boom and ultimately may have a far-reaching and undesirable effect on the whole structure of land values in the United States."

Brings Up Court Issue.

Wheeler quickly seized on the proposal as a new argument in his fight against the Roosevelt court plan.

Asserting that there was no better way for the Government to help farmers than by providing low interest rates, Wheeler said "it isn't necessary to pack the Supreme Court or to change the Constitution in order to help the farmer of this country get out from under the load of debt he has been carrying."

Wheeler added that the move to increase interest rates was in conflict with the administration view that "the only thing standing in the way of assisting the farmers was 'nine old men' on the Supreme Court."

"This demonstrates the insincerity of the Department of Agriculture and the head of the Federal Land Banks in carrying on their reprehensible propaganda against the court in order to cover up their own mistakes," he said.

"It should be borne in mind that everything that the farmer has to buy went up in price as a result of the price-fixing methods adopted under the N.R.A. and those prices did not come down even after the N.R.A. was abolished, but have continued to increase.

"To raise the interest rate on the farmer is unthinkable."

Borah's Statement.

Borah's statement follows: "Gov. Myers lays stress on the fact that the farm index price is back again nearly to where it was in 1930. But what was the condition in 1930 and in 1928 and 1929? Farm tenancy was growing at a rapid rate, farm mortgages were being foreclosed, and tax sales were on a large scale.

"In addition to that, taxes are higher. The prices of things which the farmer has to buy are higher. The implement trust is still doing business at the old stand. We now have in Congress a farm tenancy measure. It proposes to start with an appropriation of $50,000,000, which will not be a drop in the bucket if it is to be effective. Is it not far better, in dealing with this question of farm tenancy, to make it possible for the farmer who now owns his farm to continue to own it. That is the very best way to handle farm tenancy. The present increase of farm tenancy is very great.

"In addition to that, let me say, that the farmer can not pay an interest which Gov. Myers calls a business rate of interest. It is not in the business. And, unless we find some way by which to give the farmer a lower rate of interest, there is no possible way to stop the spread of farm tenancy."

CARELESS DRIVERS RUIN TREES ALONG STREETS AND IN PARKS

City Decides on Rigid Enforcement of Ordinance Against Destruction of Such Property.

An increasingly large number of trees is being damaged by careless motorists along streets and in parks, the City Park Department reported yesterday. Because it is impossible to replace an injured tree with one the same size, a young tree must be planted, thus marring the symmetrical appearance of an entire block.

The Park Department announced it would rigidly enforce the ordinance on destruction of city property. Although a tree can be planted at a cost of $5, the announcement stated, it is impossible to replace one that has grown sturdy through the years.

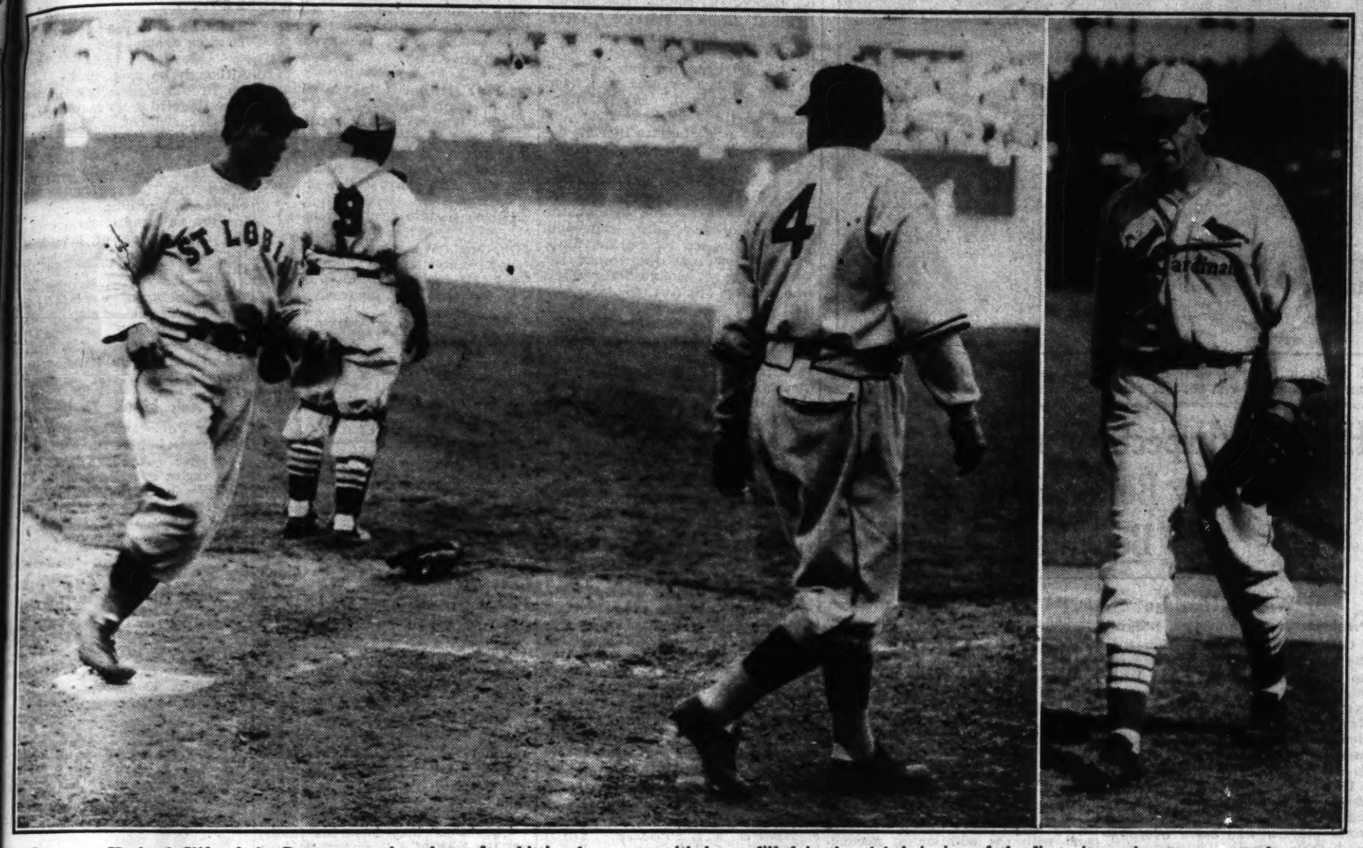
BROWNS ROUT PAUL DEAN AND DEFEAT CARDINALS, 17 TO 5

Harlond Clift's Big Day, Paul Dean's Bad One



Harlond Clift of the Browns crossing plate after hitting home run with bases filled in the eighth inning of the first city series game, yesterday, won by the Browns, 17 to 5. Manager Hornsby of the Browns is near the base line, with Catcher Brusie Ogrodowski of the Cards in front of the plate. It was Clift's second homer of the day. At the right, Paul Dean walking off the field in the second inning, after the Browns had made nine hits and seven runs off him. Before the Cardinals returned home, Paul said he would test his arm in the spring games and if it was not okay, would ask to be put on the voluntary retired list.

CLIFT HITS TWO HOME RUNS, ONE WITH BASES FILLED; MIZE BANGS ONE OVER FENCE; HORNSBY SHINES

American Leaguers Make 20 Safeties, Punishing Bob Weiland in Eighth; Jack Knott Pitches Seven Good Innings; Bordagaray Bingles Three Times; Teams Play Again Today.

By J. Roy Stockton.

Rogers Hornsby's new Browns, flashing a devastating 20-hit attack, stole the show as the first game of the annual spring series opened the baseball season in the sunshine at Sportsman's Park yesterday afternoon.

The American Leaguers made good use of their base hits, took advantage of bases on balls and swamped the Cardinals of Frankie Frisch, 17 to 5.

The victory apparently delighted the majority of the 9971 cash customers.

It was a smashing victory for the Browns and a crushing defeat for the Cardinals, but the saddest part of the afternoon for the Redbirds was the disappointing showing of Paul Dean, who started on the pitching hill to test his ailing arm. If the test meant anything, Manager Frisch will not have to worry much longer about whether Paul is going to return to the brilliant form that made him a standout pitcher in 1934 and 1935.

Browns Show Power.

The Browns scored an unearned run on two hits and an error in the first inning and in the second, with two out, Paul was knocked out of the box after seven resounding Brownie wallops had increased the American Leaguers' margin to 7 to 0. Paul didn't seem to have much of the great speed that once was his and it would not be surprising to hear at any time that he has decided to pack up his things and go back to his Texas farm to which he retired voluntarily last season when his lame right houlder prevented him from pitching winning ball.

Hornsby has reason to feel happy over the fine showing his new team made as it made its 1937 debut before the home folks. The 20-hit attack included two home runs by Harlond Clift, one of them with the bases filled, and there also were two two-baggers by the Rajah himself and a double by Gerald Lipscomb, who batted for Knott in the eighth inning and then finished the game at second base.

Ryba Takes Over.

After Paul Dean was blasted from the hill, Mike Ryba took over the pitching job and gave up only three hits in five and one-third innings, but Bob Weiland then went to the hill and the Browns bombarded him for nine runs, finally knocking him out of the box in the ninth, whereupon Lon Warneke was called from the bullpen to stop the Brownie sluggers.

Jack Knott and Chief Hogsett did the pitching for the Browns, and it was an easy afternoon for them, with their comrades piling up an early lead and adding to it from time to time. Knott started and pitched five scoreless innings, Bordagaray's double and a tremendous homer by Johhy Mize giving the Cards their first runs in the sixth. There was another run off Knott in the seventh and two off Hogsett in the eighth.

Any team looks bad when its pitchers are being knocked around the lot and the Cardinals were not at all impressive. In contrast to the devastating bat-swinging by the Brownies, the National League attack was amateurish.

Bottomley led off with a single in the second inning and Hemsley hit one to right. Knott bunted, but forced Bottomley at third, Paul Dean to Brown, but Knickerbocker singled to center, sending Hemsley home. Allen's infield out advanced

Not Discouraged, Paul Dean Says

PAUL DEAN, Cardinal pitcher, who was knocked out of the box in two innings by the Browns yesterday, and who, it was feared, might become disheartened, said last night that he was not discouraged by the turn of events.

"My arm felt pretty good, although they hit me," said Paul. "I am going to give it a further test before doing anything about going on the retired list."

Playoffs Needed In Cue Tourney

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Jimmy Casas, defending champion from Wilmington, Del., threw the world pocket billiard title tournament into a four-way tie tonight, forcing it into extra playoffs, by defeating Ralph Greenleaf, former crownholder, 125 to 107 in the final scheduled match.

ST. LOUIS WOMEN BOWLERS TAKE LEAD

By the Associated Press.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 17.—First, second and fourth places were swept by St. Louis teams rolling on the last squad on the women's International Bowling Congress tonight.

Camel Sodas, opening with a huge 970 game took the lead by virtue of their 2582 count, which is exactly 35 pints short of the winning team's score last year.

The runners-up were the Godlove South Sides with 2471. Hills five knocked off 2341, good for fourth place.

VOPEL-AUDY CAPTURE SIX-DAY BIKE HONORS

RALLY IN 8TH BY WHITE SOX BEATS CUBS, 3-2

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 17.—The American League White Sox evened Chicago's spring city series at five-all today by defeating the National League Cubs, 3 to 2, on consecutive doubles by Dixie Walker and Zeke Bonura, with two out in the eighth.

The blows, sixth and seventh off Bill Lee, who went the route for the losers, broke a 2-2 tie.

Stan Hack's fourth-inning home run off Vern Kennedy with Ken O'Dea on base accounted for the only two Cub tallies. Monty Stratton held the North Siders to four scattered hits in the last five innings. In all, the Cubs got nine blows to outhit the Sox.

Mutuels paid: Mars Shield, $6.70, $3.50, $2.90; Heelfly, $3.20, $2.80; Eastport, $3.30.

Mars Shield, away well but far back for a half mile, improved her position fast when called upon, forged to the front approaching the final furlong, responded to strong urging in the last sixteenth and won drawing away. Heelfly began slowly from outside the stalls, rushed into the lead during the opening three-sixteenth, drew clear after three-eighths, increased his advantage under light restraint, responded well when challenged but weakened fast near theend. Eastport, well up throughout, held on well. Dead Calm, fractious and away slowly, was far back for five-eighths, moved up fast thereafter, but weakened in the last stages. Palan dropped back after five-eighths and came again in the drive. Robert L. tired. Sun Pilot was outrun. Gallant Eagle was outrun.

HOUSTON, TEX., Apri 17 — Booted down the stretch into a spectacular finish, Mars Shield, only filly in a field of eight blue-bloods, captured the $15,000 Texas Derby today before 25,000 fans at Arlington Downs here.

Jockey Alfred Robertson, astride the fleet Milky Way Farm's three-year-old, drove the filly from fifth position at the stretch turn to a three-quarter length triumph over Heelfly, the Three D's Stock Farm Kentucky Derby candidate.

Only one-fifth of a second off the track record of 1:50 3-5 for the mile and an eighth distance, Mars Shield won going away.

The stretch fight between Mars Shield and Heelfly was a battle of jockeys, Robertson finally passing Georgie Woolf, piloting the Texas pride, at the last sixteenth post.

His blinkers removed for the first time, Heelfly was his usual fractious self at the post, threatening twice to unseat Jockey Woolf. Moved to the outside of the barrier, the Three

DORIS BRENNAN WINS 500-YARD SWIM TITLE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 17.—Doris Elizabeth Brennan of the Olneyville Club, Providence, R. I., the "hard-luck" girl of the national indoor women's A. A. U. swimming championships, caught up with good luck tonight, winning the 500-yard free style championship by three yards over Miami Beach's Kitty Rawls.

Miss Rawls, repeating champion in the breast stroke and the individual medley, trailed in fourth place for more than half of the race before opening up with a characteristic brilliant spurt. It cut into Miss Brennan's lead, but was not good enough to conquer the determined Providence girl.

The time, 6 minutes, 24.7 seconds, was only three and seven-tenths seconds slower than the winning performance last year of Mary Lou Petty of Seattle, who has withdrawn from competition.

Dorothy Forbes of the Broadwood A. C., of Philadelphia, gained possession of the 100-yard back stroke mantle relinquished by Eleanor Holm Jarrett, in another thrilling struggle. Miss Forbes, who took the lead at the 25-yard mark, just lasted to win a hairline decision from Elizabeth Kompa of New York's Women's Swimming Association, in one minute, 12.1 seconds.

Marjorie Gestring, 14-year-old Olympic champion from Los Angeles, who won her first national title in last year's indoor meet, gave anther brilliant display in keeping her high board diving honors.

Miss Gestring, tiny darling of the 1936 meet, but now almost a grown-up young lady, scored the high total of 144.36 points, to 131.23 for Miss Eckert. Marion Mansfield and Arlite Smith of the Lake Shore Club, the latter winner of the low board crown, were third and fourth, respectively.

The team championship went to the Miami Beach Swimming Club with 25 points, the bulk of which were provided by Miss Rawls and Miss Hopkins.

The summaries:

550-YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Doris Elizabeth Brennan, Olneyville Boys Club, Providence, R. I.; second, Katherine Rawls, Miami Beach, Fla., Swimming Club; third, Virginia Hopkins, Miami Beach Swimming Club; fourth, Claudia Eckert, Shawnee Country Club, Chicago; fifth, Harriet Vance, Peoria, Ill., Country Club; sixth, Malina Tomska, Detroit Athletic Club. Time, 6m. 24.7s.

100-YARD BACK STROKE—Won by Dorothy Forbes, Broadwood Athletic Club, Philadelphia; second, Elizabeth Kompa, Women's Swimming Association, New York; third, Margie Smith, Lake Shore A. C., Chicago; fourth, Jean Kolinski, Washington A. C., Seattle; fifth, Helen Perry, Ohio Swimming Club, Cleveland; sixth, Kathryn Gibbons, Bureau of Recreation, Pittsburgh. Time, 1m. 12.1s.

Texas Athlete Sets New Javelin Mark At Kansas Relays

LAWRENCE, Kan., April 17.—A national intercollegiate record was shattered, four other meet records were broken, the great Glenn Cunningham met defeat at his pet distance, and the University of Indiana ran hog wild in the relay events as midwestern and southwestern track and field aces wrote another vivid chapter in Kansas Relay history today.

Alton Terry, tall, lithe Texan from Hardin-Simmons, hurled the javelin 229 feet 2¼ inches to better the national intercollegiate mark of 226 feet 2¾ inches he set in 1936.

The Kansas relay record, the oldest on the books, was 206 feet 6¼ inches, set by John Kuck of Emporia, Kan., State Teachers College, in 1926.

Sam Francis, burly all-America fullback from the University of Nebraska and Olympic shot putter, heaved the 16-pound ball 15 feet 6 inches to better the mark of 51 feet 3⅝ inches set by Elwyn Dees of Kansas in 1935, and then got a daily double with a victory in the discus on a toss of 144 feet 3¾ inches.

High Jump Mark Broken.

The high jump, steeplechase and university mile team race marks were the others to fall. Jack Vickery, lanky University of Texas athlete, and Thomas Stevens, Pittsburg, Kan., Teachers College ace, eased over the bar at 6 feet 6⅜ inches to better the high jump mark set by Shaw of Wisconsin in 1930 by 3-16 of an inch.

Tommy Deckard, slim, frail-appearing youngster who was a potent factor in the large afternoon, enjoyed by the University of Indiana squad, accounted for the other two records.

Deckard trotted, jumped and waded his way around the 3000-meter steeplechase course in 9:27 to better the mark of 9:30.4 he set last year, and then led the field in the university mile team race with a time of 4:23.2. His teammate, Don Lash, set the previous record of 4:23.3 last year.

Cunningham trailed his most persistent rival, Archie San Romani of Emporia, Kan., State Teachers College, to the tape in a special mile match race. The time of 4:14.1 was 1.4 seconds slower than the meet record established by Cunningham in 1934.

By Eight Yards.

The slender San Romani dogged Cunningham's footsteps the first two laps, which were covered in 2:14, then edged into the lead, which he held to the finish. Midway in the last lap Cunningham challenged, but San Romani matched his keg-chested rival stride for stride, then delivered a finishing kick which left Cunningham eight yards back and fading rapidly at the finish.

While most of the record-breaking was centering about the special events, Coach E. C. (Bill) Hayes' Indiana team methodically

"March of the Cardinals" Composed by George M. Cohan

George M. Cohan, noted composer and actor who is a great baseball fan, has written a Cardinal march which will be played at the National League inaugural game with the Chicago Cubs here next Friday, the Cardinal office announced last night.

"The March of the Cardinals," as it has been titled, will be played by the Musicians' Post Band of St. Louis, national American Legion champions. Cohan, composer of "Over There" and other hits, has dedicated it to the Gas House Gang.

First to Have March.

Said President Sam Breadon of the Cardinals:

"The Cardinals will be the first club ever to have an official march and we are happy it has been composed by such a famous figure in the musical and theatrical world as George M. Cohan."

The largest opening day crowd in recent years is expected. Civic clubs and American Legion posts will attend the game and a number of business firms will permit employes to leave work to go to Sportsman's Park.

Mayors Invited.

Mayors of Missouri and Illinois cities within a radius of 120 miles of St. Louis have been invited as guests of the Cardinals, and disabled veterans from the Jefferson Barracks Government hospital will attend under the auspices of the Council of Post Service Officers.

The "Golden Troopers," the American Legion drum and bugle corps of Cape Girardeau, will take BET-MINDED persons will do well to padlock their purses against the temptations of turf and baseball investments this spring. Better still, put your bankroll in safe deposit and lose the key.

Of course, if you are of the "one born every minute" brigade, and like to pay high prices for low returns, don't devote any attention to this. It wouldn't help you, anyhow. But for all those with an intelligence quotient above .0005, we may say the offerings of odds on the baseball races and on the Kentucky Derby eligibles are about as hot as the North Pole in December.

On the eve of the major league campaigns, we learn that the speculatively inclined may, among other follies, invest on their favorites at the following price scale:

MAJOR LEAGUE TEAMS TO USE 40 NEW PLAYERS IN OPENER

Browns Top Them All With Six Changes in the Starting Lineup

National League Teams to Introduce 25 New Men This Week as Championship Races Open in 8 Cities.

By Herman Wecke

When the major league clubs begin the annual pennant races this week, there will be many new faces in the lineups of the 16 clubs which will fight it out for the National and American League championships. Present indications point to 40 new athletes, which means that about 25 per cent of the athletes will be newcomers to their respective clubs.

Of this number, 24 will be with clubs in the National and 16 with American League teams. Of this total, 24 of the athletes were in the minors in 1936, while 16 were with other members under the big tent. Sixteen minor league graduates appear to have made the starting grade in the National and eight in the American.

Three teams, all in the American, will show no new faces. These are the World Champion Yankees, Tigers and White Sox.

Each of the St. Louis clubs will show new players in the opening day batting order. For the Cardinals, Stanley Bordagaray, obtained in a trade with the Dodgers last winter, has replaced Terry Moore in center field. Jimmy Brown, from Rochester, is scheduled to start the campaign at third, while Mickey Owen from Columbus is down to do the catching. In addition to this trio, the Redbirds are counting on Don Padgett, an outfielder from Columbus, to be of some value to the team in the 1937 flag struggle.

The Reconstructed Browns.

When Rogers Hornsby leads his forces on the field at Sportsman's Park next Tuesday there will be five new faces in the lineup. Bill Knickerbocker, Joe Vosmik and Oral Hildebrand, who were obtained from the Indians, will be in the battle front, at shortstop, left field and on the hurling hill, respectively. In addition, Ethan Allen, snared from the Cubs, appears to have the call over Sammy West in center, while Harry Davis, obtained from Toledo, will be at first base instead of the veteran Jim Bottomley. In addition to these changes, Manager Hornsby himself plans to open at second base, which means that only Bell, Clift and Hemsley of the 1936 starters will be at their regular posts. No team in either league will show as many changes as the Browns.

Two former Browns, Lyn Lary, shortstop; and Julius Solters, left fielder, are scheduled to start for the Indians. Unless there is a sudden change in the condition of Mel Almada, injured outfielder, the "gold-plated" Red Sox will start with four newcomers in the lineup. At second base will be Bobby Doerr, a 19-year-old star from the Pacific Coast League. Buster Mills, a former Cardinal, will be in left field. He was with Rochester last season. Frank Higgins, third sacker from the Athletics, will hit in fifth place, while Dominic Dellesandro is down to open in right field in place of Almada. In addition, Eric McNair will probably open at first instead of the ailing Jimmy Foxx.

Mack's Drastic Experiment

Connie Mack will begin the campaign with a collegian in center field and serving as leadoff batter. He is Floyd Yount, who until last February, when the Mackmen started for Mexico attended Wake Forest College. Bill Werber, late of the Red Sox or Russ Peters, from the Association, will be at third, while Parker, another former collegian will start at second if Chalmer Cissell, former White Sox player, who last season starred with Baltimore has not recovered from injured feet. The only new man in the Senators' battle front will be Al Simmons, recently purchased from the Tigers. Simmons was obtained after several minor league aces of 1936 failed to come up to expectations.

When the Reds take the field against the Cardinals, two former Redbirds are scheduled to open with Dressen's club. Charley Gelbert is down to play second, while Phil Weintraub, outfielder, who hit .371 and batted in 98 runs for Rochester a year ago, will be in left field. Jimmy Outlaw, from Nashville, where he boasted a .331 swat mark has apparently chased Lew Riggs, a pretty good ball player off third base for the time being at least.

BEFORE THE STORM: Six Runs Followed

Jim Bottomley forced at third on Jack Knott's bunt in the second inning, Paul Dean to Jimmy Brown. After this, the Browns pounded young Dean for six runs, knocking him out of the box.

Bill Terry Tries to Plug Up Two Holes in Lineup of His Champions

With Bill Terry nursing an injured knee and announcing that he will retire from active duty, Johnny McCarthy, who performed for the Yankees' Newark "farm" in 1936 will be at first base, while Louis Chiozza, obtained from the Phillies will be at third. Chiozza came up as an infielder, but his last two years with the Phillies he toiled in the outfield. He is expected to add punch to the National League champions' attack. He hit .297 with the Phils in 1936.

St. Louis Boy With Pirates

James "Ripper" Collins, regular first sacker for the Cardinals for five years until Johnny Mize came along with his big war club last season, will start at that position for the Cubs, while there is a possibility that Linus Frey, from the Dodgers, will open at third base. John Dickshot, a .359 hitter with Buffalo, has replaced Jensen in left field for the Pirates, while Lee Handley, who began his baseball career in St. Louis and last season performed with Toronto, will be at second.

The Dodgers, with Burleigh Grimes at the helm, will show some new faces as well as a crippled aggregation. The veteran Heine Manush, last season with Washington, will be in right field and Gil Brack, who played for Grimes at Louisville last season, in center. Cookie Lavagetto, obtained from the Pirates, is scheduled to play second and Johnny Hudson, last season with Allentown, at short because of an injury suffered by Tony Malinosky, from Louisville, who is expected to be the clubs' regular performer at the position.

Jimmy Wilson, of the Phillies, will begin the season with new athletes at three infield positions. George Scharein, from Nashville, will be at short and Del Young from Oklahoma City at second. Earl Browne, obtained from the Pirates, will be at first in place of Dolph Camilli, a holdout. Browne hit .328 at Minneapolis last year. In the outfield, Wilson will show Fred Tauby, who hit to an average of .311 with Dallas in 1936.

While Joe DiMaggio will be out of the Yankees' lineup because of a tonsil operation, the family will nevertheless be represented, since his brother, Vince, is due to start in center for the Boston Bees. Last season he was in the Coast League. Elbie Fletcher, from Buffalo, has replaced Buck Jordan at first, while there will be a new face at third—either Eddie Mayo, obtained from the Giants, or Debs Garms, one-time Brownie, who has been used regularly at the position in recent exhibition contests.

Supplying the Material.

In opening day lineups of rival clubs will be no fewer than 14 players who at one time or another were connected with the Cardinals or Browns. And they'd make a pretty fair ball club, what with Collins, Whitehead, Lary and Gelbert for the infield; Manush, Goslin, Solters, Mills, Weintraub and Garms for outfield talent; Gus Mancuso to do the catching and Derringer and Newsom for a start to a pitching staff.

Although the season does not officially open until Tuesday, there will be activity in each circuit tomorrow. In the National, the Phillies meet the Bees in a Patriots' day double bill at Boston, while the Athletics meet the Senators at Washington, with President Roosevelt scheduled to toss out the first ball.

BILLIKENS WIN SEVENTH BALL GAME IN ROW

St. Louis University's baseball team gained its seventh consecutive victory of the season yesterday afternoon at Forest Park, trouncing Illinois Wesleyan College, of Bloomington, 11 to 3.

Mel McGonnigle, who usually plays at third, did the hurling for the Billikens, keeping the Wesleyan Titans under control with little difficulty. Mel allowed two hits up to the sixth when the losers put together two doubles for their second run. He had 11 strikeouts and permitted one walk.

Tom Gage, a right hander, who relieved Wayne Hawkins, senior southpaw, in the fifth after the Billikens had sewed up the game with a five run scoring spree in that inning, pitched one-hit ball, but errors permitted the Billikens another three runs.

The box score:

Harridge Expects Browns To Play Better and Points To Benefits From Trade

By William Harridge
President of the American League.

CHICAGO, April 17.—Honestly, the American League race has me up in the air this year and I am mighty glad. Two or three weeks ago it was my opinion that the New York Yankees, world's champions, might make a runaway race of it again, but now I am not so sure.

Having won the 1936 pennant by 19½ games, New York naturally believed it could stand pat with the same players who have overpowered their opposition and crashed their way to two championships.

HARRIDGE.

The other seven clubs, however, have not been asleep. Each has made strenuous efforts to strengthen. Detroit, which finished second, even without Manager Mickey Cochran and First Baseman Greenberg, who led in 1935 in driving in runs, has these two players back in the game and the Tigers appear to be a far better team with them in the lineup.

"Washington Stronger."

Cleveland made a three-player deal with St. Louis which the Cleveland management believes will improve the Indians in speed on the bases and defensively at short field. In addition, it has Whitehill, veteran southpaw; Heath, a hard-hitting outfielder and Bob Feller, the youthful pitching sensation.

Chicago has practically the same hustling aggregation that finished third last season, but is thought to have strengthened its pitching staff materially with the addition of Rigney and Lee, and the return of Stratton to the game.

Washington, one of the best clubs in the league in 1936, is stronger. It has Myer, the batting champion of 1935, back in the line-up. It has added Al Simmons, great batter, who has driven in 100 or more runs each year, and expects better things of Infielders Travis and Lewis because of the experience they acquired in 1936. There is no reason to believe that the Washington pitching staff will be any less effective than a year ago.

With Manager Joe Cronin himself again, with Pitcher Marcum in far better shape than a year ago, and with the addition of Second-baseman Doerr, the Boston Red Sox shape up much stronger than a year ago.

The Philadelphia Athletics needed pitching in 1936. I believe they have it this year. At any rate, their games with other major league clubs this spring indicate that Connie Mack has every reason to see great improvement in his club. In fact, there are well qualified critics who believe Mack has one of the best pitching staffs in the league.

We have a new ownership at St. Louis. Rogers Hornsby, one of the greatest players of all time, is returning to the game as an active player and I certainly expect the Browns to play better ball this year because of the inspiration provided by those aggressive new owners who plan on making their club one of the pennant contenders each year. One of their first acts was to make a three-player trade with Cleveland, a trade that gave St. Louis another starting pitcher, a hard-hitting shortstop and one of the best outfielders in the game.

These reasons will show why I view the outlook with satisfaction. I know that baseball has taken a greater hold upon the public than ever before. This was indicated by the larger crowds at exhibition games and I have every reason to expect that the American League season of 1937 will be one of its best financially as well as from a competitive standpoint.

GEORGE M. COHAN WRITES CARDS' MARCH

part in the celebration.

The game will begin at 3 o'clock, with the festivities starting a half-hour earlier.

Words to "The March of the Cardinals."

O'er the railroad tracks
O'er the railroad tracks
Come the gas house fellows o'er the railroad tracks
In the railroad hacks
In the railroad hacks
Like the Barnum Show and all the circus acts
Hear the bleachers wildly scream
What a team! What a team!
Like the Knights of Old they seem They're the Fighting Cardinal Team.

They're from Missouri and they fight with a fury
For they've got the rattling, battling spirit
They're out to win it
If they don't get to win it,
You can bet they'll come goldarn near it
See the clouds, they're clearing
Hear the crowds, they're cheering
Here they come, they're nearing
Here they are, appearing,
While the bands are playing
All the fans are swaying
Right with the rhythm
For the fever is with 'em
When the Card'nals come to town.

Here they come in their over-alls
That gas house gang of renown
Here they come with their bats and balls
Just look at 'em swaggering
Look at 'em swaggering
Isn't it staggering, hear that cheering!
Here they come with their bags and packs
They're John G. Fan's wildest dream.

Here they come o'er the railroad tracks
That powerful, plucky
That happy-go-lucky
That colorful Cardinal team.
To the umpire, to the umpire
See 'em rally 'round him and rave
They are child-like, but they're wild-like
Over some decision he gave
Hear 'em rave, hear 'em rave, hear 'em rave, hear 'em rave.

Lift your lids to the Card'nal stars
To Frankie Frisch and his crew
All the kids and their Pa's and Ma's
Are cheering 'em, cheering 'em
Some of them jeering 'em
All of them steering 'em on to victory
With their pluck and their mad slam bang
They're baseball's cream de la cream
Here's good luck to the Gas House Gang
The pride of Saint Louey
They'll never go blooey
That Colorful Cardinal Team.

KIRKWOOD TRACK TEAM SCORES 24 POINTS TO WIN HERRIN RELAYS

Kirkwood High cinder team captured first place in the eleventh annual Herrin (Ill.) Relays when the Missouri team scored 24 points in the meet held under floodlights last night. West Frankfort and Marion tied for second with 22 points while other results are Anna-Jonesboro (Ill.) 16; Cairo (Ill.) and Pinckeyville (Mo.), 11; Alton (Ill.) and Benton (Ill.), 10.

BEAUMONT AND CLEVELAND WIN, TIE FOR PUBLIC LEAGUE LEAD

Beaumont and Cleveland gained the lead in the Public High School Baseball League yesterday afternoon, each now having two victories. Beaumont trounced McKinley by the overwhelming score of 18 to 3, while Cleveland won from Roosevelt, 2 to 1. In the other game of the tripleheader at the Public Schools Stadium Blewett defeated Soldan, 10 to 5.

The Roosevelt-Cleveland game was a pitchers' duel between Augie Gross, the Carondeleters' wiry southpaw, and Sheldon Bender, the Rough Riders' regular shortstop, who was drafted for hurling duty.

The victory was the second for Gross. The Cleveland left-hander, who limited Soldan to two hits last week, was again in a stingy mood, being touched for only five hits. He also struck out eight.

A base on balls to Trojanoski and Pitcher Gross' long double gave Cleveland its second and winning run in the third inning.

The second game was loosely played, Soldan erring seven times and Blewett bobbling on three occasions.

Soldan grabbed an early lead, but the advantage was short-lived. The Brown and Gold tallied twice in the second inning. Blewett, however, came back with three runs in its half of the same inning and was never headed thereafter.

Led by Leftfielder Dan Jostedt, whose four hits, one of which was a home run, accounted for five runs, the Blue Jackets belabored the offerings of three McKinley pitchers for 14 hits in the finale.

For three innings the game was close, Beaumont leading only 3-2 at the end of that time. Then First Baseman Val Rayne sewed up the verdict for the North Siders in the fourth inning when he tripled to center with the bases loaded.

Ford Frick Includes Reds Among His Flag Contenders

By Ford Frick,
President of the National League.

NEW YORK, April 17.—It looks like a wide-open race in the National League this season.

Most of the baseball experts predict four clubs will battle it out for the pennant. I am going a bit further and give five clubs a chance.

To the champion New York Giants, the St. Louis Cardinals, the Chicago Cubs and the Pittsburgh Pirates, who made up the first division last year, I am going to add the Cincinnati Reds as pennant possibilities.

The Reds are young, ambitious and full of fight and hustle. Maybe they do not rate an even chance with the so-called "big four," but you cannot count them out—I can't, at any rate.

It looks like a year in which anything can happen. All of the five clubs in my pennant book are stronger than last season, but they have their weaknesses, too. These add to the uncertainty.

The other three teams—Boston, Brooklyn and Philadelphia—have improved in spots, but hardly enough to crash their way into the upper bracket. They will have their fun trying to blast the hopes of the clubs that are contenders.

The team having the most luck may emerge the winner. An injury or two can wreck the chances of what now may shape up as the strongest outfits in the league.

No matter what the outcome, we are going to see plenty of good, fast, hard-fought baseball between now and the ringing down of the curtain next September.

Without exception, the National League clubs have returned to their home bases from the training grind in excellent physical condition. They will be ready to throw their full strength on the field when the umpires call "play ball" Monday and Tuesday.

Sears by L. C. Davis

Bare Facts Wanted.

L. C. McEvoy, in charge of American League broadcasting, has warned all announcers to refrain from editorial comment. All they have to do is call 'em as the umpire sees 'em, let the gyps fall where they may.

THEYRE not to take a running jump,
And land with both feet on the ump
And say, "It looks from here
As though his nibs had booted one,
He shouldn't have allowed that run—"
(Drink Steiner's summer beer.)

"Oh, boy! Was that home run a beaut—
Tut! tut! too bad, another boot!
A foul, the ump decrees.

An alibi is no excuse
For being blind, but what's the use?—
(Eat Taft's limburger cheese).

"Well, folks, I guess it's in the bag—
What's that? You say he didn't tag
That guy at second base!
Well, of all the goofs I've ever met—(Drink Steiner's beer and don't forget
To buy it by the case)."

The Weak Spot.

Jack Kearns publicity envelopes read: "Don't be afraid to open this, it's not a bill." Indicating that the old boy still has his finger on the public pulse.

The "Doc" may have his faults, but the lack of a keen insight into the workings of the human mind isn't one of them.

"Doc" has opened a lot of mail in his time and knows the difference between "enclose please" and "please remit."

HOORAY, hooray, for Bordray!
The fans who came to see
Resolved when seeing Frenchy
To stick around and cheer.

Although he sported a goatee
On Brooklyn's baseball lots
The Redbird fans may live to see
The leopard change his spots.

1000 Times No.

At that Bob Feller got a break when the Red Sox didn't get a chance to buy him. Can you imagine the cultured clientele living on the dexter side of the railroad tracks in Boston calling him anything but Fellow?

A grasshopper's ear is in its stomach—Believe it or not.

When Br'er Grasshopper's hopping around.

You'll find him keeping his ear to the ground.

Ask Uncle Dudley.

Dear Uncle Dudley.—What is the difference between a magnate and a magnet?—A. P. Yorick.

It varies according to the drawing power of the magnet. There have been cases where the difference between the magnet and magnate has been as high as $25,000 in favor of the magnet. But it doesn't get it.—U. D.

What Delayed Him?

April 8 was Harry Kelly day in Memphis when the citizens honored Parkin, Ark., presenter. Harry with a traveling bag. If they had given it to him 10 years ago he might have moved up sooner.

That is one of the peculiarities of the baseball fans. They don't give a guy a traveling bag until after he arrives.

Browns Beat Cardinals, 17-5, in Series Opener

the runners and Vosmik scored Knott and Knickerbocker with a single to center. Bell singled, Hornsby doubled two more runs over the plate and when Clift doubled, scoring Hornsby, the Cardinals gathered mournfully around Paul Dean, Ryba was called in from the bull pen and Paul, a sad young man, trudged to the dug-out.

Welland Bombarded.

The only run off Ryba was Clift's four-bagger into the left-center field seats in the seventh, but when Welland went to the hill in the eighth, the Browns went to work again. With one out, Allen singled to center and Welland then walked Vosmik, Bell and Hornsby. Clift then hit his second homer into the left field bleachers, driving in three runners ahead of him. Bottomley was hit by a pitched ball and Davis, running for Sunny Jim, was forced at second on Hemsley's grounder, after which Rollie scored from first on pinch hitter Lipscomb's double to left-center.

In the ninth singles by Vosmik, Bell, Clift and Hemsley, with a base on balls to Davis, accounted for three more Brownie runs.

Knickerbocker and Vosmik made a pleasing bow in their new uniforms, each getting three hits. Allen played an excellent game in center field and contributed a single.

Jimmy Brown, the new Cardinal third baseman, went hitless, but Bordagaray, whose hitting enabled him to crowd Terry Moore to the bench, made a single, double and triple to lead the Cardinal attack.

Don Padgett, outfielder from Columbus, who got his chance when Pepper Martin reported with a rheumatic knee, went hitless in three trips to the plate.

The Rajah Sparkles.

Hornsby, making a surprise comeback as the Brownie second baseman, made one sparkling play in the field. With Medwick on first base in the second inning, Mize hit a hot grounder toward second. The Rajah made a diving stop and the crowd gave him a cheer when he made a throw from a reclining position to get a force play at second base.

The Rajah also showed that time has not dimmed his batting eye. He doubled to left in the second inning, hit to right for two bases in the fifth and finished with a .500 batting average for the day. He struck out in the first inning with runners on second and third and popped to the second baseman on his other trip to the plate.

It was a good show for the customers, especially for those who like plenty of action. And the victory for the underdog Brownies was received with spirited applause.

Series Notes.

Ray Harrell and Bill McGee will pitch for the Cardinals in the second and final spring series game this afternoon. Jim Walkup will start for the Browns. Play will start at 2:30 o'clock.

Jim Palermo, the Brownie batboy, was among the missing as the series started. Several days ago he was informed that he would have to undergo an operation for appendicitis. However, he refused to go to the hospital until Hornsby returned with the Browns and assured Jimmy, over the telephone, that the trip to the hospital would not cost him his job as bat boy.

Jim Kelly, announcer, was not so fortunate. A new arrangement of announcing lineups from a radio booth left Kelly out of a job.

It Had to Come.

First Ladies' day of the year was announced by the Browns for Thursday.

The Browns, who wore their gray traveling uniforms in the series opener, will be the home team this afternoon.

It was a fine day for baseball and the bleacher customers turned out in large numbers, comfortably filling the sun seats.

Jim Bottomley retired after being hit on the right shoulder by a pitched ball in the eighth inning. Harry Davis ran for him and played the rest of the game at first base.

WHITBREAD-MANION GOLF TEAM OPPOSES SOLOMAN AND SWITZER

Elliott Whitbread and Jimmy Manion will start with a one-up advantage over Sid Soloman and Joe Switzer when they resume this morning their series of 36-hole golf matches. Two rounds will be played over the Sunset Hills course, the morning round opening at 9:30 and the afternoon set at 1:30.

The public is invited to view the match, the second part of a series of five. Last Sunday's competition was held at Meadowbrook.

CECIL TRAVIS SPIKED AS SENATORS LOSE

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Washington's Senators came to the end of a three-in-a-row exhibition ball game winning streak today when the Baltimore Orioles beat them with a 4-2 score.

Eight hits off Jimmy Deshong and four errors in the field by the Senators helped give the game to the International Leaguers.

Cecil Travis, Washington shortstop, was spiked above the right knee while making a putout at second.

Municipal Soccer Champions Play in Kansas City Today

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 17. ST. LOUIS' Municipal Soccer League champions, the Stag Beers, will attempt to maintain St. Louis' claim to the Missouri championship by defeating the all-star eleven of Kansas City's Industrial League here today.

After having come through a difficult elimination series in fine shape, the St. Louis team is prepared to show Kansas City fans a neat short-passing game as well as a good defense.

Last season the St. Louis champions visited Detroit where they lost by a big score.

TEXAS ATHLETE SETS NEW JAVELIN MARK AT KANSAS RELAYS

was going about the business of all but cornering the first places in the university relay events.

The Hoosiers won the half-mile, the two-mile, the one-mile team race, the distance medley and the one-mile relay, in addition to Deckard's individual prize in the steeplechase. They did not enter any other events.

Deckard and Lash, a pair of iron men, were the shining lights of the sturdy Indiana squad. Lash participated in three races, and his sprint finish in the mile team race, in which he placed second to Deckard, was one of the prettiest sights of the day.

Thrilling Race.

One of the most thrilling races to the estimated 10,000 spectators who sat under hazy skies to watch the fifteenth annual running of the relays, was the university distance medley relay.

Kohl, Drake's half miler, running the second hitch, had picked up a big lead on the field. Smith, dusky Indiana Hoosier running the three-quarter mile on the third leg, closed the gap about 40 yards, but when he handed the baton to Lash for the anchor mile, he still was 30 yards in the rear.

Gradually Lash closed the gap on Feiler, Drake's anchor man, and with a great finishing burst, passed the Iowan on the home stretch to win going away by 15 yards.

W. P. A. COLLEGE NINE TO PLAY THREE GAMES

Cleveland, Central and Soldan High baseball teams will meet W P A Freshman College at baseball this week. The collegians play at Cleveland tomorrow afternoon and will meet Central and Soldan on Wednesday and Thursday, respectively, at Public Schools Stadium.

SOCCER TEAMS WILL MEET IN BENEFIT GAMES

Soccer teams representing four sections of the metropolitan area: Carondelet, Fairground, Sherman Park and University City, meet in a double header program at Fairground Park this afternoon, hoping to raise some funds for the Soccer Players' Benevolent Association.

The Zeltman team, champions of the University City Municipal Soccer League, opposes the Irish Village, one of the six clubs engaged in the Fairground-Sherman group of the St. Louis Municipal League. In a preliminary match, Parks Norge, runners-up in the Carondelet Division, face St. Edwards, champions of Sherman Park. Play will start at 2 p. m. There will be an admission charge of 25 cents to help defray expenses incurred in caring for injured players.

Chairman John Duggan of the Benevolent Association reports that the group assisted in paying the bills of five hospital cases in addition to numerous others, less serious.

All-Star Rugby Team to Oppose Chicago Today

A St. Louis all-star rugby team, drawn from three teams composing the Missouri Rugby Football Union here, will play its second of a three-game series with the Chicago Union club this afternoon at the drill grounds in Forest Park, starting at 2:30 o'clock.

The St. Louis team was beaten at Chicago last Sunday by the overwhelming score of 24 to 0. Today, many of the stronger players of the league, who could not go to Chicago, will be in the St. Louis lineup.

W. U. GOLFERS SWAMP KENTUCKY U., 17 1-2-1-2, AT NORMANDIE COURSE

The Washington University golf team swamped the links troupe from the University of Kentucky at Lexington when the Bears won out yesterday, 17½ to ½, in a series of matches played at the Normandie Golf Club.

Capt. Jim Black of the Bears won 3 points from Jack Mahoney, Black winning the match, 4 and 3. Jonas Weiss, also taking 3 points, defeated Bane Smith. Weiss and Black won three additional points from the Kentucky twosome of Mohoney and Smith in team competition.

Tom Young, newcomer on the Washington squad, shot a 74 for the best tally registered and took 3 points from Bob Thaxton. George Stamm was credited with 2½ points in his match with Bill Adams, the latter winning his team's sole half marker. Stamm and Young took the remaining 3 points as a result of their winning the two-man match from Thaxton and Adams.

U. CITY MUNY LEAGUE WANTS BASEBALL CLUB; HELLRUNGS DROP OUT

University City's Municipal Baseball League has an opening for one club to take the place of the champion Hellrung & Grimm team, which will not enter the competition this season. Vince Lanigan, at CHestnut 4700, president of the league, or Andy Taylor, secretary, at CEntral 4892, will accept entries. The league plays a split season of 18 games on Sunday afternoons at Heman Park on Olive Street road.

Hartnett Is Still Ailing; Cubs Buy Coast Receiver

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 17. THE Chicago Cubs today purchased Johnny Bottarini, catcher, from the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast League. He will arrive by plane tomorrow with Newell Kimball, a right-handed pitcher, returned to the Cubs by the Angels.

Bottarini will assist Kenneth O'Dea in relieving "Gabby" Hartnett, who is ailing from a sore shoulder.

P.G.A. Abandons Radix Cup Now Held by Guldahl

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 17.—Harry E. Radix, donor of the Radix Cup awarded the professional golfer with the low scoring average of the year, announced tonight he has been notified of the abandonment of the trophy by the Professional Golfers Association.

Radix, former president of the Chicago District Golf Association, said he received a letter from the P. G. A. president, George R. Jacobus, informing him the association would continue to compile yearly scoring records and would itself purchase and award to the low average player what will be known as the "Harry Vardon Memorial Trophy."

Jacobus said the P. G. A. tournament committee "has gone on record as appreciating your interest in and co-operation given the playing professionals and wishes you to know it is making the change because it feels it is proper and for the best interests of the organization."

Ralph Guldahl, St. Louis, is the present holder of the Radix Cup, having succeeded Paul Runyan, the 1935 winner. The award was made to Guldahl after a controversy which goes from the fact he was not a member of the P. G. A. at the time. A final ruling was based on the fact the cup had been donated as an award to the "Professional Golfer," without other qualification.

Frank Walsh, Chicago member of the P. G. A. tourney committee, said the announcement came as a surprise to him. Radix had no comment other than the action relieved him "of a growing embarrassment to the award being drawn into association politics."

GULDAHL NAMED AS ONE OF ALTERNATES FOR RYDER CUP TEAM

BOSTON, April 17. — George R. Jacobus, president of the Professional Golfers' Association, has named 13 alternates from which four vacant places in the United States Ryder Cup team will be filled.

The list: Harold McSpaden, Winchester; Craig Wood, New York; Ralph Guldahl, St. Louis; Byron Nelson, Reading, Pa.; Victor Ghezzi, Deal, N. J.; Jimmy Hines, Long Island; Olin Dutra, Santa Monica, Cal.; Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y.; Dick Metz, Chicago; Ed Dudley and Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs; Ray Mangrum, Oakmont, Pa., and Ky Laffoon, Chicago.

Top six team members, already named, are Denny Shute, West Newton; Tony Manero, Salem; Horton Smith, Chicago; Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa.; Johnny Revolta, Evanston, Ill., and Gene Sarazen, East Brookfield, Mass.

The four additional players will be chosen on a basis of medal play in the first two rounds of the P. G. A. championship at Oakmont and the four rounds of the United States open.

KANSAS CITY NEGRO TEAM WILL FIGHT HERE ON APRIL 26

A Kansas City Negro boxing team, containing champions of the Kansas City Star Golden Gloves tourney and two stars of the National A. A. U. tourney just concluded in Boston, will meet local Golden Glove stars in an inter-city match at the Pine Street Y. M. C. A., 2848 Pine, Monday night, April 26. Last year Kansas City and St. Louis broke even in the inter-city matches.

The stars of Kansas City teams are Charles Neaves, heavyweight; Louis Jackson, light heavyweight; Johnny Gordon, middleweight; and Jack Simmons, bantamweight. The first three are Kansas City Star Golden Gloves champions, while Neaves and Simmons fought in the National A. A. U. championships.

The St. Louis squad will have the pick of local amateur stars, Clarence Jones, James Weaver or Quincy Troupe, Nathan Logan, Matthew Harrison, Richard Wells, Felix Mitchell and Charles O'Kelly.

DICK KEARNS, COLORADO, WINS DECATHLON AT KANSAS GAMES

By the Associated Press.

LAWRENCE, Kan., April 17.—Dick Kearns, University of Colorado athlete, won the Kansas relay decathlon today with a total of 6484 points, 1002 points less than the record—breaking point total of Glenn Morris, another Coloradoan, last year; Bill Hemphill of Kansas State College was second with 6031 points.

The other contenders finished in the following order: Alex Cain, Arkansas City, Kan., 6016 points; Charles Pitts, University of Kansas, 5846 points; Henry Mahley, University of Missouri, 5784 points; Howard Bearce, University of Missouri, 5783 points; Ell Cain, Arkansas City, 5451 points; Sam Allen, Bristow, Ok., 5423 points, and William Lewis, Tipton, Mo., 5274 points. Charles Whitacre of Ottawa, Kan., withdrew at the end of the five events yesterday.

It was apparent at the close of yesterday's competition that Morris' record would not be perilled. Kearns held the lead at that time with 3575 points, with Lewis in second place with 3486 points.

Kearns turned in best performances in the shotput and discus throw, tied for first in the 110-meter hurdles and pole vault, was third in the broad jump and tied for third in the high jump, was fourth in the 100-meter run and javelin throw, fifth in the 400-meter run, and eighth in the 1500-meter run.

His best performance was in the 110-meter high hurdles, where he tied at :15.4 for best time with Sam Allen, the former Oklahoma Baptist high hurdling ace who holds the meter record for the :14.5 for the 120-yard sticks.

Lewis, a 17-year-old high school junior, stole a share of the spotlight when he turned in the excellent time of 4:45.3 for the 1500-meter run.

Kearns' position and record for each event:

100-meter run—Fourth, 11.1.
Broad jump—Third, 22 feet 3⅛ inches.
16-pound shot—First, 12.309 meters.
High jump—Tied for third, 1.705 meters.
400-meter run—Fifth, :53.6.
110-meter high hurdles—Tied for first, :15.4.
Discus throw—First, 114 feet 7⅝ inches.
Pole vault—Tied for first, 3.575 meters.
Javelin—Fourth, 146 feet 7¼ inches.
1500-meter run—Eighth, 5:34.

McBRIDE WINS 'TEAM' TRACK MEET, JUNIOR BILLIKENS SECOND

McBride High School's cinder athletes gathered 42 points to win a novel track meet conducted yesterday afternoon by the Preparatory League at the Western Military Academy. St. Louis U. High came in second with 36 points, C. B. C. had 35 and Western M. A. 29.

Track events were recorded in the usual manner, 5-3-2-1 points in the order the runner finished. However, in the field events the distance or height obtained by competing members of the same school were added, the winning team obtaining the highest score. The idea of the meet was to eliminate individual honors.

U. CITY HIGH NOSED OUT OF CHILLICOTHE TRACK TITLE BY 1-2 POINT

CHILLICOTHE, Mo., April 17. — University City was nosed out by St. Joseph Central 42 to 41½ as 300 high school athletes competed in the fifth annual Chillicothe Business College High School relays here this afternoon. New records were set in eight of the 14 events on the program.

Inshore Takes 'Grand National' Second Time

HEREFORD, Md., April 17.—Inshore, J. W. Y. Martin's big bay gelding, won the Grand National Point-to-Point Steeplechase today for the second consecutive year.

A fashionable crowd of 3000 saw the eight-year-old leaper take the 18 jumps over the three-mile and 60-yard course ahead of M. B. Metcalf Jr.'s Tres Bon.

Third in the thirty-eighth renewal of the event was Stuart S. Janney Jr.'s Justinian II.

The race was run over the Baltimore County estate of William R. Wittingham.

hope to win and in addition let the book have the use of your money for six months.

This is in the face of two facts—first, that there are seven other clubs in the race, two of them admittedly strong pennant hopes; and, second, that the Yanks have one star pitcher holding out and two ready for the old men's home.

The Cardinals are 8 to 5 in a race in which three rivals have an equal or even better pennant chance than the Redbirds. The Cubs, Giants and Pirates are neck and neck with the Cards in preseason outlook, with Cincinnati claiming a place right up with them.

Despite this, and the fact that the Cards have a freshman catching staff, an infield with two question marks in it, and a pitching staff of two aces and a lot of interrogation points, you still have to put up $8 to win $5!

Worse and More Of It.

THEN, too, consider the case of the Kentucky Derby. You have to blindfold your intelligence to bet on that.

It's 4 to 1 each against Pompoon, Reaping Reward and Brooklyn, in a local feature book on the Derby. We conclude that, in the estimation of the bookmaker the garden variety of simp would be man of wisdom by comparison with the race horse backer.

And if at the prices quoted three weeks before the race the bookies can get the public to put down its money on those three horses, two of which have not been to the races this year and all of which are still unproved in distance races you'll have to admit the one born every minute theory is still sound.

Reaping Reward, one of the 4 to 1 shots, was considered unfit to start in the Texas Derby at Arlington Downs yesterday, and it is a long way from 4 to 1 that he will even go to the post. The chances are good that any or all of the three will command as good a price on the day of the race as they do now.

Future book operators don't pretend that the figures represent the actual merits of the horses quoted or that they represent an equitable bet. Their prices are governed by the volume of money played on various eligibles.

This 4 to 1 against Reaping Reward means the book is overloaded with money on this performer. The operator cut the odds to divert play to other candidates and thus level up his book.

The day when future book operators GAMBLE on the Derby passed out with the victory of Black Gold in 1924, when all but two bookies were forced to the wall after several others had "welshed."

A future book today is as close to a sure thing as it is humanly possible to make it.

The End in Sight.

WE'LL know the fate of the Braddock - Louis-Schmeling controversy this week. A Federal judge in New York will hand down his decision in Madison Square Garden's injunction case.

Whether Braddock will have to fulfill his engagement to meet Schmeling June 3 at Long Island Bowl, or will be permitted to sidestep this bout and face Louis in Chicago, later the same month, is the point at issue.

Both sides believe victory is "in the bag"—and therefore the issue is wide open.

As far as Mr. Tran and his tribe are concerned, a majority of persons this writer has consulted favor Braddock keeping his engagement with Schmeling first and then, if he is still champion, sending him against Louis.

Obviously some conniving has taken place. When Schmeling disposed by knock out of the Negro fighter, he became immediately the logical opponent of the champion. Every other candidate had been eliminated and none so convincingly as Max disposed of Louis.

To bring back Louis against the champion, before Schmeling had his chance, is evidence in itself that something has been going on underground. Threats of boycott do not adequately explain it for the Schmeling-Braddock fight could have been taken to Chicago as readily as the Braddock-Louis event and been safe from anti-Nazi complications.

The several endeavors to ditch the Schmeling-Braddock engagement, which twice has been under contracts and twice has been repudiated, place Braddock in a very unfortunate light with fair-minded sports. Rightly or wrongly, fans have come to believe that Braddock, fearing his inability to beat Schmeling, chose to take the bout which would net the most money, even though he had to violate an agreement.

Racing Still Uncertain.

WHEN Colorado's Legislature voted for racing recently, the Texas law-makers were still pondering whether to repeal the existing law legalizing mutuel betting.

The race meeting at Alamo Downs, San Antonio, has been saddled with the blame because of the tricky conduct of the meeting and the smelly atmosphere surrounding the races.

At one time during the meet it was closed down for three or four days—then resumed. Attendance was poor, betting light and the races awful, reports said. Merchants complained both at San Antonio and at Houston that when racing came to town, bills went unpaid.

The meeting now in progress at Arlington Downs is quite different. A healthier atmosphere prevails at the Waggoner course where high class owners, horses and jockeys are found and where the racing is more satisfactorily conducted.

The reform measure is backed by Gov. Allred but thus far attempts to force a showdown have been defeated by those opposing repeal.

The outlook now is that pressure of more important bills ahead of the racing repeal measure, will delay action until the legislative session has closed.

SEABISCUIT, WITH TOP WEIGHT, WINS MARCHBANK HANDICA

GRAND MANITOU AND SOBRIETY ARE BEATEN IN $10,000 EVENT

Crowd of 25,000 at Tanforan Closing Sees Winner, Bought for $8000, Take $8200 Purse.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17. — Seabiscuit, owned by Charles Howard of San Francisco, won the $20,000 added Marchbank handicap by three lengths over Grand Manitou and Sobriety today. The time for the mile and one-eighth was 1.48 4-5.

Seabiscuit took the lead at the start and set the pace all the way to gallop home the winner over the French Invader, Grand Manitou, owned by Raoul Walsh of Hollywood, and Sobriety of the Hunt, Beezley and Boeing stable.

A Great Crowd.

More than 25,000 persons, the largest crowd to witness a horse race in Northern California, attended the closing program of the 25-day Tanforan meeting.

The flashy four-year-old son of Hard Tack and Wing On, carrying the top weight of 124 pounds in a field of seven, turned in a brilliant performance under the riding of Jockey Jack Pollard.

Seabiscuit earned $8200 for his owner and paid $2.80 straight, $3.00 to place and $2.80 to show in the mutuels.

Grand Manitou paid $11 to place and $8.20 to show, while Sobriety paid $7.40.

Seabiscuit was purchased last August for $8000 from the Wheatley stables in New York. He won two stakes at Bay Meadows last fall, was beaten by a nose by Rosemont in the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap, and then won the San Juan Capistrano handicap, closing feature at Santa Anita, in track record time.

Fail to Come Through.

Special Agent and Indian Broom which ran as the A. C. T. Stock Farm entry, were expected to furnish the main competition today. Special Agent could never get to the front and finished fourth. Indian Broom lost valuable ground when he stumbled in close quarters at the start and nearly fell. He finished last.

MARS SHIELD WINS THE TEXAS DERBY BEFORE 25,000 CROWD

D's colt, under strong urging, jumped into a two-length lead as the first turn was reached.

Far behind, in sixth position, raced Mars Shield. Heelfly continued to set the pace, leading by a full two lengths until the stretch was reached. Mars Shield made her sudden bid passing three horses to move up on the favorite.

At the sixteenth Mars Shield bobbed out in front and she was slowly going away at the wire. In third position, two lengths back of Heelfly, was Mrs. V. Wyse's Eastport.

One week ago today Mars Shield beat out Heelfly for the place position in a Texas Derby trial run which was won by Robert L. Bedford Stock Farms' surprise outsider, which finished far in the rear today.

Wagers on the Milky Way speedster, which, incidentally gave the stable two consecutive Texas Derby triumphs, gained $6.70, $3.50 and $2.90. Heelfly paid $3.20 and $2.80, and Eastport returned $3.30.

Mars Shield, a fair juvenile last year, came to Texas after winning two of her four starts at Santa Anita in California. She first came into prominence when she worked a dazzling nine furlongs with Reaping Reward, her stablemate and a hot favorite for the Kentucky Derby.

Mutuel players dumped $45,203 into the betting window on the Derby race.

WAGNER GETS WINNING RUN AS CHAMINADE BEATS BURROUGHS, 6-3

Chaminade handed the John Burroughs' nine its second straight setback in two days when scoring a 6-3 triumph yesterday on the Chaminade diamond.

A three-run rally in the last half of the sixth inning aided the Chaminade team to win. McLain started the rally when he went to first on a fielder's choice. Buddy went to first and McLain to second on an error by Peden. An error by Doughty scored McLain and advanced Buddy to second and Bill Wagner on first. A single by Williams scored Buddy. The last score of the game was made by Wagner when scoring on Hensgen's single.

WHOPPER WINS, COLUMBIANA IS FIFTH AT HAVRE

By the Associated Press.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 17.—Hal Price Headley's giant bay horse, Whopper, withstood a rousing stretch challenge by Araho Stable's New Deal today to win the mile and a sixteenth Philadelphia Handicap in a photo finish. Townsend B. Martin's White Cockade was third, a length behind New Deal.

J. W. Y. Martin's Dark Hope was fourth.

W. J. Hirsch's filly, Columbiana, winner of the 1ca Widener Challenge Cup at Hialeah and the favorite in the getting, could do no better than fifth, four lengths ahead of Mrs. E. Denemark's Chance Ray.

A crowd of 25,000 bet upwards of $600,000 on the seven races and bet a high mark for the season in Maryland for both attendance and mutuel handle.

$7500 of State Athletic Funds Went to Bands

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, April 17.—Total receipts for 1935 and 1936 of $47,438.49 and a balance on hand of $2366.11 are shown in Chairman Garrett L. Smalley's biennial report of the Missouri Athletic Commission.

The report, released today, reveals the commission's expenditures were $31,523.40. The balance on hand Jan. 1, 1935, was $1631.02, leaving total cash surplus of $17,546.11.

Of this surplus, $4800 went for salaries of state service officers; $2880 was disbursed by the state service officers for operating expenses, and the balance, except for the $2366.11 on hand, about $7500 went to the bands and drum corps of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The distribution of $15,180 of the surplus was made by the state.

Expenditures by the commission included $8100 for salaries of the commission; $14,000 for employes' salaries; $500 for additions and repairs; $8000 for operating expenses and $923.40 to cover a 1936 appropriation deficiency.

BUDWEISERS ROLL HIGHEST 3-GAME SCORE OF LEAGUE SEASON

The Budweisers scored the highest three-game total of the Classic Traveling League season last night when they rolled 3342 in defeating the Silver Seals, who scored 3067, at Heidel's. The victory placed the Buds in a tie with the Seals for first place.

The Budweisers had games of 1029, 1106 and 1201. Harold Schaefer bowled 740 and Art Scheer 722 for the Buds.

In the other matches the Flowers beat the Hermanns, 3096 to 2956, and the Witeks defeated Plantation, 3131 to 2825.

E. ST. LOUIS FIVE ROLLS 2781 IN A. B. C.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Stroh's Bohemians, an all-star Detroit team, opened the week-end attack of famous keglers in the American Bowling Congress tournament tonight by rolling into sixth place in the five-man standings. The Detroiters hung up a total of 3033. The Bohemians were A. B. C. champions in 1934, when they scored 3089 at Peoria, Ill., and last year they finished only six pins behind the Heils quintet of Milwaukee when that team won the international championship at Berlin. Tonight they recorded games of 999, 1070 and 964.

ALCANTER READY FOR BEAUHULD; LEWIS TO FIGHT ED MADER HERE

By W. J. McGoogan.

Billy Beauhuld and Joe Alcanter, Kansas City Mexican, are just finishing their training for their 10-round contest at the Coliseum Tuesday, as Larry Atkins, matchmaker for the Fred W. Stockham Post of the American Legion, announces a ground bout for his next Auditorium card, May 4, between John Henry Lewis, light heavyweight champion of the world, and Eddie Mader, New York.

Beauhuld and Alcanter are to go 10 rounds at 135 pounds and both boxers declare they are under that limit now. Beauhuld is ranked the fourth lightweight challenger for Lou Ambers' crown and it will be the first time the St. Louis youngster has appeared in his home town since last November.

Injury Has Healed.

Alcanter suffered a technical knockout at the hands of Henry Armstrong on his last appearance here and since then has done little, but the injury he suffered in his meeting with Armstrong, a cracked cheekbone, has healed now and he is ready to go again.

In addition to that bout, Frank Hughes, Fort Wayne, Ind., is to box Scotty McLean, Peoria, 10 rounds at the 147-pound class; Young Simington, Poplar Bluff, meets Paul Lee, Indianapolis, in a 10-rounder at 127 pounds, while Bill Stanley, St. Louis Negro, opposes Rode Collins, Poplar Bluff, 10 rounds at 135 pounds.

Jack Callahan is the matchmaker for the Navy Post which is sponsoring the Coliseum card.

Beauhuld wants to make a good showing with Alcanter as upon his performance here will depend to some extent his chance for a match with Armstrong in Madison Square Garden, a bout which has been in the making since Armstrong defeated Aldo Spoldi after Beauhuld had fought Spoldi to a draw.

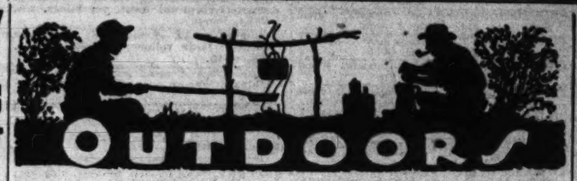
Beauhuld Undefeated.

Billy has the needed confidence now and sufficient experience to cause him to feel that he is ready to try out all the topnotchers in the 135-pound division. He has been undefeated in 36 professional bouts, winning 32 and boxing four draws.

Mader is one of the best if not the best boxer who has fought Lewis in a St. Louis ring. The champion has won five contests here since defeating Bob Olin for the championship. He also won from Al Stillman, Eddie Simms, Tony Shucco, George Nichols and Reds Barry.

Mader is a youngster, 23 years of age who is six feet, 1-inch tall. He weighs normally about 190 pounds but can make the 175-pound limit and may get a title match with Lewis if he does well here.

Atkins announced also that there would be three other 10-round bouts, one of which, in addition to the Lewis-Mader go would be a mixed bout. Atkins said Commissioner Garrett Smalley advised him to limit matches on cards in the future to one mixed match but that he permitted him two on his forthcoming card because he had already signed tentatively fo rthe boxers.



Watch Your Step!

After a slow start the fishing season seems to be getting under full steam. Good catches have been reported in Current River, Lake of the Ozarks, the upper Meramec and certain parts of Reelfoot Lake, Tennessee. Undoubtedly full creels have been taken throughout the State since the weather has been ideal and the streams have had ample time to clear.

A number of Missouri fishermen have tangled with the law at the Lake of the Ozarks. Especially stringent enforcement has been ordered by Charles Fleetwood, one of the Lake wardens. Numerous arrests have been made for illegal fishing; lack of license and the taking and selling of fish illegally. One of the most severe penalties meted out to date which was brought to our attention was given a fish bootlegger who pleaded guilty and was sentenced to six months at hard work.

Rather tough but in the long run dividends will be paid to the deserving. Laws were made for a reason.

Dough Bait Recipe.

Several requests have come in for dough bait recipes and where they are best used. This bait is best suited for carp and catfish but can be used for other fresh water fish when necessary.

Either ordinary kitchen flour or bean flour can be used and should be placed in a pan with sugar and then moistened enough to become pasty. Shreds of cotton, stirred around with the paste adds nothing to the temptingness of the bait but will keep it on the hook for a longer period. Sweet potatoes are often used in place of the cotton. White meat is also sometimes added as a further flavoring but for the most part it is not considered so good.

"Trip" License Fees.

Thirty-three states now have a "tourist" or "trip" fishing license for periods ranging from a day to a month. This gives non-residents an opportunity to wet a line in another state during the coming vacation period. A few of those most frequented by Missourians are as follows:

Arkansas — — 15 days	$1.10
Iowa — — — 6 days	1.00
Michigan — — —10 days	1.00
North Carolina 1 day	1.10
Tennessee — — 5 days	1.00

This is only a part of the list as prepared by the United States Department of Commerce but some states, such as Colorado and Minnesota have no "tourist" license and the regular non-resident permit must be obtained.

What Price Casting Reels?

Breems Forrest, fishing editor of Hunting and Fishing, answers a question which probably confronts many ambitious anglers with limited means. What kind of a casting reel should be chosen when the pocketbook and budget say only an expensive one?

Mr. Forrest is emphatic that the purchaser should get the very best reel his budget will allow, because a good casting reel is a necessity for this type of fishing and also because the prices of reels are sure to rise. At the present the reels are about three times the VALUE of those of the same price reels marketed five years ago. Any good reel of $5 or more, which is manufactured by one of the leading companies is a bargain. It is suggested that a reel with a light spool will be better than those of a heavy spool that will spin for a long time with a mere flick of the thumb. The reel should be one that is capable of holding 100 yards of 12-pound-test line.

Reels costing $15 or more are very popular and are to be preferred in all cases except where the pocketbook just won't stretch.

Fly-Rod Reels.

Many of the modern fly-rod reels are much too light. In fact, 90 per cent of American-made fly-rod reels are not heavy enough, experts believe. If the rod weighs five ounces the reel should weigh six, or preferably seven.

"Actually, fishing writers are to blame," says Forrest, "because for years they have been saying that the reel in fly-fishing doesn't matter. It matters plenty . . . unless you don't care about balance and have a wrist like a blacksmith."

Best Trapshots in Midwest.

According to Ray Loring, manager of the Amateur Trapshooting Association in Vandalia, O., there is more dispute over the abilities of men from certain sections who toe the 16-yard firing line than there is between the Midwest, Pacific, East and Southwest over the selection of Rose Bowl opponents.

After making a careful study of the situation as it applies to clay-busters, Loring concludes that the mid-West turns out the best shots, year-in-and-year-out. Starting off in the '80's with Fred Kimble, who attained great heights as a young Peoria, Illinois, crack-shot and ending up in 1937 with Hale Jones of Woodriver, Illinois, who won high-average trapshooting honors for the nation in 1936, Loring has made a thorough study and report. Kimble was also deemed by many to be the greatest wingshot of all time.

Others from the mid-West area are Fred Gilbert, the wizard of Spirit Lake, Iowa; the invincible Bill Crosby of O'Fallon, Illinois, and the famous Mark Arie of Champaign, Ill. Today, Joe Heistand, Hillsboro, Ohio, farmer, is considered by many as the greatest of the greats.

GOLFERS BEGIN PLAY THURSDAY AT NORWOOD

A handicap tournament, the first of the 1937 season, will usher in amateur golf in the St. Louis district Thursday when the event is scheduled to be played at Norwood Hills Country Club. As usual, the entry fee will be $1.50 and the handicaps will be those which the players have, based on their play of last season.

Corny Schnecko, chairman of the Handicap Tournament Committee, has rated all the golfers belonging to the association on the basis of their play in medal events during 1936.

Four tied with an average of 73 each and all played in four or five rounds. They are Bob Cochran, Norwood; Tom Draper Jr., Normandie; Joe Switzer, Sunset, and Les Slattery, Meadow Brook. They are figured at a handicap of two strokes, as is Jim Manion, Meadow Brook, and Lou Fehlig, Westborough, each of whom had an average of 74 last season, although Fehlig was credited with only one round and Manion three.

At an average of 75 and given a handicap of three are Frank Bredall, Woodlawn; Elliott Whitbread, Westborough, district champion; Paul Jamison Jr., Glen Echo, and a member of the Yale University golf team, and Junior Brown of the Missouri School of Mines, Rolla.

Dr. C. P. Leydecker, Norwood Hills, who is credited with seven rounds, as many as anyone else in last season's competition, had an average of 76, together with Sid Salomon Jr., Westwood, and Bill Bentley, Forest Park. They have a handicap of 4 each.

Harridge Will Be Speaker at Baseball Dinner

More than 600 baseball fans of St. Louis and neighboring cities in Missouri, Illinois and Kentucky are expected to attend the annual baseball dinner to be given at 7 o'clock tomorrow night at the Chase Hotel by the Chamber of Commerce in honor of the Cardinals and Browns on the eve of the opening of the big league season in St. Louis.

Sharing honors with the officials and players of the St. Louis teams will be the officials and players of the Chicago White Sox, who will meet the Browns Tuesday in Sportsman's Park in the opening of the 1937 season here.

President William Harridge of the American League will be present and one of the speakers. Talks will also be made by officials and players of the three clubs, including Managers Frankie Frisch, Rogers Hornsby and Jimmy Dykes.

STUDENTS SENSE THEIR MARKS FROM PROFESSOR'S SCENTS

Chemist Makes Sweet Papers Smell That Way, Others Less So in Degree.

By the Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 17. — Prof. John Madigan quit fussing about the low marks in his physics class and did a little fuming. Instead of marking, he scented the examination papers of his pupils at St. Thomas College with chemicals. Result: A 30 per cent improvement in grades.

Prof. Madigan sprinkled those which were satisfactory with attar of roses, those not so good with hydrogen sulphide and complete failures with butyric acid. The students, on reporting to class, were told to look for their papers in three jars.

"They generally started with the jar smelling of attar of roses," the professor said today. "Not finding them there, they moved to the hydrogen sulphide jar, which smells like rotten eggs. The real blow came to those who had to delve into the butyric acid jar. This was the smell of rancid butter, with a peculiar, sickening and clinging effect.

"It wasn't necessary to tell them whether they had passing grades," he added. "They 'sensed' that."

Prof. Madigan successfully checked tardiness, too. He rigged up a photo-electric cell across the door to the class room. Students coming in late broke the beam and a loud gong announced their late arrival.

117 SADDLE HORSES SOLD AT AUCTION FOR $69,030

Highest Single Price on Second Day, When 87 Were Disposed of, $5700.

Eighty-seven saddle horses were sold for a total of $57,690 yesterday in the annual auction of the St. Louis Horse Sale Co. at the Missouri Stables, 5200 Berthold avenue. Friday, opening day, 30 horses were sold for a total of $11,340, making total sales for the two-day auction $69,030.

The highest single price yesterday was $5700, paid by R. L. Gray of Kansas City, Mo., for Winning Ways, a chestnut mare from a stable at Bethel, Conn. The second highest price was $4100, paid by Carl Mayer of Chicago for Gold Digger, a chestnut gelding from the Bethel stables. The general average on all sales was slightly less than $600 a horse.

LAW FIRM GETS $15,000 MORE IN E. W. GROVE ESTATE CASE

Executors Consent to Fee in Addition to $10,000 Previously Paid.

A fee of $15,000 was allowed yesterday by Probate Judge Glendy B. Arnold to the law firm of Green, Henry & Remmers as counsel for the estate of Edwin W. Grove Sr. in a suit involving $2,000,000. The suit had been filed by bondholders of the Grove-Dowling Hardwood Co. for an alleged loss in bonds for which they sought to hold the Grove estate liable.

The fee is in addition to $10,000 previously paid. Consent to payment of the entire amount had been given by the executors. The suit was recently decided in favor of the estate by Circuit Judge Ryan.

Judge Arnold also allowed Jacob M. Lashly, an attorney, $5000 for his services to Mrs. Katherine Hemenway, executrix of the estate of her husband, William D. Hemenway, an insurance broker, who died two years ago. Mrs. Hemenway consented to the fee.

SALVATION ARMY'S 55TH ANNIVERSARY IN ST. LOUIS

Celebration Next Sunday With Special Program at Municipal Auditorium.

The fifty-fifth anniversary celebration of the installation in St. Louis of the Salvation Army will be commemorated next Sunday with a special program at Municipal Auditorium. General Edward J. Higgins, retired head of the Salvation Army, who, with Mrs. Higgins, will be a guest, will deliver the principal address.

The first American issue of the army's periodical, "The War Cry," was published here, and the first officers' training school, maternity home and hospital were established in St. Louis. The Salvation Army Midland Divisional Band will present a concert preceding the celebration.

LL.D. FOR MANUEL QUEZON

WASHINGTON, April 17. — Georgetown University conferred an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws tonight on President Manuel L. Quezon of the Philippine Commonwealth, characterizing him as "a tireless proponent of his people's aspirations for independence."

The very Rev. Arthur A. O'Leary, S. J., said Quezon had shown 'in word and unsparing self-sacrifice a noble ambition to present to nations of the world an excellent and imitable model of a happy and prosperous modern state."

YOUNG APOLLO CLUB FORMED TO PROMOTE GREEK CULTURE

Plan for Study by St. Louis Families of Music, Drama, Dancing, Painting.

An organization to be known as the Young Apollo Club, intended to foster cultural development among Greek families of St. Louis, was formed Thursday night at a meeting at the St. Nicholas Greek Orthodox Church, 4955 Forest Park avenue, with Nickolas Pappademetrious as president.

Plans for the club grew out of a discussion on improvement of the church choir and it was decided to form a society with a practical plan to promote culture in the Greek community, with the church choir among its activities. The club will seek improved facilities for study of vocal and instrumental music, dramatics, aesthetic dancing, sketching and painting and other artistic pursuits.

John C. Walter, president of the Music Extension Society, will be adviser to the club, which will be governed by a council composed of Pappademetrious, Philip Nanos, secretary; Charles D. Avouras, treasurer; Alexander Vappas and Spiros Siminis. Persons interested may register, free of charge, by communicating with Nanos, who resides at 4920A Page boulevard.

FUNERAL OF JOHN NASH, VETERAN CARRIAGE STARTER

Negro, 75, Who Followed Father's Calling, Served at Important Social Functions.

Funeral services for John Nash, 75-year-old Negro who had opened carriage and automobile doors for St. Louisans at social events since 1893, were held yesterday at St. Nicholas Catholic Church, 1831 Lucas avenue, with burial in Washington Park Cemetery. He died Tuesday of pneumonia.

A dignified figure in a long blue coat with shining brass buttons, Nash rarely missed a social affair of any magnitude. He served at large weddings and balls, greeting nearly all thre guests by name.

His father had been a carriage starter before him, and in 1893 Nash went to work at the same job for the old Pechmann catering company. Since 1915, when the Pechmann company went out of existence, he had been employed by Dorr & Zeller, caterers.

Nash lived at 1405 North Twenty-first street. His wife and a daughter survive.

Look at La Salle!

Worth its Cost in SAFETY Alone

EVEN if you stripped the new La Salle V-8 of its greater beauty and comfort—one factor would still remain to make it worth more than other cars of similar cost . . . LA SALLE SAFETY!

La Salle, of course, is built by Cadillac. It has Cadillac strength, Cadillac endurance, Cadillac roadability.

La Salle's brakes are big and powerful. Its steering is easy and dependable. Its body has the famous Fisher Unisteel construction.

La Salle has safety glass—a safe non-glare lighting system—an easy, quick-acting transmission. In fact, La Salle is worth the price in SAFETY ALONE.

Remember this when you buy your next car. Step on up to La Salle—and be safe in ALL ways. Look at La Salle today!

CONSTIPATED? Do As Doctors Do

This is what thousands of doctors have used and recommended

RELIEF IN 1 HOUR!

When you need a laxative, play SAFE and follow the method thousands of doctors use and recommend. For doctors, of all people, know what is best for constipation. Just listen to what they say about Pluto Water:

Dr. L. R. E. of Ohio says, "By taking Pluto Water mornings, I always stay in shape." Dr. H. A. O. of Wisconsin writes, "I not only prescribe Pluto almost daily, but use it personally." Dr. E. N. P. of Wisconsin says, "My family finds there is no substitute for Pluto."

Simply mix 1/5 of a glass of Pluto Water in 4/5 of a glass of hot water. You'll find it pleasant tasting. There's no overnight waiting. No painful griping. In 1 hour, or less, you'll get gentle YET THOROUGH RELIEF. So, when you need a laxative, be sure—take Pluto Water. Your own doctor will tell you there is nothing better than this efficient saline mineral water, bottled at famous French Lick Springs, Indiana. Get Pluto Water from your druggist. 25c, or 50c. In 1 hour you'll feel worlds better.

RESIDENCE ON S. SAPPINGTON BOUGHT BY R. F. M'CARTHY

The Curlee estate residence at 300 South Sappington road, at Monroe avenue, Glendale, in St. Louis County, has been acquired by R. F. McCarthy of 330 Stark court, Webster Groves. The purchase includes six and one-half acres of ground.

The house is of stucco on hollow tile, with red tile roof, and has every modern convenience. The first floor consists of dining room, kitchen, sunroom, screened porch and lavatory. The second floor has four master bedrooms, two baths, sitting hall and sleeping porch. There are two maids' rooms with bath on the third floor. The basement includes a game room.

The estate was acquired by the late John R. Curlee about 30 years ago from the late James L. Blair. The present house replaced the old Blair residence, destroyed by fire, 20 years ago. The acreage originally was a part of the old Meyer farm.

The present transaction was handled by Mary Potter Love, Inc. The purchase price was not disclosed.

FOREST COURT APARTMENT IS BEING ERECTED

Three-Story Structure Costing $100,000 to Be Located North of Adjoining One in Moorlands.

Construction has started on another apartment building project on the west side of Forest Court, north of Wydown boulevard, in Moorlands addition, Clayton. The project, involving approximately $100,000 has been financed by the General American Life Insurance Co. J. M. Sprague is the builder.

The new structure, three stories in height, will comprise 14 apartments—11 units, with one bed room and bath, two units, with two bedrooms and bath, and one unit, with three bedrooms and two baths. The equipment will include every modern appliance. There will be a garage for 15 cars in the basement. Modernistic in design, the building will occupy a lot 125 by 112 feet.

A 14-family structure of similar design is being built by Sprague on adjoining ground on the south in Forest Court, at an estimated cost of $110,000. This project is being financed by the J. R. Van Raalte Mortgage Co. Sprague also has acquired ground on the east side of Forest Court, north of Wydown, for which a handsome apartment structure is being designed.

As was told in last Sunday's Post-Dispatch, Lichtenstein Estates, Inc., has purchased a block of ground on the west side of Westwood drive, between Buckingham and Oxford drives, in Blue Ridge Terrace, Moorlands addition, for two 18-family apartments. These interests recently completed two buildings, each with accommodations for 18 families, one on the south side of Byron place, the other on the north side of Parkdale, east of Westwood, in Blue Ridge Terrace. These projects also were financed by the General American Life Insurance Company.

Negotiations are pending for the purchase of a pretentious duplex, recently completed in Wellington drive, between Glenwood and Westwood drives. The negotiations are being handled by the Anderson-Stocke-Buerman Real Estate Co., which financed construction of the building, erected by Jacob Rubin & Sons.

AUTO CONCERN LEASES ON S. KINGSHIGHWAY

Nash Company in Long Time Agreement for Building at 2319-25.

The Nash Co. of St. Louis has taken a long term lease on the building at 2319-25 South Kingshighway, formerly occupied by the Crosby Motors Co. Negotiations for the lease were handled by Arthur H. Fuldner, manager of the Commercial Leasing Department of the Oreon E. & R. G. Scott Real Estate Co. Rental provisions were not disclosed.

The Nash St. Louis company was recently formed by Laurence A. Miller and L. M. Sprinkler for the distribution of Nash automobiles in the St. Louis area. The building, a one and two-story structure, has a frontage of 85 feet on Kingshighway, with a depth of 171 feet, extending to the north and south alley of the block. Extensive alterations are to be made to the interior of this structure, with space made available for the parts and service department. A new front drive is to be constructed on the north side of the premises.

The company has already taken possession of the building.

EDWARD L. BAKEWELL OPENS BRANCH AT 7720 FORSYTHE

The new county branch of Edward L. Bakewell, realtor, at 7720 Forsythe boulevard was launched last week with an aggressive sales organization. It is being operated in connection with his main office, comprising spacious ground floor quarters at 118 North Seventh street, in the Fullerton building.

He is a member of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange, Mortgage Bankers Association of America, Mortgage Bankers Association of St. Louis and the St. Louis County Chamber of Commerce.

MOTOR CONCERN ADDS A SERVICE STATION

Berry Co. Leases Building Under Construction on Washington West of Twenty-Second.

Construction has started on a service station on a lot 65 by 150 feet on the south side of Washington avenue, approximately 165 feet west of Twenty-second street, for the Berry Motor Car Co., distributer of Packard motor cars in St. Louis.

The building is being erected by Eugene D. Nims, formerly president of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. It will be occupied by the Berry Company under a 10-year lease negotiated by the J. H. Farish-Knapp & Co.

The new service station will be operated in connection with the Berry Co.'s main building a four-story concrete structure at 2201 Locust street. It will be of fireproof construction, with insulated concrete slab roof, and untrammeled with posts, or columns. Replete with service station facilities, it will be a model of its type.

The rapid increase in the number of Packard cars has made necessary augmented service facilities, it was stated.

The site of the new building is the western part of 125 by 150 feet of ground, recently purchased by Nims, represented by J. H. Farish-Knapp & Co., from William L. Gourley, a director of sales of Lake Forest, who had just acquired it from the Gay estate, represented by the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co. It is diagonally opposite the seven-story supply building of the Brown Shoe Co. at the northwest corner of Washington avenue and Twenty-second street.

The ground was purchased by Nims as an investment predicated on the commercial future Washington avenue, which seems destined to be built up with substantial business structures as far west as Jefferson avenue.

APARTMENT ON KINGSBURY BOULEVARD CHANGES HANDS

Albert J. Gardner has purchased an apartment building at 6643 Kingsbury boulevard, occupying a lot 60 by 200 feet. It consists of six apartments, each with six rooms and two baths. The purchaser was represented by N. W. Yore, the Boatmen's Bank, the seller was represented by A. T. and Whitelaw Terry.

SIXTH FLOOR QUARTERS ON NORTH SEVENTH LEASED

The eastern front part of the sixth floor of the Sesame Building at the northwest corner of Seventh and St. Charles streets, has been leased by the Paree Dress Manufacturing Co. The lease was negotiated by the Henry R. Weisles Co., for the Sesame Realty Co., owner of the building.

SMALL HOME SERVICE PLAN

Plans for starting a small home service here will be discussed by J. W. Follin of the Federal Home Loan Bank system, Washington, at a luncheon meeting with a committee of architects and building and loan officers tomorrow at the Melbourne Hotel.

The plan, providing for homes costing not more than $7500, was originated by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. Under the plan, the cost of a home as quoted to the builder will include materials, financing and architectural supervision.

HOME OWNERSHIP INCREASES WITH HIGHER WAGES

This Was Indicated by a Study of Consumer Spending Habits Made by Labor Bureau.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 17.—As the recovery spiral swings upward and industrial pay envelopes fatten, the average city wage earner is more apt to purchase his own home than either his white-collar or professional brother.

This was indicated by a study of consumer spending habits recently made by the Bureau of Labor Statistics which showed 50 per cent of the wage earners in Chicago making between $3500 and $5000 a year were their own landlords, whereas 36 per cent of the clerks and 31 per cent of the professional men were home-owners.

This is a radical change from the relationship existing in the low-income group, earning up to $1000 a year. At this level 23 per cent of the professional men paid taxes rather than rent, against 13 per cent for wage-earners and 11 per cent for the clerical force.

Parental assistance is said to have played a part in the fact that almost one-quarter of the doctors, dentists and so on could afford to own homes on about $20 a week. The theory is that since dad could afford expensive years of schooling, he is willing in many instances to "set his boy off on the right foot" with the gift of a home in a desirable neighborhood.

Emerging from the low-income class, however, the wage earner—working on a daily, hourly or piece rate basis rather than salary—takes on the responsibility of a home with increasing rapidity. From $2000 a year upward, he holds an undisputed lead in the race.

The white-collar group also stops paying rent steadily as its income rises, although at a slower pace.

The survey discloses no trend toward home-ownership among professional men as their income foots up until it passes the $4500 annual mark, when it jumps sharply.

This is held the result of a tendency among them, once they have hung out their shingle, to wait until they can afford to buy in sections in keeping with the class of people they serve.

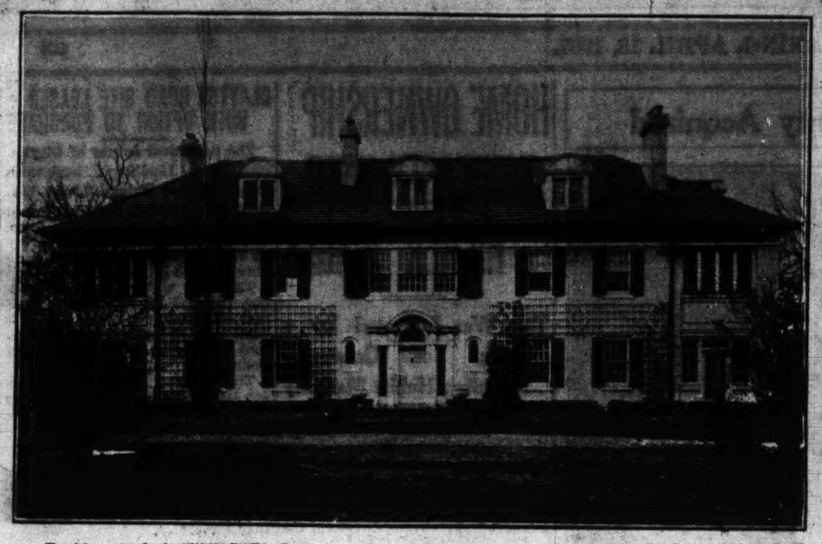
HOME BUILDING SUGGESTIONS APPEAR ON PAGE THREE OF THIS SECTION

Residence and Apartments in Week's Transactions; Houses Under Contruction



Residence of the late J. R. Curlee on South Sappington road, in St. Louis County, bought by R. F. McCarthy. The purchase includes 6½ acres of ground, originally part of the old Meyer farm. Mary Potter Love, Inc., handled the transaction.

Drawing of residence to be built in Bri ttany Woods in University City for Dr. Loren A. Meiners. Architect, Johnson and Mack.

BABLER ACRES OPENED ON LITZSINGER ROAD

High-Class Development on Both Sides of Road, West of Lindbergh.

Negotiations are in an advanced stage for the purchase of several sites in Babler Acres on the Clayton road, between Warson road and Lindbergh boulevard, in St. Louis County, recently placed on the market through Shaw & Francis, Inc. The prospective purchasers have plans for the erection of residences to cost from $50,000 to $75,000, it was stated.

Babler Acres, which lies on both sides of Litzinger road, comprises approximately 36 acres, divided into sites of from one to three and one half acres. The tract begins about 500 feet west of Warson. It has been enhanced by landscape work and other surface improvements, including macadam drives, under the supervision of Pitzman's company of surveyors and engineers. It is owned by Jacob L. Babler, former Republican National Committeeman, who acquired it before the big uplift in prices in this part of St. Louis County.

Several residences, designed on a superb scale, have been completed in the addition, including notably those of Tullius C. Tupper, vice-president of the Security Investment Co.; Fred A. Hermann, of the Hermann Oak Leather Co., and Mrs. Daniel C. Louree. The residence of William L. Dean, of the firm of G. H. Walker & Co., one of the most striking in this area, stands at the northwest corner of Warson and Litzsinger.

Setting the standard for the development of this thoroughfare, a noteworthy number of residences on a pretentious scale have been erected on Litzsinger road, east of Warson road.

Babler donated extensive acreage on the Wild Horse Creek road in St. Louis County to the State for a park, which bears his name.

REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE BACKS "CLEAN UP" MOVEMENT

The St. Louis Real Estate Exchange will be an active participant in the annual "clean up" campaign, scheduled to start tomorrow. Landlords will be urged to beautify their premises and to assist in improving the appearance of the city by painting, planting and repairing property.

According to Arthur C. Hoehn, chairman of the exchange committee fostering the campaign, 1,516,090 odd jobs on realty were completed during the 1936 campaign. They included the cleaning of 206,000 basements and the removal of 397,744 rubbish piles, and the painting and decorating of 711,000 rooms, flats, apartments, residences, etc. The national "clean up" competition was won by St. Louis last year for the second consecutive time. A large silver loving cup was presented to the city.

Other members of the exchange committee are Bert Stampfer, Fred C. Breitt, John F. Cogswell, James F. Cook, Henry L. Cornet Jr., Noel Carpenter, Fletcher R. Harris and Charles M. Walters.

The exchange is working in conjunction with the Chamber of Commerce, public school officials and various civic organizations.

KROGER CO. LEASES STORE FROM PLANS

Grocery Chain to Occupy Quarters in Structure at Kingsbury and Des Peres.

The Kroger Grocer & Baking Co. has taken a 10-year lease on the corner store in a modernistic building to be erected at the southeast corner of Kingsbury boulevard and Des Peres avenue by Abe Lieberman, real estate operator and builder.

The store leased will occupy the entire Kingsbury frontage of the building. The structure will also contain two stores on Des Peres avenue.

The site has a frontage of 39 feet on Kingsbury and a depth of 130 feet on Des Peres avenue. It was acquired through the Joseph F. Dickmann Real Estate Co. The Kroger Co. was represented by Edward J. Thornhill in the negotiations for the lease. Recently completed, Des Peres avenue extends from Delmar boulevard to Forest Park.

Kroger now has approximately 30 stores in St. Louis, in addition to the stores in St. Louis County, including principally in Webster Groves, Maplewood, Kirkwood, Overland Park and University City. As sources of supply the concern operates a modern bakery and maintains a large warehouse with railroad facilities.

ACTIVITY BEING WITNESSED IN CHIPPEWA HILLS TRACT

Considerable activity is being witnessed in Chippewa Hills in Southwest St. Louis, being developed by the Mardel Realty and Investment Co. under the direction of David P. Leahy, veteran subdivision developer.

Improvements now being installed include paved streets, granitoid sidewalks, sewer and water mains. Three houses are under construction on Lindenwood avenue.

The company reports the sale of 20 lots on Lindenwood avenue to William P. Cole, who has started construction of three bungalows. It also announces the sale of 10 lots on Sulphur avenue between Chippewa boulevard and Bancroft avenue, to Emil Rottersman, as sites for bungalows; 30 feet on Chippewa boulevard to Dr. Hammer as a site for a store building, nearing completion; also a 35-foot lot on Hancock avenue west of Watson road for five bungalows, construction of which is to start soon.

QUARTERS ON LINDELL BLVD. ACQUIRED BY APPLIANCE CO.

The American Appliance Co. has leased the corner store, entire second floor and basement of the building at 3400 Lindell boulevard for a showroom for American Radiators equipment. Contracts have been let for alterations and improvements to conform with requirements.

The American Appliance Co. is composed of Emil F. Becker and Chester A. White.

The building, which is at the corner of Channing avenue, is owned by Pierce B. Barnard.

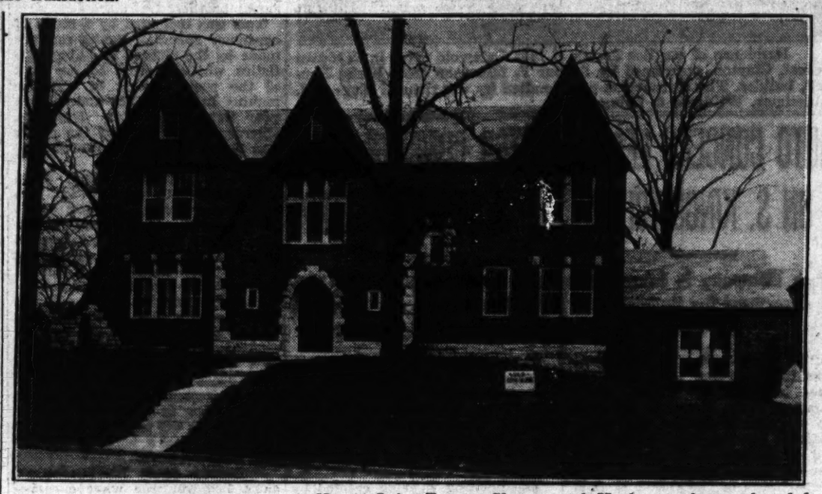
The Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co. represented both parties to the lease.

WALGREEN CO. ENLARGES STORE AT OLIVE AND TENTH STREETS

The Walgreen Drug Co. has enlarged its quarters in the Pennsylvania Building at the southwest corner of Tenth and Olive streets. An additional store room has been taken on Tenth street, together with basement space not previously occupied by the concern. Extensive alterations have been made to the store, which has been equipped with an air-conditioning plant.

New store fronts have been installed on both streets, and the lobby of the building reconstructed and modernized.

The building is owned by the Net Realty & Investment Co. and is under the management of the Apex Realty Co.



Recently completed residence at No. 11 Lake Forest, Clayton and Hanley roads, purchased by Bernhard Littmann, president of the Nixdorff-Krein Manufacturing Company. The Arthur Goldman Realty Company negotiated the sale.

Of Room That Is Livable

Color Notes Should Add
a Total That Is Restful
Yet Stimulating.

Comfort, color, convenience, with acious air, that's the recipe for al living room, a room that is, re all, livable.

Under the heading of comfort e deep, soft chairs and a lounge ere you can stretch out if you're ary and still enjoy the com- ionship of your family. The or of your room consists of only the color on the walls and twork, but the bright glints in accessories—the bindings of r books, the upholstery, the rug, tone of flowers in a bowl. All these color notes should add up a total that is restful, yet stim- ting. As for convenience, that ludes everything from tables at r elbow for lamps and ash trays shelves for your favorite books d the newest magazines, a stow- ay place for your chessmen and r writing materials. It is things these that make a room invit- and pleasant.

In the livable room the walls d ceiling have been done in a t parchment tone. To give the om character, the dado and wood- rk have been painted a rich ttle green. On either side of the ntel, spacious bookshelves have n built in. These give ample m for favorite books and even ce for prized ornaments. Over e mantel, a large, perfectly plain rror has been installed which kes the room seem much larger. The fireplace facing and hearth e of black marble, but if you do t wish to have the expense of stalling this, your old facing and earth can be marbleized with int to give this effect.

The entire floor is completely vered with dark green carpet and th of the furniture is upholstered tones of beige and green, with e exception of the desk chair hich is covered in gay lacquer d. This color is also carried out some of the accessories of the om—such as the pair of urns on e mantel. Other bric-a-brac is ver—even the andirons, which re scarred brass before they re replated in chromium.

The pair of large chairs by the reside—the world's most comfort- ble—are covered in parchment olored leather. By each of these hairs is an attractive candlestand olding a lamp with a green glass ase and a cream color shade.

The large double window has en treated as one by using one enetian blind (off-white with reen tapes), and one pair of raperies. These draperies are ade of heavy, natural homespun, ith rows of green cotton fringe titched on vertically.

The desk in front of the window of the pickled pine that is so opular these days. This blonde pickled pine" effect can be ob- ained by bleaching almost any esk that has good lines to a lovely ashy shade. The use of one or two ght pieces in a room, incidentally, eaks the monotony of dark fin- hes and has a tendency to give feeling of "1937" to a room.

Other furniture in the room in- ludes a huge sofa, a high back arrel chair, a pair of old Duncan hyfe side chairs, with seats of ream and green stripes, and num- rous conveniently placed tables.

FOR BETTER LIVING

Sound chimney construction is ssential to the efficient operation f any heating plant. Many com- laints regarding heating plants re traceable to faulty chimney onstruction. Attention given to his important matter combined with adequate heating facilities nsure the home owner of a com- ortable house during the winter months. Protection against fire is fforded also.

The prospective owner of a new ome should assure himself that he materials used in the plumb- g system and the workmanship ecessary for its installation re the best available. As most f the pipes are installed under he floors and behind finished alls, heavy expense is involved in heir replacement or repair.

Research has shown that to a arge extent the heat in your home n summer is due to radiant heat rom the sun. Simple means by which a considerable amount of his heating effect of the sun may e retarded are the use of awn- ngs, which is the most common; y the use of window shades which re coated with aluminum foil or luminum paint on the side ex- osed to the sun; or by the use f Venetian blinds on which the utside of the slats are painted with aluminum paint.

By exposing metallic surfaces to he sun the radiant heat is re- ected to a sufficient degree to roduce added summer comfort. When coated shades or Venetian linds are used, the windows hould always be opened slightly, preferably at top and bottom, to allow for a small amount of ven- ilation between the window and he shade or Venetian blind.

A double-swing door, fitted with inges which allow it to open from either side is one of the greatest onveniences in the kitchen. It hould be the door which leads from kitchen to dining-room.

QUESTIONS BEFORE THE HOUSE

Q. We have, at present, two roofs on our home, a composition roll roofing and a wood shingle roof. Wood shingles were put on last and were soon ruined by hail. Several carpenters have told us that it would only be necessary to remove shingle roof before putting on new roof, but now one man says both roofs should come off. What is your opinion?

Also please explain what you mean by "louvres." I know that it is a ventilator, but how is it made? Wish to put in gable for air circulation in attic. READER.

Steelville, Mo.

A. Whether or not you must remove the shingles to put down a new roof on your house depends upon the type of material that will be used. Certain types of asphalt shingles may be laid directly over wood shingles. It is not necessary to remove the composition roll roofing. "Louvres" are wooden slats set at an angle in an opening to permit the passage of air. The opening is usually circular and framed and the slats are set in. To assure good ventilation these openings are placed in opposing gables.

Q. We had the bad luck to spill iodine on the enamel paint of our bathroom. Is there anything that we can use to take these stains out? MRS. G. S.

A. You can bleach the iodine stain by using a mixture of one tablespoon of photographic hypo and one pint of water. Follow with a rinse of clear water and allow to dry.

Q. The water in our bathtub does not drain very rapidly and makes a gurgling sound. What causes this? MRS. L. O'N.

A. The drain has evidently become clopped with hair and lint. The obstruction forms air pockets which cause the noise. Have the drain pipe cleaned.

Q. Do you have a formula for whitewash that may be used on rough lumber? I would like to do the job as cheaply as I can. S. Y.

A. Ordinary whitewash is made more permanent by adding rock salt in the proportion of 15 pounds to 50 pounds of hydrated lime. Cold water paint with casein is water resistant and is not very expensive. This may be better for your particular job.

Q. The walls in our living room are of plastic paint and are showing dirt spots around the doors. Places above the radiators seem to be smoked up. Is there anything that we can do to clean these places. MRS. A. C.

A. Wipe the dirt spots with a cloth damp with soapy water and rinse with a rag that has been wrung out in clear. For the smoky places over the radiator use a wall paper cleaner which you can get at any hardware store.

Q. Can we safely remove the wall between two small bedrooms to make one large room, or will the strain on roof and ceiling be too much? CHAS. B.

A. First determine whether the wall is a bearing partition. If not a bearing partition it can be removed with safety. If it is a bearing partition, it is essential that a properly designed support be substituted for the wall. It is advisable to consult an architect or engineer on such a problem.

Q. Is there any way to remove cement that has been spilled on brickwork?—T. S. D.

A. Brick masonry is cleaned by scrubbing it with a weak solution of muriatic acid. The acid is mixed with water in the proportion of one part acid to six or eight parts of water and is applied with a stiff-bristled brush. The wall should be thoroughly rinsed with clean water after this application.

Q. Must cross-bridging be nailed at both top and bottom?—Home Owner.

A. It should be double-nailed at both top and bottom. The purpose of bridging is to stiffen the joist and distribute to the adjoining joists the heavy loads that would otherwise bear upon a single joist.

Q. What can I do to stop rattling windows?—H.

A. Have the windows weather-stripped or remove the stop or molding that holds the sash in place and reset it closer to the sash. Weather-stripping would be the better way, as it accomplishes a saving in fuel as well as stopping the rattling. You might have both done to insure a really good job.

Q. I want to build a terrace at the back of our house; what would you suggest I make the floor of?—Bern. F.

A. Flagstones or brick or tile may be used, any one of which will be serviceable and attractive. Concrete may also be used, either plain or scored.

RESIDENCES—FLATS

HOW LONG WILL THESE FORECLOSED BARGAINS LAST?

HOW LONG WILL $2950

Buy an 8-room brick residence like 1265 BLACKSTONE? New hardwood floors, attractively decorated throughout. It can't last long at this price.

HOW LONG WILL $4350

Buy a brick residence with 11 rooms and 3 baths, opposite Forest Park? 4570 GIBSON is in perfect condition and with a bath on each floor is ideal for large family or roomers.

HOW LONG WILL $3350

Buy a building like you will see on the northwest corner of 23rd and HEBERT? This 3-family brick building with baths has just been completely modernized and will show a rental of $600.00. This price is over $1000.00 less than the former first mortgage.

HOW LONG WILL $3850

Buy a 5-room very modern brick bungalow like 6219 JULIAN? When the spring buying season starts you will not find bargains like this.

HOW LONG WILL $975

Buy a brick single (NOT attached)? Yes, that's the total price even though it has inside plumbing.

HOW LONG WILL $3950

Buy a modern 4-5 single flat like 4763 LABADIE. Situated on one of the best blocks in North St. Louis. It's a "steal" at this price.

HOW LONG WILL $3975

Buy a brick 5-room bungalow in RICHMOND HEIGHTS like 8714 HOOVER? Only 8 years old and thoroughly modern. Next fall prices like this will be unheard of.

HOW LONG WILL $3975

Buy a modern 4 and 5 single flat like 5129 PAGE? Its very convenient location makes this flat very desirable.

HOW LONG WILL $8950

Buy a modern business piece on GRAVOIS rented at $1080.00? We predict next year these rents will be at least $1500.00; that this building will then bring at least $11,000.00.

HOW LONG WILL $2950

Buy a brick store and flat? 50-foot lot. See 4202 FOLSOM (opposite Liggett-Myers).

HOW LONG WILL $1975

Buy a business corner like the northeast corner of 13th and NORTH MARKET? Consisting of double store and two flats. Rental $500.00. Former first morigage was more than our sale price.

These properties have been completely reconditioned and are being offered for substantially less than the former mortgages!

THE REMODELING and remodernizing of their laboratories. Remodeled with complete paint job of sunlight white and new lighting arrangements. Remodernized with new testing equipment of the latest and most efficient type. Beautiful waiting room lounge and comfortably arranged observation points for clients of scientific or inquiring turn of mind who wish to watch their set being worked on.

REORGANIZATION of our shop personnel and technical procedure enables us to now offer consultant service from the laboratory beautiful, the laboratory efficient, the laboratory perfect, offering radio service perfect.

THE MANUFACTURERS made your set to operate perfectly. It did, at one time, and it can be made to operate perfectly again. Orders will be accepted only under these conditions.

COME VISIT us and see the Hickok Room. The oscillograph, the galvanometer, the vacuum tube voltmeter, and the dynamic mutual conductance tube tester. The only accepted manufacturer's basic method. See the wonders of radio science unfolded to you by these most modern and technical instruments which are uncanny and almost human in their operation.

SALESMEN WANTED

MEN

If you really knew what this business has meant to other men, you would not pass up this ad as "just another one of those propositions." If you do, you are in all probability missing what, to a great many men, has been the opportunity of a life time. No matter what your present income is, no matter what your position in life, you ought to be sincere in your desire to improve it, to increase your income to give more for your family and give them the better things in life and to get into a pleasant busi- ness of your own.

We have such an opportunity for you right now. Men in this business from all walks of life are big earners right here in St. Louis and nearby towns. When they learn this profitable business thor- oughly, their incomes range around $2000, $4000, $6000, $7500 and more per year, yet they had no previous ex- perience in this kind of work.

Our product is rapidly approaching in this country the complete dominance of the market it has already secured in other countries, with five European and American factories continuously busy supplying our product. In 1937 is our eighth consecutive record sales year.

Beginners may have to get along tempo- rarily on $125 to $200 per month. How- ever, should we be placed on the same basis of compensation as the others and make no investment or deposit of any kind. If you are selected for this opportunity, you will be given complete training at our factory branch at no expense to you. We will teach you this business, help you to real and permanent success, and will not ask you to make any invest- ment.

This opportunity is open to you NOW be- cause of the ever increasing demand for our product. If you are between the ages of 25 and 50, are willing to work and study conscientiously, to secure the success and large earnings possible in this business, this opportunity concerns you.

We are sincere in offering it to you, and you will find that 20 minutes spent in an interview with us will be the most valuable 20 minutes you ever invested. For a personal interview, apply at Suite 512 Paul Brown Building, 9th and Olive sts., Monday, between 9:15 a. m. and 1:15 p. m.

USED AUTOMOBILES FOR SALE

SOUTH SIDE CHEVROLET, INC.

What Our Customers Say—

AN EMPLOYEE OF BARRETT ELECTRIC CO. WRITES: "Last December I purchased a 1933 reconditioned Chevrolet Sedan from Walter Eckhardt of your South Side Chevrolet Company. I have not spent any money for repairs whatsoever. Have taken several long trips without adding any extra oil. Change only once every thousand miles. Feel safe in advising any one interested in purchasing a used car that they are dealing with people who wish to secure your business, not only for one sale, for future business as well. (Signed) C. E. CHURCH, 3035 De Tonty.

TERMS TO FIT YOUR INCOME

You may not need a cent in cash to take advantage of these big bargains in the Ford Dealers' mammoth sale. Your own car probably will cover the necessary down payment. And, the dealer will arrange low, easy time-payments for the balance through the Universal Credit Company—Authorized Ford Finance Plan. Terms to fit your income.

WRITTEN MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE!

Ford Dealers' exclusive "R&G" plan makes used cars as safe to buy as new ones. With an "R&G" car, you get a written guarantee of the car's actual condition. You get the Ford Dealers' written promise, too, to refund your money 100 per cent if you are not entirely satisfied. You can't lose. Ford Dealers' used cars are so good they're guaranteed in writing.

Written MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE

(On all "R&G" and "Square Deal" Units)

ALL PRICES SLASHED!

Take advantage today of our big Used Car and Truck sale... Don't wait until spring—buy now and save money!

During this pre-inventory sale, every used car and truck in our entire stock will carry a sale-tag with a special price . . . All prices have been slashed to give you the best bargains in years.

Because of the big swing to the 1937 Ford V-8, many of the best used cars have come to the Ford Dealers. This is a "clean sweep" sale. Our inventories are big and must be reduced.

A complete selection of all types and models at all prices. Many bear the exclusive Ford "R&G" emblem. Thoroughly reconditioned, these cars carry a written money-back guarantee. "R&G" cars and trucks give you double protection—a statement of the car's actual condition in writing—a written promise to refund your money 100% if you are not 100% satisfied.

See these outstanding bargains at your Ford Dealers' today! Don't delay! Come early! Take your pick of the best bargains.

Horse Show To Be Given At Bridlespur

Out-of-Door Event May 23 With August A. Busch Jr., Chairman — Invitations Are Issued.

THE Bridlespur Hunt Club, the scene of annual steeplechase races, hunter trials, gymkhanas, fox and drag hunts, will give its first horse show next month. A committee headed by August A. Busch Jr. with Adalbert Von Gontard as vice-chairman, has selected Sunday, May 23, as the date.

The Bridlespur Hunt Club, with its attractive club house set in green rolling grounds, will provide an ideal place for an out-of-door show. Many of the finest stables in this part of the country are owned by its members, whose horses have been champions in various local and national horse shows. While this will be the first event of its kind at the Bridlespur Hunt Club, its members assisted Miss Jane Johnson in giving a show last June at Trails End Stables, owned by Miss Johnson's parents and Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Shinkle, for the benefit of Bridlespur hunting.

A large ring, in the lowlands west of the club house, will be arranged with ample surrounding parking space for spectators witnessing the classes from their automobiles. An elaborate program will begin at 10 o'clock in the morning and continue until sundown. The show will be open to all owners of horses in St. Louis and St. Louis County. Among the numerous events will be special hunters, polo and harness classes.

Invitations were sent yesterday to leading horsemen of St. Louis to serve as chairmen and members of a long list of committees, and early this week invitations will be mailed to owners of hunters and jumpers to participate.

Among the committees will be a woman's committee and an entertainment committee. Included in the social affairs connected with the exhibition will be a luncheon at the Bridlespur Hunt Club that day and other parties at the club and in the country homes of its members.

"Cirrhotics" Give Party in County

A GROUP of bachelors calling themselves the Cirrhotics, motored with a group of former debutantes, sustaining members and their wives, to the Con P. Curran farm in Pacific, Mo., yesterday afternoon for their annual "Cirrhotic day." Guests, in tweeds and sports clothes, concerned themselves with baseball, horseshoes and archery (shooting as a club activity having been discontinued by common consent) until evening, when a picnic supper was served buffet style indoors.

The club was formed three years ago for the purpose of finding convivial companionship among its members, each of whom adopted a queer-sounding pseudonym, such as Ching Ching Chang, as Jaime Mason is called; T. Threadneedle Throckmorton, by which Charles Sommer is known; T. Huntington Scupper, chosen by Edwin Sweet, and S. Sedgwick Sagebush, the name given to Dr. Benjamin H. Charles III.

Content heretofore with one play day per year, arrangements are now being changed to permit three parties, spring, summer and fall, devoting, in the language of the club, the "first, second and third stages of cirrhosis."

Married members and their wives who were in yesterday's group are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lake Meier, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Bland Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Davis Gunter. Guests included Miss Peggy James, Miss Ann Shapleigh, Miss Jean Butler, Miss Martha Nicolaus, Miss Lucile Keeler, Miss Virginia Fischel, Miss Martha Ann Day, Miss Jane Armistead, Miss Martha O'Neil, Miss Bonnie Langenberg, Miss Elsie Rauh, Miss Virginia Angert, Miss Elizabeth Windell of Louisville, who came for the Pirrung-Childress wedding; Miss Anne Fisse, Miss Sally Bridge, Miss Barbara Brodhead, Miss Antoinette Schlafly and Miss Betty Brown.

St. Louis members include Henry Carpenter, Dr. Charles, Frank Corley Jr., Tom Dempsey Jr., Arthur Dunn, John L. Gillis, Albert Gunter, Erwin S. Jones, R. F. Stockton Lowndes, Mr. Mason, John H. Senseney, Stuart Smith, Mr. Sommer, Mr. Sweet, Warren Wagner and J. Boyd Ware.

James V. Reynolds, who lives in Petersburg, Ind., was here for the party, but the other five members who have "carried the Cirrhotics' banner to the four corners of the globe," were unable to attend. George Hawkins lives in New York; John Nixon, Jake Hershey and Frank Olmstead are in Houston, Tex., and Platt Oakie is in business in Suez, Egypt.

Mary Katherine Ives Is Married to Dr. L. E. Hosto at Home Ceremony

PASTEL-SHADED flowers and apple green and jonquil yellow frocks gave a springlike touch to the wedding yesterday of Miss Mary Katherine Ives, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ward Ives, and Dr. Leland E. Hosto. The mid-afternoon ceremony was performed by the Rev. Edward B. Dillingham of the Delmar Baptist Church in a setting of multi-colored blossoms banking the fire place and covering the large mantel mirror in the living room of the Ives home, 6005 Cabanne avenue. The entire wall was covered with palms and woodwardia fern before which stood tall standards filled with flowers instead of candles.

The wedding party—Miss Frances Ives, the bride's sister, who sang preceding the ceremony; the bridegroom's sister, Miss Geraldine Hosto, and Miss Helen Mitchell—preceded Mr. Ives and his daughter down the stairway and through an aisle of white ribbon leading to the altar. Miss Ives, who was maid of honor, wore green chiffon, the apple tone of the gown accented by an emerald green girdle and panel which fell from her waist into a short train. The V neck line was held full by a rhinestone clip, the gift of the bride, and there were short petal sleeves. Gowns worn by Miss Hosto and Miss Mitchell were yellow chiffon, set off by contrasting orange-gold girdles and panels, designed like that of the maid of honor. They all carried spring flowers in which African daisies, blue delphinium and yellow flowers predominated. Bruce Evans was Dr. Hosto's only attendant.

The bride wore a simply made gown of heavy white satin, untrimmed except for tiny buttons from neck to waist in back, with a square neck, long sleeves puffed at the top and ending in points over the hand, and a train. The straight line skirt was set on from an inverted point above the waist. Her veil, made of several layers of tulle, fell from a cluster of tiny calla lilies worn with a Grecian band on top of her hair, and she carried a sheaf of calla lilies.

Only members of the family attended the ceremony, but 200 additional guests were invited for a reception at 4 o'clock. Afterward Mr. and Mrs. Ives gave a dinner for the bridal party and out-of-town relatives who came for the event.

Mrs. Ives received in a light blue lace gown with which she wore fleurs de lis, and the bridegroom's mother was in a darker blue lace.

Mr. and Mrs. Urban K. Wilde of Indianapolis, the bride's uncle and aunt, are here, as is their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Urban Wilde Jr.; another uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Ives of Bloomington, Ill.; Miss Julia Holder, also of Bloomington; Mr. and Mrs. Almon B. Ives of Casey, Ill., and Mrs. W. F. Coolidge of Jacksonville, Ill.

Dr. and Mrs. Hosto will motor to Texas on their honeymoon and will return to live in St. Louis.

The bride was graduated from Mary Institute with the class of 1933, and attended Washington University where she became a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma, to which her mother also belongs. Mrs. Ives is president of the St. Louis College Club. Dr. Hosto is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Hosto, and is a graduate of the Medical School of Washington University.

F. D. Reynolds Jr. Weds Margaret Ray

IN A CANDLELIGHT service yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at Grace Episcopal Church in Kirkwood, Miss Margaret Virginia Ray became the bride of F. Delos Reynolds Jr. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Robert Kevin in the presence of 200 friends. The chancel, banked with ferns, formed the background for a large standard of white snapdragons on either side of the altar.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Charles M. Pendleton, is the daughter of Mrs. William H. Ray, 512 Kirkwood road. Mr. Reynolds is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Delos Reynolds, 7148 Dartmouth avenue.

The bride wore her going away suit of beige wool, the coat trimmed in fox fur. Her accessories were of the same shade and she carried a large bouquet of gardenias and white snapdragons. Mrs. James H. Woods, at whose home the betrothal was announced in January, was matron of honor. Her dress and coat were hyacinth blue with matching accessories. Her corsage was violets and pansies.

Dr. Austin J. Rust Jr. was best man.

Both Mrs. Ray and Mrs. Reynolds chose navy blue for the color of their costumes, and each had a corsage of gardenias.

Following the ceremony the two families and the wedding party were entertained at a reception at the Ray home. Guests were received before the fireplace banked with greenery and white spring flowers. More of the white flowers were used as a centerpiece in the dining-

Sedgwick-Sullivan Wedding at Home

SPRAYS of forsythia decorated the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Barker, 7466 Stratford avenue, for the wedding of Miss Patricia Sullivan of San Francisco, and Dr. Roland T. Sedgwick, yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock. Dr. Sedgwick is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Sedgwick of the Hampden Hall apartments. The ceremony, at which only relatives were present, was performed by the Rev. George A. Campbell of the Union Avenue Christian Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Barker's daughter, Miss Mary Edna, was maid of honor and Milford McClain of Charles City, Iowa, was best man. The bridal party stood before the Georgian mantel in the living room. Low vases holding fan-shaped bouquets of forsythia stood in the center of the mantel shelf. Tall vases of the yellow flowers were at either side and palms screened the fireplace. The ceremony was followed by a small wedding dinner.

The bride was married in her traveling suit, a gray costume ensemble with which she wore a white chiffon blouse and a broad brimmed gray straw hat banded with pale blue velvet ribbon. She carried a small bouquet of African daisies. Mr. Barker gave her in marriage. The maid or honor wore an Eton suit of purple berry jersey with a halo turban of the same fabric. She carried a nosegay of pansies.

Mrs. Sedgwick, mother of the bridegroom wore an afternoon gown of navy blue lace and Mrs. Barker dark blue sheer crepe. Both wore hats to match their gowns and corsages of gardenias.

Dr. Sedgwick and his bride will spend the honeymoon in New Orleans, and Biloxi, Miss., and on their return will live temporarily

Parties at St. Albans Open Little Season

THE little season of social activities in St. Louis will be featured by openings of the various country clubs and Old Barn Inn at St. Albans Farms this month and next. This week-end marks the beginning of the spring and summer season at St. Albans. Many St. Louisans gave small luncheons and dinners there yesterday and more were to follow today. Mrs. Richard S. Hawes Jr., 7 Wydown terrace, and Mrs. Oscar Johnson, 38 Portland place, and Mrs. H. C. Ulrick are among those entertaining small groups. Miss Louise Landauer, 5578 Pershing avenue, will be hostess at a luncheon later this week. The farms are planning a flower festival for sometime next month.

St. Louis Country Club, Bridlespur Hunt Club and Glen Echo Country Club have not set their dates for an opening party, but each will be next month.

Anne Lord Married To W. E. Andrews

NEW YORK, April 17.

THE marriage of Miss Anne Kirkham Lord of Southbury, Conn., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Watt Lord, 238 East Sixty-eighth street, and of Blackpoint, Conn., and Wolcott Erskine Andrews of Wiscasset, Me., took place here today in the chapel of St. George's Church on Stuyvesant Square. The ceremony, which was performed by the rector of the church, the Rev. Elmore McKee, was followed by a reception at the Cosmopolitan Club. Mr. Andrews is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Martin Andrews of Chicago and Wiscasset.

The bride has frequently visited in St. Louis, several times as the guest of Miss Emily Lewis, now Mrs. Hiram Norcross Jr. of Tulsa, Ok. She was in St. Louis last September to attend the Lewis-Norcross wedding, at which time she was the guest of Mrs. George McDougall Weeks Jr., the former Miss Lucy Turner. Miss Chouteau Dyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Chouteau Dyer of St. Louis, also has entertained her. A former New York debutante, Miss Lord is a member of the New Haven Junior League, and a social service worker for the Family Society. In addition to many trips to Europe, she spent one summer with one of the Sir Wilfred T. Grenfell expeditions to Labrador, and has often spent the summer months at Tepee Lodge, the ranch at Big Horn, Wyo., owned by Allan Fordyce of St. Louis. She is a half-sister of Dean Lloyd K. Garrison of the University of Wisconsin Law School. She is a graduate of Brearly School and Bryn Mawr College.

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her father. She wore the same simple ivory-colored gown, tulle veil and lace cap caught with orange blossoms, worn by her twin sister, Mrs. Charles Meredith Reed, at her wedding, and carried African daisies.

Mrs. Reed was her sister's matron of honor and Miss Ellen Walt Lord, another sister, was maid of honor. They wore identical gowns of chartreuse chiffon topped by gray chiffon coats, large green straw hats and carried flame-colored African daisies. The bridesmaids were Miss Helen Bell and Miss Virginia Hobart of Chicago; Miss Chouteau Dyer of St. Louis; Miss Judith Chase of Wiscasset, Me.; Mrs. Fuller Davis and Miss Ruth Chappell of New York. They were all dressed in yellow gowns similar to those worn by the matron and maid of honor. Their accessories were yellow and they also carried flame-colored African daisies.

Buckminster Fuller of Boston was best man for Mr. Andrews. Ushers were Lloyd Kirkham Garrison of Madison, Wis.; Charles Reed, Lloyd Lowndes and Herbert Morgan of New York; Wolcott Fuller and Sidney Shurcliffe of Boston, and Charles Chase of Wiscasset.

Mr. Andrews is a graduate of Bowdoin College and also an alumnus of the Harvard School of Landscape Architecture. He is associated with the New York World's Fair Association. The pair sailed on the Bremen at midnight for a six weeks' wedding trip abroad.

Junior League Arranges Show For Visitors

Wives of Visiting Doctors to Be Entertained at Party Tuesday by Woman's Club of Medical Association.

JUNIOR League mannequins will promenade in a spring garden created in their tea room, 4932 Maryland avenue, Tuesday afternoon at a tea and fashion shown designed to entertain wives of members of the American College of Physicians, which will hold a four-day meeting here. Tea is to be served during the show, which will be given by the Woman's Club of the St. Louis University Medical Association. Mrs. O. P. J. Falk, the league's new vice-president, is chairman of entertainment for the visitors.

English boxwood hedge will inclose the garden, in which a platform has been built around the center supporting pillar, and each model will walk about the terrace after her name is announced by two Indian print-clad pages—Mrs. Robert Sherman and Mrs. James Lee Johnson. Costumes will represent the wares of six West End shops.

Models for the show will be Mrs. Douglas B. Houser, Mrs. David R. Calhoun, Mrs. Herbert Douglas Condie Jr., Miss Betty Caulk, Miss Sally Bridge, Mrs. Benjamin W. Durham, Mrs. John H. Hayward, Mrs. Carl J. Koehler, Mrs. Marion L. J. Lambert, Mrs. Bemis Luyties, Mrs. Edward Hawes Miller, Mrs. Lee Niedringhaus, Mrs. Boyle O. Rodes, Miss Kathleen Wallace, Miss Grace White and Mrs. Ira E. Wight Jr. In addition there will be eight child models—Betty Shepley, Marie Christie Johnson, Marian Falk, John Wight, Tommy Pettus, Whitelaw Terry Jr., Sally Boyd and Jeanne Hawes, with Mrs. Hayward and Mrs. Terry in charge.

As a feature of the show a pair of blue street shoes, size 3½, will be given to any guest in the audience judged the winner of the Cinderella contest.

In a short finale, Mr. Adalbert von Gontard, gowned in pink and gray to harmonize with the colors of her parrot, which she will carry, will be followed by Mrs. William Watkins Moulton, her Chow dog on a leash, illustrating the proper clothes for walking, and Mrs. Donald Church Bixby, in clothes to attract a man. Finding herself surrounded only by women, Mrs. Bixby will ask: "Is there a doctor in the house?"

The following league members, in Indian printed costumes, will serve tea in the lounge: Miss Frances Bates, Mrs. Robert Burton, Miss Marth Ann Day, Mrs. Dumont Dempsey, Miss Elizabeth Morfit, Mrs. Richard Shewmaker, Mrs. Frederick Swarts, Mrs. Nicholas Veeder, Mrs. Orrin S. Wightman Jr., Mrs. A. Shapleigh Boyd Jr. and Mrs. Richard S. Jones.

Mrs. Garneau Weld, assisted by Mrs. Moulton and Mrs. Bixby, is general chairman.

H. E. Jenkins to Wed Miss Judith Black

MRS. R. CLIFFORD BLACK of Pelham Manor, New York, and Mesacrest, Broadmoor, Colorado Springs, Colo., announced the engagement of her younger daughter, Miss Judith Black and Farish Alston Jenkins at a dinner and dance given last night at her home in New York. About 50 guests were present at the dinner and 250 of their friends danced afterward. Mr. Jenkins is the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Edgar Jenkins, 625 South Skinker boulevard.

Miss Black is a daughter of the late R. Clifford Black and a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Black of Pelham Manor and of the late Mr. and Mrs. George B. Cluett of Troy, N. Y. She is a graduate of the Ethel Walker School at Simsbury, Conn., and a member of the New York Junior League. The bride-elect, who has visited in St. Louis, was introduced to society at a tea dance given by her mother at her home last April.

Mr. Jenkins prepared for college at the Taft School, Watertown, Conn., and is now a junior at Princeton University and a member of Cap and Gown Club and of the Princeton Polo Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins left Thursday to be the guests of Mrs. Black and to attend the announcement party. They were joined there by their elder son, Henry E. Jenkins Jr., of Washington.

Visitor Honored at Luncheon.

Mrs. Wesley Winans Horner, 5842 Julian avenue, entertained Friday at a luncheon for a small group of friends in honor of Mrs. Preston K. Horner of Wimbledon, England. The guest of honor has been here visiting her daughter, Mrs. Frederic W. Horner, 5846 Julian avenue, since Christmas and will return home some time in May.

WASHINGTON SCENE

By the POE SISTERS

MR. AND MRS. JAMES WARD THORNE of Chicago have written Washington friends that they will depart shortly for the Coronation. In London they will occupy a leased house in Sloane Square. Mr. and Mrs. Thorne are the parents of Ward Thorne, who married Miss Judith Dana of St. Louis.

Mrs. Thorne will take a miniature suite of rooms made for Queen Mary at her request. The pieces are regarded here as perfect bits of decorative art.

Mrs. George Barnett of Washington, widow of a World War commandant of the Marine Corps, has a collection of such fascinating trinkets from China.

Mrs. Clifford Caperton of Richmond, cousin of Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson and Mrs. Barnett, has been chosen editor of the new social register that Virginia is getting out.

A letter from Dublin tells of interest displayed in Ireland in a series of stories written by Mrs. Alvin Owsley, wife of Colonel Alvin Oksley of Dallas, United States Minister to the Free State. Mrs. Owsley of Dallas, United States in the United States of America."

Colonel and Mrs. Owsley have not closed their Dallas home during their stay in Ireland. They plan to return in the late summer for a visit in the capital, on their way to Texas.

Another devotee of art in Washington society, where many have taken to brush paints or pencil or etching, is Mrs. Dwight W. Davis, who paints in water colors.

At an art show this week four oil paintings by Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean were exhibited. They won much favorable mention, as did those of her secretary, Miss Georgiana Todd, who paints in oil. Miss Todd has exhibited in a number of Washington shows.

Among other Washington society women who have taken to art seriously in recent months are Mrs. Frank Letts and Mrs. Philip Coffin. Col. Maurice O'Day and Mr. Walter Bruce Howe are among men leaders of the new art vogue.

Maryland folk living in Washington have joined the throngs on the roads to Annapolis, where the present attraction is an exhibition of documents and objects owned by or concerning James R. Randall, poet and writer of the song, "Maryland, My Maryland," set up there in the Hall of Records through Commander Leander McCormick Goodhard of the British embassy, who has two Maryland homes, one in St. Mary's County and the other at Langley Park, Silver Spring. Among the objects on exhibition are a copy of the song in the handwriting of the author, his photograph and a copy of the act of the Maryland General Assembly adopting the poem, now the state song.

Visiting in Washington this week is Miss Ruth Bedford of Sidney, Australia, who was the delegate of her country at the International Literary Congress recently held in Buenos Aires. Miss Bedford is the guest of Miss Eleanor Connolly at the Sulgrave Club. She is the author of books of verse. Miss Bedford and Miss Connolly met on the train in Chile this winter.

Gayest Season in Many Years in Washington

WASHINGTON, April 17.

IN spite of a cold spring in Washington, there is a continuous fashion show at the many teas, cocktail parties and dinners. This has been one of the busiest spring seasons in the capital in years.

The French Ambassador and Mme. Bonnet are entertaining frequently. Their guests are greeted by a hostess who is young and pretty.

Three Cabinet hostesses had their final day at home Wednesday — Mrs. Morgenthau, wife of the Secretary of the Treasury; Mrs. Cummings, wife of the Attorney-General, and Mrs. Farley, wife of the Postmaster-General. Mrs. Morgenthau wore aqua marine crepe made on long sweeping lines, the bodice trimmed with inserts of lace of the same color.

In the center of the dining room table was a silver bowl filled with pink cherry blossoms and tall silver candlesticks held pink lighted candles.

At the table ends were Mme. Prochnik, wife of the Minister from Austria, and Mrs. William B. Bankhead, wife of the Speaker of the House. Mrs. Prochnik wore a black and white print dress with white violets at her throat. Mrs. Bankhead wore a black crepe dress, a beige cape trimmed with soft beige fox, and a black straw skull cap.

Ellenwood Players to Give "Double Door"

THE Ellenwood Players will present "Double Door," by Elizabeth McFadden, as the final production of the season tomorrow and Tuesday nights at the Haarstick auditorium of the Church of St. Michael and St. George.

The leading parts will be played by Miss Margaret Rumsey and Harris Gregg. The other members of the cast are Miss Katherine Bernays, David Crossen, Miss Constance Crossen, Miss Barbara Brown, Miss Cecil Mitchell, H. Mercer Orwig, William Melton, George Gannett and William King Jr.

Pleasure Club Party Today.

The St. Louis Pleasure Club will give a party this afternoon at Druids' Hall, Jefferson and Park avenues. The guests will come in children's costumes and there will be children's games and dances.

Skeet Shooters Out in Feathers With the Spring

By Martha Bates Powell.

THERE was a time when people gathered to scatter clay dust over a skeet course only in the spring and fall. Now the staccato bark of "pull" and "mark" for the high and low house targets can be heard the year round. Last fall even night skeet was tried. The Clayton Skeet Club on Eager road was illuminated, and the only other concession to the dark was the white targets. Incidentally, scores were as good at night as in the sunlight. But with spring weather that dormant "let's get out-doors" feeling brings the skeet field its share of extra enthusiasts.

The unique thing about the Clayton Skeet Club is its inclusiveness. Members of the St. Louis Country Club, Bogey Club, Deer Creek Country Club, Log Cabin Club and Bridlespur Hunt Club belong, and also may bring guests. Organized two years ago by Alfred G. Busch, shooting began in September, 1935, and the first president was Asa B. Wallace. Current officers are George M. Rassieur, president; J. B. Coats, vice-president; and Mr. Busch, secretary, treasurer and field captain. There are now 93 members of the Clayton Club and 100 has been set as the limit. Just as the club chooses members from other clubs, their shelter house once served the same purpose on the Bridlespur Hunt Club grounds, and was moved intact with its wood stove and gun racks. In fact, a load of shot is still imbedded in the front door where someone once got the targets mixed.

The Skill of Women

Although men have been shooting skeet longer than women, the latter are said to be the easier to teach and the faster to learn. Contrary to popular convictions, the reason, it seems, is that "they don't have so many ideas of their own about it." Among the outstanding women shooters who have a high average of broken clays and who shoot at the Clayton Club are: Mrs. Joseph L. Werner, Missouri State Women's champion; Mrs. Gilbert Robinson Pirrung, the former Miss Lila Marshall Childress; Mrs. Virgil A. Lewis, Mrs. Alanson C. Brown Jr., the former Miss Betty Freeman; Mrs. William D. Orthwein II, Mrs. Isaac Dee Kelley, Mrs. Edward Joseph Walsh Jr., Mrs. William P. Winslow, Mrs. Denman Clark, Mrs. Lambert Ezzell, Mrs. Tom K. Niedringhaus, Mrs. James Lee Johnson, Mrs. John Gates Williams, Mrs. Samuel C. Davis Jr., Miss Dorothy Jane Mahaffey, now attending the Ethel Walker School, Simsbury, Conn.; and Miss Harriet Hulburd.

Men at the Clayton Skeet Club shoot both with their wives or in parties by themselves, and not unusual is it for the wives to be the better shots. Listed among the 93 members of the club are: Wayman Allen, L. K. Ayers, Richard Baldwin, Dr. Willard Bartlett Jr., Alfred C. Carr Jr., Charles E. Caspari Jr., Charles McLure Clark, Firmin V. Desloge, Thomas Francis, James M. Franciscus, Eugene L. Funsten, Nelson B. Gatch, Irvin Griesedieck, Roland M. Hoerr, J. Earl Hulburd, Virgil A. Lewis, Arch Oliver Mahaffey, William D. Orthwein II, Gilbert R. Pirrung and Joseph L. Werner. Many find it convenient to run out to the club after office hours, but Saturday afternoons and Sunday mornings remain the favorite days.

Meets in the Fall.

With the third National Skeet championships to be held in Detroit this fall on a 10-course field for the first time, instead of six, even five months isn't too early to begin polishing off those clay birds. Then, too, the Missouri Skeet shoot also will be held in the fall, the place to be decided upon later. But both men and women are anxious to better their scores, which means shooting 80 per cent of the targets, or between 20 and 25 of the pigeons. That is "good skeet shooting." As the targets are thrown from two opposing traps 40 yards apart, participants shoot from eight different posts, spaced within a distance of 31 feet on a 60-foot radius from post No. 8, which is half-way between the two trap houses. On the first round a single target is thrown from each trap at every post and on the second trip doubles are thrown instantaneously at posts one, two, six and seven. The first shot missed is immediately shot again as a "repeat."

This shooting of clay pigeons is becoming more and more popular, so there are in the United States now over 2000 skeet fields on which 50,000 men, women, boys and girls try their skill. Last year the second National Skeet championships were held in St. Louis at the Bridlespur Hunt Club, Clayton and Denny roads. There is a practical reason behind the growth in the popularity of the sport—wild game is getting scarce, and, of a necessity, the thrill of bettering the score is replacing the thrill of an open field, hunting dogs and a gun in the crook of the arm.

Old hunting togs give way to smart suede jackets and skirts for women, and men find a jaunty feather in the hat band, or even a string of feathers around the hat, does something for the morale. When women enter a sport they dress it up. On the jackets of both men and women are various embroidered felt emblems, depending on experience and skill at skeet. The official insignia is that of a quail in flight on a background of dark buff, with a clay target centered on his body. But in addition to this, each club has its own mark, and the Clayton Skeet Club chooses a clay target in motion on a background of bright yellow. When the shooter has engaged in state or national competition, and if he has placed in any of these meets, then those medals, too, are put on his jacket.

Miss Betty Wagner Wed to Austin Browne

MISS BETTY WAGNER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Martin Wagner, 115 West Jewel avenue, Kirkwood, became the bride of Austin M. Browne, son of George H. Browne, 912 Summit avenue, Webster Groves, in a candlelight ceremony last evening at 8:30 o'clock at the First Methodist Church of Webster Groves. The Rev. Dr. Cassius E. Street of Linwood Avenue Methodist Church, Kansas City, assisted by the Rev. Dr. J. Van Deventer, officiated.

The bridal party formed before a chancel simply decorated with woodwardia ferns and white tapers.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a lace dress, redingote style, her veil falling from a halo of orange blossoms. She carried a prayer-book ornamented with an orchid and streamers of lilies-of-the-valley, and a lace handkerchief which had been carried by more than 50 brides. Mrs. Wagner's gown was of blue crepe with which she wore a corsage of rosebuds.

A spring effect was achieved by the bridesmaids' gowns. Those of Miss Caroline Schoettker and Miss Ruth Garstang, maids of honor, were of dusty pink net over taffeta, and their flowers were deep pink snapdragons and daisies. Miss Estelle Rott, Miss Betty Ross, Miss Marjorie Stephens and Miss Dorothy Aigler, who were bridesmaids, were gowned alike in light green, their bouquets combining yellow snapdragons and daisies. The junior bridesmaids, Miss Mary Jane Mottar, the bride's cousin, and Miss Charlotte Ann Beesley, wore peach-colored taffeta dresses and carried nosegays.

Edgar Isaacs was best man. The groomsmen were Gordon Campbell, E. G. Kehde Jr., Horton C. Ryan, Joseph Manderfeld and William Mottar.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home, after which the pair left for Kansas City where they will live. Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Sims of Illiopolis, Ill., grandparents of the bride; Mrs. E. C. Schoettker and Miss Caroline Schoettker of Springfield, Ill.; Mrs. D. S. Strobel of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Mottar of Edwardsville, Ill., and Joseph Manderfeld of Mankato, Minn.

The bride was graduated from Washington University where she became a member of Alpha Chi Omega. Mr. Browne is a graduate of Blodgett Institute of New York.

Ewing-Cash Wedding Performed in East

MISS ADELAIDE CASH, daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. James M. Cash of Omaha, Neb., and James Rowan Ewing, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. Y. Ewing of Odessa, Mo., were married yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Paulist Chapel in New York.

The bride, a New York soprano has been singing in the East for the past year and is training for the Metropolitan Opera with Miss Estelle Liebling, a voice instructor. Miss Liebling entertained at a reception at her home in New York yesterday afternoon in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Ewing.

Mr. Ewing, who has been in St. Louis since January, came here from New York as managing director of the air meet, to be held at the Lambert Airport May 29 and 31. He and his bride left New York today by airplane and will make their home here at the Hotel Chase.

Mrs. Ewing attended the University of Nebraska and is a member of Gamma Phi Beta sorority, and Mr. Ewing attended the University of Missouri, where he was a member of Sigma Chi fraternity.

D. R. Armstrong to Wed Mary Spurrier

MISS MARY JEANNE SPURRIER, daughter of Mrs. Ira Hayes Spurrier, 5716 Clemens avenue, will be married to Drew R. Armstrong. The wedding will take place Wednesday morning, April 28, at 10 o'clock at the Church of the Unity, Waterman avenue and Kingshighway, the Rev. George R. Dodson officiating. The bride will be attended by Miss Ann Armstrong, sister of the prospective bridegroom, and Morris Ambler of Bartlesville, Ok., will be best man.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast for the bridal party and immediate relatives will be served at the Spurrier home. Among the out-of-town guests will be Mr. and Mrs. D. Hayes McLaughlin of Chicago, cousins of Miss Spurrier.

Mr. Armstrong is the son of Dr. and Mrs. John Hinton Armstrong of North Sappington road, Glendale. He attended Washington University and is a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon.

Miss Inez Gideon Wed To Russell Roberson

THE wedding of Miss Inez Gideon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Waldo G. Gideon of Springfield, Mo., and Russell Parker Roberson, son of Mrs. Maude A. Roberson, 5463 Delmar boulevard, took place last night at 8:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. Lewis F. Thomas, 7556 Stanford avenue, University City, with whom she has made her home for the past five years. The Rev. Robert Porter of the First Congregational Church performed the ceremony.

The bride, dressed in a hyacinth blue marquisette dress made over taffeta of the same color, carried Johanna Hill roses. Her only attendant, another sister, Mrs. Collins E. Bushnell, wore blue mousseline de soie, made in a redingote over a print dress. She carried a bouquet of tea roses.

The best man was Paul Fredrick, and only out-of-town guests were the bride's parents.

Following the wedding a reception was given at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas. The bride and bridegroom will live at 5463 Delmar boulevard.

Mr. and Mrs. Roberson are both graduates of Drury College, Springfield, Mo., where he was a member of Theta Kappa Nu fraternity and she was a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority.

St. Louis University Group to Give Concert

AN annual Spring concert will be given Thursday evening, April 29, by the St. Louis University Men's and Women's Glee Club in the University auditorium, 3642 Lindell boulevard.

Among the special features of the evening will be a new arrangement of Schubert's "Ave Maria" made by Dr. Patrick M. Gainer, director of the Glee Club, and interpreted by Lawrence Kelly. Francis Day will play several selections on the Hammond electric organ, and solos will be sung by Miss Marie Parison, soprano, and Emil Wachter, bass baritone.

The Student Conclave of the University will give a dinner party at the Hotel Jefferson Thursday night, followed by dancing, in honor of Miss Kathryn McDonough, recently elected Queen of the University Prom, and the maids of honor in her court.

Spring Activities at Washington Varied

AT THE annual tapping ceremony held last week at Washington University, 12 coeds were pledged to Mortar Board, senior women's honorary society. The young women pledged are: Miss Frances Borgsteadt, Miss Jane Chivvis, Miss Martha Ruth Dameron, Miss Nellie De Bord, Miss Kay Hampton, Miss Louise Kraus, Miss Mary Johnson, Miss June Pentland, Miss Ruth Schreiber, Miss Martha Ann Smith, Miss June Stevens and Miss Dorothy Wobus, who was elected president of the group at a meeting after the ceremony.

The School of Fine Arts of the University will hold open house this afternoon in Bixby Hall as a prelude to the city-wide art week sponsored by the St. Louis Junior Chamber of Commerce, which will officially begin the following day.

As a major part of the program, the school's class in costume design will repeat a fashion show which was given recently at a local store. Costumes in the show were designed and made by students and will be modeled by their designers. Following this the men students will give a fashion show of their own, burlesquing the girls' program. In addition, there also will be exhibits of work of the art students, shown in the corridors of Bixby Hall.

Various programs have been planned by the Washington School of Fine Arts for art week. Classrooms will be open for inspection with classes in session, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons from 2 to 3:30 o'clock. The evenings of the same days, special demonstrations in craft work, including weaving, pottery and jewelry making and leather work, will be given in Bixby Hall. All programs are open to the public.

To Give Original Program At Post-Graduate Recital

MISS HERTHA BERNARD will give her post-graduate recital Saturday evening at 8:30 o'clock in the Toy Theater, Boyle avenue and Olive street.

Her program will consist of three original poems, "Drouth," "A Wayside Tavern" and "Nature's Paint Brush" and a three-act comedy, "Laughing Heirs" in which eight characters are represented and of which she is the author. Miss Bernard will be the first graduate of the Morse School of Expression to give a recital that is entirely original. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. I. Bernard, 5722 Waterman avenue.

The hostesses will be Miss Mary Leritz, Miss Virginia Ray Asbury, Mrs. Ruth Rawson Meng, Miss Winona Haynes and Miss Mary Brown.

THIS WAY TO BEAUTY

Three preparations that have brought beauty to millions of women the world over. Pasteurized Face Cream, Youthifying Tissue Cream, Town and Country Make-Up Film. Helena Rubinstein, leading beauty authority, now brings them to you in one marvelously convenient package—The Three-Step Beauty Treatment—for 2.00. Begin using this complete beauty treatment. In two weeks' time you will see the most amazing transformation in your skin.

1. PASTEURIZED FACE CREAM

Helena Rubinstein's is the only Pasteurized Face Cream in the world. The mellow-textured face cream preferred by women with the most sensitive skin! Because it not only leaves the skin clean, soft and radiant. It also revitalizes, re-energizes, refines skin texture and firms the contour.

2. YOUTHIFYING TISSUE CREAM

This is a cream that belongs on every woman's dressing table if she is to look young and stay young looking. For this beauty cream is a blend of rare herbs which impart their beauty benefits to the skin. A cream which works on expression lines so that they seem to disappear completely. Youthifying Tissue Cream is a necessity to all skins, especially dry, sensitive skins.

3. TOWN AND COUNTRY MAKE-UP FILM

is a foundation that is a revelation to the women of America. Helena Rubinstein's Town and Country Make-Up Film gives the skin that "moist" dewy gleam of youth. It helps make-up to blend marvelously and stay fresh all day. This unique beauty foundation also softens and comforts the skin. The younger woman uses it to keep her skin young and beautiful. The older woman uses it to conceal the marks of age. It makes lines seem as if they were not there at all. It also conceals blemishes. Decide today to get your new Three-Step Beauty Treatment, 2.00. ST. CHARLES ITEMS

ANNOUNCEMENT has been received here of the marriage of Miss Ella Theodora Riske, the daughter of the late Theodore Riske, to S. Lewis Elmer Jr., the ceremony taking place in the Church of the Transfiguration in New York City Saturday, April 10. The bride is an instructor in English at New York University where she has served for the last three years. She was a native of St. Charles completing her early schooling here and attended Lindenwood College. She is a graduate of Washington University and afterward taught for a time at Lindenwood. In 1931 she received a fellowship which permitted her to carry out research work at Oxford. Mr. Elmer is a graduate of the engineering school at Cornell University and is employed at Elizabeth, N. J. His wife will complete her work this year at the university after which she and her husband will reside in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Miss Celeste Stein, the daughter of Mrs. Flora Stein, of University City, and Joseph L. Weil, son of Mrs. Josie Weil, 211 North Third street, were married last Sunday night at Temple Israel in St. Louis, the Rabbi Ferdinand Isserman presiding. A larger wedding originally planned was curtailed because of the recent death of the bride's grandfather. Henry Hess was the only attendant. A dinner following the ceremony for members of the immediate families and close friends. Miss Polly Henniger, a guest at the Weil home, came here from Monroe, La., to attend the wedding. The young pair left for a trip to New York City and will be at home at 7546 York drive in Clayton after April 25. Mr. Weil, is one of the owners of the Palace Clothing Co. here.

Miss Alice Parker, who is attending Yale University during a two-year leave of absence from Lindenwood College faculty, is to be the delegate from the St. Charles chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution at the forty-sixth Congress of the organization, being held in Washington, this week. Mrs. Henry C. Chiles, of Lexington, Mo., the State Regent, stopped here en route to Washington on Monday of last week with Mrs. Francis C. Becker, 1712 Watson street.

Mrs. Elmer F. Ordelheide, 803 North Kingshighway, returned here after spending the week in Kansas City, Mo., where she attended the convention of Collegiate Registrars.

Fifty-two men and women attended the April card party at the St. Charles Country Club on Tuesday evening. The party was not progressive and rizes were given for each table. Guests attending from out-of-town were Miss Polly Henniger, of Monroe, La., who came as guest of Mr. David Weil; Mr. and Mrs. Mark Connally of Hamburg, Mo.; Guy Andrews of St. Louis. Hostesses for the evening were: Mrs. Floyd Feldman, Mrs. Gilbert Fischbach, Mrs. Roy Westerfeld and Mrs. James E. Moore, Jr.

The seventh annual Jefferson Day dinner was held in Memorial Hall on Thursday night with 350 attending. The dinner was given by members of the Men's and Women's Jefferson Clubs of St. Charles. Guy C. Motley, secretary of Lindenwood College, was toastmaster. Edgar H. Wayman, of St. Louis, gave the main address of the evening, speaking on "Thomas Jefferson." A musical program was given by Miss Myrtle Eberius and the Griesenauer Sisters, the latter a trio from Dardenne prairie. In addition, an orchestra played during the evening.

The annual sophomore class prom was held in the Butler Hall gymnasium at Lindenwood College last night. Receiving at this dance were: the sponsor of the class, Miss Mary Gordon, and class officials; Miss Sue Sonnenday, the president; Miss Betty Bowles, vice-president; Miss Charlotte York, secretary, and Miss Mary Buesch, treasurer.

The League of Women Voters held the April open meeting for members and guests at the St. Charles Public Library, Tuesday evening. Joseph B. Wentker, Prosecuting Attorney, spoke on "County Administration of St. Charles County." A study group session was held again on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Claude Tuttle, 138 Houston street, at which time Miss Adele Goldkamp took up a discussion of the Judiciary of the national government. Mrs. Fred Oldenburg also gave a topic. This study group is focusing its attention on the Constitution.

Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Kern and Miss Helda Schweiss, of Ste. Genevieve, Mo., and R. G. Kern of Chicago, were week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. U. R. Goldkamp, 609 Houston street, last week.

P. E. O. was entertained by Miss Arabella Foster last Wednesday, the meeting being held in the home of Mrs. Maurice T. Martin, 207 North Fifth street.

Mrs. Jonathon E. Clarke, 406 North Sixth street, entertained her parents last weekend and returned with them to their home in Omaha, Neb., on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. White and daughter, Margaret, accompanied Mrs. White's mother, Mrs. W. A. Hughes who was here for a week, home to Glasgow, Mo., last weekend for a brief visit.

Miss Appolonia Anderson of St. Louis entertained at luncheon for her sister, Mrs. John Peitzmeier, of Dallas, Tex., yesterday afternoon. Twelve old friends and classmates of Mrs. Peitzmeier from St. Charles were included. Mrs. Peitzmeier, the former Miss Rita Anderson is visiting her parents in St. Louis and her sister, Mrs. Warren Meyer, 200 North Fourth street. She was entertained at luncheon and bridge by Mrs. G. V. Gross, 711 Monroe street, on Wednesday.

Weddings and Engagements

Foan-Molden

THE wedding of Miss Marie Molden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August A. Molden, 5327 Mardel avenue, and Frederic J. Foan, son of Mrs. Anna Foan, 5458 Pernod avenue, took place yesterday morning at the Church of St. Mary Magdalen, Kingshighway and Sutherland avenue. The Rev. Francis O'Hern of St. Louis University performed the ceremony.

The bride wore white lace made on princesse lines, and a tulle veil attached to a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried lilies of the valley. Her bridesmaid, Miss Margaret Hurley, wore periwinkle blue silk, trimmed with net, and a blue silk polk bonnet matching her dress.

James Foan was his brothers' best man, and Edward Molden, brother of the bride, and Francis Halker were ushers.

Following the wedding a breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents for the bridal party and immediate families. After a reception, held that afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Foan left for Washington. They will be at home to their friends after May 1.

Fleischer-Fine

Announcement has been made by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Fine, 1363 Belt avenue, of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Sue Fine, and Abe Fleischer of Cameron, Tex. The wedding will take place this summer.

Ullberg-Jacobson

The Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Jacobson, 7487 Hoover avenue, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ruth, and Erik Ullberg, 3669 Russell avenue, son of Prof. P. E. Ullberg and the late Mrs. Ullberg of Uppsala, Sweden.

The announcement was made Wednesday afternoon at a tea given by Mrs. Jacobson and her sister, Miss Rebecca. Since Miss Jacobson and her fiance are planning a wedding trip to Sweden, the news was told on the mast of a miniature ship laden with roses, which formed the centerpiece of the tea table.

The wedding will take place in June.

Chandler-Stern

Mr. and Mrs. Max Stern, 745 Interdrive, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Selma, and Samuel J. Chandler, son of Mrs. Rebecca Chandler of New York. The wedding took place April 9 in Cleveland, and after an extended tour of the East, Mr. and Mrs. Chandler will make their home at the Alcazar Hotel in Cleveland.

Goldman-Levin

Miss Helen Levin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin S. Levin, 6136 Waterman boulevard, and Edward Jay Goldman, son of Samuel Goldman of Los Angeles, Cal., were married last Sunday morning at 11 o'clock at Hotel Chase. Rabbi Ferdinand M. Isserman performed the ceremony.

The marriage took place before the bay windows in the Italian room of the hotel, which were banked with palms and fernery. The bride wore a long pale pink lace dress, made with a pink marquisette yoke fitting close around the neck. Over this she wore a short lace jacket with sleeves puffed at the shoulder. Her pink finger-tip veil and face veil of tulle fell from a braided coronet around her head. Her wedding bouquet was of gardenias and lilies-of-the-valley.

Mr. Goldman was attended by Marvin Levin, a brother of the bride, as best man.

After the wedding a breakfast was served in the Colonial room of the hotel, where the 25 guests, members of both families, were seated at a large oval table, decorated with two large centerpieces of white sweet peas, roses and lilies.

Out-of-town guests present were Sam Goldman of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Brodsky of Quincy, Ill., uncle and aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Ariel Goldburg of Charleston, W. Va., another aunt of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Goldman are spending a few days in Chicago before leaving for Los Angeles where they will make their home.

Wilson-Goldman

The engagement of Miss Faye Goldman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Goldman, 5923 Page boulevard, and Ben Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wilson, 6028 Bartmer avenue, was announced at a reception given Tuesday evening.

Thuner-Kuhn

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Kuhn of 3735 Louisiana avenue have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Doris B. Kester, and Paul A. Thuner of Knoxville, Tenn. Mr. Thuner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Thuner of 4840 South Broadway.

The wedding will take place June 1, after which Mr. Thuner will take his bride to Knoxville to live.

Stewart-Leppe

The wedding of Miss C. Ruth Leppe, daughter of Charles Leppe, 3629 North Taylor avenue, and Charles Harrison Stewart of Akron, O., took place Feb. 15 in Atlanta, Ga. Until her marriage Mrs. Stewart taught French at the Toccao Falls (Ga.) Institute. She is a graduate of Asbury College, Wilmore, Ky., and Mr. Stewart is formerly from Argentina, South America. Mr. and Mrs. Stewart are making their home in Akron.

May Queen Elected At Webster College

MISS LENORE O'CONNOR, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James J. O'Connor, 5806 Bartmer avenue, a junior at Webster College, was elected May Queen by the student body recently. She will be crowned in a campus ceremony Friday afternoon, May 21, at 3 o'clock, by the outgoing queen, Miss Mary Frances Higgins, a senior.

Eight maids of honor have been elected by their respective classes to precede Miss O'Connor to the throne, and are: Miss Ruth Crowe, Miss Jane O'Donnell and Miss Gladys Wencker, seniors; Miss Veronica Coad and Miss Frances Delmore, juniors; Miss Dianne Pauley and Miss Kathleen O'Rourke, sophomores; and Miss Patricia Costello, a freshman.

A tea will be given this afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock in Loretto Hall of the College by the faculty. Parents of all the students will be honor guests, and the college girls will assist the faculty in the receiving line and will serve. A program of musical numbers and readings will be given by the students, including a humorous skit, "I Am a Home Work Teacher," written by Miss Gertrude O'Rourke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. O'Rourke, 413 Fairlawn avenue, Webster Groves, and given by Miss Ruth Savage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Savage, 6216 Arendes drive.

Pepsodent alone of tooth powders contains this thrilling scientific discovery for giving teeth amazing new luster!

Pepsodent alone among Tooth Powders contains IRIUM

BECAUSE OF IRIUM . . . Pepsodent requires NO SOAP. Contains NO GRIT . . . NO PUMICE. —Safe!

BECAUSE OF IRIUM . . . Pepsodent gently floats film away —restores natural luster. —Thorough!

BECAUSE OF IRIUM . . . Pepsodent Powder leaves your mouth feeling clean and wholesome. —Refreshing!

• When there's a better way, you can bank on alert Americans to find it!

Already 10,000,000 purchases prove a nation-wide switch to Pepsodent Tooth Powder. For Pepsodent alone among powders contains IRIUM—the amazing new scientific answer to dull, film-stained teeth.

IRIUM is a totally new kind of foaming ingredient which speedily softens the glue-like film on teeth and floats it away like magic!

IRIUM makes Pepsodent a remarkably efficient tooth powder. One that responds instantly to your brush. So effective is IRIUM that a single brushing leaves your enamel cleaner and more radiant than you have ever before experienced.

That's why teeth look whiter, feel clean so much longer after using Pepsodent Powder containing IRIUM.

Teeth sparkle as they never did with old-fashioned, laborious methods.

Yet Pepsodent Powder is SAFE, because it contains NO GRIT, NO PUMICE.

So refreshing is Pepsodent containing IRIUM that a wholesome tingle rejuvenates your mouth, your sense of taste with every brushing.

Try Pepsodent Powder containing IRIUM. See how it shows up any other tooth powder you ever used—BAR NONE!

All Pepsodent now on sale contains IRIUM

USE PEPSODENT POWDER! . . . it alone contains IRIUM—for thrilling luster on teeth!

"GREAT WALTZ" FIRST OF SUMMER OPERA

Bernice Claire, With Gladys Baxter and Guy Robertson in Leads, June 4.

The 1937 Municipal Opera season will open Friday night, June 4, with Bernice Claire, coloratura soprano, appearing with Gladys Baxter and Guy Robertson in the leading roles of the operetta, "The Great Waltz." The production, presented for the first time at Municipal Theater, will continue for 10 consecutive nights.

Miss Claire, who will appear for the first time at the outdoor theater, made her stage debut in 1928 in "The Desert Song." Later she played in movie productions of "No, No, Nanette," "Kiss Me Again," "Spring Is Here," "Numbered Men" and "Top Speed." Last year she co-starred in Europe with Noah Beery in the movie, "Two Hearts in Harmony," and recently has sung regularly on radio programs.

Robertson will play Johann Strauss Jr., a part he created and is now playing with the original company for the third consecutive year. He was seen in the role when the company played at Municipal Auditorium here in December, 1935.

Miss Baxter will play the Countess Olga, a role in which she appeared for a year in 1935-36, including the St. Louis presentation of the operetta. She was in St. Louis recently for a special radio broadcast announcing the schedule for a 1937 Municipal Opera season.

The rest of the season's repertory, following the "The Great Waltz," is in order: "The Fortune Teller," "Music in the Air," "Louie the 14th," new to the Municipal Theater; "The Mikado," "Salute the Spring," a world premiere; "The Prince of Pilsen," "The Bartered Bride," Friedrich Smetana's comic opera in English, new to St. Louis; "The Pink Lady," "Robin Hood," "Babes in Toyland" and "Wild Violets."

Season subscribers already have received reservation notices. Payments must be made by May 8. New reservations are accepted daily, except Sunday, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. at the office of the Municipal Theater Association, 1876 Arcade building.

She Will Sing in "Great Waltz"

BERNICE CLAIRE.

AEROBATIC COMPETITION REGULATIONS ANNOUNCED

Elimination Contests Will Be Held May 29 and 30 With Finals on May 31.

Regulations for the aerobatic competition to be featured in the air racing and flight exhibitions at the Municipal Airport May 29 to 31 inclusive, were announced yesterday in New York by James Rowan Ewing, managing director of the air meet, after conferring with Maj. Alford J. Williams, flyer, who will serve as chief judge of the aerobatic competition and officials of the National Aeronautic Association.

Competition, according to the rules adopted, will be limited to eight participants, each to take part in the contest by invitation. All contestants must comply with Bureau of Air Commerce rules, and all maneuvers must be performed within the boundaries of the airport.

Elimination contests will begin at 2 p. m., May 29, and continue the following day. Finals will be held May 31. Cash prizes for the various events will total $15,500.

HISTORIANS OF VALLEY CONVENE HERE APR. 29

About 200 Teachers and Students to Hold Thirtieth Annual Meeting.

The Mississippi Valley Historical Association, composed of teachers and students of American history, will hold its thirtieth annual convention April 29 and 30 and May 1 at the Coronado Hotel. About 200 members from other states and 100 local members are expected to attend.

They will be guests of honor at the annual dinner April 29 commemorating the Louisiana Purchase of 1804 at the hotel. This year the dinner is being sponsored jointly by the Missouri Historical Society and Washington University.

Dr. Edward Everett Dale, professor of history at the University of Oklahoma and president of the Mississippi Valley Historical Association, will speak at the dinner on "The Cow Country in Transcition." Officers, directors and their wives and woman members of the Missouri Historical Society will be hosts.

The Mississippi Valley Historical Association was formed in 1907 in Lincoln, Neb. Most of its members teach in universities and colleges. The organization held a convention in St. Louis in 1919.

Three Civil War Newspapers.

At the opening session, speakers will describe three great newspapers of the Civil War, the New York Tribune, the Missouri Democrat and the Chicago Tribune. Joseph Schafer of the Wisconsin Historical Society will speak on "Was the West a Cafety Valve for Labor?" at a luncheon conference the same day.

That afternoon C. H. Cramer of the Southern Illinois State Normal University will discuss "Tribulations of a Military Commander in the War of 1812." The birth of the petroleum industry will be the subject of a paper by Paul H. Giddens of Allegheny College.

Theodore C. Blegen of the Minnesota Historical Society will play the piano, accompanied by two vocalists, to illustrate a lecture April 30 on "Immigration and the Westward Movement in Ballad and Song."

Other speakers will discuss humor of the backwoods from 1820 to 1840, the early theater of the Northwest, the political significance of the Missouri Controversy and scholarly lag in textbooks.

Arrangements Committee.

The local Arrangements Committee, headed by Prof. Ralph P. Bieber of Washington University, includes Chancellor Throop of Washington University, Isaac H. Lionberger, president of the Missouri Historical Society John L. Roemer, president of Lindenwood College; Professors Roland G. Usher, Donald McFayden, Dietrich Gerhard and Dorothy A. Neuhoff of Washington University; John B. Denvir Jr., Miss Stella M. Drumm and Mrs. Nettie H. Beauregard of the Missouri Historical Society; Professors Raymond W. Corrigan, J. SEA SCOUT INSPECTION AT CREVE COEUR LAKE

Formal Opening of Summer Activities Today to Be Preceded by Band Concert.

Sea scouts of the St. Louis Council, Boy Scouts of America, will formally open their summer activities today at 3 o'clock with an inspection by Capt. G. F. Schwartz, commander of the Sixth Naval Reserve area, of sea scout ships and equipment at Creve Coeur Lake.

The inspection will be preceded by a band concert by the Webster Groves Civic Band and will be followed by excursions on the lake for guests. Awards are to be presented for five sea scout craft ranked first class, and second class rating will be given three others.

The St. Louis Council has been notified that attempts are being made to secure special concessions for scouts at the Paris World's Fair which will be in progress this summer when the St. Louis World Jamboree Troop spends five days in Paris.

The names of 38 adult leaders, one from St. Louis, of the scout region composed of Iowa, Nebraska, Colorado, Kansas, Missouri and Wyoming, who will have executive posts at the National Scout Jamboree in Washington June 30 to July 9 were announced Friday at Lincoln, Neb.

Among those named and their positions are: E. B. Moore, Lincoln, aide to Fred G. Davie, regional executive; Merle D. Shippey, St. Louis, supply quartermaster; Lester B. Miller, Columbia, assistant supply quartermaster; Cecil G. Morrison, Cape Girardeau, assistant trading post quartermaster; Dr. J. S. Summers, Jefferson City, assistant medical officer; L. E. Glinkman, Jefferson City, assistant director of post office and communications; C. H. Peden, Joplin, assistant director of exhibits.

Senior scout for boys again will be held this summer at Powder Mill on Current River at Owl Bend, Mo. The site, first used last summer, was selected again because of available recreational facilities and opportunities for exploration in the Ozark hill country, where it is located. The camp will be operated in three two-week sections, each section limited to 40 senior scouts. Applications for enrollment are being taken.

Troop Notes.

Fifteen scouts will be initiated with first honors, 25 will be given second honors and four will get third honors at ceremonies of Shawnee Lodge, Order of the Arrow, Friday and Saturday, at Lion's Den.

Troop 304 has been organized at the Presbyterian Church, Webster Groves, for graduates of Cub Pack 43. Frank McMath is scoutmaster.

William McKinley Auxiliary No. 11 of United Spanish War Veterans gave an American Flag to Troop 197, Vinita Park Methodist Church, last week.

Courts of honor were held last week by Troop 306, Webster Groves, Troop 79, Third Baptist Church; Troop 347, New Overland School; Troop 33, St. Peter's Church; Troop 303, Webster Groves Methodist Church, and Troop 132, Central Institute for the Deaf.

Memberships in the Y. M. H. A.-Y. W. H. A. will be awarded outstanding boy scouts Thursday at 8 p. m. at an annual Bernie M. Goldsmith Memorial Program to be held at the "Y." Troops 11, 30, 54, 87, 90, 119, 156, 246 and Sea Scout Ship 9 will participate.

Girl Scouts.

The founding of the first girl scout troop 25 years ago in Savannah, Ga., will be celebrated this week with a pageant to be given at 8:15 Friday in Convention Hall of Municipal Auditorium. Final dress rehearsals were held yesterday.

About 5000 girl scouts and brownies in uniform will stage a grand entry as first event. As they enter, they will sing a selection from "Babes in Toyland." A birthday "cake" nearly 7 feet high and 13 feet wide will rest on a platform 18 feet long.

Following specialty dances, scouts wearing costumes of 32 countries will stage an international procession. Some of the uniforms were sent by the countries they represent. The spirit of scouting will be represented by a girl scout carrying the world flag adopted at a world conference in 1930. Final pageant event will be the exit march.

The pageant is being presented by the Girl Scout Leaders' Association of St. Louis and St. Louis County under direction of Percy E. Ramsay. Costumes are being arranged by Margaret Bishop Breen. The orchestra will be directed by Benjamin L. Rader. Emblems and designs for the international flags were created by Walter Kern. Mrs. R. T. Bertram and Mrs. Walter Kern painted them on the flags.

BANKERS WILL MEET MAY 10

Missouri Association to Hold Forty-seventh Convention.

The forty-seventh annual convention of the Missouri Bankers' Association will be held May 10, 11 and 12 at Hotel Jefferson. The meeting was last held here in 1933.

F. Lee Major, vice-president of the Boatmen's National Bank is president of the association.

Herbert Benjamin to Speak

Herbert Benjamin, national organization secretary of the Workers' Alliance of America, will speak at a meeting of the St. Louis Workers' Alliance at 8 o'clock tonight at C I O Hall, 1041 North Grand boulevard.

COME INTO THIS LOVELY Garden

All VIRGINIA is a garden now

Formal Garden, Palace of Royal Governors, Williamsburg.

● Re-live some of the most thrilling chapters in American History. Motor over roads where armies marched!

● See the homes of famous men—Washington, Jefferson, Monroe, Madison, Lee, Wilson and others.

● COLONIAL AMERICA has come to life—in Virginia! You can fairly hear the rustle of petticoats and satin breeches on Williamsburg's famed "Duke of Gloucester" Street. A whole town restored as it was two hundred years ago! Here, and all over Virginia, lovely gardens beckon, with their old-fashioned flowers and giant box trees. If you cannot come now, Virginia promises an interesting summer, with lots for you to do. Renowned resorts, with superb golf courses and other sports facilities, are ready for you. One moment you may be atop a towering mountain, the world at your feet . . . the next, basking on clean white sand, counting the boats on a blue, blue sea. It's that way in Virginia, where mountains and seashore are so close together. By all means plan to motor over Skyline Drive. You've heard of it . . . the "roadway through the heavens," built on the very crest of the mountains. It affords unbroken views of some of the grandest scenery in the country.

Wide Variety of Clothes Being Worn This Spring By Feminine St. Louis

The Fashion Designers Have Gotten Their Inspiration From Many Sources for New Trends.

By SYLVIA STILES

THANKS to the fashion designers who have gotten their inspiration from many sources, ranging from the trouble in Spain to the coronation in England, there's no monotony about spring clothes. Bolero costumes, cape ensembles, trim tailleurs and many printed frocks have been seen about St. Louis since the weather man has decided to give the followers of style trends a break now and then. Evenings are made more glamorous by vivid chiffons and prints, organdie trimmed marquisettes and a host of flower ornaments.

One of the most interesting examples of the bolero's use for suits of the dressmaker type that I've seen this spring was the costume worn by Mrs. Arthur B. Clark at an informal tea. Her ensemble brought out other noteworthy style points, including quilting as a tailored trimming, and the effectiveness of the new shade of thistle rose in combination with chartreuse green. Mrs. Clark's bolero and skirt were made of light weight hair cloth, while the blouse attached to the skirt was of sheer wool voile, combining rose and chartreuse. Yoke and sleeves were of the chartreuse tone. The quilted theme was applied to the bolero in a large flower pattern. A wide-brimmed off-the-face sailor of matching rose felt had streamers at the back. Gabardine cut-out ties and carefully chosen accessories contributed to the attractiveness of this costume.

ANOTHER interesting color combination noted at a recent luncheon was displayed by Mrs. Harold Perring. Her frock was of navy faille, very sheer of weight and embroidered in clusters of red, yellow and blue flowers. A scalloped collar of buttercup yellow faille adorned the V neckline and matching cuffs finished the short sleeves. Gloves repeated the yellow tone, while Mrs. Perring's brimmed hat was of navy straw and her footwear combined navy gabardine with patent leather.

Mention of the vogue of striking colors reminds also of the costume of Mrs. L. J. Sverdrup, which indorsed the new shade of carnelian red. Yellow predominated in the design of her printed frock, the background of which was the tone of brownish red, and she wore yellow daisies at the collarless V neckline. The short sleeves were shirred at the cuff and the skirt flared. A hat of brown balibunti straw matched the dominant hue of the costume. It turned up abruptly off the face at the front, but was brimless at the back where a bow and streamers appeared. Gabardine shoes were trimmed with patent leather.

—o-o—

CAPES have assumed so much style importance this spring that every well-dressed gathering has at least one cape costume. Typical of the trend is the ensemble worn by Miss Esther Witt—the shirtwaist frock of black crepe dotted with white, trimmed with tailored bows from neckline to hem and belted with red patent leather and the finger-tip length cape of black sheer wool lined with the matching print. The cape is very square at the shoulders, hangs with a boxy emphasis, and is reversible. To complete her costume Miss Witt has chosen a black straw fabric hat, quite shallow of crown and with a scooping front brim. Her high cut pumps of black kid are perforated all over with dots repeating the motif of the frock.

BLACK AND WHITE alliances are as smart for evening as they are for daytime and are rivaling the new color combinations for popularity. An example of this vogue in evening wear is the frock which Miss Harriette Welsh chose for a cocktail party and dinner dance at the Missouri Athletic Association. Miss Welsh will be married next Saturday to Charles W. Elam and the party was given in their honor by a group of their friends. Black marquisette was the medium of her frock, designed along fashionable redingote lines. A banding of white embroidered organdie in a flower pattern edged the front of the frock and extended around the top of the wide hem. Cap sleeves shirred so that they were quite full at the shoulders also were edged with the white organdie. The neckline was high and tied with a bow at the front.

Dark red flowers and chartreuse green leaves on a white background supplied a striking color effect in the evening frock worn by Mrs. William T. Simpson at the M. A. A. The red predominated, of course, but the designer chose to emphasize the chartreuse by inserting flaring panels of chartreuse chiffon at the back of the skirt and supplying a wide sash of the same shade. The neckline of this dress was square and the bodice simply cut, all of the dramatic flair being assigned to the skirt.

Gray is being seen less during the daytime but more frequently during the evening. It offers a flattering background for many different flower tones so popular this season and looks most attractive when developed of a sheer, softly clinging material. The vogue of gray for evening was demonstrated by the flattering lace frock of Mrs. John T. Burton. The low-cut bodice was covered with a jacket which had short sleeves made so very full that they had a wing-like aspect at the shoulders. A wide velvet sash in a lovely fuchsia tone repeated one of the shades of the handsome flowers on this dress.

—o-o—

SHORT SKIRTS and uneven hemlines are being discussed and heralded by so many fashion authorities that the reporter of style trends is on the alert for evidences of the acceptance of the shorter skirt for evening. Mrs. S. Oksner has been among those to indorse the theme. She appeared recently at a dinner party in a dress of black sheer material that was cut with an upward oval swing at the center front of the skirt hemline. The hem was edged with a double ruffle of the black material, as were the shoulders and the V-shaped neckline. A single red rose was worn on the bodice and the bright shade repeated in fabric sandals.

—o-o—

TWO OTHER attractive frocks noted in the same group with Mrs. Oksner included an original Paris model of printed crepe featuring a splashy flower motif on a black background worn by Mrs. Louis Goodman and an allover printed frock emphasizing silver on a navy background worn by Mrs. A. N. Saffern. The latter dress had tiny capelet sleeves covering the shoulders.

—o-o—

NOT ALL of the good-looking evening costumes are worn by young women, as evidenced by the well-dressed matrons seen at several large dinner parties during the past week. A formal dinner given in connection with the Rotary convention illustrated this point. Among those at the speakers' table was Mrs. William H. Barnes, whose choice was a faille taffeta in a dark wine tone. This was cut along princesse lines, the neckline and hemline both scalloped and faced with Coronation blue taffeta. Cuffs of the short puffed sleeves were lined with the same blue tone and were caught up in petal effect.

—o-o—

CORONATION BLUE also accented the dress of Mrs. William B. Spotts, which was of black chiffon over a black crepe slip that was finished with a deep yoke of lace at the bodice. The bodice draped at the shoulders, fullness falling into a soft V at the neckline and also covering the top of the shoulders. A soft suede belt tied in a flat bow at the front was of Coronation blue, the dominant color in a corsage of spring flowers.

Hair Adornments

GOLD and silver butterflies, velvet birds, coronets of real orchids, Greek fillets of ribbon and numerous tiny veils are fashion's latest dictates in the way of hair adornments. The butterflies and the birds are chosen in place of artificial flowers or brilliant clips and usually are placed one over each temple. The little veils are circular novelties pinned to the "top-knot" and dotted with confetti-like bits of brilliant glass or metal. Some of the veils have real or artificial flowers at the center. In the choice of flowers, orchids continue the most elegant and there is an increased interest in orchids of two shades rather than the single color.

A TENOR TURNS TO THE FILMS

Youthful Kenny Baker, Who Has Been Heard by Millions Over Radio, to Be Seen in the Movies.

By H. H. Niemeyer

HOLLYWOOD, April 17.

EVERY Sunday night for a good many weeks now radio listeners have been thrilled, if they are the thrilly, hero-worshiping type, at the singing of Kenny Baker on the Jack Benny program. Four or five million air fans hear him every week. Maybe it's 10 million—we're not up on radio figures. Kenny himself modestly places the crowd at a million or so, but whatever the number is, Kenny's audiences have never seen him. Or practically never. But all that is about to be changed. Young Mr. Baker is getting a real chance in the films now and will be on display shortly.

The customers will be rather agreeably surprised, too. Kenny is, as everyone knows, a tenor, and the public's idea of most tenors is a little fat man who sings romantically but who doesn't look the part. This, of course, doesn't take in the movie tenors. Screen heroes—and all picture tenors just have to be heroes; you couldn't have a cinema villain clutching a machine gun while reaching up in the clouds for a high note, could you?—must be reasonably handsome. And Kenny Baker is not little or fat. In fact, he's a pretty husky lad, standing 6 feet tall and weighing 170 pounds. Something of an athlete, too. Plays golf rather well and better than the average game of handball. Strange to say—and this is no mere publicity stunt—his hobby is chopping wood, which is, to say the least, an unusual one for any tenor. He likes to get out with an ax and chop down trees. Maybe, as each one falls, he says, to himself, of course, "There goes Bing Crosby," or Allan Jones, or Dick Powell, or some other tenor, leaving himself standing, majestically, among the ruins.

Be that as it may, Kenny Baker CAN sing, and he is good-looking. The necessary touch of romance for a screen hero is furnished by a thick mat of light brown hair which is "naturally wavy." Also, if you care to know, his eyes are blue.

—o-o—

STRANGE to say, Kenny Baker, who has had a small part in one picture and who is about to be starred in "Mr. Dodd Takes the Air," a film version of Clarence Buddington Kelland's story, "The Great Crooner," has been under contract to one of Hollywood's most widely known picture producers, Mervyn LeRoy, for two years, but is just now coming into the screen spotlight. LeRoy picked him up one night at the Cocoanut Grove, where the young man—he was then 23—was singing. Thought he sounded promising, got his name on the dotted line and then, apparently, more or less forgot about his discovery.

Now, at 25, Kenny ranks among the first three male singers of the radio and LeRoy figures he has something worthwhile. Kenny hopes so too, for he has more assurance now than he had that night, two years ago when, as a very nervous boy, he stepped before the microphone and was presented by Orchestra Leader Eddie Duchin to the assembled guests from filmdom and Los Angeles society, as just another tenor.

Baker didn't know it at the time, but his destiny was in that room. LeRoy, one of the top-notch directors of Hollywood, and the man famed for his discovery of Clark Gable, Loretta Young and Fernand Gravet, was seated at one of the tables among the cocoanut palms, and heard Baker sing.

LeRoy numbers among his friends Jack Benny and he arranged for the personable Benny to hear his new find sing, with the result that Kenny was given a trial booking on the Jack Benny hour in October, 1935. A seven-weeks contract was followed by another for 13 weeks and a trip to New York.

—o-o—

THIS was the first time that young Baker had ever been on a train. In fact, it was the first time that he had ever gone out of California, the state in which he was born. The date of that event was Sept. 30, 1912, and the place was Monrovia, a little town in the foothills of the Sierra Madres of the Rocky Mountain range. Monrovia is about 30 miles from Hollywood. It is considerably more remote than that, insofar as the temperament of its people is concerned. Most Monrovia folks look upon Hollywood as a place of iniquity and shake their heads at the idea of a fine boy like Kenny Baker being there.

The only child of Gordon C. Baker, a Monrovia furniture dealer, and his wife, Dorothy, Kenny has been singing ever since he could toddle, but like those other movie singers, Bing Crosby and Dick Powell, his first musical inclinations were instrumental rather than vocal. He wanted to become a violinist, and he spent much time, when other lads were out having fun, trying to master the fiddle. His family, meanwhile, had moved to Los Angeles—for business reasons, not on account of Kenny's fiddling—and the boy, then in knee pants, became assistant leader and concert-master of the Robert Louis Stevenson junior high school orchestra.

Later, when his family moved again, away from their proximity to Hollywood, down to Long Beach, Baker discovered that he possessed an exceptionally wide range of voice, and he sang at school assemblies and entertainments. However, for a time a shyness, not often noticeable among tenors, lack of professional training and encouragement hampered his progress.

He got a summer job working in a Los Angeles furniture store and used every cent of the money he earned for vocal lessons. So ambitious was he that he tried out a dozen different teachers within a few months.

Now he knew that he had the makings of a successful singer, that he had the voice to begin with, radiant health and youth. But the next summer vacation, he got a job helping build Boulder Dam and later on a farm in New Mexico, and it was impossible for him to take any voice lessons in those places. His quest for a singing career waned a little, but did not die.

Upon his return to Los Angeles, it was rekindled brightly when he got a few days work singing with a choral group in a Ramon Novarro picture. That was the boy's first contact with films.

His mother, who always encouraged him in his ambitions to sing, now persuaded him to enter the current trials for the Atwater Kent auditions, and he began to study with Edward Novis, brother of Donald Novis, a former Atwater Kent prize winner. But young Baker could finish no better than second in the Long Beach district.

After this setback he entered Long Beach Junior College, and then he began to learn to sing by singing. He sang at every conceivable sort of function. For the Rotary Club, the Kiwanis, the Lions, a parent-teachers group, a church social. In fact, any place where they wanted a singer—without charge.

And all the time Baker was developing a likable personality which now, says Mervyn LeRoy, is going to make him a great screen star.

He got his radio start, singing for 15 minutes with Ted Bliss, at Station KFOX, Long Beach. This didn't pay very much money, but it gave him confidence—and a local reputation.

May 6, 1933, was a red-letter day in young Baker's life, for he married Geraldine Churchill, who had been his best girl all during his days in high school. They are still married, even though four years is a long time for such things in Hollywood.

Now singing was a bread-and-butter proposition for him. He had to make it pay. He got a job singing at a Christian Science church, then he was given $19 a week and meals for himself and his wife for singing tenor in a radio quartet at California Christian College. He sang solos

THREE LIKENESSES OF KENNY BAKER, RADIO STAR WHO IS ENTERING THE MOVIES.

Crying on the Shoulders of Psychiatrists

Some Women Are Giving Lachrymose Glands a Workout in This Manner.

By Alice Hughes

NEW YORK, April 17.

SWEET are the uses of psychiatry, I've often heard; but it took a conversation with one of my big-business women friends to point out a spandy-new one, at least to me.

She tells me that all women, even those of the highest voltage, 1937 model, still feel the need of a good cry now and then to sort of clear the psychical air. I'm sure there isn't one of us who hasn't noted, at times, the salutary effect of giving the lachrymose glands a good workout. That post fellow once said "For men must work and women must weep"—and how much sterner the problem these times when thousands of women must toil as well!

Successful business women everywhere are the products of the strictest self-discipline. Free-weeping can have no place in a life devoted to fighting one's way upward in a still-unfriendly and highly skeptical world of men. Such women of this type as I know tell me that when the old urge comes on they quickly turn all their faculties to some new and exceptionally knotty problem. This, they say, heads off the threatened freshet. Now I have learned still another form of relief.

This one tells me that she finds relief from her nervous tension and cerebral strain by visiting a psychiatrist she likes and trusts. Encouraged by the medico, she tells him all her problems and woes and burdens, and before long they are washed quite away by a healing and relieving flood!

Now this is all very well, but there is the matter of the skull-doctor's fee, which inclines to be stiffish. I have a feeling the same thing could be accomplished by going alone into a dark room and thinking very sad thoughts. At least, it's worth trying, if the need, Heaven forbid, arises!

OUR MAGNIFICENT four-day Ice Carnival packed 64,000 citizens into Madison Square Garden, and poured no less than $100,000 into the coffers of several charities. It was by all odds the most beauteous thing of its sort I've ever seen, and it will have a very important effect on our movies of the near future. Film scouts haunted the place, thanks to the success of little Sonja Henie on the screen. The handsome Austrian, Karl Shafer, the international champion just turned pro, is said to have already leased his beauty to the movies, and Maribel Vinson, our national amateur champion, is listening for a good professional offer. And Melitta Brunner, the lovely blonde pro from Vienna, is headed for a Hollywood screen test. It is a good bet that the movies are going to be very ice-minded for the next year.

WHOM SHOULD I see at Lily Pons' recent house-warming but the retired Dream Girl of the Metropolitan Opera—Geraldine Farrar; Gerry as ever was, white-haired, slim and beautiful in the mid-fifties. She's a country neighbor of Lily's out Connecticut way.

WE HAD a very fast look indeed at Young Tyrone Power, the current movie crush of the high school girls. He had planned a ten-day relaxation here, but Hollywood summoned him back after three days. He did have time to deny that he had any notion of marrying anyone at present, including peaches-and-cream Henie. Muttered something about his career coming first just now. But my, he certainly is pretty!

THE MOST PERFECT and the most beautiful motion picture theater in the world may be wrecked to make way for another office building! That is the magnificent Center Theater in Radio City, forced by fate to play second fiddle to its mighty sister, The Radio City Music Hall, a block away. Films have proved a failure in the lovely Center, and such big spectacles as "The Great Waltz" and "White Horse Inn" are so costly to produce and operate that there's little profit left. The house was a dream that the late "Roxy" made come true.

GERTRUDE MAYER has started a new "relaxing course in her famous Mannequin Academy here. Gertrude, who was once a wondrous model herself, says the reason her girls always look so cool and collected is because she teaches them to relax—and she recommends such study to all of us during the coming warm weather—an idea which seems very sound to me. But I haven't the vaguest notion when I could find time to relax, even if I learned how. Have you?

MY OPINION

by Martha Carr

My Dear Mrs. Carr:

IN reading your column, I came across a letter signed "Jeanne," which reminded me so much of myself. I am also a woman in the early thirties who gave up her life to a job on which it was necessary to work day and night. My family was dependent upon me.

But now I have a job where I work only half the hours I did on the previous one; and I have so much time on my hands in the day time I don't know what to do with it.

When I am at home, I always find something to do, of course, but that is not what I mean. I need outside contacts and friends. One cannot join clubs unless one has some acquaintances. Where can you find them? The truth is, I never have found much to live for. I want to say this to girls: Wake up while you are young; then you will not find yourself in the condition I now find myself.

AIMLESS.

You have undoubtedly had too much work and too little play. Your responsibilities have been great for young shoulders; but you still are young and are just at the beginning of all kinds of interests. Your new leisure should be a boon to you and all the more appreciated because it is the first you have had.

Many girls in your position have gone into clubs for acquaintance; not always because they already had friends. And no matter where you go, and especially among strangers, you must go half way. You must offer people a kindly interest in whatever interests them. Do not expect them always to make the effort to draw you out or sympathize with you or handle you too delicately. The girl you happen to be talking to may need from you just what you are expecting of her.

When you find a club or a place you think might interest you, do not carry with you the spirit and the look of one who has no faith, no courage and no enthusiasm. Try your best to look happy and to be happy.

—o—o—

My Dear Mrs. Carr:

● I HAVE BEEN READING in the papers so much this winter, and have heard so many people talk about trips to "Mexico, D. F.," I really do not know what the "D. F." stands for, but I hate to ask. I have, though, heard the question asked of some who are just back from there and they certainly seem vague about it; though I don't know why they should be. I suppose it is just one of those things that everybody takes for granted. Will you enlighten me—so that I may enlighten some others I know? JANET O.

The "D. F." means, in Spanish, "Distrito Federal," which in simple English is Federal District. It is used in the same way as "D. C." in Washington, D. C. or Washington, District of Columbia.

—o—o—

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM IN THE EIGHTH GRADE and will graduate this year. A girl in my room is giving a graduating party. My question is, do I have to take her a gift, if I attend? Some people say "yes" and some "no." Thanking you, DOT.

If you will inquire of the girls who are to attend this party, I think you will find that the majority will take some sort of gift. It may not be expensive and may be the cleverest one presented her. Do a little detective work and find out just what she says she "dotes on." If you do not go, I believe you would not be expected to give her a present.

—o—o—

Dear Mrs. Carr:

● I WOULD LIKE TO ASK your opinion on the following subject:

When a woman is divorced, she is a divorcee and could never possibly be called a single woman. If she remarries and is divorced from the second husband also, she is again a divorcee, is she not? Does this hold good whether she marries a veteran or a civilian? INNOCENCE.

A woman is a divorcee, no matter how many times she is married, if at the time of being mentioned she is divorced. She is never a single woman after she marries the first time. There can be no discussion about this, as the form is well established.

The divorced woman uses her given name, her surname and the surname of the one to whom she was married last. For instance: Mrs. John C. Eastman who was Alice Orme Gibson before her first marriage, becomes Mrs. Gibson Eastman, after divorce, if this is the name of the last man she has married.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

● I have made several friends through your column and I cannot tell you how much I appreciate your kindness. Mrs. Carr, I want to make an exchange of flowering shrubs, vines, lilies and ferns and several lovely perennials (all hardy) that I know a number of women would like to have in exchange for a congoleum rug, 9 by 12. I will also send flowers for paint, cretonne or varnish. My husband isn't employed at present and I am sadly in need of floor coverings. We have six children and it is impossible for me to keep my floors presentable. Thank you so much. I inclose references.

NEEDY FARMER'S WIFE.

—o—o—

Dear Mrs. Carr:

MAY I WRITE A WORD in regard to complicated households and stepmothers? From my point of view the mother is at the head of the table. As such, she is manager of the home; being a stepmother then, makes absolutely no difference.

"Mrs. A. A. C." has only to assert herself in the right way; and the sooner the better. She should announce there will be no locked doors and she will take the cares of management of the home. And in doing this she should show no favoritism. This woman speaks of gossip indulged in by her husband's family and, should he not have the backbone to stop it, she should tell them she knows about it; but not reveal her informants. And she may add that these people are in sympathy with her. The man having married her, she is entitled to the same love and respect as the first wife, though perhaps the love cannot be the same. A second wife is no drudge.

I wonder why, if a man does not wish to give a woman her place in the home, he marries. And if this woman does not speak up for herself, no one else can do it for her. ASSERT YOURSELF.

THE WORLD AS WOMEN SEE IT

THE POTENTIAL HUSBANDS of ST. LOUIS

A Majority Fall Into Three or Four Sad Classifications; Some of Their Peculiarities Are Mentioned.

By Virginia Irwin

JUST how many bright-eyed, sweet young things descend upon our fair city each year with the avowed intention of seeking a career and the secret hope of finding a man is, of course, a matter of conjecture. But come they do to vie with the native women. Bored with the home town beaux, they view St. Louis as a happy hunting ground where personable, potential husbands hang out on every street corner, just waiting to slip a sparkler on the ring finger of the first girl who indicates that she can stir up a cake if absolutely necessary and who looks like she knows enough to get around without a guardian.

But somebody should tell the poor dears who pick this town as home base for their man hunt, and for that matter the local girls should be warned, too, that the population of St. Louis isn't lopsided with the male of the species.

In the first place the women outnumber the men in St. Louis 420,254 to 401,706, or by a ratio of 100 females to 95.5 males. At least that was the way things stood back in 1930 at the time of the last census and in all probability the picture is just about as black today. Of course there are, according to those smart statisticians, whom Uncle Sam hires to figure out such things, 103,231 males in our metropolis who have never done the lockstep to Lohengrin but that seemingly encouraging figure includes everything in pants over the age of 15. Just why we shouldn't be furnished with more specific statistics is probably a state secret, but the fact remains that Uncle Sam lumps the boys who have never been married into one classification — no ages, no addresses, no idea of how much change they have in their pockets.

OF COURSE, among the 103,231 gentlemen listed simply as "single" in the cold and cruel columns of the census, there are a few gents who would be worth any woman's efforts to snare.

These boys-who-fill-the bill are usually pretty wary, though. They realize that they are in demand, and they're not going to sniff any orange blossoms until they're mighty sure they've got the girl they want. They're as likely as not to forget to ring you up for the second date if you play up to them as they are to cross you off the list if you affect that this-is-just-another-date-to-me-brother attitude. This is the type that expects to get married sometime—and says so — but thinks that when the parson says "until death do you part" the contracting parties ought to mean it, too.

But generally speaking, what a girl draws nine times out of ten, when she's on a man-hunt, is just about as worth while as something you'd find beneath a grating in the sidewalk. The old saying, "seek and ye shall find" just simply doesn't seem to work out when the seeking is for a man.

Look over your bachelor acquaintances and see if they don't fall into one of three or four sad classifications. There's the "poor but promising" young fellow. He admits that he can't afford the swank spots and has convinced himself that a girl should be satisfied with an evening consisting of a movie, a trolley ride, and a hamburger.

Not that money is the only or even the main consideration when a girl is sizing up the eligibility of a bachelor. There are plenty of guys with cash in the bank who might have made satisfactory husbands except for the fact that they prefer their own apartment with a sort of jack-of-all-trades manservant to wait on them in preference to the kind but not always servile ministrations of a loving wife. These are the boys who fool the girl who places too much emphasis on a bank roll. She sees the brocaded hangings and the inevitable brass candelabra and senses the feeling of content that pervades her bachelor friend's emporium and she thinks, "Ah, here's a man who would appreciate a home." But she soon learns that this is the type of bachelor who wouldn't trade his freedom for Garbo or his four-room apartment for a 40-room house in the Country Club Grounds.

Besides the good-as-gold guy-with-a-future but not much at present and the bachelor with a bank roll and a tight hold on his freedom, there are other eligible but not quite satisfactory types. For instance there is the arty fellow who, when he comes to your apartment, sprinkles ashes on the rug and who at home stomps his cigarettes out on the floor—bare of course because he thinks rugs and other indications of civilization are affectations. He is the type who may call up and say, "Let's eat at home tonight. I'll bring the dinner." And then shows up with a dime's worth of cheese and a nickel's worth of crackers. He is the type who dislikes drinking water and Shirley Temple and thinks you're a disgrace to his taste in women if you don't have some strange quirk to your nature like a tendency to commit suicide or a hankering for a try at life in Galapagos Islands.

There are other strange birds among the gents whom the census tables list as strictly "single," but now let's jump to 4402 divorced males listed for St. Louis at the time Uncle Sam last did a little checking up.

The main drawback, of course, with most of the divorced boys is that they are paying out a nice hunk of their salary every month to the little woman whose bright young life they blighted when they announced that they no longer intended to take it. They may have their other faults, and probably do, but the horsefly in the ointment to the girl who is considering one of them as a husband is that little check each month which goes to the first wife.

And now that we have disposed of the strictly single and the divorced gentlemen, we come to the 14,340 widowers listed under the 1930 census.

Generally speaking, unencumbered widowers are considered a pretty good bet, but even a woman with a stout heart shivers at the thought of marrying a man whose wife has died and left him with an assortment of children. Her idea of a Prince Charming is distinctly not an harassed soul surrounded by anywhere from one to nine kids. By himself the widower in question might make an ideal mate, but in this day and age the woman who's looking for a husband prefers to find one without a family to further complicate what usually turns out to be a pretty difficult job anyway.

Of course, any discussion of this kind is bound to irk some of the males, but the point of the matter is—what with something of a scarcity of eligible-to-marry men in St. Louis, a girl can't be too choosy or she'll end up still paying her own bills at the age of 80.

In New York things are slightly different as to numbers—3,472,956 men and 3,457,490 women—but even if you aren't fussy as to color of hair, amount of dough in the bank, etc., it is said that the going for the husband-hunter is tough there, too. But New York is certainly better able to donate some of her surplus men to the out-of-town girls than is St. Louis where there are only 95.5 men to every 100 women, and where there are approximately 20,000 more single, widowed and divorced women than there are single, widowed and divorced men.

GIRL ABOUT TOWN

By Dorothy Coleman

IN A dingy window at 819 Delmar boulevard there is a placard which reads "Elms since 1865," and behind the shopfront is a dealer in European hair. We found the third generation of Elms in attendance. Her name is Kay, and she turned out to be friendly enough.

The original, "since 1865," J. C. Elms, her grandfather, made 37 trips to Europe in quest of human hair to cover the deficiencies of the customers of his beauty shop in the Southern Hotel. To Great Britain primarily, where, being Devonshire-born, he knew the ropes. Although some hair-brokers bought from women entering convents on the continent, he purchased his supply from the peasant women of the British Isles who were willing to part with their crowning glory for pin money. They sheared their tresses only once a year and it behooved the merchants to be on hand early to bid for this curly redhead, or that straight black, and even for the snow-white locks from a healthy scalp.

A year's growth of hair in this country for the average woman would hardly be long enough to work into a Mickey Mouse moustache but the vigorous peasant woman who spends her days in the sun produces enough for an 18-inch plaited coronet in a twelve-month. Bobbing it, for her sometimes means only shortening it from the knees to the hips.

For sanitary reasons all hair must be sterilized before it is brought into this country, a process during which 60 per cent of it is lost, increasing the final expense to the consumer. He eventually has to stand, also, for the 100 per cent duty charged on imported human hair.

—o—o—

GRANDFATHER ELMS made his last trip abroad the year before he died—in 1927—at the age of 85, with a full-blown ebony beard and his own mane of dyed black hair still intact. (There is a photograph of him in the shop.) He had brought so much hair that the younger Elms—J. R., who now conducts the business—has not had to make a trip since, and does not contemplate one for several years. He did, however go on 10 hair-hunting trips with his father.

When Grandfather Elms had his hair salon in the Southern Hotel he also ran a school for beauty operators, and taught them to make up the hair. But now the actual creating of removable coiffures is done in New York.

When a customer comes in to order a head-piece he or she is shown into a back room, safe from impious glances. Another grandaughter, Grace Elms O'Neil, takes the scalp measurements and makes a note of the general type of hair-dress desired. The men get to say whether they will have the part on the left or right side or down center. The woman may express a preference for a ponjola bob or a sculpture curl "do" after Antoine. When the goods arrives from New York, the customers are called in for a fitting. Usually the men's toupees need a little thinning around the ears.

—o—o—

MISS ELMS figures that they have about an equal number of men and women customers. They even get children every now and then who have had their heads singed in fires or have moulted after a fever siege. Not so long ago representatives of the Board of Education came in to see about getting a wig for a youngster who had figured in an accident. The Elms' emporium has provided one woman with a wig ever since she became practically bald from an attack of scarlet fever as a little girl. Whenever possible Elms prefers to grow hair on your own scalp, using the remedies developed by his father.

Wigs and toupees have to be replaced, their length of service depending on how carefully they are brushed—better than combing, incidentally—and how frequently they at the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles, too, every once in a while.

There is a man in Hollywood you seldom hear of, but he plays a mighty important part in the making of movies. His name is Dudley Chambers and he provides voices for the background music you hear in the movies—the large choruses and choirs.

Baker became acquainted with Chambers, and worked as a "background singer" at Paramount, Fox and the Walt Disney studios. But he received no "screen credit" for these vocal efforts and Hollywood heard him without hearing of him.

One day when Baker was singing "background" again, in Lawrence Tibbett's "Metropolitan" picture, he was notified that he would be given an audition next morning in a Texaco radio contest sponsored by Eddie Duchin. He sang and was notified that he would enter the semifinals the next day. This was getting somewhere. He sang so well in his next attempt that he entered the finals—and won. This netted him his first national broadcast and also a week's engagement at the Cocoanut Grove at $100 for the week. It was his first important money.

It was then that LeRoy saw him and launched him on the road to fortune and fame.

In October, 1936, when Jack Benny returned to the air waves after a long absence, Kenny Baker joined him again, but this time as featured soloist. For 39 weeks Baker's voice thrilled the air-minded millions, and enabled him to place third in two national radio polls.

Then LeRoy began to realize what he had and gave him his first picture opportunity in "The King and the Chorus Girl," one of the big hits of the last few weeks. Baker appeared in the Folies Bergere number, singing the "For You" song. It wasn't much of a part, to be sure, but Kenny was launched in pictures.

However, "Mr. Dodd Takes the Air" is the picture which will show moviegoers the real charm and talents of young Mr. Baker. He's making it now.

He is still studying voice an hour each day, with Edward Novis as his coach. But he does not aspire to sing opera. His ambition is to step into the shoes of John McCormack. Ballads and semi-classical numbers are his favorites and he tries, in each singing appearance, to take full advantage of his exceptional voice range. Maybe you've noticed, over the air, how he has pulled many a bum ballad out of a bad hole by going up to High C, or thereabouts, at the finish. Good old Chauncey Olcott used to do it the same way to the great delight of his Irish audiences at Havlin's Theater. Chauncey never played anything but Irishmen, you know, but he wasn't really an Irishman. Neither is Baker. John McCormack is still one up, there, on the boy who wants to fill his place in the music world.

Are Your Children Graduating? -:- -:- By MARJORIE HILLIS

THESE words are directed chiefly to mothers and aunts who are planning to attend a class day or commencement of a son or daughter, or niece or nephew, a few short weeks from now. For the truth is, it's not a minute too soon to begin getting yourself into shape. There are few occasions in your life (not excepting your wedding or your own commencement) when your appearance matters quite so much. Not just to you, but to the extremely self-conscious young person who is responsible for your attendance.

This may seem like so much nonsense, but if it does, that is almost certain proof that you're not as understanding about the boarding-school or college age as you ought to be. Your child may love you dearly and think you're pretty perfect as a relative—at home. But just wait till he sees you with the eyes of a couple of dozen critical classmates looking on! Unless he's a saint, your most endearing qualities will be invisible under a dowdy costume.

There is no time in life when appearances loom up so importantly as between 15 and the early twenties. Especially the appearances of people you have to claim as relatives in public places! An eccentric-looking one or one who says or does the wrong thing can cause acute agony to even the most devoted youngster. And an attractive one who obviously knows the way around can be something to be terribly proud about.

It's not enough to make sacrifices to give your child the best possible education. It's up to you to make some more and give him also the best possible parent for graduation show purposes. If you've been wearing your hair the same way for the last 10 years, you'd better got to a good hairdresser tomorrow and begin trying out some more up-to-date coiffure and get a permanent when you've found the right one. You'd better begin thinking, too, not just about the dress for commencement itself, but what you're going to have on when you arrive and what you'll wear around the campus or school grounds. And above all, make plans for a few lavish gestures. It is a curious fact that nothing makes the average adolescent writhe with embarrassment like too public economizing.

The fact is that the graduate has finished and passed all the tests and it's your turn now. You're in for a good stiff examination, and you'd better do a little preparing. You will know that you have passed with flying colors if the young man or woman says: "Gee, you were the most attractive parent (or aunt) at school!" But if he hurries you down corridors and introduces you only when it's necessary; your mark is probably close to zero.

—o—o—

TWO LETTERS that I've had recently have had to do with the problem of making more friends. "People come when I ask them," one woman writes, "but they don't just drop in, and I can't always be giving parties to avoid being lonely." And another woman says, "Won't you give some advice to the woman who lives alone, without many friends, and added to that is a poor conversationalist?"

I think both of these writers might follow the plan of one young woman who decided that practically every one she knew liked tea in the late afternoon, and proceeded accordingly. She was a young married woman with no maid and a very limited income, but tea, she realized, didn't need to involve much trouble or expense. She worked out a system that was almost an art, and it was such a successful bait that soon her small apartment usually had a guest come 5 o'clock.

Every morning when the housework was done, she set the tea tray—and she set it beautifully, with her best china and silver and tea napkins, as though royalty were coming to tea. Tea was put in the teapot, sugar in the sugar-bowl; everything was ready except the actual food. And she always planned some specially good tidbit, even though it had to be something that would keep or could be used up for dinner or breakfast next day if nobody came. Sometimes it was tiny hot rolls and a pot of delectable jam. Sometimes it was a pecan coffee cake, or some delicious cinnamon buns. Usually there were little cakes and cookies or brownies or some extra good wafers with cheese.

She took pains, of course, to tell people quite casually to drop in which they could. And when they took her at her word, out came the tea-tray as though it were a daily event. At first it was far from that, actually, but eventually her friends came oftener and oftener. They thought it was no trouble to her, since she would be having tea in any case—and there is no denying that well-served food brings people together as well as brotherly love. Especially tea at the end of a long, hard day.

You don't have to be a brilliant conversationalist over a tea-tray. Even a painfully timid person can seem charming if she presides gracefully and sees that her guests have hot tea and the right things to go with it. For tea is a friendly, relaxing ceremony (and a very inexpensive way to entertain). If you go to an office, it isn't quite so simple, but there are still Saturdays and Sundays. And in that case, the luxury of tea at home will be as much fun for you as for your guests.

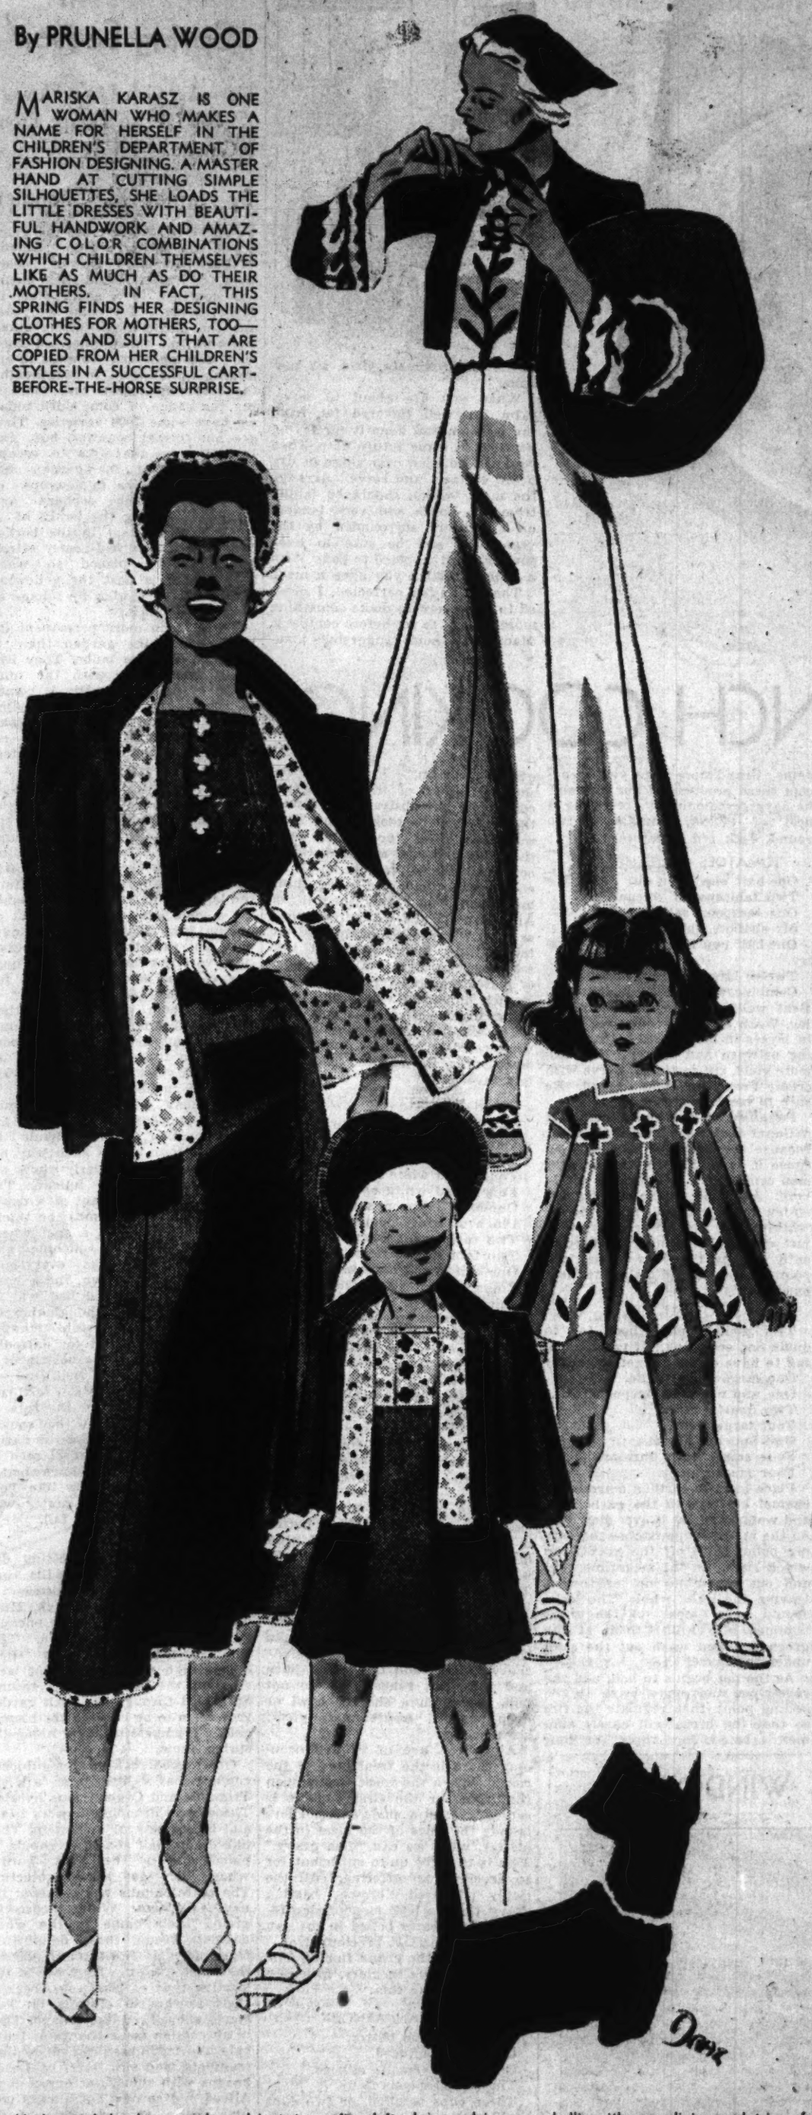
Mother-Daughter Styles

By PRUNELLA WOOD

MARISKA KARASZ IS ONE WOMAN WHO MAKES A NAME FOR HERSELF IN THE CHILDREN'S DEPARTMENT OF FASHION DESIGNING. A MASTER HAND AT CUTTING SIMPLE SILHOUETTES, SHE LOADS THE LITTLE DRESSES WITH BEAUTIFUL HANDWORK AND AMAZING COLOR COMBINATIONS WHICH CHILDREN THEMSELVES LIKE AS MUCH AS DO THEIR MOTHERS. IN FACT, THIS SPRING FINDS HER DESIGNING CLOTHES FOR MOTHERS, TOO—FROCKS AND SUITS THAT ARE COPIED FROM HER CHILDREN'S STYLES IN A SUCCESSFUL CART-BEFORE-THE-HORSE SURPRISE.



Mother and daughter are dressed in twin outfits, left above—plain navy challis with cape lining and trim of white, flower-spangled challis. Mom's hat is raffia; her offspring's is rough straw. Right, above, another family symphony. The elder's beach frock is yellow linen, with bolero, appliques and seam cording of royal blue linen. Yellow linen appliques trim the blue portions, including the shady crownless beach hat. The little girl's beach frock is similar in design, developed in turquoise blue linen, white linen, and royal blue linen flower appliques.

Striped Slipcovers

The popularity of stripes in clothes fashions extends to interior decoration as well, so that a room isn't complete this spring without at least one striped slipcover. Fabrics displaying striped patterns range all the way from inexpensive cottons to handsome silk damasks. Bold stripes, ombre effects and pin stripes in multicolored themes are being used, their choice depending upon the fabric, the size of the furniture to be covered and the preference of the owner.

Novel Trays

Every spring season the designers of beverage glasses offer something new in the way of decorations or handy trays. This season's offering that gives promise of being generally popular is the compartment tray of painted wire and metal which is most inexpensively priced. The tray is available to hold four, six or eight glasses and usually is purchased with the glasses included in the set. Frosted effects and faint touches of color enhance the attractiveness of the beverage containers.

Sunroom Decorations

Fish net, theatrical gauze or other transparent fabrics which have an open mesh are the ideal ones to use in dressing up the sunroom for the summer. Decorators now are using them as though they were drapery materials and are arranging them at the sides of the windows rather than over the entire glass surface. Colorful shades such as rust, green and amber are especially effective when treated as though they were drapery materials. Their transparency permits a maximum of air and sunlight.

Tussah Fabric Is Leader in Summer Suits

It Looks Cool on Women and Has a Comfortable Weight.

THE suit enthusiasts refuse to get out of the fashion picture. They ignore the old theory that the suit is an exclusive spring style and insist upon wearing two-piece tailleurs into the summer.

Judging by the warm-weather suits that are arriving in the shops and are recommended by leading fashion authorities, every woman will invest in at east one for wear during the summer. Tussah is the fabric which is being acclaimed as the leader and should go well in St. Louis because the fabric not only looks cool, but has a comfortable weight. An all-silk quality is featured this year and looks its best in the natural shade, although white and dark colors are to be available.

Other materials which have the appearance of the rough tussah silk are made of cottons and synthetics and are being featured for summer suits. Black and navy are suggested for town wear because they will not show soil as quickly as the light colors. In addition to the solid-colored suits, novelty weaves and men's wear stripes are being used. While the majority of the striped suits are conservative and stress the pin size of stripe, there are some gay exceptions including awning effects combining white with a vivid shade.

Another collection of summer suits created for spectator sports and general wear follows the vogue of rough-surfaced materials, but places emphasis upon pastel tints. Thistle, which has attained considerable popularity in spring woolens, is a leader in this group, while various tones of soft blue promise to be well liked also. Yellow and golden beige are the other tones being used.

These suits all are of the two-piece type and have the same short, fitted jacket which has been a style leader for spring. Skirts have modified fullness introduced by means of pleats at the side seams or an inverted pleat at center front or back. Much attention is given to details of tailoring and as the suits are unlined, this applies to the inside as well as the outside of a garment.

A GIRL ABOUT TOWN

are sent to the dry cleaners. Switches and all can be shampooed, but the Elms have found that cleaning does not tangle them so badly. Human hair does not deteriorate unless moths get into it, but the net foundations are likely to rot.

In the shop there are two glass cases filled with human hair in various shades and arrangements. We fondled one exquisite shock of auburn wavy hair. It was a natural wave, Miss Elms told us. All their curly pieces are naturally that way. They never use a marcel iron or a permanent wave machine on their real hair, just brush it out, wet it down, and set it over a block. We also saw a pair of white switches. They are very rare and consequently expensive. A frosty toupee will run anywhere from $60 to $80.

—o-o—

THEY KEEP a number of old-fashioned toupees on hand, as much for curiosity as anything else. Just seeing them off the head, you could tell they would make a fellow look as if he stepped out of a tintype. The hair waves back from a center part through which the net lining shows very clearly. The technique of toupee tailoring has improved so that now with the so-called "natural-drawn parts" the deception is rarely noticed.

With every purchase of a toupee goes a set of toupee plasters, guaranteed not to slip, slide or bind. We asked what the guarantee was, anxious to know if a man could recover damages for accidental scalping in public. Well, the only guarantee is the unusual stickiness of the plasters which fit over pads sewn into the net lining at intervals.

The other evening at the police circus Miss Elms saw a man who wasn't trying to be funny lift his toupee right off with his top hat. She couldn't help observing to her escort, "He ought to come see us. We could fix that."

Transformations are now made so as to be almost slip-proof, too. Elastic straps from the net lining fasten at the nape of the neck with a sturdy hook and eye. A number of old-fashioned women still come in for coy curls to tuck behind their ears to augment thinning locks.

Generally speaking, however, the human hair business, with the present rage for contour clips, is in the doldrums, but if they can just hang onto their supply long enough, the pendulum is bound to swing back, Miss Elms believes.

An umbrella which has a windshield is a novelty that offers protection against spring downpours. Models on display in the St. Louis shops are made of decorated oiled materials of the transparent type and have one side equipped with a "drop curtain" arrangement.

"You Have as Much Liberty As You Want"

By Elsie Robinson

YOU'RE always complaining because you have so little freedom . . . because you're so tied down—people . . . work . . . circumstances in general . . . they all tie you down. If only you could be free! Well—why aren't you? Just how much freedom have you? I'll tell you—

YOU HAVE JUST AS MUCH FREEDOM AS YOU WANT!

"That isn't true!" you say indignantly. "I want lots more freedom than I have."

Then why don't you take it? What's holding you?

At once you name a dozen shackles on your liberty. You don't like your work. The home folks are utterly unreasonable. You haven't as much education as you need, nor as much money. All the circumstances of your life are discouraging. You never did get the breaks!

The farther down the list you go, the madder you get and the more sorry for yourself. Don't be! Keep cool . . . do a little honest thinking.

Take this matter of your job. You're sure this uncongenial job is standing in the way of your freedom. Then why don't you get a job that you do like? You can. Other men have. It wouldn't be easy, of course. You'd have to study at night . . . and quit fooling around. . . . maybe move away . . . get used to a new place . . . run some risk . . . lose some money. . . . But you can get a new job if you really want to. But do you really want to? No, you don't! You'd like a new job—but not at that price.

—o-o—

AND THERE'S the family. They're another big block in your progress. Maybe it's a nagging wife. Maybe it's a lazy husband. Or a complaining mother. Or a pack of wasteful kids. Whatever it is, you're sure the family is blocking your freedom. And when people criticise you or pity you for not getting ahead, you always use the family as an excuse. You say they tie you down.

You're wrong—and in your secret heart you know it. The family isn't tying you down. You're tying yourself down by your own spinelessness. You can stop any nagger, cut off any waster, put the skids under any loafer—if you'll decide to take a stand.

But taking a stand isn't quite as easy as it sounds. Independence is grand in theory, but lonely in practice. It means making your own decisions, shouldering your own responsibility, facing your own blame, consuming your own smoke. And most of us haven't the nerve to do it.

That's why we keep whiners and grafters and wasters around. Not because we can't get rid of them, but because they pad life for us and provide us with alibis.

STYLISH SHOES

LINEN and leather combinations in shoes are unmistakably first in fashion's spotlight.

The empire sleeve at top is done in wheat linen and clay tan calf. The openings in the high front are spanned with bands of calf.

Black patent leather, massed stitched in white, is used for contrast with rough white linen on the classic spectator pump.

The two-toned effect of the cross strap, open-toed sandal, is again emphasized by colored patent and contrasting linen. The tear-drop eyelets are hand embroidered.

LET ME SUGGEST

by Josephine Walter

THE other day a friend of mine arrived from California, bubbling with excitement. She is building a new home out there and she is greatly pleased about it but—and then an avalanche of questions descended upon me. What should she do with an off-center fireplace in the living room; could she possibly use blue in her north bedroom; and what sort of floor would be practical and attractive for the game room? All these guesses and a million more; but over and over recurred the one question—should she and could she afford to engage a decorator?

Now, this article is not intended to be a sales talk for decorators; it is merely my personal answer to a question that is asked me over and over again. For more and more women today faced with the question of decorating or redoing their homes, find themselves bewildered by the vast store of materials and decorative objects to be found on the market. And many of them find that, even with excellent taste and a definite idea about the type of effect they hope to achieve, an expert, guiding hand is needed to obtain the desired result.

—o-o—

MY YOUNG FRIEND'S first question on this subject was, "Do I really need a decorator when, after all, I know pretty much what I want?"

Granted she knows what effect she hopes to get, does she know how to get it? She may have definitely made up her mind that she wants English eighteenth century furniture, but does she know whether she wants the rather formal, dignified effect of Chippendale pieces; the lighter, gayer mood of the Adam brothers and Sheraton; or these English pieces combined with a modern background? And even if she knows what type she wants, can she discriminate sufficiently between the different styles of this one period well enough to get the type of room she has visualized?

—o-o—

The trained decorator has studied every period style and should know not only what pieces to select to achieve a certain effect, but what pieces of different periods will combine correctly and attractively. Where the novice will have a color in mind that she wants and will struggle around trying to describe it to the painter, the person who has experimented with all sorts of colors will be able to tell the painter just how to mix it and will know what the finished result will be when it is put on a large wall expanse.

● "IF I DECIDE to have a decorator, how should I go about selecting one, was one question. "After all, you know a lot of Hollywood decorators would be too exotic for my taste, and I haven't lived there long enough to know which ones would suit me."

This same problem confronts almost everyone, whether they are looking for a decorator in Hollywood or Podunk. There are several different types of decorators and it is up to the individual to decide which type would suit her purpose. Too few people seem to know that almost all department and furniture stores have staffs of trained decorators who may be consulted, free of charge on any home decorating problems. In addition, there are always any number of small decorating shops, where the owner, or people who run the shop, are capable of helping the customer with expert advice.

—o-o—

In making your selection, talk with several of the decorators—either from a store, shop or an individual decorator. See which one seems to grasp most clearly what you have in mind. If you are still undecided, ask to see some examples of their work. Most of them will have some photographs of rooms they have done which they will be more than glad to show you and you can judge whether that decorator does the type of thing you like.

—o-o—

● MY HARRASSED friend had another burning question—"After all, I haven't very much to spend and I will have to use many of the things I have now. Would a decorator be interested in such a small job and if so should I be honest with them and tell them exactly what I have to spend?"

Most shops and stores are not only willing but anxious to take care of small jobs, and they have people in their organizations who specialize in this type of work.

TOMATOES A L'ECHALOTE-LUSCIOUS!

FLAVOR in FRENCH COOKING

By GRACE FALLOW NORTON

THE words "French cookery" imply to many persons something elaborate, fancy or expensive. That is because they are thinking of "la haute cuisine" (the cookery of the chef), which must be distinguished from "la cuisine de famille" known to most French people in their own homes. As is the case in our own country, this cookery differs in the north and south of France and has minor variations in this town and that. In the north and center, where there are herds and pasturage, much butter is used in cooking. In stony Provence, olive oil is given preference. Fish from the warm Mediterranean waters, having less flavor than those from the Atlantic, require more seasoning. Hence bouillabaisse in Marseilles, and other fish soups flavored with herbs.

Although I serve the simple dishes I learned to cook in France without insisting on telling their story, I do not like to give away the recipes without a tribute to those who gave them to me. For soupe a l'oignon, and blanquette de veau to be fully appreciated, should be presented against their native background.

We stayed in a blessed old town near Fontainebleau all summer, renting most of the ground floor of a stone house opening onto a garden. Our landlady kept the second floor and her salon, the big front room downstairs, and did her cooking in a little grape arbor by the front gate. There she had a charcoal stove. I might add that she also had an ever-present little grandson—Andre—in a blue and white checked apron with a leather belt, who ate with her in the arbor, his porringer on his knees. Sundays Madame received, calmly and benignly, an invading and rather quarrelsome horde of family out from Paris, to be feted in the salon by means of the arbor equipment. I learned a great deal from Madame Arnoux.

Part of her wisdom was to feed her hungry troup plenty of hors d'oeuvres so that they would not require so much of the other things. And when the tomatoes were ripe and juicy (no use attempting anything with a pale, hard tomato) she served as hors d'oeuvre just one luscious bowlful of tomates a L'echalote.

(A knock at the kitchen door. Enter Andre, looking very important, a little basket on his arm. "Madame, Grand'mere begs you to accept these products of our garden," he says ceremoniously, revealing a nest of parsley containing two round, dark red tomatoes).

TOMATOES A L'ECHALOTE

One-half cup olive oil.
Two tablespoons vinegar.
One teaspoon salt.
Six shallots, finely chopped.
One-half cup finely chopped parsley.
Twelve large, ripe tomatoes.

Combine oil, vinegar and salt. Beat well. Add shallots and parsley. Wash and slice tomatoes. Place in layers in large bowl, with dressing between and on top. Approximate yield, six portions. Serve with crusty French or Italian bread. Be sure to make plenty.

Pot-au-feu is one of the humblest national dishes. Because it is cheap, because the flavor is excellent, because it is so French and because men usually like it, I give the recipe here. Above all, in the making pot-au-feu must not boil, must merely "shivver" as the French say, with just one bubble coming up persistently to show that it is at the right point. Boiling would make the meat hard.

POT-AU-FEU

Two pounds plate beef (or to quote one cookbook, "If you are going to have company, get brisket.")
One large clove garlic.
One and one-half teaspoons salt.
Two quarts water.
Four large leeks.
Two bunches carrots.
Four small white turnips.
Four smal onions.

Place meat in earthen marmite or enamel kettle with the garlic, salt and water, and set it over slow fire. As the mixture approaches the boiling point, skim off the gray foam which rises. In the meantime, peel and cut vegetables up lengthwise, leaving the leeks whole. The leeks should have most of the green trimmed off. (Slit them at the green end and wash out the sand under the faucet).

As the pot begins to boil, add the vegetables and again bring to the boiling point, then regulate the fire so that the broth will barely simmer, covered, for three or four hours. Approximate yield, six portions.

When you are about to serve, skim the well flavored fat from the bouillon and keep it for frying potatoes at some future date. Then your the bouillon over slices of dry bread or toast and serve. Arrange the meat (which should be falling from the bones and very tender) on a platter surrounded by the vegetables, and be sure to have some French mustard to pass. With a round of salad you have a meal.

The pot-au-feu perfected, I needed to know how to make something more elegant to set before company. Madame Arnoux suggested blanquette de veau. I recalled the soothing effect of this bland concoction on her obstreperous family the day they partook of it. They wandered about the garden positively amiable and affectionate. Of course, Madame served it as an entree, unaccompanied by anything but bread, but I garnished it for American friends with green peas, or even with a fluff of mashed potatoes, thus incorporating it into an American meal. (Oh, the piles of plates required for those perfect French dejeuners where one thing comes on at a time, even potatoes.)

The excellence of a blanquette de veau consists in its whiteness, its smoothness, its delicate flavor. It is a favorite.

BLANQUETTE DE VEAU

Two pounds of veal, cut in small pieces.
Four small carrots.
Four small white turnips.
Four small white onions.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Pinch of white pepper.
Two tablespoons butter.
Two tablespoons flour.
One-half pound mushrooms.
Yolks of two eggs.
Juice of half a lemon.

Put the meat to soak in cold unsalted water for 20 minutes while vegetables are peeled and sliced. Then pour off water (which has served to whiten the meat) and arrange meat with vegetables and seasoning in a saucepan with water to cover. Cover and bring slowly to a boil, skimming from time to time. Leb "shivver" in covered dish for at least two hours, never boiling rapidly.

Remove meat and keep warm; skim out vegetables. Melt butter in skillet, add flour. Add thin broth from meat and when it boils add mushrooms peeled and sliced. This mushroom sauce should cook for 20 minutes and should be thick and clear. When about to serve remove from fire and add slowly to the slightly beaten egg yolks. At the very last, add the lemon juice and the veal; reheat, but do not boil. Serve in a shallow bowl or deep platter. Approximate yield: six portions.

Along the line of French economy there is the treatment of the roast. When the roast is put upon the table for the first time it is served without a made sauce. There is only the juice of the meat in the platter, what we call "dish gravy." This is thought quite sufficient for so excellent an offering. All the richly flavored, brown basting gravy that is left, is poured off—a cupful of water boiled in the pan to dissolve the last precious drop—and kept for the grand finale. The roast disappears in glory, in a rich sauce made like this:

SAUCE A L'ARNOUX

One-fourth cup butter.
One onion, minced.
One carrot (small) minced.
Three tablespoons flour.
Three cups bouillon, or two cups bouillon and one cup cooking claret.
Laurel leaf.
Two cloves.
Pinch of thyme.
Four white peppers.
One-half teaspoonful salt.

Melt butter. Brown onion and carrots. Add flour, mixing until smooth and browning well. Add the meat juice you have saved and enough water to make the required amount of liquid. Use a bouillon cube if there is not enough meat juice to give a good flavor. Add seasonings. Stir continually until the sauce comes to a boil, and let cook 20 minutes. Strain. Approximate yield: three cups gravy.

Add the sliced or diced cold meat from the roast and heat thoroughly. Serve with a mould of rice or with plain boiled potatoes sprinkled with parsley.

LE PAIN PERDU

WHILE in France I thought I ought to make some investigation of "French toast," a delicacy of my childhood. My "encyclopedia," in the arbor, had never heard of it. "Connais pas," she said, and insisted that my "French toast" did not exist in France. In its place she offered le Pain Perdu which she assured me, "children are very fond of." It seems to be the French version of French toast and rather better. I can still see little Andre licking his spoon.

The recipe:
Twelve slices stale bread.
One pint milk, more if the bread is very dry.
Two tablespoonsful sugar.
Cinnamon to taste, or one-half teaspoon vanilla.
Two eggs, slightly beaten.
Three tablespoons butter.

Put the milk, sugar and flavorings in one soup dish or shallow bowl and the eggs in another. Heat a skillet, melt one tablespoon butter for each three slices of toast. Dip bread first in the milk, then in the egg—turning on both sides in the latter. Brown at once in the hot butter and serve directly in plates. The object is to have a perfectly browned slice which is soft inside. Approximate yield, six portions.

Le Pain Perdue is very good spread thinly with jelly before serving, in which case use the vanilla flavoring. G. F. N.

"Daffodils Are The Glory of Spring Season"

They Are Gay Little Flowers That Like to Escape From Garden.

By Harriet W. Chandler

DAFFODILS are truly the glory of the spring season. Among the original flower there were few varieties and their bloom was confined to a short time in early spring. But some 50 years ago the English hybridizers started work on this plant and soon were accomplishing wonders in enlarging the flowers, in lengthening the blooming season and increasing the range of color until today we have some 7000 varieties. They are not formal beauties, but gay little flowers that like to escape the confines of the garden and spread themselves in sweeps of gold through the orchard and meadow or along the banks of a brook. When kept in the border they give a beautiful early effect, but should be placed so when their bloom is past the yellowing leaves can be hidden by foliage of bushy perennials.

There is no more permanent investment in the garden than a planting of these bulbs. They live along indefinitely with the minimum of care and when it comes to increasing and multiplying, they follow the Bible rather than Mrs. Sanger, and give a large return in bulblets for the one planted.

—o-o—

IN THE SPRING when gardens and parks are aglow with the blooming daffodils is the time to make one's selection for fall planting. For no catalogue description can equal the beauty of the flower itself. Gardeners who can afford the latest in daffodils will probably get a good deal of pleasure out of paying from $2 to $5 for a single bulb, but with the great number of new varieties now available anyone can get choice selections for from $2 to $2.50 a dozen.

Plant them properly and they will ask nothing more of you until they become too crowded to bloom well, then they can be lifted, divided and reset. A dozen bulbs become 100 in about five years.

Beginners often make the mistake of planting their daffodils too close together. There should be three or four inches each way between bulbs to properly show off the flower and the foliage. The general rule is to plant at a depth of two and a half times the thickness of the bulb, in a spot where there is plenty of sunshine and good drainage. Like everything else, they like attention, and a deeply dug, well enriched bed will be to their liking even though they do not require it. Fresh manure should never be used for daffodils unless it is put at the bottom of a deeply dug bed and well covered. Bommeal is their best fertilizer and should be used at the rate of about two ounces to the square yard. It is the nature of the daffodil to root early and if planted in September they will have better flowers. But they grow like Topsies here and will do pretty well if planted any time in fall.

BY CAREFULLY selecting different varieties of daffodils one can have quite a long season of bloom. Beginning in March, Minimus blooms forth often to encounter a very chilly reception. This tiny Narcissus grows only three inches high with flowers not larger than the end of one's thumb. Sprinkled through the rock garden they seem to be blowing their small golden trumpets to hurry along the spring show.

Other good rock garden subjects, coming just a little later, are the Triandus and Cyclamineus hybrids. These have drooping flowers' heads and bloom several to a stem. They like damp, half shade, so should be placed low in the rock garden where they get some protection. The real Jonquils will be about the next to bloom. While incorrectly giving their name to the whole daffodil group, these delightfully fragrant little flowers are perhaps the least known. They are a distinctive type of Narcissus, bearing their flowers in clusters on long stems above reed-like foliage. Then in succession come the giant trumpets, the incomparabilis or medium trumpets, and the Barri or Leedsi groups with short, flat cups. King Alfred, not so new but always popular, is an early bloomer of the first group. The well-known and much beloved Poet's Narcissus will finish up the season. There have been so many new hybrids that these different botanical classes are no longer distinct.

Quaint Garden Dress

Old-fashioned flowers will be needed in the backyard gardens of America this summer because every amateur gardener will be wearing a quaint garden dress. The latest craze in home frocks follows the vogue of peasant cotton prints created in the dirndl manner—full skirt, tight basque blouse and all the appropriate trimmings. Shops will be featuring them primarily for garden wear with crownless flop hats or demure printed bonnets.

Informal Sandwich

NOT SWEETS BUT A SANDWICH FOR THAT "HIDDEN HUNGER."

ARE you looking for new ideas for food with which to surprise members of the bridge club the next time they meet at your house? Or perhaps the young folks want to entertain the "gang" and you'd like a suggestion. There is nothing more appropriate or appetizing for an informal party than sandwiches that are piping hot from the grill or oven.

There is just one trick to remember in making hot toasted sandwiches. That is, to butter the bread on the outside before toasting. This gives a flavor that cannot be obtained in any other way.

A lobster club sandwich can be recommended for the bridge-club members and hot bacon and cheese toasted sandwiches for the "gang."

Lots of people like a sandwich loaf, perhaps because it gives them an opportunity to show what they can do by way of effecting combinations in fillings that look as well as they taste. Not infrequently the sandwich takes on a gaiety by means of the vegetable coloring (just a drop or two) that is added to the cream cheese, when cream cheese is part of the "in-between."

When it comes to fancy sandwiches and canapes, why not achieve variety with butter spreads of which the mentioned are only a few. Put on your thinking cap, and you can score off a dozen more.

LOBSTER CLUB SANDWICH

One pound lobster meat (fresh or canned).
Two tablespoons butter.
Two tablespoons sherry.
One-eighth teaspoon salt.
Dash of pepper.
Six slices bacon.
Twelve slices hot buttered toast.
Six lettuce leaves or one bunch watercress.
Mayonnaise.
Three tomatoes, sliced.

Cut lobster meat into small pieces. Saute in butter for five minutes, stirring constantly. Add sherry, and salt and pepper to taste. Cut slices of bacon in half and fry until they are crisp. Arrange a layer of lettuce or watercress and mayonnaise on six slices of toast, then pieces of bacon; lobster next, thin tomato slices, and then the other layer of lobster. Cover with the remaining slices of hot buttered toast. Stick with toothpicks to keep "the fixings" together and cut diagonally into triangles. Serve immediately. Approximate yield, six full-slice sandwiches.

SCOTCH LOAF SANDWICH

Three-fourths cup cooked ham, ground.
One-third cup soft bread crumbs.
Two tablespoons sweet chow chow.
One hard-cooked egg, chopped.
One tablespoon chopped pimiento.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One-eighth teaspoon paprika.
One egg.
One-third cup milk.
One tablespoon butter.
Twelve slices buttered bread.

Mix all the ingredients but the butter and the bread. Place the mixture in a small greased bread pan, spread butter on top and bake 40 minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) Cool, cut in slices, place between slices of buttered bread, buttered side out, and toast on grill or in oven. Approximate yield, eight sandwiches.

MUSHROOM SANDWICH, HOT

One-half pound mushrooms.
Four teaspoons minced onion.
Three tablespoons butter.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One-sixteenth teaspoon pepper.
Two tablespoons chopped pickle.
One tablespoon mayonnaise.
Twelve thin slices of bread, buttered.

Wash and peel mushrooms. Chop mushrooms and stems quite fine, add the onion and saute in butter until golden brown. Add seasonings and chopped pickle. Then moisten with mayonnaise and spread the mixture on thinly buttered bread. Now put together in sandwich form and cut each sandwich in three strips. Place the sandwiches under the broiling flame or in a sandwich toaster and toast until golden brown on both sides. Approximate yield: 18 sandwich fingers.

HAIR HELPS

SHAMPOO

GIVE your hair an occasional treat with an egg shampoo. Take the yolks of two eggs, the whites of two eggs and beat them separately. Combine the beaten whites and yolks and add a cup of lukewarm water—not hot—to the mixture. Massage into the scalp. Rinse in lukewarm water.

—o-o—

TONIC

IF YOUR hair is very dry, a warm oil or oily tonic treatment will be helpful. Heat the oil or oily tonic and apply with cotton. Part your hair in sections and rub the oil well into the scalp. Do your whole head carefully and then massage for several minutes. Wrap a hot towel around your head. When it cools, remove and begin the regular shampoo.

—o-o—

BRUSHING

WHEN brushing the hair, take strands about an inch wide and brush the whole length with a firm sweeping stroke. Always brush up never down.

—o-o—

MASSAGE

IF YOUR hair is very oily, give the scalp a good massage every day to tone up lazy oil glands. Use an astringent or corrective scalp tonic as you massage. Shampoo once a week.

NEW YORK, April 17.

MOST excellent of all local historical institutions, the Museum of the City of New York, gave a "Fifty Years Ago Dinner" the other evening, at which two of the dishes served were filets of flounder, sauce Ward McAllister, and supreme of chicken a la Lillie Langtry. The meal was served on tables decorated with fragile Dresden shepherds and shepherdesses in Wateauesque groups under glass bells.

The waiters were attired in clawhammer coats and white aprons in the approved manner of the period. Programs and souvenirs were distributed by startlingly pretty girls in tight basques and bustles, with velveteen and plush cloaks trimmed with chenille fringe. It was all 1887, from the models of the steam fire engines in the corridor outside to the music played by the orchestra, which included "Take Me Back to New York Town" and "My Mother Was a Lady." It was a first-class exhibition by Manhattan's most flourishing museum of wistful antiquities.

Somebody of means, however, might go in for a really authentic dinner of the early Ward McAllister period as an expensive means of amusing sophisticated guests with a hankering for past glories. It would, of course, include favors for both ladies and gentlemen now out of vogue and costly: diamond bar pins or sunbursts for women, Albert watch chains, diamond mounted gold toothpicks or solid gold cigar cases for the men.

OLIVIA DE HAVILLAND . . . SAYS THE NAILS TELL ALL.

Glamorize

WITH OLIVIA DE HAVILLAND

BY ALICE WADE ROBINSON NOTED BEAUTY NEWS AUTHORITY

"I AM more interested in the good grooming of hands," said Olivia de Havilland to me at a party held not long ago in honor of the gifted young Warner Brothers star, "than in any other essential of personal beauty. Show me your hands and I'll tell you how careful you are about good grooming in general.

"I honestly cannot understand how any woman neglects them. They are really a badge, a kind of sign of the sort of care a woman gives her body as a whole. Let her face be what it may, if her hands and her nails reveal sensitive care, understanding treatment of their needs and appreciation of their worth, that woman stands revealed for what she is. No woman is more fastidious than her nails show her to be. They are as self-revelatory to the world at large as her handwriting is to a graphologist."

Those are pretty strong words from Miss de Havilland. But I am inclined to agree with her. So let's talk about nails. They are a "badge" to the care they receive.

So keep them clean. Soap, warm water and a nail brush must be used at least twice a day.

As for mothers, do, I beg of you, bring your girls and boys up to this standard. Give each of them a cake of soap, a nail file, an emery board, an orange wood stick and a nail brush. Encourage them to keep their nails immaculate, ovally shaped, free of jagged edges. It's as easy to instil in a child as the toothbrush habit. You may be Puritanic—so many of us are—as regards complexion makeup, but that does not excuse immaculateness when it concerns the nails. Forgive me for mentioning it, but a spot of soil beneath the nail should be as abhorrent to an American mother as tartar on the teeth.

Pretty bold language? Very well. I've said it. So let's go on. We've spoken about nail cleanliness. Now for ornamentation: Unless your cuticle is in healthy condition, refrain from dark polishes. Don't use them to cover up.

Now, as to nail illnesses: Do your nails break off? Are you bothered with stiff, cracked, brittle nails? If you are, the remedy lies in oiling. Both internally and externally. Eat more oily foods—butter, olive oil, the fatty parts of meats, milk, and so on. Externally: Massage your nails each night with olive oil, vaseline, cold cream or with one of the special nail oils which are now on the market. Make it a rule each time you wash your hands to do two things: To push back the cuticle and to massage the nails about the tip. It will take less than a minute to do both.

"THE NAILS ARE REALLY A BADGE, A KIND OF SIGN OF THE SORT OF CARE A WOMAN GIVES TO HER BODY AS A WHOLE."

In the column at the right I am giving you the essentials of the manicure. So, don't worry. Let me now give you several other nail hints. Never allow metal to go beneath the nails. That skin is overly sensitive, predisposed to bruising. It's the torn skin beneath the nail tip which collects that discolored matter which sometimes makes it necessary for you to use a nail white pencil. Remember, too, the worth of the lemon. Lemon juice is both a tonic and a bleach.

Refrain from cutting the cuticle unless neglect has made it a necessity. That way hangnails lie.

There are oily polish removers now on the market, and oily cuticle removers. There are liquid enamels, and there are dry polishes which necessitate the use of a buffer. All are good, and I have found that a buffer is especially helpful for nail health.

When it comes to nail polishes, we Americans have a wide range from which to choose, especially among those of the liquid type. They may be either transparent or creamy, and shades are so variegated that we may have them either to harmonize with our costume, or many times—in the scale of reds—to match the lips or to carry out certain decorative notes on a frock. Tinted nails give a needed accent to many a costume—a fashion hint which smart women are quick to catch.

ON MANICURING

REMOVE POLISH—IF A LACQUER USE AN OILY POLISH REMOVER.

FILE NAILS TO AN OVAL SHAPE—NOT SHARP-POINTED. BE CAREFUL OF THE SIDES LEST YOU SET THE SEEDS FOR HANGNAILS OR BRUISES.

REMOVE STAINS WITH PUMICE OR LEMON. SOAK IN WARM SUDSY WATER FOR FIVE MINUTES.

APPLY CUTICLE REMOVER WITH ORANGE WOOD STICK TIPPED WITH COTTON. WIPE OFF DEAD CUTICLE WITH TOWEL. SCRUB EACH NAIL AND DRY CAREFULLY.

IF NECESSARY APPLY NAIL WHITE PENCIL. SCRUB AGAIN.

USE EMERY BOARD FOR ANY FILING DEFICIENCY.

APPLY NAIL POLISH—EITHER CLEAR TO THE END OR ONLY TO NATURAL NAIL TIP.

MASSAGE CUTICLE OIL OR CREAM ABOUT NAILS. REMOVE CREAM ABOUT NAILS. REMOVE EXCESS WITH TOWEL.

Civil War Theme May Carry Over In Autumn Shoes

INTEREST in fashions of Civil War days which was inspired by "Gone With the Wind" continues to be noticed and will carry on through next autumn if the shoe designers have their way. Modernizations of such Civil War themes as rosettes, ballet lacings, side laced bootees, criss-cross straps and Colonial tongues are shown in an advance collection of footwear designed for next fall and winter. High riding patterns such as oxfords, step-ins, build-up pumps and strapped models are featured with the shoes molded to the foot in glove styles and elastic gores and insertions much in vogue.

For evening the ballet type of slipper appears in new interpretations, its novelty lacings showing to advantage with the popularity of shorter skirts. Dress-up sandals are advocated for afternoon while the monk type of shoe is recommended for sports wear.

Feminine trimmings are popular and include puffings, pipings, pin tuckings and corded ornaments while buttons and buckles are conspicuous. The trend toward footwear which contrasts or blends with a costume rather than matches it is reported by shoe style authorities.

Bright Color Scheme

An interior decorator who is noted for striking color schemes is creating a furor with one which has outter yellow walls—a tint that is almost golden in its glow. With this the suggested colors include a carpet of beaver taupe, curtains of beige and green and upholstery that combines tones of green and rose.

Scraped Apple Proves an Aid In Treatment

"Brings Relief to Infants Ill With Various Types of Infections."

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

THE OLD SAW about keeping the doctor away with an apple has had a sudden rejuvenation in the growing use of scraped raw apples as a method of treatment.

It was first used by Heisler, a general practitioner, in Koenigsburg, Germany, who observed that infants with dysentery fed on scraped raw apples improved faster than with any other treatment he ever had observed.: At first he tried it in combination with other usual diets for this condition, and then selected a series of cases to which he gave only scraped raw apples. In this series patients made a more complete recovery than any other series.

His paper, published in 1928, came to the attention of Prof. Moro, the head of the department of diseases of children of Heidelberg, who tried it out and substantiated all of Heisler's findings. The system of treatment has come to be known as the Moro-Heisler Two-Day Apple Diet.

—o-o—

CLAIMS MADE for this are: (1) The exclusive use of raw ripe apples brings an almost immediate symptomatic relief to infants ill with various types of bowel infections; (2) the temperature drops within the first 24 hours; (3) the number and consistency of the stools change abruptly at the onset of treatment; (4) at least 90 per cent of the cases, regardless of severity, are symptomatically well within 48 hours; (5) there is difficulty experienced in returning some cases to milk diet, relapses occurring which require additional days of apple treatment.

The method by which this acts is puzzling. It is generally supposed that there is some ingredient in the scraped apple which has the effect of absorbing the poisonous products of the bacterial infection of the intestine.

—o-o—

THE TREATMENT has been broadened to apply to other conditions. For instance, to prepare patients for surgical operations. One such case concerned a minor operation under general anesthetic, lasting 10 minutes, performed on a young woman 24 years of age. This patient intended to go home the evening of the surgical procedure, but it was three days before she was well enough, and had recovered from her ether sickness, to leave the hospital. Six months later it was necessary to do a more severe operation on this patient. Remembering the previous experience she was instructed to eat 15 apples a day for several days before the operation. Results were quite astonishing. She had no post-operative nauses, and a complete absence of post-operative intestinal colic.

The action of raw apple pulp is somewhat similar to that seen in the intestinal disturbance known as sprew, sometimes found in the southern part of the United States. This can be cured practically without the use of medication by a diet consisting of strawberries and visceral products such as liver and kidney.

If the simple scraped raw apple is added to other articles of diet, such as milk, it is not so likely to give good results.

Coquilles "Cendrillon"

Two and one-half cups cooked or canned shrimp
One-third cup butter
One-fourth cup flour
One cup hot water
One cup heavy cream
Two tablespoons hard cider or champagne
Two egg golks
Three-fourths teaspoon salt
One-fourth cup grated Gruyere cheese
Paprika

Clean shrimp. Melt butter, Blend in flour. Add water slowly, stirring to make a smooth paste. Add cream and cider. Add to egg yolks. Blend well. Add salt. Add shrimp. Heat well, but do not boil. Turn into scallop shells or shallow ramekins. Sprinkle with cheese. Brown under broiler flame. Sprinkle lightly with paprika. Approximate yield: six portions.

Colorful Pottery

Fruit themes are popular in colorful pottery that adds to the attractiveness of informal table service. Plates, for example, are shown in several different sizes and with various motifs. The tendency is to choose different designs and colors so that a table will present a medley of color. Sets of a dozen plates of the salad or dessert size will display at least six different motifs. Pottery serving dishes are equally as interesting and feature certain fruit, either in shape and coloring or on the design of the top. Individual covered dishes shaped like pineapples are illustrative of the vogue.

SOCIAL JUSTICE

"Yer week's salary, huh?—C'm on wit me—I'll go down to yer boss an' ask him t' give yer a raise!"

MATCHING ACCESSORIES FOR SPRING ENSEMBLES

ACCESSORIES which match and can be called into double duty are featured in the shops as aids to the completion of spring ensembles.

Scarfs and sashes, 'kerchiefs and belts, and head bands and scarfs form some of the sets that can be used interchangeably or for additional costume accents. The Spanish theme in current fashions has brought a new demand for sashes so the designers have created types which may be employed also as scarfs. Bright colored silks and novelty cottons are seen in greatest numbers, many of them having long fringe to finish the edges or knotted trimmings.

The peasant theme dominates in the ensembles consisting of 'kerchiefs and belts or head bands and scarfs, although the vogue of paisley patterns continues to influence color and design. Head scarfs and bands gained new impetus at the resorts the past winter, being used in cold climates by skiers and in warm climates to protect the face and neck from the sun. One of the latest ways of tying the scarfs is with a bow at the front of the forehead so that the ends are twisted into a halo or rolled effect. Another favorite method is to tie a square into a topknot and perch it on the head. Both styles call for squares rather than oblongs, so the square of bright-colored fabric which also may be tied around the neckline or waistline is a popular item.

Headbands offer less protection from cold or heat, but these heavy rolls of material, leather or raffia, are decidedly important for active sportswear as well as for more formal wear. Twisted rolls that are sufficiently long to be worn as waistline decorations illustrate the trend toward double-duty accessories. Two or three colors frequently are allied so the rolls pick up the essential shades of the costume. The fad, by the way, has so many possibilities that many are adopting the bands for evening hats or for formal headdress with dancing frocks.

Chiffon scarfs are equally as versatile as some of the less perishable accents to spring costumes. By selecting two blending colors and twisting the scarfs together, a woman has an accessory to be worn at the neckline or the waistline, wound around her head or circling a wide-brimmed chapeau.

Some of the belts have a versatile feature this season by being made in sections which link together. The sections are used for hat bands, head bands or bracelets. Pliable leathers, cork, metal and many other substances have been called into service to supply the spectacular emphasis that is demanded of accessories this season.

Guimpes that pose as blouses, the bolero with matching scarf, polka-dotted gilets, flowers to be worn at the waistline during the day and in the hair with formal frock, bags which come apart and can be worn as scarfs, and a host of other novelties add zest to the collection of "little things" to dress up a costume.

Lapel Adornments

IF THE usual gewgaws are not sufficiently striking to adorn the coat lapels of your new spring suit, consider the startling effect to be achieved by the use of twin ivory masks. St. Louis shops are displaying these miniature adornments of the natural ivory. The features are marked in a way to remind one of a skeleton, so there's no danger of anyone overlooking the novelty buttonieres even though they are quite tiny.

Striped Pique Used In Evening Dresses

STRIPED pique is one of the most striking fabrics in use for summer evening dresses, and looks its best when cut on the bias. An interesting frock for the young girl is shown by a St. Louis shop. The background is white on which is a hyacinth blue flower design arranged in stripes several inches wide. The dress is made with seam at center front so that the bias gores come together in a chevron pattern.

Another pique frock that follows the vogue of stripes displays a Roman striped design in vivid colorings, the stripes going vertically over the entire frock, even to the short puffed sleeves. A bolero of dark red grosgrain alternates with one of white pique.

Cross stripes are used for pique boleros which accompany dance frocks of one color while several interesting multicolored dresses flaunt their shades in this same horizontal manner. Insets of black pique on a white pique skirt give the same effect and provide a glamorous evening dress.

A cup of water in the corner of the oven will make roasts, pies and cakes cook more evenly.

CALLING ALL DOGS

By Albert Payson Terhune

WHEN is he "an incurably vicious dog," and thus to be put to death for the safety of the community? Offhand, I would answer: "Not once in a hundred times." There is a vast difference between viciousness and a desire to be let alone by all humans except the owner.

The dog that snarls or snaps when outsiders try to get familiar with him—the dog which uses his teeth after a premonitory growl has failed to make a stranger pause in an advance toward the owner's home—the dog whose teasing or worse ill-treatment has taught him to look on all mankind as his persecuting enemies—these are not "incurably vicious."

At heart, they are not vicious, at all. To kill one of them, as such, is rank injustice. It may mean the destroying of a staunch and loyal and useful guardian of the household, a protector not easy to replace.

Three times, in my overlong life, I have had a chance to train so-called "incurably vicious dogs" which had been marked for execution. In every instance I found the dog had lost his faith in human friendliness, through hideous experience. Bit by bit, very gradually I was lucky enough to restore his faith.

You can do the same thing, if you try.

—o-o—

LONG YEARS AGO I set myself to destroy the prejudice against female dogs as pets and guards and chums. It was a tough job. I succeeded a bit in turning the tide of popular disfavor. Before then, England had learned—or relearned—that a female dog is often the best. This because of her innate lovableness and affection and loyalty and her home-staying traits. But America still regarded her with a certain disgust. Which was 100 per cent idiocy on the part of America.

Of my four housedogs, just now, two are female (Beth and Chips). In the Sunnybank kennels are several other female dogs. All are worth their keep, many times over. None are an annoyance or an embarrassment to me. Nor need female dogs be so to anyone who uses a modicum of common sense in their handling.

I find females ideal chums and housedogs and watchdogs. I like them, much. So will you, if you treat them sanely. Until the Crusades, female dogs were much more popular than males throughout Europe. To the Syrian Moslems, the female dog was an abomination, because of creed injunctions. The Crusaders carried home this prejudice which, only now, has begun to die out.

ONE of the reasons you see so many old-time stars in today's pictures is "The Secret Six."

That's an informal organization of directors. It doesn't hold meetings, collect dues, or give parties. It does all its business by telephone. When W. S. Van Dyke, for instance, finishes with an old-timer in one of his films, he gets on the 'phone and calls one of the other "members" to let him know. If that director hasn't a spot available, one of the others has, and the word gets around. That way the people who were yesterday's stars get a fairly consistent break.

This little sunshine-dispensing group is composed of directors who used to be, many of them, extras when the people they're helping were big shots. Among them are Van Dyke, Richard Wallace, James Hogan, John Ford, Wesley Ruggles, Al Hall, Norman Taurog, Robert Z. Leonard and Lewis Milestone.

Hogan had just finished "placing" a fairly well-known comedian—who had had only two days' work in the past four months—when I called on him for some of those early movie yarns that lend so much color to this industry.

—o-o—

"Most of us lived in a boarding house just off what is now the Hollywood boulevard business section," he said. "Two dollars a month apiece for lodgings. Milestone lived in a cutting room—he was in charge there, at night, with a broom. Sometimes I'd sleep in Priscilla Dean's dressing room at the studio—slept on a cane-bottomed couch, and when I got up my back looked like a waffle. We didn't always have the $2 for the boarding house. Most of us were cowboys-and-Indian extras. Got $1.60 a day—the dime for carfare. You were a big shot if you made $3 a day."

—o-o—

● FILM-ACTING had its problems, then as now. Hogan once played Grant and Lee in the same film, was a Confederate soldier in the morning, and spent the afternoon in the Union ranks shooting at himself.

The "boys" always stuck together—if one got a job the others trailed along, usually got jobs too. Once, when Hogan was an assistant director, he hired 16 of his pals. The director, Allan Dwan, spotted them, told Hogan he was tired of the same gang in all his pictures, ordered them fired.

Hogan, now directing "Tightwad," once was a producer, but very briefly. With Bernie Fineman and Benny Ziedman, he made that phenomenal hit of the silents, "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" A shoe-stringer, it made nearly a million. Hogan says practically everyone in Hollywood had a share in it—and Mickey Neilan give his to his Chinese cook. Hogan, after the preview, sold his own share for $21,000—to B. P. Schulberg.

—o-o—

Complete - indifference note, very refreshing amidst all the furore about "Gone With the Wind," is this inter-office communication from one publicity man to another, copied verbatim:

"Allen Jenkins says he hasn't read 'Gone With the Wind' and therefore hasn't any idea who should play Scarlett and Rhett Butler, and even if he had read the book he still wouldn't give a damn who played them."

—o-o—

● DICK POWELL, and not James Cagney, is the champion stay-home striker of the Warner talent tribe.

At fairly regular intervals of three or four months, the talkie troubadour has found cause to complain of picture assignments, reached an impasse with production chiefs, and retired to his own fireside (off salary) to sing, if at all, in the bath.

Cagney gained fame as a rebel by taking his contract into court, whence he walked unfettered and free. Powell's periodical pouts have remained unsung because, after sitting around a while, he always has decided on an Owotthehell attitude, and forthwith reported for duty.

He admits, to friends, that he has been wrong on box-office angles. "Colleen," for instance, was a picture he confidently predicted, before walking out, would be as poor as it was. But when the cash-on-the-line reports drifted in, the studio could show him that it did more business than other productions of its period. (That's what makes movies the fascinating gamble they are: bad ones click, and good ones can miss.)

Principal cause of the Powell protests has been vehicles in which he had to play only the very ingenuous or very fresh youth—accent on youth because he screens incredibly younger than he looks. How can a fellow learn to act unless he plays in pictures that'll teach him how? At Powell's salary for not acting, I'd be afraid to learn, personally—but Powell isn't.

Aubergine Tomatoes

Three large ripe tomatoes.
Two tablespoons olive oil.
Two cloves garlic, minced.
Two teaspoons sugar.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One-eighth teaspoon pepper.
Parsley.

Wash tomatoes. Cut in half crosswise. Put oil in skillet. Place tomatoes cup side up in olive oil. Sprinkle with garlic and seasonings. Cover and cook over slow heat for 10 minutes. Turn tomatoes and cook five minutes longer. Garnish each with a small bit of parsley. Approximate yield: six portions. Cut two or three tomato halves into pieces with a small, sharp knife, so as not to lose much juice, and stuff the Duchess potatoes with them. Use others to alternate with the potatoes on the fish platter.

Matching Turban

Matching a tailored shirt with a gay little turban is one of the clever ideas of injecting novelty into a costume. The polka dotted theme does this to perfection and is as effective when the fabric is a cotton as when it is silk. The turban is draped about the head as though a length of material had been twisted into shape on the spur of the moment and the shirt is as trim as the hat is casual.

Hosiery Shades

Hosiery shades for summer will take their tint from skin tones so a stockingless fad may be averted. The new hues advocated for wear with warm-weather clothes have been planned to match the various tones of sun-tanned complexions. This will mean that face, neck and arms will have the same appearance as hosiery presents, if the woman chooses her hosiery carefully.

The trend toward neutral or skin tones is based on the belief that a more attractive ensemble is created if hosiery is subdued in contrast to the vividness of footwear and frocks. Intense shades of red, blue and green are appearing in summer footwear to complement printed frocks, so hosiery is being toned down to complete a pleasing effect.

Table Accessories

The arrangement of short-stemmed flowers on the dinner table no longer presents a problem to the hostess. Many inexpensive devices are available in the stores to hold the flowers as well as candles. One clever method is possible with the use of porcelain crescents, which may be obtained in several different shades and are purchased in sets of six. The bowls are quite shallow so that gardenias or other short-stemmed flowers are held firmly in place. Other matching porcelain accessories such as ash trays contribute toward an artistic and modern-looking setting.

On Instilling Good Habits In Children

"Time and Practice Are Essential Factors in Setting Any Habit."

By Angelo Patri

"HOW can I overcome my child's poor taste in reading? I have given him good books, read to him, done everything possible, and still he will turn to the silly series. His reading habits are certainly poor."

Another mother says, "How can I change my child's habits? He has such bad manners. He takes huge mouthfuls at table, he forgets to raise his hat when he should, he asks for things and forgets the 'please.' I have taught him better, but the habit does not stick. He goes back to his old ways over night."

Still another: "My daughter is untidy about her room. She will drop things wherever she happens to be, and unless her attention is called to it, lets them lie there. I can't seem to overcome this. I have done my best to set the habit of neatness in her, but I have failed."

Reading this you will think these are well-grown children, of perhaps high school age, who have carried the carefree ways of childhood too long. None of them is more than 10 years old. Their mothers, eager to set good habits for life, are discouraged because the children, in spite of all their teaching and training, persist in making the same fumbling gestures.

—o-o—

HOW OLD must a habit be before it is a habit that can be depended upon to work its way without direction and impulsion from the person concerned? How old? Sometimes it takes a lifetime to set a habit that controls behavior. Sometimes it takes one experience. These are the extremes. Ordinary habits are set in the period between birth and maturity.

The power of repeated experience, which is what habits are, must depend upon many things—first and foremost, the original inheritance and endowment of the child. If his nature is opposed from the beginning to the habit you would set, it is going to take a long, long time to set it. If his nature takes kindly to the idea it is going to be easy to set it.

Usually a habit is set by long practice, uninterrupted, successful practice over a period of years. Time and practice are the essential factors in setting any habit. It is certain that many desirable habits require the full period from birth through adolescence for their setting. Few worth while habits are strong at the age of 10. Those based upon instinct and need usually hold by that time, but those worthy ones that have to do with taste, social adjustments, correct and profitable behavior, have to be cultivated over a longer period.

—o-o—

READING is first a task, then a habit. The sort of reading that is selected is a matter of taste. Taste is cultivated over a long period, improving by profitable experiences. Time is needed here.

Manners are a matter of time and experience. Again time must be allowed for their cultivation. They are not instinctive, but applied on the surface of nature, and much time and practice is needed to make them stick.

Neatness is a habit that is hard for some people to acquire. Some require a longer time and more practice than others, but this habit can be set by steady teaching and example from the beginning. A bad start is usually at the root of untidiness.

Don't be in a hurry about habits. Take your time and don't expect them to function automatically until time has set them deeply in the very fibers of mind and body. Not until then will they serve.

Garden Equipment

April days start the amateur gardener on a new season out-of-doors and give her an interest in adding new equipment to her back yard and flower garden. Many new and attractive types of bird baths are on display this year, among them being a portable type which will fit into an elaborate garden as well as an informal one. A birch stick holds an aluminum bowl in place and there is a metal bird perched on top as a handle.

Multiplication of Shades Adds To Style Value of an Ensemble

LOOK about you at the most interesting spring costumes worn by well dressed women or on display in the shops and learn the fashion lesson that multiplication of shades adds to the style value of an ensemble.

There's no monotony about the suits, coats and dresses that are fashion-right this season, because too many different tones play a part in their creation. If the dress, for example, sticks to one color, it adds accessories of one shade and a jacket or coat of another. Three tones are the usual choice in the making of a spring outfit, although there's no rule against adding one or two others.

It hasn't been many years since a combination of red and pink was as prohibitive in a costume as an alliance of red and green. Both now are accepted as exceedingly chic. The use of red and pink is illustrated by a cleverly designed costume consisting of shirtwaist frock of two shades and a contrasting jacket. A tone of dusty rose is used for the skirt, while a delicate flower pink was selected for the blouse. The boxy coat which is little more than hip length is of the deepest tone, a dark wine red.

Other three-tone combinations that are responsible for much of the attractiveness of certain spring costumes includes chartreuse, rose and black; beige, green and black; navy, rose and powder blue and three tones of blue, ranging from a light pastel to very dark navy. Summer themes also recognize the popularity of three colors, with white employed in combination with pastels or with dark shades of red and navy.

In planning a costume which features at least three shades, various methods are successful. There is the use of contrasting skirt, blouse and jacket such as previously described and offers any number of possibilities, and there is the success of the redingote idea. Full-length reefer types of coats are being made of linens and cottons as well as of spring fabrics and do their part toward the creation of a striking costume. A natural-colored linen redingote when worn over a red printed frock calls for navy footwear and millinery, but when worn over a navy dress looks most spectacular because of red shoes and bag.

—o-o—

TRIM LITTLE JACKETS of white or natural colored linen are to be worn extensively this summer in company with dark sheer frocks. In fact, many of them are appearing quite early in the season. The waistlines usually are fitted, shoulders are square and lapels are wide. They add accessories which fail to match the frock, by way of repeating the three-tone vogue. Bright red patent leather belt, buttons or flower, for example, set off a navy blue frock and the chances are there will be a touch of red in the footwear.

As the season advances the style importance of accessories that contrast with the rest of the costume becomes more apparent. Bright shades of sandals, belts, bags and flowers are the piquant features of many outfits.

Evening Gowns With Note of Sophistication

SKIRTS that are draped to the front contribute a new note of sophistication to evening gowns in contrast to the little-girl themes and old-fashioned hoop skirt treatments that are being worn so much this season. A favorite drape is achieved by bringing the fullness forward, looping the material at the front and letting the ends hang to the floor. This achieves a line bordering on the hobble and makes the open hemline a necessity for walking as well as a chic feature of the skirt.

Several Parisian designers in their recent showings favored skirts with the front drapery. They chose unusual printed fabrics which emphasized the beauty of all-over designs in rich colorings rather than a scattered, vivid theme. Copies made for distribution in the United States have adhered to this same preference in color harmony.

The change in skirt fullness from the back to the front is regarded as significant in fashion circles.

Pleasure-Boat Play Stirs Broadway Spring Season

"Excursion," Victor Wolfson's Fantasy of a Coney Island Steamer and Its Captain, Takes Rank as Fine Comedy and One of Important Productions of the Year.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 17.

JUST when it began to appear as though the spring season of the Broadway theater might go down into history as a great big zero, "Excursion" sailed into the Vanderbilt Theater—one of the genuinely interesting and entertaining offerings of the year.

"Excursion" was written by Victor Wolfson, a playwright who heretofore has concerned himself with Leftist dramas but who now blossoms as an orthodox craftsman in the field of comedy, without entirely forgetting his "message." For there is a background of defeatism throughout "Excursion"—not oppressive, not obtrusive, but omnipresent.

Wolfson sets the action of his comedy aboard the "S. S. Happiness," an excursion steamer that plies on Sunday between Manhattan and Coney Island. It is the boat's last run, after 30 years of service.

Captain Obediah Rich, played with simplicity and restraint by the veteran Whitford Kane, feels almost as though life were ending, now that he is to lose his ship. He philosophizes that these Sunday excursions to Coney Island were the only hours of release for his passengers from drab city lives.

"In the morning," he says, "I see them crawling out of the dark, dirty streets to board my boat and go for a day of make-believe pleasure; and at night I see them crawl back into the shadowy streets again—back to pick up their burdens."

His brother Jonathan, an old salt richly played by J. Hammond Dailey, produces a chart on which is charted an Island off Trinidad—a Paradise Island. This doesn't have to be the last trip of the "S. S. Happiness," he tells the captain. Why not, instead of turning the boat back toward the city at nightfall, head for the open sea—for Paradise Island!

No more sorrow and slaving for the passengers, no more roar of the city, no more of the tragedy of living!

That is the premise of "Excursion," and it is expertly worked out not only by Wolfson in his play but by Worthington Miner in his direction and G. E. Calthrop in her settings. Miner's direction is notable for the smoothness with which he moves the large cast and in which he sets forth the several separate, isolated sub-plots like clearcut cameos.

Wolfson shrewdly does not permit the fantasy to wander far from realism at any time. The boat does not reach its Paradise. Yet the adventure does something wholesome to the lives of all aboard—the Jewish laundryman and his wife, the woman with a babe in arms and a brat at her heels seeking a moment of respite, the tragic wife stealing a Sunday away from a husband she loathes for an affair with a man even more loathsome, the salesgirls from Gimbel's, the son and daughter of the owner of the vessel, and the rest.

The casting has been shrewdly done, an excellent characterization of the laundryman is given by James R. Waters (the Papa Goldberg of the Radio). Shirley Booth as the wandering wife etches tragedy sharply against the panorama of mixed humanity. Two delightful child roles are handled by Marilyn Erskine and Jackie Grimes.

IF youth—shouting, laughing, singing, dancing youth—is not too heroic a stimulant; if the best music Richard Rodgers has written and some of Lorenz Hart's proudest lyrics can make you happy; and if you thrill to freshness in the theater, then Broadway has—in "Babes in Arms"—something you'll like very much.

The town needed a musical show, with "Frederika" and "The Show Is On" being the only other offerings in that vein; and "Babes in Arms" filled the void most pleasantly.

It is another of those "new faces" things, peopled almost entirely by 'teen age talent—boys and girls who sing and dance and romp with an exuberance that somehow shortwaves its joyousness over the footlights into adult-adulterated hearts on the other side.

The book is of no consequence—a lot of children of touring vaudeville actors who, having no other means of support, are sent to the work farm. They stage a "Follies" of their own, just to show that youngsters are as good as their parents, and eventually emerge from the work farm with flying colors—and brasses fortissimo from the orchestra pit.

You will be hearing the Rodgers tunes long, loud and often. The most popular will be "Johnny One-Note," done in the monotone manner and providing one of the fastest and most robustly melodic first-act finales heard in years; and "The Lady Is a Tramp," in which the Hart lyrics overshadow the Rodgers music.

Playwrights' Contest

A play contest, with a $50 prize to the author of the best three-act play submitted before Nov. 1, has been announced by the Ellenwood Players, dramatic group at the Church of St. Michael and St. George, Wydown boulevard and Ellenwood avenue. The entries will be judged on originality, dramatic content and entertainment value.

From Greenland's Icy Bergs To India's Biggest Beasts

By Colvin McPherson

A WALTER WANGER production on the screen can usually be recognized a mile off, or as far as the back row of the balcony in a de luxe house, and "History Is Made at Night," on Loew's program, is no exception. Here is something with the Wanger stamp on it, a picture with new plot situations, with mature angles to romance and a selection of fine actors.

Even as "The President Vanishes," "Private Worlds" and "Shanghai" seemed a little odd, so does "History Is Made at Night," but it satisfies the first requirement of picture entertainment. It entertains, it interests. Maybe the scholars will not accept it, maybe the experts on this or that will look down their noses, but the patrons won't take their eyes off it.

Three characters are at grips, of one kind and another, all through the unreeling. These are Colin Clive, who for reference may be called the Meanest Man in the World; his wife, Jean Arthur, and a French headwaiter, Charles Boyer. Jean has obtained one of those better-be-careful divorces, like Mrs. Simpson's, and the Meanest Man tries to spoil it and make her come back to him. Boyer, gallant gentleman, helps the lady in the moment of distress and double-cross.

Arising quite naturally, under the circumstances, are unusual complications. Clive kills his own chauffeur, to throw the blame on Boyer, but Clive himself can't identify Boyer in court, since he has never seen him in the light. Jean realizes she cannot be found in Boyer's company or he will be revealed to Clive, so agrees to go back to Clive. Boyer pursues the two of them from Paris to America, gets another job as headwaiter in order to set himself across Jean's path.

More and more, "History Is Made at Night" veers away from the familiar marked routes of screen play writing. Finally the diabolical Clive contrives his most heartless scheme to get rid of the lovers and sends a huge ocean liner crashing into an iceberg. It's quite a sight, probably not quite germane to the foregoing drama, but none the less thrilling.

The acting is splendid. Boyer seems almost to have a dining-room ancestry and is, off-duty, the perfect lover. Miss Arthur, with a different hair dress and more flattering photography, becomes an entirely new screen personality and by a barefoot dance in a cafe, shows some promise of becoming an Isadora Duncan as well. Clive, cold as the North Atlantic waters, often surpasses the other two and by his marvelous wickedness, considerably raises the odds.

"Elephant Boy" affords wide contrast. Director Robert Flaherty's type of movie has not had general appeal. "Man of Aran," which he made last and which has not been equalled for sheer cinematic beauty, never got into one of the big first-run houses here. In "Elephant Boy," Flaherty has jumped from Ireland to India. People like animals, people like Rudyard Kipling stories, so "Elephant Boy" has better fortune.

The film is from Kipling's "Toomai of the Elephants," has more elephants than "Trader Horn," it seems, and surely the biggest trunk-toter in the world. There just can't be any elephant of such skyscraper proportions as the one that takes Toomai everywhere on his head. Toomai, a lad of 12 years, wants to tag along on a hunt for wild elephants. The hunters let him go, but he becomes their most serious problem, next to the fact that they can't find any elephants. When Toomai stumbles onto the covey, he clears everything up and is a great hero.

That's all there is to it, except that "Elephant Boy" was photographed in India, is distinguished camera work, and introduces a brown-skinned, white-toothed little Hindu idol as Toomai. His name is Sabu and he is the native equivalent of Freddie Bartholomew, with all the energy of Mickey Rooney.

The performance of Iravatha, the elephant, as Kala Nag, is wise and almost human, ranking well above that of the several British actors who, with grease paint and crepe whiskers, demonstrate again and again that East is East and they aren't. Flaherty hasn't felt called on for melodrama and Toomai's adventure takes its natural course. The best scenes, by the way, are those in which Toomai scrubs Kala Nag's ears in the river and where Kala Nag maneuvers to get the right grip on a huge piece of timber.

Call It a Day.

THE New York Theater Guild's production of the English comedy, "Call It a Day," was one of those things which never came as far West as St. Louis, until this week. The screen version at the Ambassador is such an all-star affair, however, that we seem not to have lost. The play, written as much like a movie scenario as the stage will permit, has been followed in detail and brought into full flower.

"Call It a Day" looks into the Hilton home in England, between getting-up time in the morning and going-to-bed time at night. One of these good April days is to blame for everything, for papa Ian Hunter, mama Frieda Inescourt, daughter Olivia de Havilland, son Peter Willes and younger daughter Bonita Granville all get spring fever. Before very long, an actress is pursuing papa, a returned rubber planter is making love to mama, daughter is gushing romance to a married artist, son is about to follow a dream of running away and younger daughter is on the trail of a Rosetti print. Everybody's pursuing something. Even the dog is chasing the neighbor's cat.

It looks too bad for the happy home, but by eventide the air is cooling again and lights-out finds all problems solved. "Call It a Day" is the farewell to a charming fancy, and an hour with many of Hollywood's best players. For the careful casting brings in also Roland Young, Alice Brady, Peggy Wood, Walter Woolf King, Anita Louise, Beryl Mercer and Una O'Connor. Even in the date of release, "Call It a Day" seems to have the nicety of timing.

Hugh Herbert's comic genius is smothered under the banalities of "That Man's Here Again." His following will find his few scenes in "Top of the Town," at the Fox, preferable.

Top of the Town.

THE big affair at the Fox goes the limit in construction of setting and destruction of story and while never actually tiresome, misses fire all the way through. No one of the musical numbers, for instance, measures up to the six or seven Irving Berlin hits in "On the Avenue," and the big "Jamboree" number at the finish is something I personally would rather see the Boy Scouts do.

Gertrude Niesen's songs register well but Gertrude's makeup doesn't, the Three Sailors amuse with their vaudeville stunts, George Murphy as leading man has what is necessary for a leading man in musicals but there's no wallop. The plot has a daffy heiress, Doris Nolan, meddle with night club production and fall with a big show, but Murphy pulls it out of the fire for her, and out of the hat for everybody else concerned. "Too Many Wives," comedy in second place on the bill, doesn't add any glory to the program.

"Midnight Taxi," on the Missouri program, sets G-man against counterfeiters. With auto wrecks, fights in the fog and falling out among the crooks, it has keen excitement. "Too Many Roads to Town," comedy of a boy and a girl in a mountain cabin, has several comic scenes, chiefly those of Slim Summerville. The "March of Time," shows how Britain is feeding her undernourished citizens, how Senator Wheeler and the President feel about the Supreme Court and how amateur sleuths help the G-men.

The St. Louis Theater has a melodrama in which Ricardo Cortez is snuffed out for dealing from the bottom of the deck. Exhibitions of accomplished acting are given by Cortez, Tom Brown and Akim Tamiroff, a fellow gamester.

The stage show, headed by Reynolds and White, a team of clowns, and with Le Paul's clever card tricks and Mark Ballero's impersonations, rings down the curtain on such programs. The theater goes double-bill, second-run next Friday.

Ruth Draper and 'Lost Horizon' on American Bill

Solo Actress, Arriving Tomorrow Night, to Give Four Programs—Frank Capra's Roadshow Film, Starring Ronald Colman, to Begin Its Run Thursday Evening.

WITH Ruth Draper in four monologue programs for the first half of the week and the roadshow film, "Lost Horizon," coming in on Thursday night, the American Theater brings forward its final attraction of the 1936-37 season. Although two additional bookings might have been obtained, the probability of warm weather in May precluded the signing of contracts.

Miss Draper, who has not been to St. Louis for more than 10 years, is perhaps the most famous woman in the world in the presentation of "one-woman" shows, having toured extensively in England, on the continent of Europe and in South Africa, as well as the United States. She not only speaks English, French, German, Spanish, Italian and dialects of those languages, but is familiar with other pronunciations as well. Her programs always have an international character to them.

Her sketches for tomorrow night, for example, are "Three Women and Mr. Clifford," in which Mr. Clifford is viewed by his secretary, wife and "the other woman"; "Opening a Bazaar," an English playlet, "In County Kerry," in which Miss Draper portrays an old Irish woman, and "In a Church in Italy," where she is a German tourist.

Tuesday evening's selections are "A French Dressmaker," "Three Generations in a Court of Domestic Relations," "Three Women and Mr. Clifford" and "In a Railway Station on the Western Plains." The Wednesday matinee offers "At a Children's Party in Philadelphia," "On a Porch in a Maine Coast Village," "A Class in Greek Poise," "Three Breakfasts" and "In a Church in Italy." Finally, on Wednesday night, Miss Draper will do "The Italian Lesson," "A Dalmatian Peasant in the Hall of a New York Hospital," "Doctors," "The Debutants," "A German Governess," "Le Retour de L'Aveugle" and "A Scottish Emigrant at Ellis Island."

The actress composes all her own material, although she does not keep scripts of the sketches. Member of a distinguished family and finely educated, she started giving monologues to entertain a house party, took up amateur engagements, then professional, and finally went into the theater. Her first big success came in London and was followed by a command performance for the King and Queen. She has annually had a six weeks' season in London, canceled this year in favor of an American tour.

"Lost Horizon," a $2,000,000 production by Frank Capra, who directed "Lady for a Day," "It Happened One Night," "Broadway Bill" and "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," comes to the screen after nearly two years of preparation. After Thursday evening it will be shown twice daily during the week and three times on Sunday.

The screen play, by Robert Riskin, is from the best-selling novel by James Hilton. It tells of a party of Englishmen and Americans who are abducted from Manchuria and taken to a hidden valley in the mountains of Tibet, where a highly civilized race lives under the guidance of a society of monks. One of the Englishmen, Robert Conway, has been chosen as the next ruler or Grand Lama of Shangri-La.

Reactions of the various members of the party—the chosen one himself, his younger brother, an embezzler, a scientist, a woman of the streets—to their new situation and to the individuals already at Shangri-La, form the drama. Except in a few minor respects, the Hilton novel has been followed closely in the narrative.

Capra waited for more than a year to get Ronald Colman for the role of Robert Conway. John Howard is the younger brother, Thomas Mitchell the embezzler, Edward Everett Horton the scientist, Margo the little Manchu Princess at Shangri-La, Jane Wyatt a younger woman there, Isabel Jewell the woman of the streets, Sam Jaffe the Grand Lama, H. B. Warner the lama, Chang, well-known to readers of the book.

The lamasery of Shangri-La is a studio creation and the spectacular airport scene, pictured on this page, was taken at an old airport at Van Nuys, Cal. Harrison Forman, explorer and one of the two men who have interviewed the Panchen Lama, religious head of Tibet, was technical expert for the Tibetan scenes. Hilton's novel took less time in the writing than the actual shooting of the picture. The book, which has been translated into 17 languages and which won a literary prize, was dashed off in six weeks, on the cheapest sort of paper, to get money to pay the landlord. After all preparation, the filming alone took 117 days.

CONCEDING "Lost Horizon" the usual two weeks' run of roadshow films, figures on the American's season at the end of that time would be 20 weeks of activity, 14 stage attractions and three films, as compared to 17 weeks in 1935-36, 10 stage attractions and one film, all of which would seem to point to a regeneration of business at the playhouse.

The reaction of the road, all over the United States, has been particularly encouraging to Broadway producers in the past season. "Idiot's Delight," the Theater Guild announces, is the most successful production it has ever sent out. The "Ziegfeld Follies" has been another profitable show on tour and Katharine Hepburn's "Jane Eyre" had a wide following.

Locally, the American found a "great" response to "Idiot's Delight," the "Follies" and "Jane Eyre," did extraordinarily well with "End of Summer" and "Pride and Prejudice," was satisfied with "Tobacco Road," "Boy Meets Girl," "First Lady" the "Scandals" and "Reflected Glory," found a fair reception for "Mulatto" and Nazimova's Ibsen plays and had only one disappointment, "The Night of January 16."

A list of next season's traveling productions indicates a big year. "You Can't Take It With You," "Brother Rat," "Tovarich," "The Women," "The Show Is On," "Stage Door," "Frederika" "Masque of Kings," "High Tor," "Victoria Regina," "Having Wonderful Time," and "Yes, My Darling Daughter," which have been or are now important Broadway shows, are all on the dope sheet.

Beethoven Seventh For Philadelphia Orchestra Concert

THE Philadelphia Orchestra, in its concert at the Municipal Auditorium Opera House a week from tomorrow night, will present a program built around Beethoven's Seventh Symphony. Eugene Ormandy will conduct.

The program will open with two Bach arrangements by Lucian Calliet, a member of the orchestra. These are the Prelude and Fugue in F Minor and "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring." After the Seventh Symphony and an intermission, the orchestra will play Three Poems on Traditional Aramaic and Hebrew Themes by McDonald and a Suite from Stravinsky's "Fire Bird."

Appearance of the orchestra will mark its second concert here in two years and will close the Civic Music League series for this season. In its program last spring the orchestra was conducted by Leopold Stokowski, who has since left the organization. Ormandy was formerly with the Minneapolis Symphony. Acting as joint conductor in several cities on the tour is Jose Iturbi, noted Spanish pianist.

"Distaff Side" Thursday Evening At Little Theater

JOHN VAN DRUTEN'S comedy, "The Distaff Side," opening Thursday night at the Little Theater for a two weeks' run, will conclude the season's subscription series. In the cast are Charity Grace, Adelaide Tarrant Strong, Fred Hirsch and Elliot Bergfeld, all Little Theater players of long experience, with Mrs. Frank Crunden, Ellen Ann Schachner, Dorothy Gillan, Kent Adams, Jessie York, Catherine Hart, Gordon Hall, Jane Bruce and John Meinhardt.

"The Distaff Side" is a study of five feminine types. Mrs. Evie Millward, a widowed mother of quiet strength and poise; Alex, her unconventional daughter who wavers in a choice between theatrical opportunity and marriage; Mrs. Liz Frobisher, Mrs. Millward's rebellious sister; Mrs. Venables, an exacting grandmother, and Mrs. Nellie Fletcher, another sister weary of a dull marriage. "The Distaff Side" approaches the question of sex freedom through frank discussion by these characters.

Charity Grace plays Mrs. Millward, a role originally taken by Dame Sybil Thorndike in New York; Mrs. Crunden plays Mrs. Venables, Ellen Ann Schachner is Alex, Adelaide Tarrant Strong Mrs. Frobisher and Dorothy Gillan Mrs. Fletcher. Fred Hirsch plays Toby Chegwidden, Alex's young admirer.

The action begins at Mrs. Millward's home with a gathering in celebration of Mrs. Venable's seventy-fifth birthday. All the scenes are either in the sitting-room or bedroom of the Millward home. Gorden Carter designed the two sets and F. Cowles Strickland directed.

Webster Guild Comedy

"Murray Hill," three-act comedy by Leslie Howard, will be presented by the Webster Groves Theater Guild at the Webster Groves High School on Tuesday evening, at 8:15 o'clock. The roles originally played by Howard and Genevieve Tobin will be taken by David Gibson and Martha Lindstedt, with Mary Cobb, Doris Dunwoody, Joy Flint, Dr. C. E. Colgate, Bud Luckett and Ray Holden as supporting players. Results of the Guild's one-act play contest will be announced.

Highlands' Opening

Forest Park Highlands will open its forty-first season on Sunday, May 9. The amusement park is being completely redecorated and several new added riding devices will bring the total number of attractions to 54.

ERICA DARBO, EUROPEAN OPERA SINGER, WHO WILL BE ONE OF THE SOLOISTS IN THE ERNO RAPEE SYMPHONY CONCERT THIS EVENING.

THE hour on KWK at 1 p. m. today will be given over to a concert by Jose Iturbi, the pianist; Marian Anderson, the great Negro contralto, and the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra with four conductors—Leopold Stokowski, Jose Iturbi, Eugene Ormandy and Charles O'Connell, directing. Miss Anderson will sing the "O Don Fatale" aria from Verdi's "Don Carlos" and Handel's "Largo," and Iturbi will play two solos. Orchestral music will include the "Ride of the Valkyries," the Prelude to Act I of "Carmen," the Andante from Franck's "Grand Piece Symphonique," the Finale of "Die Gotterdammerung," Debussy's "Clair de Lune," and an excerpt from Bach's "The Passion According to St. Matthew."

Erica Darbo, who won an unprecedented ovation at her debut in February in a performance of "Salome" with the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, and Richard Crooks, the tenor, will be the soloists in the concert at 7 o'clock tonight. Mishel Piastro, the concert-master, will be the conductor, as Erno Rapee is ill. Miss Darbo came to this country a few months ago after a career at the Stockholm Royal Opera, the Breslau Opera and the Dortmund Opera.

Nelson Eddy will be the soloist in the concert from Detroit which Alexander Smallens will conduct. Next Sunday, Eugene Ormandy, conductor of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, will assume charge of these concerts.

The concluding Sunday radio concert by the New York Philharmonic Orchestra will be that of this afternoon. As has been told, this orchestra's radio season of 1937-38 will begin Oct. 24 and continue through May 1.

Gladys Swarthout and Frank Chapman will sing again on KSD at 9 o'clock tonight.

Friday night, the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra will give its last radio concert until its return from its tour of the country. But this period will continue to be devoted to fine music played by the Cincinnati, San Francisco, New York Philharmonic, National Symphony and Rochester Symphony orchestras.

A concert in memory of Ottorino Respighi, the composer, will be broadcast from Turin, Italy, at 10 a. m. today on the WJZ net. Maj. John A. Warner, Superintendent of Police of New York State, well known in the East as a pianist, will be the featured soloist in the Radio City concert at 11:30 a. m. today on KWK, playing the first movement of Schumann's A-Minor Concerto.

ARTUR RODZINSKI has programmed for the New York Philharmonic concert at 2 p. m. on KMOX the Bach Toccata and Fugue in C-Major, Beethoven's Fifth Symphony and Brahms' First Symphony.

Marion Talley's songs at 4 p. m. on KSD will be "Dark Eyes," Chaminade's "L'Ete," the Gavotte from "Manon" and Malotte's setting of the Twenty-third Psalm. Helen Traubel and an orchestra are scheduled at 5 p. m. on the WJZ net. KSD's Fireside Recital by Sigurd Nilssen and Helen Marshall is set as usual for 6:30.

Erica Darbo is to sing the Puccini "Addio di Mimi" aria and Sjoberg's "Visions" in the Erno Rapee concert at 7 p. m. on KWK. Richard Crooks' solos will be the "E Lucevan e Stella" air from "Tosca" and "When Other Hearts and Other Lips" from "The Bohemian Girl." The two singers will join in Friml's "L'Amour toujours L'Amour," "Indian Love Call," "March of the Musketeers" and "Sympathy." The orchestra will play music by Friml, Dvorak and Borodin, and Mishel Piastro, violinist, the Liszt "Liebestraum."

Nelson Eddy has selected for his appearance in the concert at 8 p. m. on KMOX the "Pauvre Martyr Obscur" aria from Paladilhe's opera, "Patire," the "Dio Possente" air from "Faust," Romberg's "Will You Remember Me," Densmore's "Roadways" and "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny." Orchestral music will be by Chabrier, Debussy, Grainger, Wagner and Giardini.

Lanny Ross to Remain on KSD'S Show Boat Only Until Charles Winninger Succeeds Him When the Program Is Moved to Hollywood.

By J. L. S.

LANNY ROSS will not be displaced by Charles Winninger on KSD's Show Boat until the program locale is shifted to Hollywood some weeks in the future. Winninger, who was the original "Cap'n Henry" of the Show Boat and made the program one of the most talked about of network series, was chosen by the late Florenz Ziegfeld to play the same role in the stage production of the Jerome Kern operetta based on Edna Ferber's novel. He remained on the Show Boat program from its opening Oct. 6, 1932, until November, 1934, when he left it to play on Broadway and was succeeded as "Cap'n Henry" by Frank McIntyre. Finally, Ross took over the direction of the broadcasts, continuing as the featured singer.

Previous statements said that Dick Powell might replace Ross on the Show Boat in July and that the program then would be changed completely in character and be given a wholly Hollywood atmosphere. Now it is stated that Winninger will put a new crew on the Show Boat and introduce talented newcomers as he did when he was "Cap'n Henry." Anyway, Ross is to continue as master of ceremonies until the shift to Hollywood is made, and then will leave the program. He expects to make a movie, and will be starred in a new radio series in the fall.

Cantor on Twice Today.

ODD facts about the pet electric eel in the New York Aquarium will be given in a broadcast at 8 a. m. today on the CBS net. A dramatization of discoveries in the search to trace the story of the American Indian is set for 10:30 a. m. on the WEAF chain. The bomb-proof, fireproof and earthquake-proof vault, for preservation of objects of significance in today's civilization, which is being built beneath Oglethorpe University, Atlanta, Ga., to be sealed for opening in 8113 A. D., will be described by the president of the college on today's We the People, program.

Eddie Cantor is billed for Rubinoff's period today. The feature of Robert L. Ripley's program will be the story of Oliver Cowan, who was suspended in a rope seat 500 feet above the ground, scaling shale from a cliff, and caught and saved a fellow worker when the latter fell from a shelf on the precipice 100 feet above him. Tim Ryan and Irene Noblette, the comedians, will start a Fun in Swingtime series on WGN at 6:30. Maj. Al Williams, the noted flyer, will present a National Safety Council certificate of special commendation to Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, the war ace, at 6:30 on Phil Baker's CBS net program. Deanna Durbin is expected back on Eddie Cantor's program.

A broadcast from the St. Louis Zoo, including a visit to the monkey house and an interview with Director George Vierheller, is set for 2:30 this afternoon on KWK.

This evening's Land We Live In program on KMOX will dramatize "The Coming of the Germans to St. Louis."

A WEAF net broadcast at 9:30 tonight will cover a performance of "Rome Was Built in a Daze," a comedy on the idea that it was not Nero who burned Rome, but that the fire was set by a young Roman song writer, "Euphonius," to get Nero to play his new tune on the fiddle.

Program for Hippopotamus.

"HORACE," a four-ton hippopotamus of Jinja, Lake Victoria, Africa, will be saluted with a special concert at 12:45 noon Thursday on the WJZ chain, which will be short-waved for world-wide reception. The story of "Horace" first came to the attention of John F. Royal, vice-president in charge of programs for the NBC, on a voyage to England in May, 1936. A fellow passenger, E. G. Tidy, of Mombasa, Africa, told Royal of a partially tame hippopotamus that was fond of music. Whenever W3XAL, the short-wave station at Bound Brook, N. J., was tuned in for music, Tidy said, "Horace" would roam the Jinja Club's golf course, evidently enjoying the music, even standing still at times to listen to some particularly melodious bit. Royal later got in touch with

W9XPD Heard By Australian

RECEPTION in Australia of the Post-Dispatch's ultra short wave station, W9XPD, which broadcasts on 31.6 megacycles, is noted in a letter from Alan Graham, of Victoria.

Graham writes that he receives W9XPD more strongly than any other ultra short wave station, saying that he has heard four other United States stations of the type.

His ultra short wave radio set is a five-tube, home-built superheterodyne. His aerial is of the ordinary "L" type, 80 feet long and 35 feet above the ground.

Thus far, reports tell of distance reception of W9XPD in England, Scotland and Germany as well as on the Pacific Coast and in British Columbia.

Gracie Fields Friday.

SCENES from Shakespeare's plays will be performed by the Radio Guild at 2 p. m. Friday to mark the 373rd anniversary of his birth. At 7:15 p. m., addresses at the annual Shakespeare birthday luncheon will be broadcast from Stratford-on-Avon on the WJZ net. Speakers will include the Lord Mayor of London; Hugh Walpole, the novelist, and Sir Edward Hicks, the producer and playwright. Gracie Fields, the British actress, who was too ill to take part in the Hollywood Hotel broadcast last week, is billed again for Friday's period with Walter Winchell, Ben Bernie and Alice Faye. The new revue with a Negro cast will be broadcast on KWK at 8 p. m.

Plan for Plays By Broadway Stock Company

Net Considering Series—Metropolitan Spring Season May Be Broadcast.

JOSEF CHERNIAVSKI'S musical camera series will be concluded today. . . . Reports grow more definite that when Fred Allen goes off the air in the summer, he may take a permanent vacation from his present program. . . . Hollywood gossip has Don Wilson heading the show that will be substituted for Jack Benny during the summer. . . . Edward G. Robinson and Grace George have been engaged for future Kate Smith programs. . . . Doris Hare, the British singer and comedian, who is spotted once or twice a week on the WJZ chain, came to this country last fall to play on Broadway. When the show closed, she turned to radio, calling herself the "Piccadilly hill billy" . . .

Weekly productions of plays by the Actors' Repertory Co., one of the young groups playing on Broadway, are being considered for the CBS net. Careful preparation and rehearsal are contemplated. The Actors' Repertory Co. has been producing plays for three years. Among its plays have been "Let Freedom Ring," "Bury the Dead" and "200 Were Chosen." Worthington Minor is the stage director.

It is probable that some of the Metropolitan Opera spring season performances will be broadcast on the WEAF or WJZ network.

Next Sunday, the place of the New York Philharmonic concerts will be taken by the first of a series of "Everybody's Music" programs by Howard Barlow's symphony orchestra. The soloist in the concert from Detroit that night will be Kirsten Flagstad.

Carleton E. Morse, author of KSD's Wednesday night One Man's Family serial, plans to depart from San Francisco April 28 and to be the first person to make a round-trip trans-Pacific flight. He will fly on the China Clipper to Hongkong and back in 12 days. . . . Bob Guilbert, a young NBC actor, has been assigned to the title role in the Don Winslow of the Navy serial. Emmett Lynn, a veteran vaudeville player, has joined the Young Hickory serial cast. Evelyn Abbott has left the Our Gal Sunday cast, and has been replaced by Dorothy Lowell. . . .

"Mikey," winner of the singing mouse contest last Sunday; "Minnie," the NBC mouse from Woodstock, Ill.; a British mouse and a Canadian singing rodent are to be matched in a broadcast at 1:45 p. m. next Sunday on the WJZ net. Canadian stations, the British stations and U. S. and British short-wave transmitters.

KFRU, Columbia, Mo., has joined the "Corn Belt Wireless" net for some of its programs. Stations in this chain pick up programs broadcast by WHO, Des Moines, on its regular wavelength and rebroadcast them. KFRU has just dedicated new offices and equipment.

Plans have been approved for spending $2,000,000 on the new CBS network studios in Hollywood. . . .

HEALTH SURVEY CITES SIX TROUBLE DISTRICTS

Area With 31 Pct. of Population Has 66 Pct. of Tuberculosis Cases.

Approximately 66 per cent of St. Louis' tuberculosis cases and more than 48 per cent of deaths of infants less than one year old in 1936 occurred in six districts containing only 31 per cent of the population, according to the March issue of "Social Studies of St. Louis," published by the research department of the Community Council.

These districts, referred to as "trouble naighborhoods," stretch irregularly in a northwesternly direction from the central riverfront, including most of the business, industrial and old residential parts of the city as well as more than half of the boarding and lodging houses. More than 83 per cent of the Negro population resides there and the districts contain 62 per cent of that part of the population which cannot afford to pay more than $20 a month for rent.

Thirty-six per cent of the city's births and 38 per cent of the deaths were in the 'trouble neighborhoods," from which were reported 47 per cent of all public nuisances and 42 per cent of diphtheria cases.

The districts are homes of 82 per cent of all relief families and the residence of 55 per cent of all children brought before Juvenile Court.

The area has a large proportion of aliens and illiterates and widowed and divorced persons.

Correction on Chicago Trains.

An Associated Press dispatch from Chicago, published in Friday's Post-Dispatch, incorrectly stated the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad had announced two new Chicago-St. Louis trains in conjunction with the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad. The new trains, called "The Zipper" and the "Silent Knight," will be operated by the Chicago & Eastern Illinois, starting April 25.

Let Canute Water

RE-COLOR YOUR Gray Hair

SIMILAR TO NATURE'S OWN YOUTHFUL SHADE

23 YEARS WITHOUT INJURY TO A SINGLE USER

Canute Water is a pure, colorless liquid of wonderful properties. When you apply this crystal-clear fluid to your gray, faded or streaked hair, it will again appear youthful, lustrous and uniform in color.

Not a single person has ever been injured by the use of Canute Water in over 23 years. This exceptional record is your guarantee that it is perfectly safe to use.

Easy to Use

Because of its safety, cleanliness and dependability, you can use Canute Water alone, in the privacy of your own room. No previous experience is necessary. Simply wet your hair with it and allow to dry.

The time of day or the state of the weather makes no difference when using Canute Water. Apply it at your convenience. And since it does not alter the texture of your hair, you may curl, wave or set it—or get a permanent—as usual.

Speedy Action

It requires between one and three applications to re-color hair to its proper shade. The treatment can be completed in a single day.

And when your hair has once been re-colored, a single treatment, given only once a month, is sufficient to keep it that way. No more attention is necessary.

Never Fails

No matter what caused your hair to become gray, Canute Water will positively overcome it. There are no exceptions.

Even if you have used some other hair coloring, it will be a revelation to you to see what Canute Water can do for your hair.

Amazing Results

Canute Water is neither sticky nor greasy. It leaves your hair clean and natural to the touch. There's not even a suggestion of "dye". Neither is it just a hair "darkener". Canute Water imparts a color similar to nature's very own.

Lasting Color

Even your most intimate friends will be unable to distinguish the re-colored hair from your natural. And the new color remains in your hair, permanent against sun, air, salt-water and shampooing.

So, if you are still young — if you still care what others think — and if you are not quite ready to be classed with the "old folks" get a bottle now. It will solve your problem so completely that you, yourself, will be astonished.

$423,682 LOW BIDS ON EAST SIDE UNDERPASS

Response to Fifth Call for Carrying Highway Beneath Railway Tracks.

Low bids totaling $423,682 on four contracts for construction of two underpasses beneath main line tracks of the Louisville & Nashville, Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio railroads on St. Clair avenue in East St. Louis were announced yesterday by the Illinois Highway Department at Springfield.

Bids on the underpasses were taken four times previously and rejected because they were too much above the engineering estimates of construction costs. The first bids, taken last September, totaled $566,493. At the fourth opening two months ago the total had been reduced to $472,901, which was still considered too high.

After the fourth opening of bids, the Highway Department announced th ework would be abandoned, but vigorous protests by East St. Louis civic organizations through State Representative Calvin Johnson and East St. Louis Commissioner of Streets John T. Connors, led Gov. Horner to order the department to call for bids o fifth time.

Low bidders yesterday were: Fransen Construction Co., Chicago, grading of approaches, $66,854; John Mackler & Co., Chicago Heights, substructure, $282,880; Fred Lorenz, Chicago Heights, erection of structural steel, $21,720; Bethlehem Steel Co., Chicago, fabrication of structural steel, $52,228. Cost of construction will be paid out of funds allocated for the Government's grade crossing elimination program.

Under the plans, the two underpasses, lying in series, will extend for 1883 feet between Collinsville avenue and First street on St. Clair avenue, which at this point is State Route No. 3 and the principal thoroughfare between East St. Louis and the National Stockyards and points north. One underpass will be under a group of five tracks of the L. & N. and B. & O. and another, 650 feet west, under tracks of the Pennsylvania.

The roadway will be 46 feet wide and, at the deepest point, 15 feet below the present street level. The principal purpose of the underpasses is to expedite traffic, at present subject to much delay because of the movement of heavy freight trains.

Mrs. James Gilmartin Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Jennie Gilmartin, 5468 Enright avenue, who died of heart disease Friday at De Paul Hospital, will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the St. Louis Cathedral, 4401 Lindell boulevard, with burial in Calvary Cemetery. She was 56 years old, the wife of James J. Gilmartin, chief inspector for the Missouri State Grain Inspection Department. Also surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Weick, and five sons, Thomas, James, John, Joseph and Patrick.

Details of Shattering Defeat Of Italian Corps on Guadalajara Front in Spain's Civil War

Loyalists "Tumbled Down on Us Like a Mountain," Prisoner Says—Routed Corps Regular Troops Sent Under Orders.

By MIKHAIL KOLTSOV,
Correspondent of Pravda of Moscow.

MADRID, March.

WHAT happened to the Italian army on the Guadalajara front? New details help to complete the picture of this strikingly interesting military-political event. Gen. Manzini's corps was transferred from Cadiz and Malaga to the Aragon front, and from there through Siguenza to the Guadalajara section for the purpose of taking Guadalajara and Alcala de Henares and completing the encircling of Madrid.

The condition of the troops was excellent. This is evidenced by the testimony of prisoners, by documents found in the headquarters and by the favorable circumstances in which the Italians started their operations. The troops had enjoyed a good rest after what was called the "heroic capture of Malaga" and what in reality was nothing but an armed attack on a defenseless, panic-stricken city.

Taking of Malaga Easy.

A large number of Malaga's military staff members, as is well known, not only were in contact with the Fascists but had remained in town until the Fascists came. After artillery fire from land and sea and a fierce air bombardment, to the infantry was left only the easy task of entering—without meeting any resistance—sunny Malaga, famous for its delectable wine. All prisoners' notebooks hold the sweet memories of those heavenly days. They had met no tanks near Malaga. Due to sabotage in their military staff the Republicans had not more than four small armored cars in action for the whole Malaga section. The Italians were annoyed only by about a dozen Republican destroyers; the bombarders were busy with the Fascist fleet.

All this brought about a real holiday spirit among the conquerors. The Abyssinian war appeared to them like a horrible nightmare. What could the African desert mean to them, with its miserable Ethiopian mud huts, when right here was another Abyssinia with a wonderful climate and marvelous cities, with hospitable Spanish Fascists and generous senoritas. After three weeks the Italian soldiery behaved in this country of an ancient culture the way they would behave in the most barbarous enslaved colony.

Easy Conquest Expected.

The expeditionary corps did not expect any serious resistance on the Guadalajara front. Scouts reported—the information was correct—that there were very few Republican soldiers in the mountains, that all of them rallied at Jarama. A sudden attack was expected to take Guadalajara by surprise and bring the Italian corps to Madrid. The soldiers were told that the Republicans possessed scarcely any airplanes, and that even if they had some tanks, these could not move in the mountains.

The mechanized divisions started out on their new expedition in the full splendor of perfect munitions and equipment. Several thousand trucks suitable for machine-gun and rifle firing; a tremendous artillery park with several hundred guns of different calibers; a large tank park; an immense supply of projectiles and cartridges; chemical means of fighting—it is hard to imagine a better equipped European army. It was only the sanitary service of the corps which was poorly outfitted.

Startling Counter-Blow.

The first days of the advance confirmed the hopes of the conquerors. Having met only some scanty mountain detachments, the mechanized army corps easily marched almost as far as Torija. Running ahead of events the Fascist military reports announced the occupation of Taracena and even of some Guadalajara suburbs; they ran ahead up to nearly 30 kilometers. The more startling and painful proved to be the heavy counter-blow of the Republicans.

This is what one group of prisoners said:

"It tumbled down on us like a mountain. Infantry attacks with tanks; bayonet fights; night encounters under pouring rain; cavalry on the flanks; uninterrupted air raids!

"After the third bombardment our Captain hid in a cellar of the farm. He cried like a baby. He told us: 'Do what you like, boys, I've had enough of it!' We got together and discussed what to do since the officers had left us. The majority decided that we should remain lying in the field and wait for whoever would take us—yours or ours."

Prisoners Taken Daily.

What most disheartened the Italian soldiers was that the Fascist command had not provided for the removal of their wounded from the battlefield. At present the Guadalajara hospitals are crowded with hundreds of wounded Italians.

The Republicans continue to take prisoners, but not only on the battlefield. Many soldiers scattered and scampered away into the woods, orchards, cemeteries. They are hungry and miserable and want to be made prisoner.

Fifteen deserters came to the Republicans one day. Almost all of them asked where the Garibaldi battalion was; these, of course, belonged to the more active among the soldiers.

"We want to fight alongside the Italians against Fascism," they declared.

But the majority of prisoners are people haunted with fear, bewildered as during an earthquake, demoralized. They look as if they were just aroused from sleep and never have seen the world before.

This fact, the demoralization of whole units at their first encounter

Administration Forces Working for Better Than 5 to 4 Vote on Roosevelt's Proposal

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 17.

CHAIRMAN ASHURST of the Senate Judiciary urbanely praises inconsistency as a jewel and 13 Senators who can't make up their minds about the President's Supreme Court proposals are finding that indecision has its political penalties and rewards.

Of the 130,000,000 inhabitants of the United States, including the 96 Senators, these undetermined—and undeterminable—13 belong to that small percentage of persons who have not taken a stand for or against the plan to give the President power to appoint six new Justices to the highest court. Their irresolution and Chairman Ashurst's masterly poise while completely reversing himself are two of the amusing incidents in the grim battle which is temporarily splitting the Democratic party.

The latest unofficial and impartial polls indicate that the Senate is at present divided with 46 Senators for the President's plan, 37 against and the uneasy 13 non-committal."

Stand of the Noncommittals Deduced by Colleagues

Although they have made no public statement of what their position will be on the final roll call, their colleagues have deduced that these 13 Democrats are grouped as follows:

Leaning toward the plan: Bankhead of Alabama, Bachman of Tennessee, Chavez of New Mexico and Murray of Montana.

Leaning away from the plan: Lonergan of Connecticut, Overton of Louisiana and Russell of Georgia.

No leaning: Bone of Washington, Brown of Michigan, Duffy of Wisconsin, McGill of Kansas, Radcliffe of Maryland and Shipstead of Minnesota.

When asked for a public statement of their position, these Senators assume a statesmanlike attitude and declare, as Senator McGill of Kansas, that it is unfair and improper to ask such a question because "I am a member of a jury and am not permitted to express an opinion until all the evidence is in," or they may take the position of Senator Bone, co-author of the far-reaching Wheeler-Bone proposed amendment to the Constitution, who says that "there has been too much talk and bitterness on both sides; I will not add to that confusion but shall state my position when the proposal is debated in the Senate." Others flatly say that they will not comment for publication.

All Hope for Compromise In Appearance, at Least

What is to be gained by this continued uncertainty? For all practical purposes, the testimony before the Judiciary Committee has become merely repetitions and there is little hope for new arguments for or against the plan. The Supreme Court has spoken on the Wagner Labor Relations Act and doubts in that quarter have been removed. And it is notorious, particularly among Senators, that debate on the floor rarely changes votes.

There is an individual answer for each Senator, although every one of them is hoping for some sort of compromise, or what looks like a compromise. Also common among them is their fear of the effects of their vote "back home," and most of them are seeking safety in silence. Others have designs on administration patronage and administration support for their own bills. And there is also the factor of publicity and concern among their colleagues as to how they stand. This is known as the Greta Garbo technique for attracting attention. Only one, according to Senators on both sides of the battle, has a legitimate excuse for silence. That is Shipstead, the Farmer-Labor Senator from Minnesota, who has been seriously ill during the present session.

Geography and the dates of the senatorial campaigns give no clues to their position. The four Senators listed as leaning toward the plan do not come up for re-election until 1942, and of the three leaning away from the proposal, two will be up for re-election next year, and the third is safe until 1942.

Party Loyalty Emphasized By Farley, Is a Factor

Bankhead of Alabama and Bachman of Tennessee, who are listed as leaning toward the plan, and Overton of Louisiana and Russell of Georgia, listed as inclining toward opposition, illustrate the narrow margins by which votes are sometimes determined in the Solid South.

Bankhead, who was first elected to the Senate in 1930, is the brother of Speaker Bankhead of the House, an administration leader, who, incidentally, was not consulted before the plan was sprung on Congress and the country as a presidential surprise. Senator Bankhead has been heard to criticise the Supreme Court proposal but he is also interested in farm tenancy and cotton legislation which heretofore have had administration support. Also Postmaster-General-Democratic National Chairman Farley has announced that support of the President's plan is a matter of party loyalty and party loyalty is potent in the deep South. Bankhead was reelected to the Senate last year and primary reprisals could not hurt him immediately. According to his friends he is hoping for a compromise from the Judiciary Committee which would permit him to say that he had voted for a measure duly reported by the group assigned to consider the measure.

Others Who Are Listed As Leaning Toward Plan.

Bachman is in somewhat the same category as Bankhead. He is a former Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of Tennessee and was appointed to the Senate in 1933 to fill the unexpired term of Cordell Hull, now Secretary of State. Because of his background, many of his colleagues thought he would immediately announce his opposition to the President's plan. The senior Senator from Tennessee, however, is McKellar, who has served in Congress since 1912. Bachman may privately be against the plan at present, but the Roosevelt forces have him on their

All Are Democrats but Shipstead Who Is a Member of the Farmer-Labor Party.

Nathan L. Bachman, Tennessee: Former Associate Justice State Supreme Court; appointed 1933; re-elected last year; term expires 1943.

John H. Bankhead, Alabama: First elected 1930, present ends 1943; brother of Speaker Bankhead of the House. Administration leader not consulted in advance on President's plan; interested in farm tenancy and cotton legislation.

Homer T. Bone, Washington: Co-author of the Wheeler-Bone proposed constitutional amendment; Senator since 1933; term expires 1939; liberal, not bound by party politics.

Prentiss M. Brown, Michigan: Elected last year; term expires 1943.

Dennis Chavez, New Mexico: Supported by administration in contest with the late Senator Bronson Cutting; seated 1935; term expires 1941; two terms in House.

F. Ryan Duffy, Wisconsin: Also a first termer; elected 1932; term expires 1939.

Augustine Lonergan, Connecticut: Elected in Roosevelt landslide 1932; not an invariable New Deal supporter.

George McGill, Kansas: In since 1930; term expires 1939.

James E. Murray, Montana: Term expires 1943; became Senator 1934 after death of Senator Thomas J. Walsh; born in Canada.

John H. Overton, Louisiana: Up for re-election next year; promoted to Senate from House by late Huey Long, 1933.

George L. Radcliffe, Maryland: Close friend of President, his boss when first vice-president of Fidelity & Deposit Co., of which Roosevelt was New York representative; elected 1934; term expires 1941.

Richard B. Russell Jr., Georgia: Senator since 1933, has until 1943; recently three Georgia counties, voted overwhelming approval of President's plan.

Henrik Shipstead, Minnesota: Oldest of the 13 in point of service; serving his third term, which expires 1941.

Oklahoma's Gift to Senate, Young Josh Lee, Spellbinder, Useful and Usable Party Man

Elocutionist of Home-Mother-Birds-and-Bees School Probably Has Eye on Second Place on Ticket for 1940.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 17.

MEET Josh Lee, the Rover Boy of the United States Senate. Sooner or later you would meet him anyhow, if you attend Democratic political meetings, or listen to patriotic speeches on the radio. His is the story of the country elocution teacher who made good. There's a smile on his lips, and a song in his heart, and why not? F. D. R. is in the White House, Josh is in the Senate, and all's well with the world. If the time comes when all is not well, Josh will know what to do: He will make a speech about it. It will be a beautiful speech, too.

Thus, for him, the future stretches away in an endless and enticing succession of public gatherings, where bands play, flags flutter, and strong men and lovely women fall raptly silent as the chairman clears his throat for the last time, steadies the pitcher of icewater on the table, and concludes his introductory remarks as follows:

"And now, fellow Americans, it is my privilege and pleasure to present to you, on this momentous and historic occasion, our honored guest and principal speaker, the eloquent and distinguished Senator from Oklahoma—the Honorable Joshua Bryan Lee." (Prolonged applause.)

His Destiny and Delight.

This is the role in which destiny cast him, and for which he has groomed and polished himself in a thousand dress rehearals. Two fateful facts stand out in the autobiographical sketch which he prepared for the Congressional Directory. Writing of himself in the third person, as the authors of such sketches invariably do, he says:

"Christened Joshua, and later given the middle name of Bryan, after the Great Commoner . . . though almost entirely self-supporting throughout his college career, he engaged in forensics, and won the National Collegiate Oratorical championship in 1916."

His graduation from Oklahoma University coincided with the declaration of war against Germany, but the war was not long to divert him from his chosen course. Soon after his return from France, he was made head of the newly created Department of Public Speaking at his Alma Mater. From that day until he took his seat in the Senate last January his progress was as steady and assured as ambition, industry and a dulcet voice could make it.

Everyone in Oklahoma likes Josh Lee, they say, except possibly the men he beat for the Senate. His 15 years sit lightly upon his square and youthful shoulders. His manner is engaging, his smile affable, and he is as modest as it is possible for a professional orator to be. It would be difficult to harbor a spiteful thought against one overflowing with good will toward all the world, including the birds and bees, the calves and colts, the pigs and chickens.

Uncommitted But Sure.

Yet there must be some significance in the fact that immediately after the outbreak of hostilities on Capitol Hill over the President's plan to pack the Supreme Court, both sides unhesitatingly listed Senator Lee as among those "sure" to vote for the plan. According to all available evidence, including his own emphatic testimony, they did so without receiving a word of confirmation from him.

"I haven't told a living soul how I intend to vote," he assured this correspondent. "Enough trouble comes down the road and raps on my door with brass knuckles, without me running out to meet it. I don't expect to say a word until the roll is called in the Senate."

Informed that every available list made by canvassers for either side showed his name among those "certain to be for the President's plan," he rejoined:

"The canvassers are listing me on their own responsibility." A little later he added:

"Did you ever see a man swing with all his strength, when there wasn't anything there to swing at? He looked foolish, didn't he? That's what sometimes happens when a man talks too soon. There is a possibility that the court plan will be in a different shape when it comes to a vote. I intend to wait."

No Speech This Time.

"Don't you intend to speak on it?" asked the interviewer, with actual surprise.

"I do not," was the reply. "I have already violated the rule that a new Senator should be seen and not heard, but I don't expect to violate it on this question.

"I have made up my mind before I came to the Senate that there is no such thing as a general specialist. I think I am qualified to speak on a few things—agriculture, education, veterans' legislation—and when the time comes, I shall discuss them."

Now, the theory is virtually undisputed that Senator Lee would rather make a speech than do anything else known to man. Hence, this temporary self-imposed silence might be galling, but for another circumstance. James Aloysius Farley, always with an eye for practical detail, was quick to discover a party asset in the new Senator's taste and talent for oratory.

Within the last three months Josh has become Democratic Spellbinder No. 1. When a Jefferson Democratic Club needs a speaker, Farley knows where to turn. Consequently, the Oklahoma Demosthenes already has been heard in such widely separated states as Michigan, Missouri, Louisiana, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Condemnation of Child Labor.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

MAY I express my humble appreciation of your editorial, "The Child Labor Choice," and the wonderful cartoon, "May I Come Out Now?" in which your cartoonist displays a puny, helpless victim of child-labor exploitation? I also liked the reprint of Justice Holmes' dissent in the first child-labor case.

The 74-to-51 vote against ratification of the child-labor amendment in the Missouri House last week goes to prove that the old mossbacks, the bosses who hide the shells and the discredited Reeds, still ride the range and rule the political roost.

If the late Tom Kinney were alive today, he would be battling for the rights of little children and the amendment, and forcibly condemning the counterfeit substitute and pernicious subterfuge introduced and sponsored by his brother Mike as a joke and a blunder.

The shepherds of the flocks who would lead the innocent little lambs to the shambles, vociferously gloat over the defeat of this humanitarian proposal, in principle with the teaching of the great Master, who said, "Suffer the little children to come unto me."

All honor and praise to Prof. Ralph Fuchs of Washington University and Rabbi Isserman of Temple Israel, who gave their support as eloquent champions to the cause of child labor and defied the profiteers and racketeers who derive their bloody profits out of the precious blood of child labor. Then long live the dictator, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The Agriculture Department furnishes a folder on the love life of a bullfrog, and a treatise on the hookworm of the South, but nothing on the hookworm exploiters of the blood of little children, deprived of the pleasure of childhood education or religious instruction—old, emaciated and incapacitated at the age of maturity.

I hope and pray our great emancipator of industrial slavery will find a way to eliminate this curse from our land. Then long live the dictator of human deeds for humane needs, our great President.

Mr. Roosevelt's Program.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WE are living in a new age. We have progressed in the last 40 years more than we did in the preceding 100 years and we are beset with new problems.

The powers that be legislated for the benefit of the bosses of finance, who got this country into the worst panic it ever experienced. The welfare clause of the Constitution was left out, so to speak, for 20 years, and President Roosevelt wants to place it back.

The recovery program that he has planned affects future generations more than any other program that has ever been formulated; it will make this the most progressive nation on earth. The American people are with him 95 per cent.

Drunkenness and Auto Accidents.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

A WAVE of indignation is sweeping the country with the mounting toll of automobile deaths.

The National Safety Council reports 38,500 for 1936. Since we have no uniform standards for defining intoxication, no one can declare positively how many of these deaths were caused by alcohol, but estimates run from 25 per cent to 60 per cent. The record of increase in automobile accidents closely parallels the increase in drinking. United States Vital Statistics, Dec. 20-Feb. 13, show a 40-per-cent rise in automobile deaths, while Internal Revenue, for about the same period, notes a 40-per-cent increase in liquor consumption.

The effects of alcohol, which have been established by scientific research, were not repealed along with the eighteenth amendment. Every school pupil should receive adequate instruction as to those effects, and the school authorities should be held responsible for neglect in this respect. The highest automobile accident rate is among young people. Even in Germany, the homeland of beer, the Government employs special teachers who travel from one school to another giving scientific instruction about alcohol.

MRS. J. W. SHANKLAND.

Riding to a Fall.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YOU are to be complimented on your fine editorials having to do with national and State affairs, particularly those relating to taxes. Your highly commendable opposition to a 2 per cent sales tax in Missouri is appreciated by all taxpayers.

It is unthinkable that the Democratic party should make itself responsible for inflicting a 2 per cent sales tax on the consumer when you have clearly shown that such increase is not presently necessary. Members of the Legislature indicate that they do not like increased taxes but are going to vote for them because the Governor so orders, and they want to be on the band wagon. This is a deplorable attitude for a legislator, who is elected by his constituents and not by the Governor. In the final analysis, taxpayers get very little consideration.

If a 2 per cent sales tax is also loaded on the taxpayer it will take $1,000,000 per year to collect it instead of $400,000. Many will dodge it, as they do in France. It looks like the Democratic party is riding to a hard fall. When you overload the mule, he stops.

DEMOCRAT.

THIS IN AMERICA TODAY.

For several days, the American people have been hearing about life in the coal mines of Harlan County, Kentucky.

The reports come from witnesses before the La Follette Civil Liberties Committee of the Senate. They speak under oath. The things they tell are dreadful. If true, Harlan County is, excepting its geography, immeasurable leagues removed from America; temporally back in the Dark Ages; socially, in a monstrous pre-civilization tyranny.

Let us try to draw a factual picture of a Harlan County coal miner's way of working and living.

First, his wage. He is paid whatever the company decides to pay him. The rate is subject to change without notice. An announcement posted by the company suffices.

There are no "check weighmen" in those mines, consequently the miner cannot know how much coal he mines or whether he is paid for the work he does. This condition is unique to Harlan County, a witness said. It exists nowhere else in the coal-mining world. There is another unique practice down there. It is called the "clean-up system," under which men, periodically, work for stretches of 10 hours without pay.

When payday comes, the miner is not paid in American money. He is paid in "company scrip," if he happens to have anything due him. For this coal miner lives in a company house. He does his family trading in a company store, where the scrip passes as legal tender and the prices are exorbitant. If he goes to a store not operated by the company, his "scrip" is depreciated currency, worth, say, 70 or 80 cents on the dollar.

Efforts have been made to improve this luckless miner's lot. Organizers have gone into Harlan County to try to unionize the mines. They have been beaten, shot, dynamited. They have literally found the cards stacked against them. The Sheriff is, in effect, an officer of the Coal Operators' Association. His deputies, many of them with criminal records, it is charged, are on the companies' payrolls. In the courts, justice, according to cited instances, condones official violence.

Relief has been sought in legislation. Seemingly, the influence of the coal operators extends to the capital of Kentucky. Measures designed to lighten the miners' burdens have been defeated—sometimes in the House, sometimes in the Senate, sometimes "killed in committee."

Who operate those mines? Some of them are home people. Some are absentee owners. There is a third category, the "captive mine," where the company consumes its own production. The United States Steel Corporation is one of the "captive mine" operators.

All those companies mine their coal cheaply, what with their low wages, their "scrip," their managerial technique and their absolute overlordship; so cheaply that unionized mines cannot compete with them. They have become, a witness asserted, a problem for the whole coal-mining industry.

The companies have been heard by the La Follette Committee. The Sheriff proved a fumbling, unconvincing witness, with a conveniently leaky memory. His head deputy, whom the committee greatly desired to hear, has disappeared, a "fugitive from the subpena." The secretary of the Coal Operators' Association frankly acknowledged he had destroyed records, in prudent anticipation of such an investigation as is being made.

The inquiry is not closed. The country would like to hear from the company heads—from the men whom the court of public opinion holds responsible for conditions in Harlan County—"the blackest spot in America."

TRIBUTE TO A RAVISHING BLONDE.

Forsythia needs neither poet nor press agent. Her gay and graceful yellow, the glory of countless parks, town gardens and country lanes the past week, sings its own ecstatic song. We should like to pay tribute in passing, not to the beauty of her golden tresses, but to her other qualities.

First there is her bravery. Other flowering shrubs may hesitate; forsythia throws her golden bells into the half-wintry spring air before the leaves come out. Forsythia is no snob. Other shrubs may be snooty about their soils. Forsythia will grow almost anywhere. It will not choke on city smoke. This is not to say that the shrub eats smoke up, but it is not hurt by the winter palls as most decorative shrubs are. It is generous. Prolific by nature, it roots as easily as a privet hedge, and cuttings of stems and uprooting the usually plentiful suckers provide new plants. Finally, it is cosmopolitan in the fullest sense. A native of the age-old hillsides of Korea and China, it is also contentedly at home in the newest Middle-western subdivision.

In short, one ravishing blonde you can tie up with and have no fear of landing in the alimony court.

FLORIDA IS NO. 10.

The number of states which have rejected the long-pending child-labor amendment this year has been run to 10 by adverse action in Florida. Under these circumstances, it would be a waste of time for any other Legislature to debate the proposed amendment during what remains of the current round of legislative sessions. The choice, as we said the other day, is now before Congress. Will it propose a new amendment with the criticised features removed? Or will it attack the problem directly through a law bringing child labor under Federal control for suitable regulation and limitation? After the recent decisions of the Supreme Court, a Congress elected in a popular reaffirmation of the principles of the New Deal cannot escape the responsibility of coming to grips with the problem.

TO PERPETUAL MURDER!

A royal gesture of patriotism is reported from England which conceivably may invest George VI in an aura of scarlet immortality ere yet the crown was ceremonially placed on the Hanoverian head.

The King has ordered the removal of two German field pieces, trophies of the World War, from a terrace of Windsor Castle, to be scrapped and reforged and refashioned into munitions for the next war. It is a contribution of His Majesty to Great Britain's armament program, budgeted at $7,500,000,000.

The purple example has fired popular imagination. Already a movement is in swing for the conversion of such relics to whatever economic uses may be practicable, the proceeds to go to the armament fund.

Since patriotism is a universal heritage, and since, in the arbitrament of the sword throughout the ages, almost every people has had its victories and the spoils thereof, it seems likely, and surely logical, that the same high sacrificial spirit may stir the pulses in many lands. A vast, sweeping crusade may be visioned which will lay on the altar of the coming agony the cannon and the helmets and all the trumpeting memorials of yesterday's atonement. And the ghosts of the dead warriors from all the fields of wrath may stand at attention to the posterity which statesmanship condemns to the same grisly destiny. Statesmanship may salvage the iron and steel of buried battles and humanity will provide the cannon-fodder in the endless dance of death.

Historians of a far tomorrow may tell about civilization's commitment to perpetual murder, and how it originated in the morning of the sixth George's reign. There is a theme here for the poets, for the musicians, for the painters, for the masters of all the arts. And to the House of Windsor, Mars may bow his thanks for the never-ending stream of votive offerings as time staggers down to eternity.

AN ENGLISHMAN LOOKS AT OUR ARCHITECTURE.

St. Louis and the county have felt the first tentative twinges of what promises to become a first-class construction boom. Hence a particular timeliness attaches to the notes on American architecture reprinted from a leading British architectural journal in last week's Sunday Magazine. The writer, Douglas Haskell, devoted a generous allotment of emphasis to Missouri's heritage and present tendencies. Such free expert opinion is worth a reaction more emphatic than gratitude. The author showed a judicious regard for established trends. He tempered his criticism also by a more than perfunctory regard for the rules of hospitality.

In epitomizing Mr. Haskell's findings and reading into them their inherent logical implications, native architects and clients needn't be so dainty with their own habits and feelings as this courteous visitor chose to be. His omissions are eloquent.

However, three essentials of a positive sort stick out—all of them apt and close to home. He praised the stately brick houses of Missouri's French and German pioneers. He spoke in a kindly vein of the untaught, unself-conscious architecture we devote to such merely utilitarian structures as silos, grain elevators and tourist camps. The last seemed to him in fact hopeful prognoses of future housing trends. Thirdly, he lashed out with studied vehemence against the dominant tendency in all American design—the process of eclecticism.

As this writer uses the term, electicism is that diffident disdain for one's own culture and slavish gadding after whatever is ancient and exotic to it, which is the very core of provincial gaucherie. Every street and lane here is rife with it. Appropriated New England, Virginian and European styles of the past and the "modernism" of the '20s seem the only sources of colloquial inspiration. It is as if every builder were intent on going the parvenu who adopts other people's ancestors one better. Now Mr. Haskell is justly sympathetic with the American "intent upon discovering and evolving the architecture that belongs to him. . . . Such a bulk of indigenous or naturalized past construction," he says, "some of it entirely unpublicized, should form a national heritage already adequate . . . to indicate the unlimited nature of architectural opportunity." Explicitly, this means that Missourians who examine the nice proportions and imitate the dignity and idiomatic originality of brick town houses in Boonville, Ste. Genevieve and South St. Louis may evolve from these a style appropriate to modern usage, one with equal stateliness and taste. Conversely, those who ape the "Colonial," the timbered Elizabethan and the Roman, are cheating themselves with their own intellectual dishonesty and their hinterlandish mistrust of the legitimacy of their own antecedents. That sin glares from the facades of every other expensive mansion and suburban cottage in this vicinity.

Now architecture may (perhaps it must) be the healthier for deriving naturally from its sectional past, and eclecticism applied to the so-called modern style is usually as gawky and repulsive as any other kind. But if ancient styles are lifted bodily and "adapted" to uses they cannot fill, the result is inefficient, uneconomical and inartistic. Gothic skyscrapers in the city which contains the Wainwright Building (antecedent of all honest skyscrapers) are as inappropriate as a neolithic bathroom in any setting. Another example: Stables were removed from houses for olfactory, not esthetic, reasons, and automobiles are free from the domestic sins biologically inherent in horses; architects can save yards and yards of garden space by recognizing this.

The car is key to Mr. Haskell's principles of rightness. It makes country life accessible to city workers. Its use is costly, thus making small houses reasonable habitations for all but the very rich. And the way its style has developed from the carriage into something peculiarly suited to its own inward necessities without sacrifice of beauty is a cue to the way houses might (and don't now) develop. Hence, this foreign observer finds in the vernacular architecture of the tourist camp the healthiest trend in American housing, one symptomatic of a spacious wholesome way of life. And the auto trailer seems to him "a laboratory for scientific and economical shelter construction."

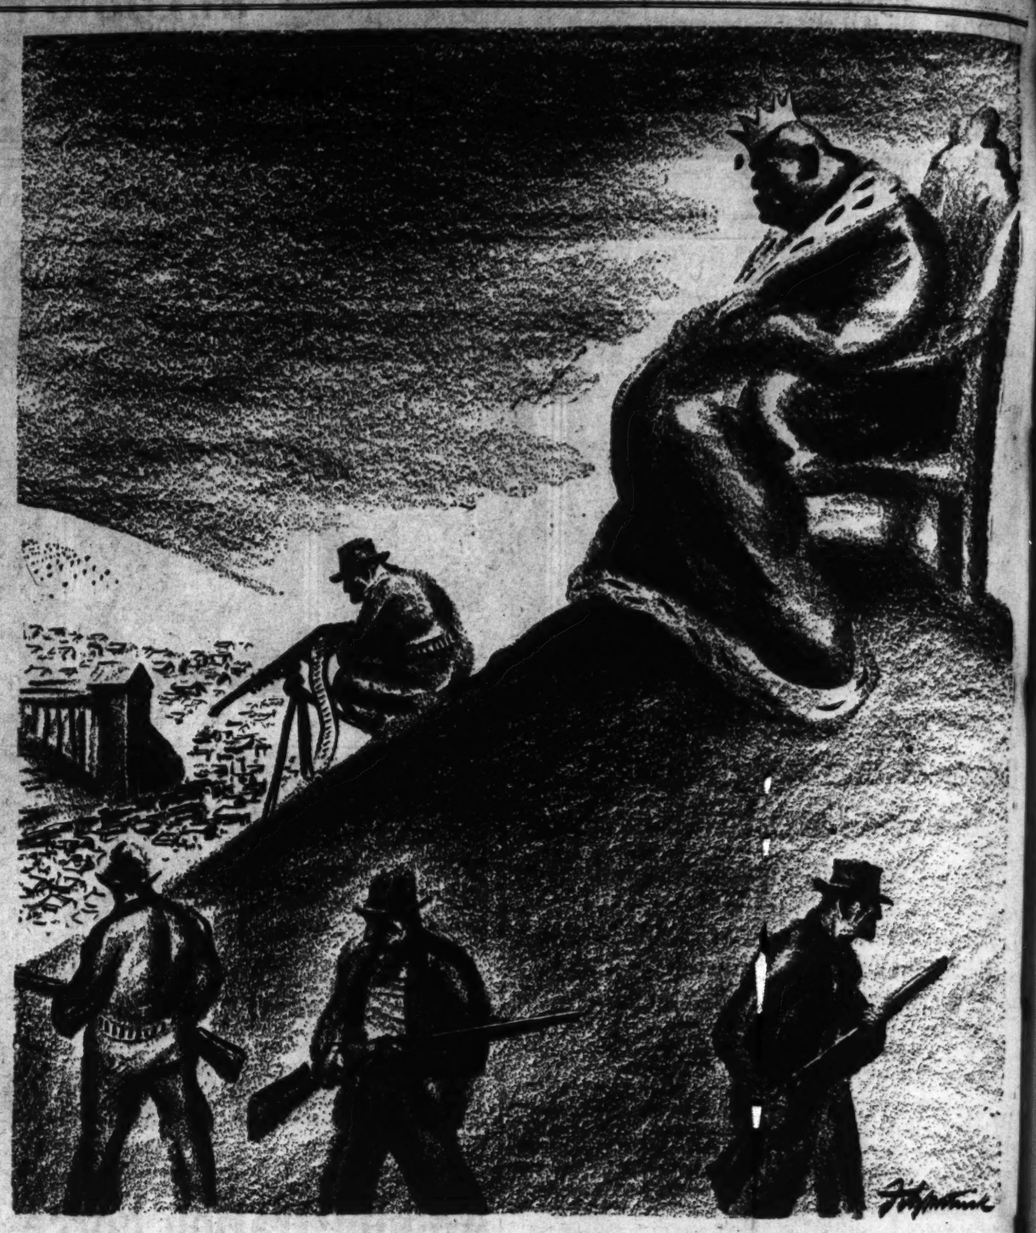
Translated into immediate terms, all this implies that builders of big houses should look to Missouri's past for models, and builders of bungalows might learn a few lessons in simple honesty from the amateurs who build tourist camps. A more realistic comment on the American scene and one freer from sentimental or revolutionary preconceptions would be hard to imagine.

TOM BENTON TELLS THEM.

Tom Benton gave his legislative critics a chance to have at him by appearing the other night before a Jefferson City audience, but not a single heckler spoke up. Perhaps the critics were forewarned. Benton, in addition to his qualities as a painter, is a pungent phrase-maker.

Samples: ". . . The Representatives seem to think the pictures should be more delicate. This is strange, because the Representatives are themselves the saltiest kind of fellows." . . . "They think I should have put in more Ozark sunsets, more flowers and trees. Imagine Missouri history painted in a row of violets." . . . "Pershing is of less importance in the social history of Missouri than a bucksaw." . . . "I have been criticised because I neglected to show the high ideals that have always motivated Missourians. I don't take ideals seriously unless they have idealistic results." . . . "Brangwyn is an academician who goes to art for his forms. I am an artist who goes to life for his forms."

That's putting paprika into the milk toast.



KING COAL OF HARLAN COUNTY, KENTUCKY.

Wars of Ideas

World's choice is not necessarily between Fascism and Communism, as both insist, British Liberal statesman and writer says; clash of antagonistic ideas may be adjusted by analyzing them and exposing fallacies, and by adherence to what is best in democracy; urges use of persuasion, not force, as ruling principle of government.

Sir Herbert Samuel in Nineteenth Century and After, London; Reprinted from Magazine Digest.

THE wars which history records have sprung from many different causes. There have been dynastic wars, nationalist or imperialist wars, territorial wars and economic wars. There have been strategic wars—to forestall future wars—and there have also been wars of ideas; for example, the wars of the Reformation, or the war against France as propagandist of the principles of the Revolution, or those of the Holy Alliance for the suppression of liberty.

"Future wars are likely to be the conflict of two sets of ideas, two mentalities, two different conceptions of life," the Foreign Minister of Spain said last September at the Assembly of the League of Nations.

The opinion is shared by many people. We see, gradually shaping itself, a possible alignment of the nations to the Left and to the Right. It may be that some event will suddenly cause that alignment to become actual and belligerent, with disaster as the outcome. It is therefore incumbent upon us to examine the situation closely, and soon, and to form some opinion whether there need be fighting at all.

It is generally supposed that liberty is a simple and single conception, but when it is studied, it is found to consist of four elements, united at bottom, yet sometimes opposed: national liberty, political liberty, personal liberty and economic liberty.

To enjoy complete liberty, one must possess all four. To be fully free, a man has to live in a country which is independent, in a state which is democratic, in a society where the laws are equal and restrictions at a minimum, and in an economic system in which he is assured of security of livelihood, and comfort.

But sometimes one kind of liberty has to be sacrificed for the sake of another. For example, a nation at war, or threatened by war, may be willing to sacrifice part of its personal liberties by consenting to military conscription. Or a population may find that it has no real economic freedom, owing to bad conditions of trade and industry, and may blame for that the incompetence of democratic parliaments and governments. In that case, it may consent to surrender its political freedom, and a measure of personal freedom also, in the hope of obtaining more economic freedom under a dictatorship. This happens now in Germany and Italy and other Fascist countries on the one hand, and in Russia on the other.

Out of the clash of those ideas may spring the wars of the future.

The sacrifice involved in the surrender of political and personal liberties is no small one. We may have some conception of it if we could imagine, here in England, that we were allowed to read in our newspapers only what a dominant group or a single individual thought it desirable for us to read; that we could hear or say only such things that authority might think suitable; that, regardless of our wishes, our sons had all to be trained from earliest youth, in body and mind, to military ends; that at any moment our country could be thrown into war, without our knowing the truth about the issue.

This is imposed upon the peoples of the greater part of Europe by the system of dictatorship. Economically, on the other hand, its results are not as yet very brilliant. Glory for the nation may be sought at the cost of misery for the people.

Watching the consequences of the abolition of democratic institutions, while it must be agreed that there are sometimes advantages, at all events at the outset, in speed of action and efficiency of administration, we see plainly enough that there are factors also on the other side.

Without either complacency or pessimism, we may discern the general lines of a constructive policy that may obviate the clash of antagonistic ideas. We may reject it at the outset that our choice must be between Fascism and Communism. Undoubtedly, both the Fascists and the Communists would wish it to appear to be so, for the support of each is recruited mainly by hostility to the other. But the wider public may dismiss this contention.

If there are nations unable to combine political and personal liberty with their national independence or economic well-being, that is their affair and not ours. Let them subordinate absolutely the freedom of the individual to the myth of the state; we may see in that process merely a trend toward an insect civilization. "Consider the ant—and beware of her! She is there for a warning" (Lowes Dickinson).

In the last days of antiquity, the philosophers were ready to show to their world sound ways of government. But the ruffians were stronger and would not let them. Happily, today the defense of peace and freedom and sanity is not left to the forces, always exiguous, of philosophy; it enlists the support, in some countries at least, of the mass of the people.

It is clearly incumbent upon the governments and citizens of these countries not to allow the education of the coming generation, and not to allow military preparation and efficiency, to be the monopoly of the advocates of force, and for those who are the guardians of better ideas to be content with a high-minded unpreparedness, leading to a noble-hearted defeat. If all the force in the world is to be on the side of militarism, the cause of peace would be in a bad way.

A true patriotism will not be content with a merely negative policy; although a positive policy may demand sacrifices. The need for a revision of the Treaty of Versailles becomes increasingly obvious, for, although it removed more injustices than it created, some new injustices exist, and they feed the appetites that make for war.

Here, then, we can find a policy which may after all ward off the danger of wars of ideas, whether civil wars or international. A searching analysis of the conflicting ideas themselves, and an exposure of what is foolish in them; an insistence upon persuasion rather than force as the ruling principle, and the maintenance of force sufficient to insure that; a sane nationalism, the servant and not the enemy of an enlightened internationalism; constructive measures of social progress—these are paths that may lead us out of the confusions and the perils of these times.

The Blank-Check Theory

From the Baltimore Sun.

THE opinions of Jim Farley on the Constitution, the Supreme Court, the temper of the people and what is best are, of course, all-important. His is the master mind of the New Deal, his the finger on the popular pulse.

It is more than casually interesting, therefore, when Mr. Farley says, as he did before an audience in New York recently, that "our people showed their confidence in the President and their desire to keep him in office to have him carry out whatever program he thought necessary for the people." Therefore, although Mr. Roosevelt was careful not to admit this during the campaign, "the reform of the judiciary is a part of that program."

In the New Deal "theirs-not-to-reason-why" school of political theory, this is probably sound doctrine, but the fact ought not to be overlooked that it is a theory new to American political life. If Mr. Roosevelt's election meant that "whatever program he thought necessary"—however repugnant to his political platform or to his promises—had been ratified in advance by the American people, this is the first time they have so interpreted the result of an election.

Still, Mr. Farley's ear is always close to the ground. If anybody knows what the American people are thinking, it ought to be Mr. Farley. His interpretation is not, to be sure, very flattering to the American people. The assumption that they did not choose between two reasonably definite programs announced in advance, but merely rushed off after a voice shouting "O. K., chief!" is hardly in accord with the way the American people likes to think of the manner in which it exercises its deliberative faculties.

If Mr. Farley is right and the American people authorized Mr. Roosevelt to do whatever he thought necessary, for whatever reason, then it is indeed fortunate that the implementing of such an irresponsible attitude must at least await the action of Congress, many of whom take the duty of preserving the American form of government a little more seriously.

Believing that Mr. Farley is wrong and that no President is entitled to claim the endorsement for the project which he not only concealed from the electorate but allowed his fellow-partisans to repudiate as a foul canard, we welcome the resistance of the Wheeler-Burke-Glass-Byrd group in the Senate as evidence of the disposition of responsible men to defend democratic institutions when those intrusted to maintain them have forgotten the essentials to their existence.

THE COST OF FAILURE.

From the Kansas City Times.

HOPE for the enactment of a Statewide drivers' license law in Missouri, says a report from Jefferson City, has been "renewed" by the action of the Senate Committee on Roads and Highways in recommending for passage a substitute for the bill now pending on that subject.

A speaker in St. Louis recently estimated that if Missouri had had an effective licensing statute in force for the last 10 years, it would have been instrumental in saving the lives of approximately 1000 persons. On such a basis, failure to enact a drivers' license law at the present session, thereby postponing that protection for another two years, would be responsible for some 200 additional deaths in the next biennium.

It is incredible that the Legislature would invite such a responsibility by allowing what is essentially a dispute over administrative details to block the enactment of a law the urgent need for which is admitted on all sides.

MEDICAL LEADERS TO OPEN MEETING IN CITY TOMORROW

American College of Physicians Holding Twenty-First Annual Convention at Hotel Jefferson.

RESEARCH PAPERS ON MANY SUBJECTS

Dr. Logan Clendening to Speak on Medical Shrines at Dinner on Thursday Evening.

Papers on research work in internal medicine and allied fields will occupy the attention of 2200 specialists, teachers and research men at the twenty-first annual convention of the American College of Physicians, which will open tomorrow at Hotel Jefferson and continue through Friday.

Neurologists, pediatricians, psychiatrists, public health officials and tuberculosis specialists from every state and from Canada, Mexico and Puerto Rico are expected to attend.

The college, a counterpart of the Royal College of Physicians of Great Britain, elects associate members after a three to five-year period of observation of their work. Reports of cases handled by the applicant for membership and his writings are reviewed. The college now has 2800 fellows and 800 associate members.

Two special trains, one from the East and one from Chicago, will arrive with delegates tomorrow morning. Members of the board of governors and board of regents will arrive today for a meeting tonight.

In addition to members of the college, St. Louis Medical Society members, medical students, hospital officers and physicians may attend the convention.

Topics of Discussion.

Dr. Perrin H. Long and Dr. Eleanor A. Bliss of Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine, in a paper Tuesday afternoon, will describe a study they have made of a dye used in treating streptococcus infections. They have used the dye with good results on mice as well as on human beings.

At the same session Dr. Evarts A. Graham, professor of surgery at Washington University and surgeon-in-chief of Barnes Hospital, will discuss bronchiogenic cancer.

Prof. Harry Goldblatt, professor of experimental pathology at Western Reserve University School of Medicine, Cleveland, will describe his experiments with dogs on the relationship between the kidneys and high blood pressure. The study has attracted wide attention.

Round table discussions of diabetes mellitus, public health aspects of syphilis, cardiovascular problems, pulmonary tuberculosis, gastro-enterology, allergy, diseases of the blood and treatment of various phases of syphilis will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

While the physicians are attending general sessions, clinics and round-tables, their wives will go sight-seeing, attend a fashion show, a luncheon and bridge at St. Louis Country Club and a tea as guests of the Woman's Club of the St. Louis University School of Medicine.

Exhibits, on dsiplay on the mezzanine floor of the hotel, will include medical literature, drugs, apparatus and appliances and office furniture.

Tuberculosis Specialists.

The Trudeau Club of St. Louis, composed of tuberculosis specialists, will be host to about 100 delegates at a luncheon Wednesday at the Park Plaza Hotel. Dr. James Alexander Miller of New York will lead a round-table discussion.

A brief memorial service will be held Thursday at 12:30 p. m. at the grave of Dr. William Beaumont in Bellefontaine Cemetery. Dr. Beaumont, a surgeon, became famous for his research on the digestive functions of the stomach. His manuscripts and letters are in the Beaumont room of the Washington University School of Medicine.

Dr. Logan Clendening, professor of clinical medicine at the University of Kansas School of Medicine, will speak on "American Medical Shrines" at the annual dinner of the College of Physicians Thursday evening.

Addresses of welcome will be delivered at the first general session tomorrow afternoon by Dr. David P. Barr, general chairman; Chancellor Throop of Washington University, the Rev. Alphonse Schwitalla, S. J., dean of the St. Louis University School of Medicine; Dr. Curtis H. Lohr, president of the St. Louis Medical Society, and Health Commissioner Joseph F. Bredeck. Dr. Ernest B. Bradley of Lexington, Ky., president of the College of Physicians, will respond.

Pledge to Be Given.

At the convocation Wednesday evening, which is open to the public, the John Phillips Memorial Medal for 1937 will be presented. Newly-elected fellows will take the pledge, which reads in part as follows:

"I dedicate myself to practice medicine following the Golden Rule and the good precepts of the Oath of Hippocrates; to place ever before my own, the welfare of patients depending upon my professional knowledge and skill; to respect the interests and character of my colleagues; to supplement, as occasion requires, my own judgment with the wisdom and counsel of competent medical specialists; to render assistance willingly to my colleagues; to extend freely my professional aid to the unfortunate, the poor and the needy; to seek constant increase in medical knowledge through reading of authoritative literature and by attendance at important gatherings of my professional brethren, by study with physicians of eminence and by free exchange of experience and opinion with my colleagues.

"Further, I promise to refrain from seeking the public eye for purposes of self-advancement; to avoid commercialism in all my professional activities; to adjust my fees to the circumstances of my patients and to make them commensurate with the services I have rendered.

"Moreover, I hereby condemn and promise to avoid all abasing money trades with brother practitioners or consultants, and I hereby swear that I will strive constantly to spread among all physicians with whom I come in contact a high ethic of practice like that set forth in the constitution and by-laws of the American College of Physicians."

RUMANIAN IRON GUARD CHECKED BY PREMIER

Leader of Secret Fascist Party Obeys Order to Disband, and Form New Society.

By the Associated Press.

BUCHAREST, April 17.—Premier George Tatarescu's precautions against a possible Nazi coup tonight seemingly had cowed the militant Iron Guard, secret Rumanian Fascist society, in whatever scheme it might have had for gaining power. If a crisis really was at hand, as some feared, it appeared to be passing.

The Iron Guardists, who have been barred as such, would like to have Rumania run by a dictatorship such as Germany's. Their leader is Gen. Zizi Cantacuzino, who after the order formed a new party with himself as president. It is called "all for the Fatherland."

This group, some thought, sought to take advantage—for its own purposes—of King Carol's order banishing his brother, Nicholas. Nicholas was banished because he would not give up his commoner wife. The Guardists said their new party was not given a part in the Crown Council which decreed Nicholas' banishment, although Rumanian law provides all recognized parties shall have a voice in the council.

When it became apparent that the Iron Guard was trying to stir up anti-Government sentiment—(it particularly dislikes Mme. Lupescu, King Carol's friend)—the Cabinet authorized emergency measures to suppress any possible disturbances. Police guarded all political meetings.

Today, Cabinet members kept in touch with each other and police were on the alert, but everything on the surface was quiet and returns from a Friday City Council election showed strong Government victories, 32 seats to 4.

Nicholas, stripped of his princely rank, is in his Bucharest castle, preparing to leave the capital. He is going to Italy for at least a year of exile. Government officials say the Iron Guard really cares nothing about what happens to Nicholas, but took up his cause to further its own political aims.

CONCERT AT PILGRIM CHURCH

St. Louisan's Compositions in Vesper Choral Service.

The choir of the Pilgrim Congregations Church, Union boulevard and Kensington avenue, will present John Kessler's "Forty-sixth Psalm" at a musical vesper service at 5 p. m. today at the church.

Before the choral service Kessler's A-minor Sonata for violin and piano will be rendered by Scipione Guidi, concertmaster of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, violinist, with the composer a St. Louisan, at the piano.

Patman Act Debate

The question, "Should the Robinson-Patman Act be Defended?" will be the subject of a debate at a luncheon of the St. Louis Association of Manufacturers' Representatives tomorrow at the Missouri Athletic Association. James S. McClellan, lawyer, will uphold the act and Rene J. Lusser, also an attorney, will speak against it.

RUSSIA CAN'T BUY WARSHIP MATERIALS

Finds Foreign Firms Too Busy With Domestic Demand to Handle Its Orders.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, April 17.—Soviet Russia's purchases of materials for warships ran into difficulties today because some steel manufacturers are too busy filling the domestic demand to bother with foreign orders.

Nikolai Bogomoloff, Soviet trade delegate to Great Britain, returned to Moscow with the news that British firms are swamped with orders for that nation's rearmament program.

Amtorg, Russian trading corporation, was reported unable to renew a steel order with one company in the United States because of the heavy domestic demand. The company was said to have offered a premium to be released from delivering a previous order.

The Soviet Commissariat of Defense declined to comment on a State Department announcement in Washington that two American firms had asked permission to fill Russian orders for battleship materials.

Bogomoloff, in an interview with the newspaper Pravda, expressed concern over the possibility of getting orders from British firms. He warned Russian they might not fully utilize the 10,000,000 sterling credit (about $50,000,000) granted them by England on July 31, 1936, unless "normal conditions prevail."

Up to April 1, the Russian Government had ploced orders totaling about $325,000, but will not get some of them delivered for 24 months. The Russians refused to place orders with many British firms, it was said, because they considered prices exorbitant.

Industrial recovery and neutrality legislation in the United States, and the Soviet's difficult political relations with Germany were cited as obstacles in the way of the purchase of materials abroad.

(In Washington, the State Department said representatives of two unidentified firms had been told licenses for export of battleship parts to fill Russian orders probably would be issued upon request. The Government objected, however, to any provision that United States Navy officials test gun before delivery. Officials also said specifications for 16-inch guns would need clarifying as to whether they were intended for an expanded Soviet naval program.)

The writer,(Vigilis, spokesman for the Kremlin, in an article in the newspaper Izvestia, attacked economic talks of Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, German Minister for Economics, in Brussels this week, and declared rumors of a Soviet-German rapprochement were "fairy tales."

Commenting on statements he attributed to Schacht, Vigilis said the Minister "did not tell the truth" in indicating Soviet-German trade relations were improving.

S E C SEEKS TO REGULATE BONDHOLDERS COMMITTEES

Commissioner Says Legislation Will Be Submitted to Congress This Week.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Commissioner William O. Douglas announced today the Securities and Exchange Commission will ask Congress next week for power to regulate bondholders' committees, reorganization proceedings and indenture trustees.

In a speech at the American University Graduate School of Public Affairs, he said the proposed legislation would give the commission:

"Power to prevent persons from acting in a fiduciary capacity as protective committee members if they have material conflicts of interest or if they take unto themselves prescribed powers which history shows are oppressive and unfair.

"Power to intervene in Federal reorganization proceedings and to lend assistance to courts in reporting on plans and in acting on other matters pertaining to the administration of those estates.

"Power to condition the contents of trust indentures so that trustees acting thereunder will assume a more active role."

BOOKS ON GARDENING IN DEMAND AT LIBRARY

Gift of 3466 Postcard and Camera Views Added to Reference Collection.

Gardening books are again in demand at the Public Library. Those most frequently asked for are "Modern Guide to Successful Gardening," Kains; "Complete Book of Gardening," Barron; "Practical Book of Outdoor Flowers," Wright; "Flower Garden Primer," Cummins; "Book of Annuals" and "Book of Perennials," Hottes, and "Rock Gardens," Wilder.

A recent gift of 3466 postcards and camera pictures of buildings, street scenes and art objects has increased the number of such reference aids at the library to almost 100,000. These objects may be taken from the library for school or home use and projected by a lantern. The collection has been useful to newspapers and commercial designers.

The library reported 4500 more books were issued in March than in January. Last month 3000 books were added, among them 263 in Braille and 70 "talking books" for the blind. The 15 branch libraries received 2000 more books.

Administration Wants Better Than 5-4 Vote

list as one who will answer "yea" on the final roll call.

The other two Senators listed as leaning toward the plan, Chavez of New Mexico and Murray of Montana, present special cases. Both come from sparsely settled states, and both are young in the Senate, although Chavez served two terms in the House. Murray was born in Canada and came to the Senate after the death of Senator Thomas J. Walsh. Chavez was given administration support in his contest with the late Senator Bronson Cutting, and has voted with the administration on most New Deal legislation.

Influences That May Turn Southerners' Vote.

The two Southern Democrats leaning away from the plan, Overton of Louisiana and Russell of Georgia, may eventually be found supporting the President. At the outset, Russell announced that he was for the second part of the President's program for "judicial reform," but that the possibl. enlargement of the court was "so important that it deserved the most serious consideration." He has declined since then to announce how he stands on the proposed appointment of new Justices. About a month ago he received a shock. Three Georgia counties held a referendum on the court plan. One went five to one for the President, another 10 to 1, and the third almost 30 to 1. Such expressions of public sentiment are enough to give any Senator pause, and Russell has been pausing ever since. He may flop.

Overton was promoted from the House to the Senate by the late Huey Long because the "Kingfish" had sworn vengeance on Senator Broussard. Since Long's assassination, the Roosevelt administration has played ball with the old Long machine. Indictments of some of Long's henchmen have been dropped, Attorney-General Cummings explaining that "there has been a change of atmosphere in Louisiana." Overton will come up for re-election next year.

Lonergan of Connecticut, the third of the three said to be leaning away from the President's plan has a conservative background, and although elected in the 1932 Roosevelt landslide, has shown some independence on New Deal legislation, both in committees and by his votes.

Bone Thought to Plan Compromise Measure.

About the six Senators who are non-committal in any way, little more can be said, except of Bone of Washington and Radcliffe of Maryland. Bone is a sincere liberal and is not beholden to any party machine. Apparently he is working on some sort of compromise which would include a constitutional amendment stripping the court of its great powers, or stated another way, an amendment to enlarge the powers of Congress. Many of his colleagues think he is following the plan of Senator Norris, the independent of Nebraska, who is not wholeheartedly in favor of the President's plan but who will support it unless what he considers a better plan has some chance of enactment. There is a possibility that Bone will offer such a compromise when the Senate debate starts, he, Norris and La Follette of Wisconsin, co-operate closely.

Radcliffe of Maryland, Once Roosevelt's "Boss."

Radcliffe of Maryland is a Senator, who, according to his friends, would like to vote for the President's plan out of personal and party loyalty but is impressed by the opposition of his former business associates.

As first vice-president, director and member of the executive committee of the Fidelty & Deposit Co., a bonding concern, he was the President's "boss," when Franklin D. Roosevelt was the New York representative of the company before he became Governor of New York. He is a close personal friend of the President and last year was chairman of the Maryland Roosevelt campaign committee.

By nature and training Radcliffe is a conservative but he would like to help his friend in the present fight. His associates in the exclusive Maryland Club of Baltimore feel differently about the court plan, and when they learned that he was answering arguments written by his constitutents against the plan, these club fellows began to shun him. This coventry seemingly has had some effect. No longer is Radcliffe writing letters which might be interpreted as support for the President's proposal.

What Each Side Needs To Insure a Majority.

If the plan is to be defeated by an outright vote and not by a filibuster, the opposition, with its present voting strength of 37 Senators, would have to capture 12 of the 13 "non-committals." The Roosevelt forces, with their 46 present votes, need only three, but this would not conform to the Roosevelt strategy of the attacks on the 5 to 4 decisions of the court. Even if the final roll call should show 54 Senators for the plan and 42 Senators against it, the charge could be made that the Democratically dominated Senate itself had divided by the approximate ratio of 5 to 4. The White House bill might then encounter difficulties in the House. The Roosevelt leaders claim that they have 51 votes absolutely pledged for the plan but they will not make public the tentative roll call.

This possible close vote explains in part why administration leaders such as Robinson of Arkansas, the Senate majority leader, hint at the possibility of administration support of a constitutional amendment and why Attorney-General Cummings refuses to comment on the possibility of compromising, explaining that he is "hewing to the line" on the President's proposal.

Not only would the non-committal Senators, such as Bankhead, Bone, Brown and Duffy welcome a compromise, or a seeming compromise, but the move would be welcomed by some among those listed for and against the plan. The Roosevelt forces, according to the latest report, are trying to get 60 Senators lined up for the proposal. That would require all of the 13 non-committal Senators and one Senator from the opposition.

Anxious for Better Than 5 to 4 Division.

To escape the criticism of a 5 to 4 division in the Senate, the Roosevelt forces might advance an amendment, such as compulsory retirement of Supreme Court Justices at 75 years of age, or support an amendment requiring a two-thirds majority of the court to hold acts of Congress unconstitutional. At present there are no indications that the administration would support a far-reaching constitutional amendment such as the Wheeler-Bone proposal for the over-riding of the decisions of the court by a two-thirds majority in both houses after an intervening congressional election or an amendment of similar fundamental import.

There are also no indications that the Supreme Court's decision on the Wagner Labor Relations Act changed any Senator's position. There are now, however, two possibilities, first that the Senate Judiciary Committee, in executive session, may evolve a compromise, and second, that the President may advance a compromise plan to add several votes to his present supporters, merely to avoid a close vote on the measure in the Senate at a time when the proponents are criticising the close decisions of the Supreme Court.

ART IN ST. LOUIS WEEK TO BE OPENED TODAY

Tour of Galleries and Fashion Show at Washington U. on the Program.

Art in St. Louis Week, sponsored by the Young Men's division of the Chamber of Commerce and including special programs in public and private galleries and art schools of the city, will begin today.

A tour of several art exhibits will be held this afternoon, starting at Twelfth boulevard and Locust street at 1 p. m. The Noonan-Kocial Gallery, 923 Locust street, displaying paintings by French artists, and the Healy galleries at 4526 Olive street, where painting and sculpture by member of the Two by Four Club of St. Louis will be exhibited, will be visited during the afternoon.

From 3 to 5 o'clock the party will attend an open house at the Washington University Art School, viewing work of the students. The class in costume design will present a fashion show at 4 o'clock.

The program tomorrow will include an open house in the evening at the Vanguard Gallery, 3520 Franklin avenue, headquarters for many St. Louis artists. At the same time there will be demonstrations in weaving, pottery making and metal and leather working crafts at Washington University Art School.

At 11 o'clock Tuesday morning at the City Art Museum in Forest Park Miss Mary Powell of the museum staff will lecture on wall coverings. Miss Jaquelin Ambler will speak on "Design in America—the French Period" at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday at the museum.

The program for the rest of the week follows:

Wednesday—10:30 a. m. "Siena and Orvieto—Early Italian Painting." A talk by Miss Ambler at the Art Museum; 2:30 p. m., open house in the classes at Washington University Art School; 8 p. m., demonstrations in the crafts at Washington University; 8 p. m., open house at the Healy Galleries.

Thursday—2:30 p. n.., open house in the classrooms at Washington University Art School; 8 p. m., open house in the evening classes at Washington University.

Friday—10 a. m., "Wall Coverings" a talk by Miss Powell at the Art Museum; 2:30 p. m., open house at Washington University Art Scheol; open house at the Healy Galleries; 8 p. m., craft demonstrations at Washington University.

Saturday—1 p. m., special photographic exhibit by Dr. Arthur W. Proetz at the St. Louis Artists' Guild, 812 Union boulevard; 2:30 p. m., "Painting Landscapes," demonstration at the Art Museum.

METHODIST REPORT ASSAILS LIQUOR AND ROOSEVELT

New York Conference Says National Administration Has Failed to Work for Temperance.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 17.—A denunciation of liquor-drinking and an attack on the national administration were contained in a report adopted by the New York Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church today.

The administration was charged with failing to carry on a campaign of education tending toward temperance, as pledged before repeal of the prohibition laws. It also was criticised for appropriating $1,000,000 for establishment of a distillery in the Virgin Islands.

Half of last year's 38,500 automobile fatalities were laid to intoxicated or drinking persons by the report. Another charge was that "the liquor industry is going into politics again in order to prevent the passage of dry laws."

Urging the necessity of total abstinence, the report recommended that any man renting or using his property for the sale of intoxicating liquor be disowned as a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

SENATOR LEE OF OKLAHOMA

Oklahoma's Josh Lee, Useful, Usable Party Man

Florida. He will be heard again. And again.

Tireless Talker Anywhere.

His rise, as has been remarked, dates from his appointment as professor of public speaking at Oklahoma University. To be a teacher of elocution is one thing; to be its tireless exponent and practitioner is another. Josh was both. Wherever two or more persons were gathered together within the boundaries of the State, he was likely to be found addressing them, if his class was not in session.

He became the darling of Rotary, Kiwanis, the Lions, the Civitans, the Junior Advertising clubs and the more gregarious posts of the American Legion. No patriotic program was complete without him. No meeting of educators or agriculturists, no convention of organized labor, had cause to adjourn until the members' ears had been caressed by his cadences. And such cadences.

Harken, for example, to the following passage culled from the opening bars of a recent speech over the radio:

"This morning I went to my office fairly bursting with joy of living. The sun was shooting his golden arrows over the tops of the buildings, and as I came up to Capitol Hill, Old Glory greeted me from the flagpole on the top of the nation's Capitol. As I saw the national banner fluttering in the morning sunlight, I received an extra charge of patriotism.

"I thought of what it had cost to place that flag above the Capitol of the United States. I thought of the dreams and hopes and tears—yes, of the blood, that it represented. In my imagination, I saw again Francis Scott Key, as he stood on board that British man-of-war in the harbor of Baltimore City, a few miles from here, and strained his eyes at the crack of dawn to determine whether the American flag or the British flag waved above the city."

Now it is possible that those were the thoughts which the Senator had as he approached his office that morning. No one is in a position to refute his statement, because he alone knows. The most that can be said against the probability is that if those were his thoughts, they were strangely unlike the thoughts which occupy most Senators. The average Senator's thoughts would be more like this:

"Oh Lord, how many of those poisonous bores will I have to see this morning? . . . If that damned secretary of mine was drunk again last night I'll fire him . . . Guess I'll have to go to the Whtie House again about that judgeship . . . Wonder if there's really going to be a W P A strike out home . . . Roosevelt ought to get rid of that fellow Hopkins, and appoint a man with some practical experience . . . Next time Joe Robinson bawls me out I'll tell him where to head in — doesn't he realize I have problems of my own? . . . Better check up on the old fox (his colleague) —looks like a little chiseling is going on."

Among observers whose duties take them regularly to Capitol Hill in the morning, the sight of the sun shooting its golden arrows against the dome is likely to provoke a reflection upon the amount of skulduggery which goes on under the dome. The fact that Senator Lee has been able to close his mind to all such crass and morbid thoughts is a tribute to the purity of his soul, or something like that.

He "Got His Judgeship."

It is true that he "got his judgeship," as the crasser and more morbid ones are prone to phrase it, only a few weeks after he entered the Senate. Congress during the last session created a position for a roving Federal Judge, for the three Oklahoma districts, but Senators Thomas and Gore got their wires crossed in the matter, and the position was not filled. When this session convened, Lee had succeeded Gore, and President Roosevelt promptly filled the post by appointing 33-year-old A. P. Murrah, a charter member of the youthful and dynamic political organization known in Oklahoma as "Josh Lee's Rover Boys."

No aspersion is intended for Judge Murrah or the Rover Boys. The former has a reputation as a brilliant and precocious lawyer, and the latter demonstrated during the last Democratic senatorial primary that a derisive nickname is insufficient to offset the organizing efforts of a determined band of youths who have taken unto themselves a political idol. Indeed, the entire episode goes to show that youth and energy will be served.

Senatorial Primary Campaign.

A number of lessons may be drawn from that senatorial primary campaign. It was a honey. In addition to the veteran Senator Gore, seeking renomination, and Josh, seeking promotion to the Senate from the House—where he had served one term—the chief contestants were Gov. E. W. Marland and Gomer Smith, a Townsendite. They went to it in the good, old-fashioned way.

Josh, traveling in a trailer, traversed incredible distances, and made a fabulous number of speeches. Or, if you wish to take the view of the disgruntled ones, he made the same speech a fabulous number of times. In any case, he got around and was heard by a tremendous number of voters. To a Washington friend who wished him success on the eve of the campaign, Senator Gore confided:

"I'm going to be licked, and I know who's going to win—that young Josh Lee."

At that time it was generally supposed by outsiders that the race would be between Gore and Gov. Marland. How much those outsiders knew about it was revealed when the Governor and the Senator ran, respectively, third and fourth. Josh and Smith, the Townsendite, entered the run-off, which Josh promptly transformed into a runaway.

Wonderful Though Hazy.

"How did he do it?" Oklahomans were asked. "Josh is a wonderful speaker," was the standard reply.

"What did he speak about?" the more curious persisted. "Oh, he spoke about a lot of things—agriculture, education—subjects like that."

"What did he say about them?" At this point the Oklahoman would scratch his head, and say: "I don't just exactly remember what it was he said, but he certainly makes a wonderful speech. Wait till you hear him in the Senate."

Fortunately, we are not compelled to be satisfied with the foregoing answers. The printed record discloses that Josh spoke repeatedly on what he called the "Farm Problem," offering his solution. Stripped of rhetorical finery, his plan was for the Government to lend the farmers the money necessary to rid their farms of incumbrances, on terms which would enable the farms to pay for themselves. It was a marvel of simplicity.

Of course, Josh didn't put it that way. Only a crab or a cynic would do so. The way he put it, it sounded beautiful, even plausible. But best of all the way he would wind the speech up. Happily, a transcript is available, and it served two laudable purposes. It protects the reporter's reputation for accuracy and restraint, and insures the reader against losing any of the pristine beauty of Josh's prose.

A Grand Finale.

This was his finish on the farm problem:

"Every new colt and pig and calf add to the sum total of that invisible something we call happiness. They plant tiny seeds, and watch them grow. (He was talking now about the farmers—not the colts and pigs and calves.) They cultivate them. The seasons march on, the children return to the home, as birds to the nest, because it is the great fountain-head of human happiness. There is security; there is refuge from the world. (Josh is forgetting the radio.) There is a haven in a storm. The home, the hearthstone, is the heart of America. Let us preserve it; let us encourage it by putting into effect a program that will make possible a farm for every farmer, and a home for every family."

Among those who know and like him, which seems to include nearly everybody in Oklahoma, a multitude is convinced of his complete sincerity. Some say he really believes that in oratory there is salvation. It is a comforting belief, although if all that is required to solve the problems of an industrial society is a healthy pair of lungs and something to stand on, considerable earnest thinking is being wasted by others.

Oklahoma newspaper men have a gridiron club, patterned after the famous one in Washington, and at its annual dinner the outstanding public personages of the State are subjected to a good-natured roasting. Last year's dinner was staged during the senatorial primary, and the most popular skit represented four Santa Clauses seeking to tempt the favor of Miss Shirley Temple Democracy.

Gridiron Burlesque.

One of the four, Josh Santa Claus Lee, addressed her in rhyme, as follows:

"I'm against war; I'm against sin;
"I'm against letting Republicans in.
"Oh, the little log cabin and the old red school.
"Pay the bonus. Let the New Deal rule.
"The evening star, and the setting sun—
"Old gray-haired mother, when day is done—
"The morning dew—little kiddies at play—
"Don't you love the smell of the new-mown hay?"

At this stage Miss Shirley Temple Democracy interrupted to remark that Josh Santa Claus Lee's words were "awful pretty, but they don't make sense." Unperturbed by this observation, he proceeded to a conclusion, as follows:

"Oh, pot of gold at the rainbow's end.
"Oh, the little waves at the river's bend.
"The birds that trill in the sycamore tree—
"The happy buzz of the busy bee.
"Ah, life is grand, if ye but ken it—
"And how I'd love life in the Senate."

And does he love it? He eats it up. He will love it even more when his apprenticeship of silence has been served, and he can really take the wraps off.

Vice-President in 1940?

In some quarters there is a suspicion that Josh, in being so kind and accommodating to Farley and the administration, might have his eye on the Democratic nomination for Vice-President in 1940. One circumstance which might be considered as giving plausibility to this surmise, is the fact that the vice-presidential nominee usually is slated to do the heavy duty, all-weather spellbinding for the ticket.

A circumstance which militates even more strongly against its plausibility, is the fact that when the nominee is elected Vice-President, he is expected to stop speaking.

Somehow, that doesn't sound like Josh.

MISSOURI ACADEMY OF SCIENCE SESSIONS

About 500 Expected to Attend Meetings at Washington and St. Louis U.

The third annual meeting of the Missouri Academy of Science will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Washington and St. Louis Universities. About 500 are expected to attend.

There will be several general meetings and many group meetings covering such subjects as agriculture, anthropology, astronomy, biology, chemistry, economics, engineering, entomolyogy, geology, geophysics, history, mathematics, medicine, philology, philosophy, physics, psychology and sociology.

Field trips are planned by several of these groups. The Audubon Society, one of the affiliated organizations of the academy, will go to the tropical bird house at the Forest Park Zoo Saturday afternoon, and Sunday will sponsor a bird walk to Creve Coeur Lake.

The geology section will visit glacial deposits near St. Louis Saturday, and Sunday will go to St. Francois County. Engineers will inspect the Howard Bend waterworks Saturday, and biologists will visit Shaw's Garden that afternoon.

The first general session will be held Thursday night at the St. Louis University Law School auditorium, when Dr. W. M. Stanley, of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research will speak on crystalline virus proteins.

Co-operating with the Missouri Academy of Science in the meetings are the St. Louis Academy of Science, the American Association of University Professors, the Audubon Society, the American College of Physicians, the Junior Academy of Science, the Missouri section of the Mathematical Association of America and the Speech Association of Missouri.

18 Second Lieutenant Vacancies

Eighteen vacancies in the rank of Second Lieutenant, Corps of Engineers, of the Army will be filled by competitive examinations of civilians to be held in May and June. Preliminary examinations will be held May 8 at points to be designated later and final examinations June 21-26. Further information may be obtained from the Commanding General, Seventh Corps Area, Omaha, Neb., or from commanding officers of other army posts.

"Of Making Many Books"

EDITED BY JOHN G. NEIHARDT

REVEALS OUR LIVING WORLD

MATHEMATICS FOR THE MILLION. By Lancelot Hogben, F. R. S. Illustrated by J. F. Horrabin. (W. W. Norton & Co., New York.)

EVEN if the present work, by a professor in the London School of Economics, were merely one of the numerous "popularizations" of science and philosophy, as the title suggests, it would have at least the distinction of being the first in its special field. But it is not to be regarded as a "popularization" in the sense, for instance, of Durant's "Story of Philosophy." It is truly a creative work with the rare dynamic quality that is essential to greatness.

When one considers the fundamental importance of mathematics to the sciences, the relation of scientific origins to philosophy and religion and the relation of all these to the social process in general, the comprehensive nature of the theme, as it might be handled by a finely trained and daringly original thinker, may be felt if not clearly realized.

Hogben is such a thinker, with the added qualification of a quiet sense of humor that is merely sanity healthily amused in a chronically befuddled world. To say without elucidation that he often, quite unintentionally, achieves poetry might well seem to be less than praise; but at many points in his work the completion of some convincingly harmonious pattern of thought results in the lift and thrill, the swift exultation of an expanded awareness that poetry essentially is.

The author's purpose may be stated best in his own words: "This book will narrate how the grammar of measurement and counting has evolved under the pressure of man's changing social achievements, how in successive stages it has been held in check by the barriers of custom, how it has been used in charting a universe which can be commanded when its laws are obeyed, but can never be propitiated by ceremonial and sacrifice."

The discussion opens with the priesthoods of antiquity and the beginning of mathematics in their measurement of time. What they gave out to the people was not the elementary science upon which much of their claim to privilege and power rested, but a doctrine of magic. Later the Pythagoreans guarded their mathematical secrets jealously, and up to our own time, so the author points out, the "language of size and motion" (mathematics) is the property of the few. Mysticism, the author shrewdly remarks, is now compelled "to take refuge in the atom"—"a safe place, not because the atom is small," but because "complicated measurements" are involved and "the plain man has not been taught to read and write size language."

This language, seen as necessary to a salutary understanding of machine civilization, its social and economic problems, is not, the author assures us, a profound mystery intelligible only to a modern priesthood, but quite within the reach of ordinarily intelligent millions.

Astonishingly enough, after a half-day spent in eager reading, the contention seemed gloriously true. But a week of reading would be better, and a month better still; nor is anyone, endowed with a lively intellectual curiosity, likely to be bored. Illuminations flash briefly from hundreds of sentences or glow steadily in page after page, resulting in a cumulative revelation of our living world such as few can have experienced.

Sees a Paradise For Musicians

TOWARD A NEW MUSIC. By Carlos Chavez. (W. W. Norton & Co., New York.)

CHAVEZ' book is, in effect, a statement of the relation between creative musical thought and the physical means through which this thought is given expression. The complete interdependence of the two, as Chavez shows with historical evidence, implies that the development of one must depend upon the development of the other. With great strength of conviction, the author asks composers and the public not to accept the art of the European classics as our own truths, but to take the more arduous road and develop a means of expression inherent in our own civilization.

The new means for achieving an indigenous, contemporary music is, according to Chavez, electric instruments, heretofore used only to reproduce, now highly enough developed to be used as the original means of expression. He takes the reader into the electrical research laboratory and shows him already perfected methods of musical production. Here are instruments which can yield a tremendously greater range and precision of pitch, intensity, duration and timbre of tones than is possible to realize in any orchestra; new orchestral colors which not only compare with the modern woodwinds and brasses, but enlarge the palette to infinite proportions; and in addition there are instruments which can produce in contrapuntal music rhythmic and dynamic combinations unlimited in complexity.

It is to this musicians' paradise that Chavez asks composers to turn. He is certain that they can learn to use these new resources as skillfully as they have learned to use the present orchestra, since this is really a duplication of the musical pioneering of other days. He reminds those who may fear that electrical instruments would hamper inspiration that hostility to the advent of new instruments in the past has always changed to appreciation with growing familiarity. All this, he believes, like talk about the radio in the early stages of its development, will seem banal 20 years hence.

INTRIGUED BY THE MYSTERY OF TIME

VIRGINIA WOOLF.

FIFTY YEARS OF ENGLAND

THE YEARS. By Virginia Woolf. (Harcourt, Brace & Co., New York).

TIME, that ancient enigma, has always played a large part in the novels of Virginia Woolf. The mystery of its passing is to her of absorbing interest. In "The Years" time becomes the dramatic idea underlying the whole story. There is no actual plot in this record of the Pargiter family and its large circle of connections, only a series of loosely related impressions which mark the passing of 50 years.

There is nothing particularly unusual about the group of upper middle-class people whose lives we are to follow. Colonel Abel Pargiter, a typical retired army officer, has been having an unrapturous affair with a dull mistress while he impatiently waits for his wife's death. His eldest daughter, Eleanor, destined to spend her days caring for her father and dabbling in social work, is of too cheerful a disposition ever to feel the frustration of her existence. Delia's romantic admiration for Parnell and all things Irish leads her to marry a man from Ireland who proves disappointingly to be a "King-respecting, Empire-admiring country gentleman." The youngest, red-haired, impetuous Rose, proves her belief in the suffragette cause by smashing windows and making inflammatory speeches. The boys enter different fields of endeavor. Handsome Edward stays at Oxford and becomes a Greek scholar; Morris never thinks of anything but law; while Martin is ever unsatisfied with his army career. All of these people are vividly realized as individuals, for the author allows them to wander about through the tale exactly as they please, talking, thinking, and acting in a perfectly natural fashion.

The introduction, in which we find Col. Abel and his children awaiting with mingled dread and relief the long anticipated death of Mrs. Pargiter, is an expert bit of character analysis which in subtle manner shows the cross-currents of feeling among members of the household.

The episodes which follow seem at first glance to have been chosen at random. However, all of these apparently unrelated scenes are blended in a synthesis which is England during the last 50 years. The family has been touched by the Boer War, the World War, and the Irish Rebellion. Some members have become empire-builders; others have not gone beyond the confines of London. In the conclusion all are brought together again at the marvelous party given by Delia. The younger generation is there as well as the old, and the scene is observed from various points of view. Here the author gathers up all the loose threads of her narrative and weaves them into a pattern which possess both artistic unity and psychological accuracy.

The most charming thing about this novel is not, however, its interesting unconventional structure nor its philosophic penetration, but rather the sheer loveliness of its lyrical style, its cadenced and rhythmic prose. One might quote examples of beauty from every page, but the passage which states the theme of the work must suffice: "Slowly wheeling, like the rays of a searchlight, the days, the weeks, the years passed one after another across the sky."

—Mary Stephanie McDermott.

An Aid to Art Appreciation

FASHIONS IN ART. By Huger Elliott. (D. Appleton-Century Co., New York.)

WHEN the ancient Egyptians found that they could get better action in a picture by showing a front view of shoulders on a figure in profile, they drew it that way. The impossible anatomy didn't worry them in the least. They expected us to use our imaginations. But we live in a photographic age, and many of us look for camera realism in our art. We find it difficult to understand, for instance, that the formalized Byzantine style permits a mystical quality impossible in a realistic picture, or that there is a contemplative dreaminess about a Chinese landscape that can never be found in a photograph of the same scene.

Declaring that each person has as much right to his own taste in art as in women's hats, Mr. Elliott nevertheless makes it clear that we are unable to appreciate many things in art because we do not have the background to understand them. And his very interesting and stimulating book undertakes to build up a background that will enable us to appreciate the works of art of every age.

This book is not written for the student of art, but for the layman. It is not a history of art, but a collection of chatty little essays which show a certain logic of their own in wandering from nineteenth Century paintings to thirteenth century art glass, and from Napoleonic silverware to ancient jewelry.

A large portion of the book is given over to what might be called the byways of the arts—to tapestries, pottery, furniture, jewelry, Oriental rugs and old prints. The technical processes behind these things are sketched briefly in a way which makes one more able to appreciate them.

Mr. Elliott, who is educational director of the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City, has spent his life in the study of art. His writing has the easy, un-self-conscious style of one who is thoroughly familiar with his subject. Readers who like to feel that they have accomplished something in their reading, and at the same time like to be amused, would do well to put his book on their "must" list.

THE LAST BORN OF THE MUSES

ART AND PRUDENCE. A Study in Practical Philosophy. By Mortimer J. Adler. (Longmans Green & Co., New York.)

THE motion picture has long been established as the popular art of modern times. But only recently have scholars and investigators admitted this fact and made it the object of investigation. In this volume the hitherto defamed muse makes a highly respectable appearance.

Properly to understand her, Dr. Adler gives us the background of the age-old conflict between art and prudence. The prudent man judges art, not as art, but as it affects morality, whereas the artist is concerned only with what to him is the greatest good, the good of beauty. Plato is here presented, with his picture of the poet as a child or madman, who cannot be trusted, as can the philosopher, to serve the reasonable and social good. Aristotle, in contrast, is then called upon to bear witness that, in lieu of a civilization not yet existent where philosophers rule, the artist can and does provide service of great value to mankind. He serves the intellectual virtues by giving men a clearer picture both of what they are and what they can become. He also purges the emotions, draining off their destructive power. Thomas Aquinas also understood art after this manner, and accordingly appreciated it highly.

In regard to our modern democracy and the problem of the arts, that of the motion picture in particular, Dr. Adler says this: "One cannot live in a democracy and deny popular education. . . . It would be wiser to increase its essentially democratic goodness. The case of the arts is the same. One cannot live in a democracy and despise the popular arts. Here, too, one may wish the impossible and dream of living at a time when the arts were not lowered to the people. But the only genuinely practical problem which is raised is one of discovering the undesirable consequences of the popular arts and then seeking, if possible, to improve them, not in the spirit of rendering them less evil, but rather hoping to make them greater goods."

In this spirit Dr. Adler then makes a comprehensive analysis of the cinematic scene. As an art the movies emerge from his exhaustive study with dignity and promising power.

For those already in sympathy with this last born of the muses, "Art and Prudence" will give intellectual background and understanding. For those not yet converted to co-operation with her, it will provide one of the most persuasive Aristotelian arguments of recent days.

Social Theories Ably Discussed

THE CONQUEST OF POWER. By Albert Weisbord. 2 Vols. (Covici-Friede, New York.)

FROM the early peasant uprisings of feudal Europe and the beginnings of Liberalism in the Reformation and English Civil Wars, Albert Weisbord here presents an exhaustive review of politico-social philosophies to modern Communism.

He classifies modern political philosophies under six heads: Liberalism, Anarchism, Syndicalism, Socialism, Fascism and Communism, which he describes as phases of man's effort to gain power over social chaos. Capitalism he does not regard as a distinct political or social philosophy; it is treated as a condition which exists as a successor to Feudalism.

Anarchism and Syndicalism, he finds, are strongest in Spain and France. They advocate direct action by strikes and sabotage, and are dismissed as futile—Anarchism because of its lack of organization. Syndicalism because, represented primarily by the I. W. W. and trade unions, it has been inadequate "in the face of events" such as war and unemployment. Socialism has been too opportunistic, he maintains. Socialists desired "to appear as revolutionists but to be free to act as reformists."

So Weisbord's researches, and exhaustive and absorbing they are, simmer down to his premise of a world-struggle between Communism and Fascism. It is possible, Weisbord says, to pass from pre-Fascist Capitalism directly to the rule of the working class, but he believes that in this country, "the measures of the Roosevelt administration have been in line with those which Fascists in other countries have brought forth."

Fascism, he asserts, can have no long future in America, for: "So virile, so energetic, so intrinsically unspoiled is the American laborer" that "there can be no long period of time between labor's awakening and victory." Labor's victory to Weisbord means, of course, Communism's victory.

Regardless of the author's conclusions, this work should prove valuable to many for its searching analysis of social and political theories.

Mostly for Light Fiction Readers

THE FAITHFUL LOVERS. By J. D. Beresford. (Lee Furman, Inc., New York.)

LIMPING SWAY. By Joseph McCullough. (E. P. Dutton & Co., New York.)

STORM IN A TEA-CUP. By Gus Marchmont Phillips. (E. P. Dutton & Co., New York.)

SUNS GO DOWN. By Flannery Lewis. (The Macmillan Co., New York.)

SACRIFICE TO THE GRACES. By Arthur Meeker Jr. (D. Appleton-Century Co., New York.)

MOLLY, BLESS HER! By Frances Marion. (Harper & Bros., New York.)

IN a day of cynicism Mr. Beresford has nerve enough to write a modern fairy tale romance. "The Faithful Lovers," laid in present-day England. Bryan Davys of the age of 17, sees and falls in love with Shirley, aged 12. The rest of the book is devoted to Bryan's attempts to make his social position and wealth equal to hers. Entertaining enough, although burdened with the business of my-family-is-as-good-as-yours and who is or isn't a gentleman.

Another English novel, "Limping Sway," is concerned with a cathedral town and a scandal which splits the ranks of the Anglican personages. The titles of the characters are somewhat confusing to those unfamiliar with the organization of the church, and the author rather labors his point that there is no evil, only thinking makes it so. The style, however, is enlivened by moments of malicious wit.

"Storm in a Tea-cup" is an English drawing room drama on board a yacht. Clever characterizations and a storm at sea, which doesn't miss a trick, make this an amusing bit of froth.

"Suns Go Down" contains a series of sketches about the author's grandmother, the first married woman to settle in Virginia City which was then booming with the discovery of the Comstock lode. Charming though these sketches are, one could wish the author had used the excellent background and the splendid character of Grandmother for a novel.

In "Sacrifice to the Graces," a young American prima donna of the 1850s lives and learns in the Swiss Alps.

"Molly, Bless Her!" is the story of a broken down actress who becomes the housekeeper of a Long Island estate, fortunately owned by a widower. A combination of "Pollyanna" and "Come Into the Kitchen."

Arabia Deserta

TRAVELS IN ARABIA DESERTA. By Charles M. Doughty. (Random House, New York.)

HERE is a new edition of "Doughty," as this celebrated work was affectionately called by Col. T. E. Lawrence, whose background for judging it was, of course, unexampled and whose long introduction to the present edition is one of the many reasons it will find its way into numerous libraries. So many superlatives have been used to describe an English poet's account of two years of wandering among the Bedouins that it is hardly necessary to add more. It should be said, however, of the new edition that it is physically very pleasing.

PICTURE PUZZLES AND HOW TO SOLVE THEM. By Bob Bradley and William Myerson. (Harper & Bros., New York.)

Written by the originators of picture puzzles in America.

Of One Who Looked On Helen's Face

MERMAID TAVERN: KIT MARLOWE'S STORY. By George W. Cronyn. (Khight Publications, New York.)

THIS is a gusty tale of Merrie England, Gloriana's London, poets and cut-purses, sea-rovers and blackguards, wenches and rakes. Mr. Cronyn, whose "The Fool of Venus" was popular some seasons ago, writes good historical romance, a genre superior in every way to romantic history. "Mermaid Tavern" is a book without a thesis. It is never a slave to pedestrian probability. History has furnished an era and a hero. The rest is imagination.

Kit is a Cambridge undergraduate when we meet him first. Latin, poetry and barmaids are his life. In religion he is heretical, in society a boon companion. After taking his degree he moves into the great world. Lord Burghley and Sir Walter Raleigh are his sponsors, the Mermaid his London headquarters. The young poet does not lack for adventures. He makes love to Raleigh's mistress; he is sent to France on a secret mission which has a bearing on the destiny of Mary of Scotland; in Paris he kills a man to oblige his true love, Margot.

Returned to England, he writes and talks and quaffs the Mermaid's ale. His companions are Shakespeare, Green, Kyd, Nashe and all the others. Kit helps to plan the strategy by which the great Armada is repulsed. A lady in waiting to the queen wishes to marry him. At length Margot, now mistress to a diplomat, comes to London. Kit sees her. An exchange of billets, and the gay young poet abducts her. Unhappily the kidnaping involves a killing. There are several months of happiness in hiding for the lovers. At last, however, comes discovery and the tragic ending.

The restless energy of the Renaissance is in the book. There are beauty and cruelty, learning, adventure, laughter and death. "Mermaid Tavern" is not an important book, but it is an exciting one—and that's more fun.

—Lemoine Skinner, Jr.

Elinor Glynnish

NEW WINE AT COCK-CROW. By G. U. Ellis. (William Morrow & Co., New York.)

IN spite of its glaring defects, this is a book which will undoubtedly appeal to those who like their novels in the Elinor Glyn style. They will find themselves on familiar ground in this romantic story of young love, tried and true, complicated by the wiles of a heartless stepsister, its naivete a little blurred by frequent erotic allusions.

It is evident that Mr. Ellis conceived the story as a much more serious work than it has turned out to be. Probably the outstanding factor in his failure to reach his goal is his lack of skill in the mechanics of writing. In an effort to be thorough, he has succeeded only in being wordy. In an effort to be meticulous in his choice of words, he usually ends by being grotesque and irritating. His characters seldom walk away from something; instead, their small shoes turn in a slow pirouette and move away. They seldom look at something; instead, their heads swivel sharply or their gray eyes peep obliquely.

GIVE YOURSELF BACKGROUND. By F. Fraser Bond. (Whittlesey House, New York.)

OUTLINES methods of study, based on up-to-date psychology, providing valuable reading lists and other suggestions for the enrichment of personality.

Did Stanton Weave The Fatal Web?

WHY WAS LINCOLN MURDERED? By Otto Eisenschiml. (Little, Brown & Co., Boston.)

MR. EISENSCHIML is careful to point out in this book that he cannot as yet answer with certainty the question posed by the title. He offers only an hypothesis, and that based largely on circumstantial evidence. In spite of the new evidence he has himself discovered, his plea is for facts, facts, and more facts. Until these are obtained he can only suggest a theory, and suspend final judgment.

According to this hypothesis Lincoln's assassination was not the isolated act of a madman, but was only one step in a carefully thought out political plot. The President's lenient attitude toward the Southern states, threatening reinstatement of a large body of Democratic voters and the consequent defeat of the new Republican party, was apparently the cause of his death. The man who stood to gain most by Lincoln's removal, the man who could have prevented the tragedy, but did not, was the strongest leader of the Republican party at that time—Edwin M. Stanton, Secretary of War. Thus Mr. Eisenschiml argues.

The author's account of Stanton's rise to importance, his use of the military forces of the nation for his own ends, the steps by which he removed power from the President and took it into his own hands, sounds remarkably modern. One feels that certain of today's strong men might perhaps have gone to school to Stanton. He, like them, recognized the value of propaganda, and the efficacy of a military court in removing (this was before the days of "liquidation") inconvenient persons. He is here accused, by implication, of prolonging the war and sacrificing thousands of lives for his own political ends.

Mr. Stanton, the reader of this book will conclude, was quite a fellow. And whether or not Mr. Eisenschiml's notions about him are true, they make very interesting reading.

—W. L. Knickmeyer.

Two Biographies

WILLIAM G. BROWNLOW, Fighting Parson of the Southern Highlands. By E. M. Coulter. (The University of North Carolina Press. Chapel Hill, N. C.)

OLD FUSS AND FEATHERS, Winfield Scott, Soldier and Politician. By Arthur D. Howden-Smith. (The Greystone Press, New York.)

PARSON BROWNLOW was the big noise in eastern Tennessee before, during and for awhile after the Civil War. His character was marked by a bottomless voice that made him a leader and won for him some fleeting national attention, but in retrospect, he is but a detail of flurry in an epic storm. Except as a matter of curiosity there is no reason for anyone now to know or want to know anything about him. Nevertheless the University of North Carolina Press performs a service in presenting E. M. Coulter's account of him, one of a series of monographs on more or less obscure items of Americana which, once done well, never need to be done again.

With all respect for Winfield Scott, a great General, and Arthur D. Howden-Smith, a fine storyteller, the biography of the former by the latter is undistinguished. "Old Fuss and Feathers" is a rewrite job, and a hasty one, even a careless one, at that. It will do for those who will accept a narrative that hits only the high spots.

—Harold Tecumseh Meek.

Tragic Children Of Change

PEOPLE ON THE EARTH. By Edwin Corle. (Random House, New York.)

IN THAT geographically undefined but nevertheless plainly visible borderland that lies between white civilization and the camps of the red men live many people. They are the unhappy Indian children who have been away to school. Such are Red Wind's Son and the girl, Dehiba.

The boy was snatched from the Navajos by a missionary with a distorted sense of duty toward his charges and his God. True, the Rev. Mr. Stratton did this when the boy's family lay out on the Arizona mesa dying of an epidemic that carried off many of the Navajos. But never afterward did Mr. Stratton allow Red Wind's Son, now Walter Stratton, to visit his homeland. He kept him at school and inexorably directed the lad's steps toward a wholly unknown destination somewhere in the nebulous white man's world.

When Mr. Stratton's influence ceased, it was Red Wind's Son who found the answer. But not before the inevitable conflict between the native red and acquired white elements within him had driven him to plumb deeply the sordid civilization of the Arizona railroad towns, and to a realization of the futility of his borderland existence.

It is while he experiments with the white man's dangerous tools of forgetfulness that he again meets his childhood playmate, Dahiba, now, after years of schooling and servant's drudgery, the mistress of a greasy, white brothel keeper.

Quietly powerful, vibrant, significant with the problems of the dwellers in the borderland lying between white civilization and the camps of the red men, is this thoughful, sympathetic novel about the tragic children of change in today's Southwest.

—Frederic E. Voelker.

ANNAPOLIS: Anne Arundel's Town. By William Oliver Stevens. (Dodd Mead & Co., New York.)

ANNAPOLIS, capital of Maryland, is not great in commerce or in population, but it has a long history, many relics of its past and a quaint colonial atmosphere that well deserve to have a book written about them. This has been handsomely done by Mr. Stevens, for 21 years professor of English and history at the Naval Academy, and well versed in the city's lore. His sketches, with which the volume is illustrated, help greatly to inform or remind the reader of Annapolis' special charms.

Many visitors are most impressed by the city's rare specimens of early American architecture, and Mr. Stevens pays ample attention to these. To others, Annapolis means the Naval Academy, and the writer delves deeply into its history and traditions. Throughout his book, he captures the spirit of this eighteenth - century aristocrat among American cities, where survive a serenity and beauty banished elsewhere by relentless progress.

Delightful Idiocy

I WOULD BE PRIVATE. By Rose Macaulay. (Harper & Bros., New York.)

POLICE CONSTABLE RONALD McBROWN and his wife, Win, startled Great Britain by becoming the parents of quintuplets. Staid Britishers showed their appreciation of this accomplishment by sending the McBrowns and their progeny money, prams, baby foods, toys and offers of adoption, and manifested their curiosity by standing in great masses outside the modest flat of the McBrowns.

The masses, the numerous letters, the unsolicited advice and gifts proved too much for Ronald and Win, who were by nature retiring, modest folk. With their "quins" they left for an obscure island in the Caribbean Sea, there to seek peace. But they found it not. There, too, they were the targets of the curious and of journalists. In the end they were forced to make the best of the matter, and acted as showmen for their five children, charging a quarter a peek.

"I Would Be Private" has other strange beings besides the McBrowns—a half-crazed girl, a bigamist, a surrealist artist, two very queer writers, and an extremely modern young woman and her brother. The most delightful and practically only sensible characters are Ronald McBrown and Dorothea Dunster, daughter of the Church of England rector on Papagayo Island. We learn from Ronald that English justice is not all one has been led to suppose, and are entertained by his views on human nature.

The novel is delightfully idiotic, but has much good sense hidden beneath the banter. —Virginia Hilliker.

Fine Italian Novel

BREAD AND WINE. By Ignazio Silone. (Harper & Bros., New York.)

THE author of "Fantamara" has written a second distinguished novel, less intense than its predecessor but strong with a new gentleness.

Pietro Spina, a young Italian idealist who has spent 15 homesick years in exile, returns to his native land with the definite purpose of overthrowing the dictatorship. Disguised as a priest he goes, as Don Paolo, to Abruzzi to live among the peasants in the hope of creating in them a consciousness of the Fascist destruction of freedom, but his appeal is so far beyond the comprehension of these illiterates that he is mistaken for a saint, even for Jesus.

Ill and poorly clad, pursued by the Blackshirts, Don Paolo escapes into the dangerous hill-country, whence he is followed by Signorina Christina, whose delicate loveliness has reached, unknown to her, past the religious barriers of Don Paolo into the heart of Pietro Spina. Lost in the wilderness, burdened by the food and woolens she has brought along for Spina, Christina is sustained in her quest by her newly realized love. But Spina's fate is left in fearful uncertainty, for Christina falls prey to ravenous wolves. Perhaps the girl's tragic death is symbolic of the political destruction of culture and liberty by greed and oppression; perhaps it is Silone's warning cry to the Italians.

The novel, "timely as tomorrow morning's headlines," is said to be largely autobiographical.

Not Characteristic Of Zona Gale

LIGHT WOMAN. By Zona Gale. (D. Appleton-Century Co., New York.)

IN ONE of his short sketches Mark Twain tells of editing an agricultural paper during the absence of the regular editor. While he succeeded in greatly increasing the number of copies sold, he did so for the reason that his readers believed he was a raving lunatic, and were curious to know what he would print next. When the editor returned, he said: "Ah, heaven and earth, friend, if you had made the acquiring of ignorance the study of your life, you could not have graduated with higher honors than you could today."

If one were to substitute the word "confusion" for "ignorance," the sentence as it stands might well be applied to Zona Gale in "Light Woman"! Surely she almost rates a Phi Beta Kappa in confusion and disorder.

The story deals with light, easy and completely unmoral Mitty, whom Nicholas Belden loves and desires to marry. Through an error, his staid, conventional, country family believe them to be married when they go home with all the rest of the children to celebrate the father's birthday. As no one corrects this impression, involved and disturbing situations result, which of course, are all cleared up to everyone's satisfaction on the very last page. The portrayal of the grandmother, who is a victim of senile dementia, is the outstanding characterization in the book.

One can scarcely believe that the author of "Miss Lulu Bett" and some excellent short stories has written this tale, for in it she displays neither her usual wit nor subtlety. It is muddled, slow-moving, and might well prove a boon to a sufferer from insomnia.

CAP AND BELLS. By Selina B. Avery. (Burney Bros., Aurora, Mo.)

A tale of an old English jester.

Sailing Adventure

ROUGH PASSAGE. By R. D. Graham. (Houghton Mifflin Co., Boston.)

EAST MONSOON. By G. E. P. Collins. (Charles Scribner's Sons, New York.)

THE authors here noted are both English and both went to sea. Similarity ends there. Mr. Collins, feeling bored, gave up his business in Singapore and cruised about the Dutch East Indies in the frail palaris and prahus, apparently enjoying the chatter of the natives as much as he did the beautiful land and seascapes. Commander Graham, finding his health undermined by business worries in 1934, set out by himself in a mere cockleshell and crossed from England to Newfoundland in 24 days.

"I am constitutionally rather timid, though with increasing years I have learned to some extent to manage my timidity," Commander Graham remarks. Judging from the fact that the tiny cutter yacht in which he twice crossed the Atlantic was only 30 feet long and of seven tons burden, the timidity could hardly have been excessive. The author managed to eat, sleep and enjoy life, never once becoming lonely. Because he tells his story as simply as possible without attempting literary flourishes, the account of the struggle with wind and wave is highly interesting and reveals Graham as a real sailor and an attractive personality.

While Mr. Collins and his native seaman had their troubles in navigating their weird crafts, the author's main concern was in achieving an understanding of these talkative brown-skinned islanders. Commander Graham and his solitude are preferable.

GOVERNMENT BONDS IMPROVE FURTHER

Market as a Whole Moves Higher on Firm Bids for Small Offerings.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Small offerings were struck by firm bids today as the bond market moved higher on light volume.

The prevailing trend was upward in all sections of the list, except rail and utility groups, where some loans lowered a bit. Almost as many others, however, showed a trifle higher in these sections.

The United States Government group went forward on small-scale buying to finish at higher ground for the fifth successive day. Gainers were close hauled for the most part, although the Home Owners' Loan 2¼s of 1944 added three-eighths of a point at 99.23 and several others were up 9-32 of a point or more. At the end of the day only four issues remained below par, and these but slightly.

Federal issues are now yielding in the neighborhood of 2.5 per cent, a basis believed by many observers to be below the point at which buying interest can be stirred. These have maintained steadfastly the market would stabilize between 2½ per cent and 3 per cent or a little better.

Domestic corporate obligations also pointed higher, although in many instances the move was little more than a gesture.

Stocks of New York City traction companies came back moderately following a week of sharp setbacks. The Interborough Rapid Transit 5s regained 1¼ points to 71 and Third Avenue Railway adjustment 5s moved up ¾ to 34½. Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit 4½s added 1¼ at 93¾.

Other gainers in the corporate division included Southern Pacific 4½s, which ventured a point to 90½ on announcement of threatened strike by trainmen had been settled. International Hydro-Electric 6s gained ½ to 81½ and St. Paul 5s of 1975 lifted ½ to 30¾. The Associated Press averages for 10 industrials closed even, as did the 10 low yields.

Foreign loans dallied along with a slight majority of the active issues higher. Uruguay 6s up ⅜ at 68¼ showed to advantage in this section. The Associated Press compilation for this group lifted one-tenth of a point to 71.4.

Turnover totaled $5,330,000, compare with $6,072,000 in all bonds, compared with $6,072,000 the preceding Saturday.

The market last week rode out weighty influences of direct and indirect application.

Developments of national importance from financial and economic standpoints included the Supreme Court affirmation of the Wagner Labor Act and President Roosevelt's order to department heads to tighten their budgetary purse strings.

Most observers credited the midweek upward flurry to President Roosevelt's demand for curtailment in the cost of government. While this was expected, because of the failure of tax revenues to come up to official estimates, it was not looked for quite so soon.

Treasury buying played a more important part in the March rally of Federal loans than had been believed. The Treasury purchases of these issues last month amounted to more than $119,000,000. Financial circles had felt institutional and private investors had been largely responsible for the sustained buying wave.

Crumbling Commodity Prices Provide Background for Fall In Stocks After Improvement

Grains Lead Way on Downward Path, Breaking Sharply in World Markets, Partly on Reports of European Moves for Peace.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Crumbling commodity prices provided the background for a fall in stocks toward the end of this week.

Grains led the way on the downward path, breaking sharply in world markets. The decline in domestic markets was touched off by weakness in foreign centers. It was explained in part by reports of a European move for peace.

This took the edge off the speculative appetite for both grains and other basic staples important to countries preparing for war.

Early in the week the share market moved quietly forward. One reason cited for the rise was that upholding of the Wagner Act by the Supreme Court clarified to some extent the labor situation.

Other factors mentioned in Wall street as explanations of the advance were cheerful business news and inflationary sentiment in some trading circles.

Important items from the trade and industrial front were hopeful comments by leading executives to stockholders at annual meetings, good first quarter earnings reports and a report of record cotton consumption for March.

Statistical Gains Shown.

Meanwhile the routine weekly statistics on steel making, electric power production, freight carloadings and motor output showed satisfactory gains.

The bond market distinguished itself mainly by the wide rally in U. S. Government issues. In the corporate division rails put on the brightest performance, running forward with the aid of estimated gains in March net operating income.

As financial markets came down the home stretch attention focused sharply on the Federal deficit, the budget, spending and related credit problems.

Some observers said traders in both stocks and bonds were staying out of the market in the hope President Roosevelt's budget message next week might provide an important cue to trends.

Sales during the week amounted to 6,635,860 shares, compared with 8,660,050 last week and 7,823,940 corresponding week last year. Total sales from Jan. 1 to date were 178,053,356 shares, compared with 201,192,373 a year ago and 62,642,143 corresponding period last year.

Quietest Day Since Aug. 22.

A few specialty shares plodded forward, but most of the list drifted narrowly today in the most lethargic Saturday stock market since last Aug. 22.

Traders were disinclined to venture into deep water with the President's budget speech slated for the middle of next week.

Specialties responded mildly to a fair comeback of some commodities from yesterday's slump, but coppers were nervous over a further drop today in red metal futures.

Steels also inclined lower, following publication of estimates activity would be down in the Pittsburgh district next week.

At the finish, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks was down .1 of a point at 70. Of the 625 issues traded, 177 advanced, 271 lost ground and 177 were unchanged. Transactions totaled 444,000 shares against 480,360 last Saturday.

Bonds were generally quiet with United States Government issues a little higher and corporate liens showing more fractional gains than losses.

Metals Active.

In stocks, greatest activity was in coppers, steels and specialties. Rails lagged, despite the fact last week's carloadings dipped less than seasonally. Utilities and rubbers were quiet and oils, although more in the picture, were mixed.

Some favorable earnings reports and increased dividends stimulated buying interest. Armour moved fractionally forward on announcement of a larger distribution, and Mead Corporation was active and higher under a better income report. Loew's also was up with the expectation the quarterly report, due Monday, would show higher income.

Prominent among gainers of fractions to around 2 points were Armour, 12⅛; Mead, 33¼; Allied Chemical, 242; U. S. Industrial Alcohol, 40¼; Deere, 128½; Panhandle Petroleum, 3¾; Stewart Warner, 19, and Crown Zellerbach, 24¼.

Among the Changes.

Unchanged to a point or so lower were U. S. Steel, 110¾; Bethlehem, 89¾; Anaconda, 55½; Kennecott, 56¾; Chrysler, 115⅞; General Motors, 59; Sears Roebuck, 89½; Goodrich, 45⅛; Air Reduction, 74½; International Harvester, 105½; Standard Oil of New Jersey, 68⅞; Seaboard Oil, 49½, and Barnsdall, 31⅝.

Wheat at Chicago, reacting from yesterday's crash, closed ⅞c to 2⅜c a bushel higher; corn was up 1c to 3⅝c and cotton futures added 75c to 95c a bale. Copper, tin and hides futures were off, with rubber and cottonseed oil a little better.

The pound sterling closed down ½ of a cent and the French franc dropped .00⅛ of a cent.

STERLING IS HIGHEST SINCE LAST OCTOBER

Receipt of $43,580,000 Gold During Week Cited as One Factor in Rise.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 17.—A rise in the pound sterling to the highest rate since last Oct. 5 appeared the most important feature of the foreign exchange market during the week.

Foreign currencies, however, slipped a trifle lower in terms of the dollar today.

The British pound lost ¼ of a cent, French francs yielded .00½ of a cent, Holland guilders remained stationary.

At London the dollar was ⅛ cent lower at 4.91¾ to the pound. The markets were closed in Paris.

The Federal Reserve Bank reported gold engagements abroad totaled $5,685,000 in England.

In the period of week gold engagements abroad for American account jumped to $43,580,000 compared with $16,347,000 the preceding week, indicating that a large part of the demand for the British currency unit arose from the accelerated shipment of the yellow metal to this country.

Other causes were the increase in sterling requirements of tourists traveling to England for the coronation, the heavy liquidation from abroad in the commodity markets, and some foreign selling on balance in American securities.

With the franc left by the French Control Commission to find its own level, it fluctuated within a narrow range, although toward the end seemed inclined to follow the pound to a higher figure.

The Japanese yen likewise mounted in sympathy with sterling, to which it is pegged, and the Swiss franc advanced.

Of the gold engaged (not including today's), $32,537,000 was taken in England. Much of that amount, however, represented funds in transit from other capitals, notably Moscow. Canada contributed $4,246,000 and India $1,112,000.

Continued heavy influx of the yellow metal received report that the Government would shortly take some measures to at least diminish the rate of flow.

One persistent rumor was to the effect the Treasury might increase its handling charge, thus in effect lowering the buying price. Although this report, on its first appearance a week or so ago was denied in Government quarters, its continued circulation was said to have had considerable effect in the commodity decline which marked the week.

WAR-SCARE-BOUGHT METALS LIQUIDATED, AFFECTING LIST

Domestic Copper Producers Reduce Electrolytic Price Half Cent.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Sharp declines in London metal prices under liquidation by speculators who had bought on previous war scares disturbed confidence in some domestic non-ferrous metals this week.

Tin broke 2¾ cents a pound. Buyers who had withdrawn were attracted by lower levels and toward the close of the week fairly active buying developed.

Domestic copper producers reduced the electrolytic price ⅛ cent to meet the previous reduction which had been put into effect by custom smelters. The price was quoted at 15½ cents. The foreign developments seemed to counterbalance a favorable view of the March domestic statistics. Copper and brass products eased ½ cent.

Lead prices held steady, the recent demand, which had been stimulated by the ever, custom smelters continued to book a decline in the previous week, let up. Howmoderate volume of business.

Zinc was quiet and unchanged. The undertone was aided by continued scarcity of metal for April delivery and inquiry for prompt shipment.

Steel production held at recent record levels, a decline in new business booked was reported. A reduction in steel scrap prices became more pronounced toward the close of the week.

Antimony was quiet, with prices unchanged.

CORPORATION REPORTS

First quarter consolidated net profit of Acme Steel Co. was reported at $1,094,941, equal to $3.33 a share on the capital stock, against $391,853, or $1.19 a share in the like period of 1936. Plants are at Chicago and Riverdale, Ill.

American Chicle Co., chewing gum manufacturers, reported for the quarter ended March 31 consolidated net income of $785,861 after depreciation and income taxes, equal to $1.79 a share on the capital stock. This compares with $667,319, or $1.52 a share in the first quarter of 1936.

WHEAT RALLIES IN NORTH AMERICA; IS LOWER ABROAD

Short Covering and Sharp Spurt in Corn Market Exert Influence on Prices—Material Weekly Loss.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 17. — Domestic wheat markets ignored continued heavy selling by foreign speculators today and rallied 1 to more than 3 cents a bushel.

Contributing to wheat market strength was a steep 3⅞ cents jump of May corn just before the close. This was within ⅛ cent of the maximum gain permitted in one day.

Traders said much of the buying in wheat, attributed to professionals and Southwestern sources, and particularly in May corn, represented short covering, although improved export demand for Canadian wheat and scattered unfavorable domestic crop reports helped.

Contracts for wheat deliverable in July and September, which could be filled with new domestic wheat, led the advance here, gaining more than 2 cents. Winnipeg wheat values gained even more and buying there at times was sympathetic with that market.

Wheat Up ⅞ to 2⅝ Cents.

Wheat closed ⅞@2⅝ cents higher, May 1.30⅜@⅞, July 1.19⅜@⅝, September 1.17½@¾, and corn was 1 to 3⅝ up, May 1.25¾@⅞, July 1.16 ⅝@¾, September 1.07⅞@1.08. Oats gained ¾@1⅛, May 48⅝@49, Rye ¼@1⅝, May 1.08¼@½, and provisions were unchanged to 8 cents up.

Fresh breaks in European markets were virtually ignored here, although after the first hour, increased selling knocked May wheat down about a cent below the previous close to a low of $1.29, lowest it has been since the last of January and 16 cents below the eight-year peak established early this month.

Liverpool wheat dropped 4 to 6 cents at times, extending losses there in 10 days to approximately 25 cents, but then rallied moderately on expectations of smaller world shipments. This late upturn did much to help buying here. Rotterdam wheat dropped 4 to 5 cents.

Basis of Selling.

Trade gossip attributed much of the foreign speculators recently to impaired confidence. Rumors of possible changes in the United States gold policy floated about world financial centers only a few days ago and, though officially denied, were believed to be getting attention from many speculators yet.

Canadian wheat sales for export improved, being estimated at about 600,000 bushels.

Short covering brought the late upward swing in May corn. Traders have not lost sight of abnormally small corn supplies, it was said. Oats and rye and provisions were quiet.

Wheat futures purchases yesterday totaled 68,346,000 bushels, corn 14,281,000. Open interest in wheat was 105,245,000 bushels, and in corn 31,446,000.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, April 17.—Local wheat prices rebounded from yesterday's sharp drop, along with other North American markets, and closed 1⅞c to 2c higher, despite the fact that European markets continued downward. Corn was 2¼c higher.

Winnipeg wheat opened unchanged to ¾c lower and early was net unchanged to 1c higher. The close was 1⅝@3⅛c higher.

Liverpool wheat closed 2¼d to 2⅝d lower, after opening ⅜d to ⅝d off.

Argentine wheat opened ⅝c to ¾c lower and corn ¾c off. The close was net unchanged to ¼c lower for wheat and net unchanged to ⅛c higher for corn.

ST. LOUIS CASH GRAIN

In the cash grain market Saturday, wheat was nominally 1c higher. There were no offerings, though the nominal figure for No. 1 red winter was advanced due to the higher future market. There was some inquiry from mills and order buyers. Corn was 1c lower to 1½c higher. About half of the 39 cars received was Argentina grain, which went to an elevator and was not put on sale. Demand early was only fair, but late in the session a good demand developed and a clearance was effected. Mills and feedrs showed the interest earyl, while glucose makers bought late. Oats were unchanged. Supply was light and a clearance was made. Feeders bought No. 2 white and an elevator low grade.

Oats receipts, which were 22,000 bu, compared with 26,000 a week ago and 34,000 a year ago, included 8 cars local and 3 through. Hay receipts were 1 car local and 1 through.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, April 17.—There was a sharp break in the No. 4 sugar contracts today. Prices at the outset showed declines of 3 to 9 points under heavy liquidation encouraged by weakness in London and unfavorable reports from the sugar conference.

Stop orders were uncovered, sending July contracts off to 1.13 and Sept. to 1.14¼ or 8 to 9 points net lower. Covering developed on the setback and there were partial recoveries from the lowest although final prices were still 5 to 7½ points net lower. Sales 50,250 tons.

The No. 3 contract, however, held steady. After advancing 2 to 5 points on trade covering there were reactions under realizing with the market closing 1 point lower for the spot month and unchanged to 3 higher on later positions with sales of 7650 tons.

Raw sugar was steady at 3.50 with no sales reported. Business in refined was light at 4.80.

Defeat of Italian Corps On Guadalajara Front

with a less numerous and less well-armed enemy—is more interesting than the outcome of the military operations at Guadalajara and the immediate consequences of it. It is most helpful for understanding the spirit of such a comparatively advanced Fascist army as is the Italian army. We see how, when faced with real danger, the entire shell that carefully enclosed the military unit of Fascist imperialism peels off, and how a full-blooded human being appears from under it; a human being whom Fascism could not, during all the 15 years of its existence, adapt to fit its purposes.

It is amazing to watch the human nakedness, the naive, simple-hearted innocence of yesterday's soldiers of the proud Fascists empire—today's prisoners of the Spanish People's Army.

Of course, prisoners are taken in all wars. There have been many instances when the rank and file, left without leadership, turned into a herd, into a crowd of helpless people who had lost their military and civil morale, indifferent to their military and national honor, ready to serve new masters, to dig trenches for them and even to shoot at their old masters. But they were capitalist armies of a pre-Fascist period; they were gathered in a rush, without any political selection, according to the methods of general mobilization. They knew little about the aims of war and if they did know, they were indifferent or hostile to them. But here we have selected young blackshirts, all of them members of the Fascist party, the fighting vanguard, so to speak, the hope and the pride of Mussolini, his best cadres to whom he addresses fiery personal greetings.

Long Preparation to No End.

For 15 years the Fascist leaders have been preparing these cadres in schools and at gala parades with the help of highflown phraseology, individualistic theories, and the cult of the superman. Among the prisoners there are young men whom the Fascist regime has trained since their earliest childhood; they were 3 years old when Mussolini came to power. And now, after after they have spent one night under the roof of their enemy, they curse the duce and his empire. The 15 years of their training did not penetrate them very deeply.

The higher ranks of the army are undoubtedly more closely attached to the Fascist Government, but they, too, have passed the test badly. The panicky retreat, the heavy loss of guns, the demoralization of the soldiers, have deeply shaken the Fascist commanders. The Republicans found the bodies of four Italian officers—a Lieutenant-Colonel and three Captains—who had committed suicide. The suicides anticipated events. The latest prisoners said that on March 19, upon order of the higher command two commanders of battalions were shot for having deserted their units.

Italian Officer's Diary.

The following lines from the diary of a prisoner, an Italian officer, show the frame of mind of the Fascist commanders:

"With the development of events my enthusiasm declines. What depresses me most is the bureaucracy, the intrigues and the incompetence of our army. There is nothing around but falsehood and deceit. We cheat one another and the Spaniards cheat us. The Spanish Phalanga does nothing but glut, drink and wait for us to take Madrid for them. Had I known how dreadfully disgusting it all is I would have avoided this war which seemed so alluring from afar."

When a shattering blow was dealt to the Italian divisions in Guadalajara, they revealed the inner decay and emptiness of Fascist militarism, the real weakness of its essential human basis. The powerful technique, after its owners had lost control over it and over themselves, became the trophy of men not so well armed.

Only one condition proved necessary—a bold counter-blow, which was dealt very decisively and very fiercely. Without this blow the armored, mechanized Italian army would have marched without stopping to Madrid, and the glory of Italian arms would have dazzled still more the eyes of those who are ready to be dazzled.

Italian prisoners, taken on the Guadalajara front, confirm that their units are regular army units; that they were coerced into going to Spain and that there was a total absence of the slightest element of voluntary service about their going—that is to say, that it is entirely contrary to the statements of the Italian press.

Luciano Silvia, an Italian major, captured by the Republicans, said openly, in reply to the question of why he had come to Spain: "I am obeying my government's orders and am fighting for my country. I am an Italian and am fighting for my Italy."

"When you left Italy, did you know you were going to Spain?" "Yes, I knew. All our superiors and regimental and battalion commanders knew this. It was an army order. We embarked at Sabaudia and landed at Cadiz."

"What do you think of the war in Spain? With whom is it being carried on?" "It is a war between Spaniards."

Why Italy Is in the War.

"Then why are you mixing yourself up in it?" "We are interested in it, on Italy's account. We are concerned, because it is a fight between Fascists, on the one hand, and anti-Fascists on the other hand. We are occupied in Italy's interests."

"In which particular interests of Italy's have you come here?" "I cannot say anything about that. I have come over here because of military discipline and orders. I am, before everything else, an Italian and a soldier."

And there was another prisoner, Sacci Achille, a second lieutenant, who said the same thing. "I knew that I was going to Spain," he said. "I was only forbidden to inform my family of this. My relatives and fiancee think that I have been sent to Africa."

"Are you a Fascist?" "Yes, I am because in Italy, if you want a quiet life, you must belong to the Fascists. I am a soldier by profession and have come to Spain in obedience to the orders of the Italian Government and King."

Merely Obeying Orders.

"Do you carry out these orders with enthusiasm?" "I have come here to defend my fatherland and to carry out the orders, which I have received."

"How can you defend your fatherland here? Has Spain annexed Italy?" The Lieutenant was silent and at last muttered: "I am obeying orders. I am in the Italian army and must obey my officers. I do not—and did not—belong to the Fascist militia. I am only a Second Lieutenant of the Italian army and am simply doing my duty."

Romano Salvatore, a soldier of the Seventy-fifth Italian Infantry Brigade, asserts the same thing. He states that he had been sent, as a soldier, by his superior officers. It is not clear to him and he does not understand against whom and for what cause they are fighting in Spain. He only knows that he has been sent to Spain to fight in Italy's interests.

"I am a soldier and must obey orders."

However, the soldiers of the Italian army have displayed a certain amount of initiative on the Guadalajara front.

On the prisoners were found antique parchments, miniatures and other objects of art, stolen from the cathedral at Siguenza.

Orders From Italy.

On one of the captured soldiers was found this document:

"By order of his majesty the King, you, Bessi Benzo, son of Giuseppe, called up in 1910, are called to arms. You must personally present this order to the command of the Thirty-fifth Legion in the town of Spezia, early in the morning of the 25th of November, 1936. According to the law, you will be prosecuted, if you fail, without valid reason, to present yourself by the date mentioned above.

"CIANO FERDINANDO."

On this document is the stamp of the command of the Ninetieth Legion and the official coat-of-arms of the Italian Government.

All this goes on to show once more, to anyone who may still be in doubt about it, that the Italian units are essentially regular units of the regular Italian army sent to Spain by order of her highest command and of the Government.

CHINESE TYPEWRITER HAS ABOUT 4000 CHARACTERS

Writes Vertically and Horizontally—Three Times Size of Machines for Other Languages.

SHANGHAI, China, April 17. — After 20 years of research work an efficient Chinese typewriter has been developed. Because the Chinese lack a simple alphabet, and it was necessary to provide for about 4000 characters, it took inventors two decades to develop a model which was not too cumbersome.

The present Chinese typewriter, which can write vertical as well as horizontal lines, is about three or four times the size of the ordinary typewriter, but a trained typist can work almost as fast on one of the new models as a foreign typist can.

THERE'S POSITIVE PROOF BEHIND STUDEBAKER'S DARING CHALLENGE!

THE 1937 DICTATOR IS America's finest 6-cylinder car!

ACTUAL PHOTOGRAPH

Sold on payment terms that challenge the lowest in town

All 9 other sixes are invited to contest against this great Studebaker!

STUDEBAKER has no criticism to make of any other 6-cylinder car. Studebaker simply makes the unqualified assertion that no other six built in America, regardless of price, compares with the 1937 Dictator in money's worth!

Studebaker stands ready to take the witness stand in any court of public opinion and prove that the 1937 Dictator is a better looking, better built, better performing, safer, more comfortable, more economical car than any other six.

And that Studebaker challenge includes sixes that cost more than the Dictator as well as sixes that cost the same or less!

Put no money down on any six until you see and drive the Dictator . . . world's first six to offer the triple safety of a steel-reinforced-by-steel body, automatic hill holder and hydraulic brakes . . . world's first six offering the dual economy insurance of the gas-saving automatic overdrive plus the Fram oil cleaner . . . world's only six with non-slam doors that close lightly, tightly and silently!

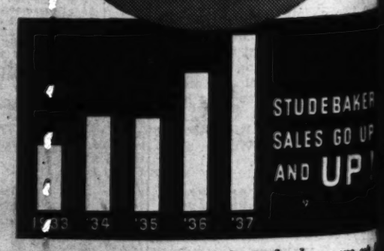

Chart above shows Studebaker sales by years up to April first. Look how 1937 Studebaker sales are soaring above even record-breaking 1936. You buy a popular favorite when you buy a Studebaker.

Blue-winged teal. This and the other paintings of birds on this page are reproductions from original Audubon prints in Constance Rourke's "Audubon," Harcourt, Brace and Company, publishers.

It Will Contain a Complete Collection of His Prints as Well as Other Documents Concerning the Great Naturalist.

HENDERSON, Kentucky.

THE first museum ever constructed to the memory of John James Audubon, famous American artist and ornithologist, who lived here from 1810 to 1820, is being erected by W P A workmen in the Audubon Memorial Park, a mile north of Henderson. High on a hill overlooking a majestic stretch of the Ohio River, the gray stone two-story building is surrounded by the 400-acre park with its rolling land and thick woods.

The Federal Government, the State, the city, the Henderson Historical Society and the Transylvania Society are sponsoring the undertaking. In addition, Audubon enthusiasts from all over the nation have agreed to send in valuable prints, papers, portraits and other mementoes of the great naturalist.

A complete collection of Audubon prints will be exhibited in a double frieze in the main gallery on the first floor. The second floor will have space for stuffed birds, books, portraits and other Audubonia. There will also be a Kentucky room, which will contain the relics of Daniel Boone, who was a close friend of Audubon, and mementoes of other contemporaries. A Transylvania room will honor the notables of this society of early settlers.

The Norman style of architecture has been employed because of Audubon's ancestry. This allowed the construction of a round tower in the museum with pigeon holes so the birds can nest in the masonry. A formal garden will be laid out in front of the building with the wheel from the steam grist and lumber mill that Aubudon built here, and which ended so disastrously for him, in the center. About 100 yards from the museum there will be a French gatehouse.

The years that Audubon spent here included the happiest and the saddest in his life. Kentucky was practically a wilderness when Audubon, unsuccessful in the mercantile business in Louisville, came here on a flatboat in 1810 at the age of 25. With him was Lucy Bakewell Audubon, whom he had married two years before. Their daughter, Lucy, died and was buried here while still a child.

Audubon's partner, Ferdinand Rozier, stood behind the counter in their store attending to what little business there was, while Audubon roamed hills and fields in pursuit of birds and game. He at least kept the larder well stocked.

Here it was that the unbusiness-like naturalist met Alexander Wilson, then the foremost ornithologist in America. Both men took a dislike to each other at once. Audubon's famous hoax on Samuel Rafinesque, gullible French botanist, also was perpetrated here. Audubon was unable to resist the fun of sketching, most solemnly, a bizarre group of fish and fowl which the botanist at once published as new species.

The mercantile venture with Rozier was highly unsuccessful and was dissolved, but friendship remained. Audubon then tried several other enterprises with his brother-in-law, Thomas Bakewell, but all failed. The last, which proved to him that he had no place in business, was his mill. When it failed he was jailed for debt and held until he pleaded bankruptcy. He then was released with only the clothes he wore, his gun and his drawings.

Breaking Up Kentucky's Blackleg Gang

Jim Marshall and Newt, Troy, Beecher and Noble Cole after their indictment.

The Terrorist Organization Beat Protesting Mountaineers Into Submission — and Then Someone Talked.

By F. A. BEHYMER

Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

PRESTONSBURG, Kentucky.

PEACE broods these spring days along Gun Creek and the head waters of Middle Creek, for the terror that stalked in the night has passed. Masked men who called themselves Blacklegs and spread dread along the border of Magoffin and Floyd counties have been dispersed. Balladry has come to ryhme their misdeeds and celebrate their passing. Beecher Osborne, mountain minstrel, who writes his own, roams around Royalton and thrums his guitar and sings—

Blacklegs whipped Collins' back and his belly too,
Said git away Dan, we're through with you.
Jim Marshall was a mighty smart man,
Said he'd have 'em all in the Prestons-burg can.
And, boys, when circuit court did set,
He sure did make them Blacklegs sweat.

It was because they went over into Floyd County that the Blacklegs were made to sweat. The immunity that they had enjoyed in Magoffin County because jurors are said to have been afraid to convict them there was denied them here. Twenty-five men were indicted. One was convicted and given three years in prison. The cases against the others are pending. The Blacklegs have ceased troubling.

Jim Marshall showed himself a mighty smart man by turning State's evidence and revealing the secrets of the Blacklegs.

Carl Hall had been out of the mountains, working in another state, and when he returned he brought a big idea with him, it is said. He told the mountain men, it is related, that what they needed was an organization to get their share of the employment that the Government was giving out; he got a crowd of them together at a church house up the creek and organized the Unemployment League of Magoffin County and was elected president. Meetings were held at school houses and church houses and the membership grew into hundreds. The members paid dues of 37 cents a month. Many of them were given employment on road building and other WPA projects. Hall, the story goes, gave them to understand that he had influence at Washington and that was why they got the jobs.

After a while Hall heard that some were talking against the organization, and that, according to testimony, gave him his other big idea—the Blacklegs. At the next meeting, which was held at the church house on Gun Creek, two miles from Royalton, he is alleged to have said the country needed straightening up and he was going to pick out some Blacklegs to do the straightening.

"I'm goin' to stand here by the door," he is said to have announced, "and as you pass out I will hold my hands like I'm whisperin' to each one of you, and to 12 of you I will say 'you.' That will mean that the ones I say 'you' to are selected and they will stay, and them that I don't say 'you' to are to go on away and I don't want to ketch you hangin' around here or it will be just too bad."

"The Blacklegs threw themselves against the door and broke it from the hinges."

Beecher Osborne.

The members, it was told, passed him in single file and to 12 of them he said "you." When the others had gone the Blacklegs were counted and found to be only 11. One had decided that he did not want to be a Blackleg. One of the 11 was Jim Marshall, that mighty smart man who, "when circuit court did set, he sure did make them Blacklegs sweat."

Hall, it is related, told his men what they were to do; it had come to him, he said, that there were men and women in Magoffin County who were talking against the organization and doing other things that were not right. Such persons would have to be taken out and whipped; that was what the Blacklegs were for.

A CAPTAIN of Blacklegs was appointed. He was to call the group together whenever there was anybody to be straightened out, administer the Blackleg oath and proceed with the business in hand. The oath bound the members never to tell on each other, with death as the penalty, and to kill the person to be whipped if it took killing him to prevent him from hurting any member of the gang. Other groups were organized in other sections.

A few nights later the Blacklegs went to the head of Bear Branch and took George Barnett out and whipped him because he had expressed some doubts concerning the Unemployment League. For the occasion, as for the five or six others in which the crowd went whipping, the members wore gunny sacks and stocking masks with holes cut for the eyes. Other groups were equally active and some of the victims were women.

The Magoffin County authorities heard about what was going on up there around Royalton, and Commonwealth Attorney Earl Cooper had some of the Blacklegs indicted, but after hung juries in three trials he gave up trying to convict them, accepted pleas of misdemeanors in a couple of cases and placed a number of others under peace bonds.

Miles Barnett was one who said he believed in law and order and not in bands taking the law into their own hands. It had been reported that he was talking against the organization and there were standing orders to whip anybody who did that.

So it came to pass that on the night of Sunday, April 2, 1936, when the crowd met under a rock cliff at the head of Big Licking, to go over to Layne Branch and whip some parties there, someone spoke up and said: "Let's go over the line and whip Miles Barnett. He's sold out in Magoffin and he's over at the Watkins house. He's got a truck hired and is fixing to leave for Ohio tomorrer mornin'. If we don't git him tonight he'll be gone tomorrer. Let's go over there and beat hell out of him."

The others agreed that under the circumstances the thing to do was to let the Layne Branch cases wait and get Miles Barnett while the getting was still good. They discussed what should be done and decided that as his was rather a special case, they would take him to the Locust graveyard at the head of the branch and tie him to the hickory tree there and gag him with a stick so that he could not call for help.

They arrived near the Watkins house about midnight.

Barnett and his wife and children, his mother-in-law, Rose Anna Watkins, 76 years old, and his sister-in-law, Martha Watkins, were asleep when the Blacklegs came and, finding the door locked, threw themselves against it and broke it from the hinges. Jim Marshall was one of those first inside. One of them held a flashlight on Barnett and another pointed a pistol.

"Git up and come on out," one of the Blacklegs ordered.

"Boys," said Barnett, "I ain't done anything to you fellows, not a thing in the world."

"Come on out and git ready for your whippin'," said a Blackleg.

THEY took him out, "the way he went to bed," and whipped him with a limb. He broke away and ran back into the house to get his gun, but they closed in on him and knocked him against his bed and took the weapon away from him.

They did not take him to the graveyard because Mrs. Watkins had fainted and "pitched over" and they feared she might be dead.

They all wore gunny sacks and stocking masks, but when Noble Cole was tried here Barnett swore that he recognized Noble, Troy and Newt Cole and Jim Marshall. They had all lived on the same creek, he said, and he knew them well and they couldn't fool him with their stocking masks.

The next morning after the whipping Barnett left for McGuffey, Ohio. He farmed two crops in Ohio and then came back, and having reason to think that Jim Marshall might be repentant, he told Jim he could be a State's witness if he would come clean and tell the truth. They went to see County Judge Forrest Short and the indictments followed.

Marshall, smart man that he was, agreed, and after the 25 men had been indicted and Noble Cole was brought to trial he was the star witness for Commonwealth Attorney O. C. Hall. When he had told everything and named names, Hall asked him:

"What was the purpose in whipping Barnett?"

"Well, I don't know exactly."

"Had he done anything?"

"Not that I know of."

"Then why did you treat him the way?"

"Well, he was accused of talkin' against the organization."

"What were your orders about a person who talked against the organization?"

"To take him out and whip him."

"This man Barnett hadn't done anything to you?"

"He didn't do anything as I know of. He was goin' away to Ohio next day and we thought we ought to whip him before he left."

"Why didn't you whip him when he was in Magoffin County?"

"Well, they had a kid that was sick up there and we was waitin' till the child got better."

"Why have you testified as you have?"

"I figured if I told the truth about it I would feel better."

The oath of the Blacklegs, Marshall said, was oral. He summarized it as obligating the members "to stand together and not tell what was done, to go out and whip people who talked about the organization, to kill anybody that talked any or that told on any member and got them in court, and the others would kill him, burn him or shoot him, or make away with him in some way or other."

Verne Hackworth of Middle Creek was one who was picked to be a Blackleg, but did not perform.

"Did you go back to other meetings after that?" he was asked.

"No, sir."

"Tell the jury why you didn't."

"Well, I'll give you what I thought. I figured if them 12 men was goin' to take care of the country, who was goin' to take care of the 12 men."

UNDER the charge of criminal syndicalism and conspiracy in the indictments, testimony concerning activities across the line in Magoffin County was allowed. George Barnett testified that Noble Cole, Newt Cole, George Marshall, Jim Marshall and Morg Perkins came to his house at the head of Bear Creek and whipped him 25 licks. On cross-examination he was asked if he was not related to Miles Barnett.

"I am a little, I guess," he answered, "I married his sister."

"You are a brother-in-law to him!"

"I think so."

"Why didn't you tell about this whipping at the time?"

"I was afraid of getting another whippin.' I was afraid of gittin' killed."

At the time of Noble Cole's trial, Carl Hall was a fugitive. He came back later and he and the other accused men are out on $10,000 bond each.

One who walks up Gun Creek toward set of sun of any day now sees men straggling from their day's work on Booger Mountain, two miles away, and some were Blacklegs a little while ago and others bear the scars that the Blacklegs gave them, but they are all good friends now. As the others pass, Norman Cole stops to talk and says yes, he was one of the men who was whipped.

"They took me out and whipped me twice," he says. The first time it was because they said I gave away the pass word."

"What was the pass word?"

"I don't know."

"And what did they whip you for the second time?"

"Because they said I told that they took two gallons of lard from me the first time."

He shows livid welts on his hand and wrist. "Them's some of the scars they gave me," he says, "and I've got more on my body." But now I must be going. I've got three more miles to walk before I'm home."

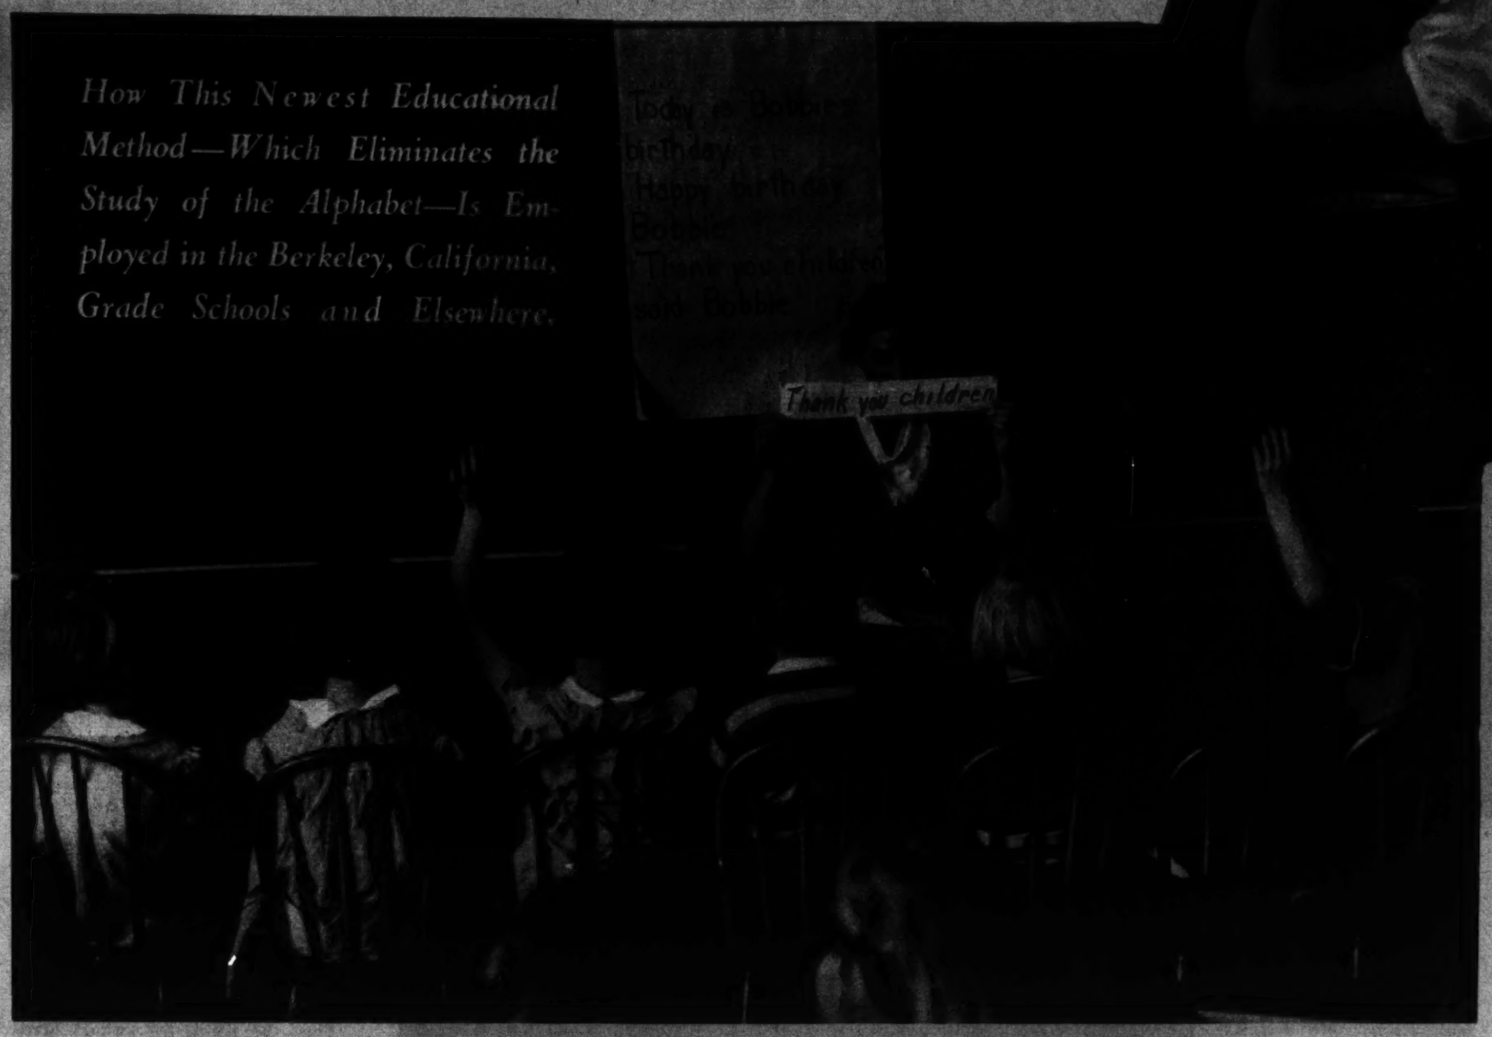
TEACHING THE MODERN CHILD "PHRASE READING" FOR SPEED

How This Newest Educational Method—Which Eliminates the Study of the Alphabet—Is Employed in the Berkeley, California, Grade Schools and Elsewhere.



"Reading strips," like the one this little girl is using, are employed by all children to isolate sentences and quickly get their meaning from appearance alone.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

BERKELEY, California.

IN THE Fellows Room of every university they love to retell anecdotes about famous scholars of the past who could read "as rapidly as you can turn the pages." Frequently it is such men who performed the most breath-taking feats of memory and displayed their talents in those pointed little epics associate professors enjoy reading with slow and quiet zest as they stir their coffee and sip their port. They tell with especial relish how a president of Yale, who could take in a whole page at a glance and memorize most of it before ordinary readers would finish a paargraph, was seated at a banquet beside a man who had spent his whole life studying the Battle of Gettysburg, and during the hour they were chatting revealed six hitherto unsuspected incidents of the battle to this amazed hobby rider, whose head was choked with minutiae. All of which leads up to the fact that they are now teaching reading in Berkeley public school kindergartens, with the intention of speeding up the rate at which all pupils read. Once upon a time it was believed that anyone who skipped in reading, or read at phenomenal speed, must inevitably retain less than those who read with painstaking exactness every word on every page. Tests have proved this to be quite false, and many of the most important reading tests have been made here in California. Within the past 10 years the skill of reading has been subjected to elaborate study, on the theory that all learning can be improved by improving the skill of reading fast and retaining what is read. Much of the work on "phrase reading" has been done here. And it is only natural that the practical application of this research should be done in the progressive public schools of this community.

Don't teach your children the alphabet before they go to school—this is one of the most revolutionary pieces of advice teachers give out here. For years conscientious parents have taught their offspring alphabet blocks and alphabet picture books and toy blackboards. For years every carefully nurtured tot has learned songs and jingles beginning, "A-B-C-D-E-F-G (FULL STOP) H I J K elemenopee." If Berkeley teachers, and others who follow the new method, have their way, this will presently be as obsolete as the dodo.

THE reason for changing is not far-fetched. It is perhaps best stated in Gilbert Wrenn and Lucia Cole's pamphlet, "How to Read Rapidly and Well," which was published in 1935 by Stanford University press. "You may think," say these authors, "that when you learn to recognize a word you look at each letter in it, that is, that you spell out the word. As a matter of fact you do quite the opposite. You learn to recognize its outline, or general appearance, and usually fail to analyze it at all, unless its appearance is so similar to that of some other word that analysis is necessary. The more distinctive the appearance of a word, the easier it is to learn. Thus children learn the word 'beautiful' very easily, and even after much practice they still confuse 'them,' 'this' and 'then,' because of their general similarity of appearance.

"What are these words in which omitted letters are represented by dashes? b—tt—fly th—gh p—h—ps —kb—rd. Here are three conventional phrases; what are they? —y t—ly th—k y— l—k —t. . . . You recognize words by their outstanding peculiarities of appearance whenever you can, and resort to more careful looking only if you have to. Puzzling over words is neither necessary nor desirable. This statement does not mean that you should never examine words; you should often study them carefully, but not when you are reading for meaning. . . ."

Here is the basic reasoning behind "phrase reading," as it is now taught in Berkeley schools and at several "progressive" schools in St. Louis. There are numerous projects afoot for teaching it to adults who already read at moderate speeds and wish to improve their efficiency.

In Berkeley kindergartens every piece of furniture and equipment is labeled in bold printed letters with its name, so that the outlines of the words will be associated with the objects they stand for in the child's unconscious, as well as its conscious mind. Whenever a new and interesting object is brought into the room it is promptly labeled. After these labels have been attached long enough so that a mental association has had time to form, they are removed and chalked on the blackboard. After a little practice at reading the labels separately, the children are taught a new game, which consists in taking down the labels and putting them back on the objects to which they were previously attached. This process of visual recognition is carried on all during the kindergarten year and into the first grade. Not until they reach the third or fourth grade do they learn the alphabet and the significance of individual letters. These come not with the study of reading and writing, but with the formal study of spelling, which is thus put off until words have a life and meaning for the pupil.

Now the purpose of this seemingly roundabout method is not merely to simplify the teaching of reading by making it more natural (although it does that, too); it is primarily designed to make silent reading come naturally and swiftly. Children who learn by "visual association" needn't go through an intermediate stage of reading aloud and moving their lips as they spell out each word. They don't see letters. They see words, then phrases and finally even larger blocks of type. The whole process becomes more rapidly automatic this way. If a telegraph operator is suddenly asked the Morse equivalent of the letter Q, he'll probably have to stop and think a second before answering, yet he can use the letter in words tapped off at a specified rate per minute. In the same way a clever pupil in the third grade will have to stop and think before identifying a letter pointed out to him in a word he knows perfectly well.

It is obvious that this method speeds up reading and learning. Not being conscious of individual letters in a word or individual words in a familiar phrase, the pupil's eyes move forward not from letter to letter, but from phrase to phrase, even in the beginning. To go back to the pamphlet referred to above, the authors state that in reading the eye cannot move without pause over a line that is being read. Whenever ideas are being assimilated, the eye pauses. Then it jumps to the next word or phrase to take in the next idea. The reader will notice that this process is being repeated as he follows this paragraph from line to line. The pauses for assimilation are called "fixations." Now a fixation may require the same time if it is devoted to letters as it would if devoted to words or phrases as a whole. An investigator cited by Wrenn and Cole claims that one can take in at a single fixation: Four unrelated letters, two unrelated words, consisting of 10 letters; or one phrase consisting of six related words and of 30 letters. This is an approximate maximum. What it means is that it's as easy to read a phrase containing six words as it is to read four unrelated letters. If this is true, it should be just as easy to read fast as to read slowly letter by letter. As a matter of fact this proves to be the case. The ordinary reader does read by words rather than by letters, but the old-fashioned methods not being designed to teach this in the most efficient way possible, the habit of staring at individual letters rather than words, individual words rather than phrases, is likely to persist. It is the avoidance of these habits which the new teaching method is primarily designed to accomplish.

Parents who want to give their children a head start in their education are therefore warned not to teach them their "A B Cs," but to teach them whole words — as described above.

IN BERKELEY writing is taught in the same way, though much of the training in writing is postponed until the third grade. Miss Ruby Minor, superintendent of primary instruction in Berkeley schools, gives an outline of her method for teaching writing in accordance with the "project method," a "progressive" way of teaching children by giving them tasks resembling games, in order to amplify and make graphic their learning experiences. In Berkeley grammar schools the children don't write compositions, they write books. And since books are written on the basis of personal observation and experience, that is exactly the way these infant writers compose theirs.

They start by writing as a class and observing as a class. Excursions and projects are the experiences. For example, a group of children may make an observation trip into the town's shopping district or to a factory. More likely they will undertake some such project as building a farm, a kitchen garden or a model dam or factory. In Miss Minor's book, "Pupil Activities," published eight years ago by the J. B. Lippincott Company, three dozen such projects, intended to teach geography, history, biology and art (among other subjects) are described in detail.

In addition to the actual information these projects give, they are an opportunity to teach expression. They are the subject matter for class books, written in the following way: After the project or excursion, the class sits as a committee of the whole house to discuss what shall go into a book describing it. The book is then written on the blackboard in relays. Each "chapter" is copied off on paper before being erased. When the paper transcripts are completed, they are copied back onto the blackboard for additional corrections and read aloud. After final corrections, the paper transcripts are bound and filed away for future reference. This approximates the regular drudgery of writing a book. Yet in final form the class books make swift and simple reading. They are short, expressive and to the point. Unnecessary words are anathema and the principle, "easy writing makes hard reading" is scrupulously kept in the forefront. Moreover, since the projects are often designed with the specific purpose of adding to the vocabulary by introducing objects and ideas for which there are no simple equivalents, the system would seem to turn out youngsters not only aware of the living reality of facts they learn, but articulate—able to express them tersely and exactly.

MOST of the methods referred to here have been in use at Berkeley long enough so that their practical results are apparent. It is claimed that school publications being put out by children who learned to read and write by these methods show a remarkable superiority to those written and edited by pupils in orthodox grammar schools. Moreover high school children who have gone through these primary courses are said to be putting out papers noticeably superior to some college periodicals elsewhere. This may or may not be accurate. The cumulative effect remains to be seen.

Equally interesting is the question: How much can adults get out of the new theories in the teaching of reading? As Walter B. Pitkin has showed in several of his popular dissertations on the subject, the improvement of reading is closely tied up with the general problem of adult learning, a field which is being explored with increasing intensity by numerous psychologists and expounded with increasing royalties for the author of "Life Begins at Forty." He says that there are three separate arts of reading and that these have different techniques to correspond with their different functions. The three types of reading are: Reading for fun; reading for information (especially information on current affairs), and reading for self-improvement. Some would probably disagree, claiming that all three functions overlap, if they are not actually identical. But most readers would agree that whether the art of reading is divisible or indivisible, various kinds of reading matter are consumed at various speeds and for various purposes. Skimming, according to Pitkin, "falls in a class by itself," but like all investigators of the general subject, he favors its use for certain purposes. Pitkin claims for his method of reading that anyone who practices it day by day at the rate of two hours a day can complete the equivalent of 16 books of light reading, 39 books of "average," 20 books of "solid" and 10 books of "heavy" or technical reading each year, or an average of one book of standard length every four and a half days.

He feels that word-by-word reading should be used only on poetry and prose read not for informative content, while skimming should be used only to ascertain the content of a book or article which one may or may not want to read through. He regards 10 words per second as a fair speed for skimming, though 20 words is a possible rate even for unpracticed readers. Pitkin analyzes the process of reading and its purpose meticulously and with copious illustrations. Probably he adds little to what one can gain from learning the brief known facts about reading skill and then consciously applying them.

VIENNA, Austria.

EVERY morning for years exactly on the stroke of 8, Emil Winkler, 61-year-old bachelor popped his head out the front door of his apartment and snatched in his pint of milk and three rolls that constituted his breakfast. So when Mrs. Marie Petrovits left her apartment, also on the fourth floor, for the morning walk she always took between 10 and 11, and saw the milk and rolls still in front of Winkler's door, she was greatly surprised.

She pealed his bell again and again, but got no answer. He must be ill, she thought. Perhaps dead. Maybe robbed and murdered. Off she scurried to summon Mrs. Marie Ott, living just around the corner, who served Winkler as part time housekeeper. Mrs. Ott agreed with her that something dreadful must be wrong. Back they went and routed out the janitor.

He opened the door with his pass key and there was Winkler sprawled on the floor of the combination bedroom-studio. His arms and legs were bound with yards and yards of thin cord in which many knots were tied. The deep gashes and big welts on his head and face left no doubt as to how he had died. Ransacked bureaus and table drawers indicated the motive. The women ran out shrieking for the police.

In a few minutes there was more police activity in the Koloseum Apartments, No. 4 Nussdorferstrasse, than there had been in that old-fashioned tenement since it was built.

A police councillor looked over Winkler's account book, in which the recluse kept track of every penny he had on hand, and found that there should be $2431.33 in Winkler's missing money box. A bank book showed he had $18,000 on deposit.

A police captain learned from Mrs. Petrovits and Mrs. Ott that Winkler was a rare specimen of that group of well-to-do bourgeoisie which had formed the backbone of the old monarchy and which had been dying out rapidly since the war. Shortly before 1914 he had made enough money to sell his drug shop and retire. He had invested his money so cleverly that he had escaped the post-war inflation. He had been wont to boast of his cleverness in money matters.

A police sergeant came in with a report compiled from the reports of his men. It revealed that Winkler was most decidedly not a lovable character. Nobody had a good word for him. He had carried on a one-man feud against practically everyone else in the tenement. There were four suits in which he was suing for defamation of character and three more in which he was the defendant. Judging from his method of expressing disapproval with those he wrangled most bitterly with, it was a wonder he was not sued by a dozen or more persons. He used to affix to his door big scraps of paper on which he scrawled such notices as: "Mrs. X— has the biggest mouth in the city;" "The Man Z— ought to be jailed without a minute's delay."

His wife had divorced him in 1918 on the grounds that he was given to incessant quarreling and was insanely jealous with no reason. He had been ordered to make payments to her, but very often had to be admonished by the court before he would do so. The court also had had to issue an order to make him pay $12 a month to his jobless 20-year-old son, instead of letting the son depend on Government relief.

The police reasoned that the murderer, or murderers, would be among the persons who had close contact with the eccentric recluse. The only persons in this catagory, they decided were the two middle-aged women—Mrs. Ott and Mrs. Petrovits. The latter was the only person in the apartment that ever visited Winkler. The police also thought that the thin cord with its many knots was the work of a woman. Finally, there was the old suspicion that is attached to body finders.

The upshot was that the police arrested the two women and began an unhurried but persistent questioning of both of them. Mrs. Petrovits, a resolute and self-assertive woman, scoffed at the suggestion that she had killed the old bachelor. Mrs. Ott, pliable and timid, did not have much education. She had an inferiority complex. She realised the men who insisted so firmly that she knew the facts in the case were learned men with university degrees and years of experience. Was it not true, the learned men asked, that she often had thought, as she slaved away for the old miser, that it was not right that she should work so hard while he sat on his treasure? Yes. She had dreamed of having that money? Perhaps she had even felt that if he were out of the way she might get some of it? Possibly she had considered how easy it would be to kill him as he snoozed in his easy chair as she scrubbed the hard floor? Didn't she happen to look at the drawer where the money box was hidden and then glance at his nodding head—ah, it was a fact that she had dealt a smashing blow on his head with—where did you hide the weapon?

In brief she made the following confession: The plan to rob and kill Winkler had originated in the aggressive mind of Mrs. Petrovits who was always complaining of her reduced circumstances and fearing that she might have to become a charwoman like Mrs. Ott. So on the afternoon before the body was "found," they had gone to Winkler's rooms. While Mrs. Ott remained in the kitchen, Mrs. Petrovits marched into the studio-bedroom. There was a commotion and then stifled cries. Mrs. Petrovits came out and said she had "left the old miser cold," and that she had his money and jewelry. Whereupon they left. Mrs. Petrovits had promised her a share of the takings "after the storm blew over." Next morning they went to "find" the body and that was that.

And where did that murder weapon go?

Mrs. Ott said it was the little blood-stained hatchet the police had found in her kitchen and which she had maintained was stained with the blood of rabbits they had had for their supper.

This, the police felt, would break down Mrs. Petrovits.

Mrs. Petrovits just scoffed a little louder.

Then the chemist's report on the stained hatchet upset things. The blood really was that of a rabbit as Mrs. Ott had first said. Well, maybe she had washed the hatchet and then used it on the rabbits.

About this time, Sergeant-Detective Adam Wieser, who had served in the Austrian Navy throughout the war, but had nothing like the education of the learned men who led Mrs. Ott to confess, found a clew that seemed most promising to him. He learned that Winkler had been taking much interest in a barber shop manicurist for a full year before his death. She was Josephine Brunner, 18, a comely blond, better known by her nickname, Finni. She worked in the barber shop just across the street from the Koloseum.

Winkler, in a condescending manner that he thought would strike Finni as most courtly, had told her he would be happy to marry her. She refused as diplomatically as she could — for Winkler was the shop's best customer. Winkler, squeezing her hand and leering in an ingratiating way, replied that he understood. She did not care for marriage. She was very wise. They would probably have a better time going to shows and riding in the park if they were not married. Marriage often palled. He knew. He had been married. Finni, in desperation, told her employer. He promptly told Winkler point blank that Finni's virtue was not to be tempted again. Winkler might be an excellent customer, but the innocent daughter of a street car conductor, knowing nothing of the way of the world, must be protected from vultures.

WINKLER took heed for a while and restricted his relations with Finni to business. But once, when Finni had gone up to his apartment in the company of one of the hair cutters, Winkler made a last grand coup. Out of a box he drew a roll of bills, threw them on the table and said: "Well, children, here are $2400. To me, it is just chicken feed and I have it laying 'round the house. Help yourself."

But Finni and her co-worker were too smart to take advantage of this kind offer. Winkler's fickle nature was well-known in the neighborhood: He would brand as thievery tomorrow what he gave as a present today. . . .

Finni's story impressed Wieser.

Had she noticed just where Winkler kept his money hidden?

Indeed she had, Finni admitted. He had jerked it out of a wooden money box which in turn he kept in one of the drawers of his dresser, beneath the linen.

And had she, Wieser further inquired, told anybody about all this?

Yes, she had decided it was nothing to be ashamed of and had even boasted to her family and friends of being courted by a display of $2400.

After this conversation, Wieser concentrated on learning a bit more about Finni. He discovered that Finni could not have participated in the crime. A week prior to the murder, Finni had been stricken with appendicitis. An emergency operation was successfully performed and afterwards, Finni was sent for convalescence to the town of Weissenbach on Triesting (about 40 miles to the Southwest of Vienna) where the State Sick Benefit Fund maintained a sanatorium. (All employes and workers in Austria are obligatory members of the State Sick Benefit Fund). And at Weissenbach she had been for two complete weeks.

But Wieser speedily discovered, that Finni had a rather interesting suitor, one Eduard Illetschko, of No. 18, Wallensteingasse, Vienna. Eduard, 22, had finished a commercial course but had been without steady work for the last four years. Just after the murder he had shown unexpected signs of affluence. That was enough. Wieser arrested him.

AFTER a little questioning, Illetschko admitted he had called on Winkler one morning for a donation to the fund of the Patriotic Front. Winkler told him to come back in the afternoon. When he came, he found the door slightly ajar, and heard two women arguing over the "loot" and how to dispose of a body. Quickly he ran up one floor and peeped over the banister. After a few moments, Mrs. Ott and Mrs. Petrovits left the apartment and he saw the lifeless Winkler. Two $50 bills were on the floor. Illetschko took them and fled.

At first, the police believed in his story, for it explained, at least to some degree, his affluence, and it also strengthened the theory that the two women were the actual killers.

But when confronted by the two women, the young man went to pieces. Mrs. Petrovits went on scoffing and Mrs. Ott retracted every word of her confession, declaring she had been "hypnotized."

Wieser, not discouraged, went to the tenement where Illetschko lived and began a systematic questioning of every tenant. Mrs. Christine Felkel told Wieser that on May 29 (the day after the Winkler murder) she was carrying her wash into the wash kitchen in the cellar. On her way down there, she met Illetschko carrying up a little iron oven which had been in the wash kitchen so that during the winter laundering housewives might keep themselves warm. The next day the oven was back at its usual place. Wieser, almost losing his aplomb, hurried to the cellar and investigated the little oven. And to his excitement, he found two charred buttons and a thimble which was scarcely scorched. The cloth-covered button bore some specks that chemists later found were made by human blood.

Wieser bundled Mrs. Felkel and the oven into a taxi and went straight down to headquarters where he made her recite her story before his superiors. Next day, July 20, Eduard was confronted with the little oven and its contents. He made a new confession.

He, and he alone, had killed Winkler. As he had confessed before, he had gone to see Winkler and had returned in the afternoon. When Winkler turned his back, Illetschko felled him with a hammer he had concealed under his threadbare coat. Then he bound him with the thin cord. Next a gag. He found the money box in the drawer where Winkler had pulled it out in his last effort to tempt the manicurist. Just then, Winkler spat the gag out and began to yell for help. Illetschko hammered him some more and pushed the gag back down his throat so hard that it took Winkler's false teeth with it. Then he ransacked

SKETCHES FROM LIFE

High Lights on Unusual Personalities

ANDRE MALRAUX
CRISANTO EVANGELISTA

Archeologist, Fighter and Historian of Man's Fate

SHOULD Andre Malraux happen to find it possible to avoid being shot down by some Fascist fighting plane or stabbed by the fatal hypodermic needle of an enemy spy, he will doubtless go down in history as the French counterpart of T. E. Lawrence. There are primary differences between the two men; there are also consequential similarities. Both have been adventurers, dangerous fighters, scholars and artists. Both began as keen students of Oriental antiquity and were drawn involuntarily into the perilous hardships of Oriental intrigue and idealistic warfare. Both were given the same hard, self-contained and automatic indifference to glory. Contemptible alike to each were the fawning admiration and the savage insults of the world.

There the parallel breaks down. The British mystic craved privacy with a ferocious insistence. Malraux is a Frenchman, a novelist and a herald of The Word. His equally fervid zeal compels him to transmute private adventures he doesn't care to talk about into vivid, intense and lucid prose. The part of his life that is essential he writes and publishes. He may be indifferent to the quality of the reaction, but he doesn't have Lawrence's total anesthesia to public interest in himself. Malraux wants the world to know the motive of his adventure. He seems to be perfectly sincere in his insistence that the world shall know nothing about him beyond that.

Here in America he flies up and down the country intent on one errand. He came here late in the winter bent on getting money to carry on the Spanish war against Fascism. Previously he had served six months as leader of a squadron of volunteer aviators. He seems not to give a hang for public interest in his exploits.

"Please do not make me out to be a Hollywood star," he pleaded, when his American publishers had finally succeeded in getting him to talk to an interviewer. "What I say and do is not important. Let me tell you about the other flyers. They are all brave men. . . ."

Anyone could have said that. Andre Malraux could say it convincingly because of his record. He has repeatedly tossed his life and all his efforts into the lottery of warfare against Fascism.

It's still too early to write with any assurance of accuracy or comprehensiveness a chronicle of the author's life. Dates, place names and even large chunks of narrative remain secret and in many cases it is not to Malraux's interest to unveil them. Besides, he is only 35 and his admirers confidently believe that his best work is still before him.

This much can, however, be set down. He was born in Paris, November 3, 1901. His father was a member of the civil service. According to some, a large part of his boyhood was spent in French Indo-China. At any rate he seems to have got a knowledge of the Orient fairly early in life and to have acquired a sound classical education. At 20 he was deep in archeology and was in the midst of fairly important excavations in Cambodia, when his career as an archeologist was broken into by a sordid episode.

Apparently he had cultivated a far too democratic attitude towards the native population, had become intimate with various men belonging to the conquered race and had manifested a deep revulsion against the slovenly administrative methods and snobbish social attitudes of the French colonials. In almost any colony in the East this is heresy and the French officials at that time seem to have been particularly sensitive. Malraux was accused of stealing the relics he had official permission to study and collect. Possibly he really did violate official regulations. It seems more likely that he was framed by embarrassed officials anxious to get him out of the country and to make him pay for his impertinence. At any rate he was thrown into jail charged with stealing archeological treasures which were rightfully the property of the State. He was tried briefly and convicted. Only a boy, scarcely over 20, Malraux came very near serving 18 months in a tropical jail. Fortunately his appeal to a higher court took the matter out of the hands of the colonial judiciary. He was sent home, tried again in France and promptly exonerated.

His experiences in Indo-China form the ground work for an essay, "La Tentation de l'Occident," which reached a very small public, and for his first novel, "The Royal Way," which came out 10 years later when his reputation had been established by subsequent work. It wasn't translated into English until 1935. "The Royal Way" is not strictly autobiographical, but archeology, a plot to remove treasures hidden in the jungles of Cambodia and a running fire of protest against administrative methods in the French colonies are the themes of its plot. There is a fairly clear indication that Malraux was influenced by Andre Gide at the time he wrote it.

Malraux's chief interest during this early period was the mysterious impact of Hellenistic culture on the Buddhist civilization of the Far East. Until there is an opportunity to collect more of his work than is now readily available in the United States it will be impossible to estimate his significance in this field. It can be said, however, that subsequently, when he became art editor of the Nouvelle Revue Francaise, he played a crucial part in directing French attention to the artistic phases of this problem which fascinated him as a younger man.

Meanwhile he was to experience considerable hardship and taste repeated failure. Vincent Sheean met Malraux in China during the Communist uprising of 1925. At that time the young Frenchman had become an active member of the Communist Party, which he has since deserted, and had achieved a position of considerable responsibility as press representative of the small junta directing the drive against Chiang Kai-shek's reactionary government.

In the glimpse of him one gets in Sheean's autobiography, "Personal History," it is easy to recognize the lean, rangy, intense young man he is today. Malraux is extremely serious. His features are homely. A long nose droops over a tight compressed pair of lips and his eyes have the intensity of zeal and bitterness. A great shock of pomade-stiffened hair half conceals the broad expanse of his forehead and sweeps back too copiously around the ears. "He wears the injustices of the world like a hair shirt," a reporter for the New York Times recently wrote.

But in addition to his missionary zeal, Malraux has the zest for life and sharp appetite for experience that saves him from being a propagandist. The two books which came out of his Chinese adventure, "The Conquerors" and "Man's Fate," are considered important not so much for the doctrine expounded by their characters as for the dark experiences into which that doctrine led them. The first, published in Paris in 1928, was not particularly successful in France and proved to be an abyssmal failure in England and the United States. The second made its author's career. Despite the desperate atmosphere and bleak overtones of "Man's Fate," there are elements of hope in it, attitudes of belief, faith and devout consecration to human good, which have indicated that Malraux may change the temper of literature for years to come.

"Man's Fate" aroused bitter controversies, but not nearly so many of them as one should expect. On the whole it was accepted with remarkable good will. One or two Parisian reviews were sarcastic. Some took pains to call attention to the similarity of the name Malraux and the adjective "malheureux" (wretched). But on the whole its reception was a spirited ovation. And when it was awarded the Prix Goncourt (French equivalent for the Pulitzer Prize), Malraux's name was permanently established.

Andre Malraux.

In 1934, the year after Malraux had won the Prix Goncourt, he and Captain Corniglion Molinier, borrowed a friend's plane and set off on an expedition into Arabia. They made their last base French Somaliland, in Eastern Africa, and hopped from there across the Straits of Aden, north along the Yemen coast, and then east, through hostile country, to the edge of the great central desert, the Ruba-el-Khali. The following day newspapers throughout the world reprinted the cable Malraux sent to a Paris newspaper: "Have discovered legendary town of Sheba. Twenty towers or temples still standing. On north boundary Ruba-el-Khali. Have taken photographs."

This announcement was one of the most sensational pieces of archeological news ever printed. If true it meant that the city of the Queen of Sheba, a mysterious place bulking large in the legendry of both Africa and Asia, had been discovered. Later Malraux told of the flight in detail, explained that it had been impossible to make any close inspection of the ruined metropolis owing to the hostility of Arab inhabitants, who fired at their plane, and showed photographs which convinced even the most suspicious experts that the discovery was of vital importance. The Malraux-Molinier flight revolutionized the geography of this little known area and indicated beyond the possibility of doubt the presence of important archeological remains. Whether or not the city is really the citadel of the Queen of Sheba remains a moot point. Nobody has got around to checking up. And the flight came very near to proving fatal. The flyers returned to Djibouti, Somaliland, without enough fuel to have negotiated another 10 miles.

After this sudden dive into the unknown, Malraux found little time for archeology. He began to take a leading part in the war against Fascism. He was the head of the French committee which took part in the movement to obtain justice for the accused during the Reichstag fire trial in Germany. He expressed his literary theories at several important conventions and these continued to arouse enthusiastic comments among liberals and critics.

Last year his novel, "Days of Wrath," was translated into English, and from it one gathered that he has spent a considerable part of his time taking part in the underground anti-Nazi movement in Germany, though the actual extent of his participation hasn't been made public. In Paris he became known as an eloquent orator on behalf of persecuted Germans. And when the Spanish rebellion broke out, he was one of the first to lead French sympathy with the Government's cause into action.

ON THE second day after Franco's attempted coup d'etat Malraux spoke before an excited crowd at the Salle Wagram in Paris. He called for volunteers to join him in forming a flight squadron for the protection of Madrid. Dozens of young men with military and flying experience came forward, some from outside France, the majority compatriots. They got together a weird collection of antiquated transport planes, flew across the border and descended on the capital. Malraux was the commander of this outfit. He and his squadron were probably one of the decisive factors in the unexpected successful defense of Madrid.

When he was dispatched to America to solicit funds for the continuation of this defense, he found it necessary to describe the action he had seen. Speaking with obvious reluctance of his own part in the war, he has proved a remarkably successful campaigner. At a meeting in New York, postponed more than a month while the State Department pondered whether or not to permit his entrance, he said:

"I well know that war is violence. I know, too, that a Government bomb might by accident miss its military objective, and fall into a city and wound civilians. What I wish to draw attention to in the most emphatic way is this: We destroyed the airdrome of Seville, but we did not bombard Seville. We destroyed the airdrome of Salamanca, but we did not bombard Salamanca. I destroyed the airdrome of Avila at Olmedo, but I did not bombard Avila. For many months now the Fascists have been bombarding the streets of Madrid."

That is the tenor of Malraux's crusading. If he is allowed to continue it, he may be remembered as one of the most picturesque as well as one of the most forceful visitors since that other French revolutionary, the Marquis de Lafayette.

MAX PUTZEL.

Philippine Labor Leader

Crisanto Evangelista.

WHILE most people know that the Philippine Islands consist of an archipelago situated about 500 miles off the southeast coast of Asia in the Pacific Ocean, of which the principal city is Manila, and while many people have read that the President of the Philippine Commonwealth, Manuel Quezon, has been in the United States on a visit and has announced his intention of taking a trip to Mexico City in the company of his family, Major Nieto, General Basilio Valdez, General Douglas MacArthur, advisory head of the Philippine Army, and General MacArthur's aide, Captain D. J. Davis, they would be hard put to it to answer detailed questions about life and goings-on in the Philippines today.

They may remember from their school days that the Philippine Islands were discovered by Magellan in 1521, that the British entered Manila in 1762, after the bombardment and surrender of the city during the war between Spain and England, and that at the close of that war, in 1764, the Philippines were returned to Spain. They may also recall that the people of the Philippines suffered greatly under the reign of the Spanish Government, that they staged a revolt in 1896, and that as a result of the Spanish-American War, the Philippine Islands became a possession of the United States.

But many Filipinos did not want to belong to the United States either and they carried on their war against the American troops. However, the resistance was finally put down, most of the troops were withdrawn, and William Howard Taft became Governor-General of the islands. A general amnesty was granted to all rebels and political prisoners who would take the oath of allegiance to the United States, and President Theodore Roosevelt signed an act establishing the civil government of the Philippines and providing for a new legislative body.

Since then, there have been many arguments about the status of the islands and many plans have been advanced for the betterment of the conditions of the people. What few people know, however, is that there is in the Philippine Islands a labor leader, who was once a close friend of the present President, Manuel Quezon, but who is today in complete disagreement with him. That man is Crisanto Evangelista, who was only recently, with 200 other political prisoners, released from a long prison sentence.

It was on May 30, 1931, that 319 men were arrested in Manila on the eve of a general election. They were given various terms because of their revolt against conditions in the Philippines; Evangelista himself, charged with sedition, was sent, in December, 1933, to Bilibid prison. Evangelista remained in Bilibid prison for two years; on the day of his release his friends, supporters and sympathizers planned to have a large demonstration at the prison gates to welcome him.

However, Evangelista was smuggled out of the prison, the demonstration was without its hero, and later the demonstrators heard that the man whom they considered their leader had been taken to the Mountain Province to serve a sentence of eight years in "limited exile." By "limited exile" the authorities meant that he must not leave the province, that he was not allowed to write articles for publication, that he could not make speeches in public. His wife and children were not permitted to be with him; he had no means of earning a livelihood. Recently, however, after a great deal of interest in the case of Evangelista and the other prisoners had been created in many parts of the world, and many protests against their imprisonment were registered, they and Evangelista were released.

Today Evangelista is back at his work of organizing labor in his native islands; in spite of his imprisonment, he is as confident as he ever was of the justice of his cause and he is as strong as he ever was in his faith that the workers of his country must be organized in order to win for themselves a free and happy life. While he is now 47 years of age, he looks much younger; although he has seen former friends desert and former supporters jailed, he retains a buoyant, hopeful spirit in his energetic, graceful body.

Though today Manuel Quezon and Crisanto Evangelista are not on what might be called friendly terms, Quezon, according to Evangelista, tried to offer him good jobs in the Philippine Government, asking him if he would like a position in the Government service or in the Government printing office or in the Labor Bureau or even the Senate. These, Evangelista recently said, he consistently turned down, declaring, in answer to Quezon's "Can't I do something for you?" "No, thank you, I prefer my freedom."

Evangelista's life has been a crowded and interesting one. Born of poor peasant parents not far from Manila, raised in the Catholic faith which is prevalent in the islands, Crisanto Evangelista lost his father at an early age. He had an older brother who tried his best to support his mother and the other eight youngsters in the family. When Crisanto was scarcely 7 years old himself, he earned his first money for his little brothers and sisters by selling small bundles of wood and grass at two and a half cents a bundle.

Soon after this, young Evangelista's aunt took him to Manila where he got a job working in a cigarette factory, gumming labels on the cigarettes by hand, at a very low wage. That was the time of the revolution, when the native Filipinos organized a revolt against the Spanish civil guard. Four of the native chiefs were taken prisoner and executed in Manila. Manila and five provinces were officially proclaimed in a state of siege.

Along with many other Filipinos, the family of Crisanto Evangelista fled for safety to the neighboring mountains and stayed there in hiding, with insufficient food and clothing for many long, hard weks. When the Americans came, and peace was

MAMMOTH PROJECT for PROTECTING the OHIO VALLEY for ALL TIME

How the Government Will Spend $800,000,000 for Walls and Reservoirs.

Mohicanville Dam on the Muskingum River.

By ELLWOOD DOUGLASS
Of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

THE Corps of Engineers has just put the finishing touches to a staggering project for the control of floods in the Ohio Valley. It contemplates protection of 102 communities below Pittsburgh with levees or river walls. It plans safeguard of the Upper Ohio and tributaries by 88 reservoirs controlling a drainage area of 110,174 square miles, 54 per cent of the entire Ohio Basin, and impounding enough water to cover the whole State of New York to a depth of one foot.

Levees and walls would cost nearly $200,000,000, reservoirs more than $600,000,000, a total of $800,000,000.

As against that, 21 floods in the 60 years up to 1933 cost an average approximating $4,500,000 a year. The Upper Ohio flood of 1936 wiped out property worth $200,000,000. The 1937 flood, most disastrous in American history, cost $500,000,000, drove hundreds of thousands of persons from their homes, threw 1,000,000 on the care of relief agencies and took several hundred lives.

For 150 per cent of the losses in money alone in two disastrous weeks of January, then, as Major-General E. M. Markham, Chief of Engineers, told the Mississippi Valley Association in St. Louis, "we can protect the Ohio Valley, roughly, for all time."

On the great Lower Mississippi itself, less than $500,000,000 has been spent so far in flood control, and the anticipated total, on the completion of the eight-year "Markham plan" adopted last year to make the Father of Waters likewise safe for all time, will be less than the estimated cost for the Ohio by fully $100,000,000.

The reason is the inordinate cost of reservoirs, which the Army Engineers have repeatedly, in exhaustive studies, found unjustifiable for application to Mississippi floods. That would require more than 150 reservoirs and cost nearly a billion and a quarter, an excess, over all the capitalized benefits on the tributaries, of $72 for every acre of benefited land in the alluvial valley. The engineers have simply outlined the system as something to work toward as tributary needs justify it bit by bit.

Until last January, no such need had been felt on the Ohio. Only a 14-reservoir system — for that matter, only two of the levee projects, at Lawrenceville, Indiana, and Pittsburgh—were considered economically feasible, and only a 39-reservoir system and 47 levee projects were appraised as justifiable in the approximate future. But the January flood changed the figures—in damages, flood heights and the magnitude of works necessary for adequate protection—and most radically, and nationally, it changed viewpoints.

Tygart reservoir, on the headwaters of the Monongahela above Pittsburgh, will be ready for operation in October. Three of 14 dams in the Zanesville (Ohio) district on the Muskingum are ready now and all are to be completed this year. Local plans for protection of communications and essential utilities have been announced at Cincinnati, Louisville, Evansville and other river cities. And General Markham announces that, given authorization by Congress, he can have $100,000,000 worth of meticulously hammered-out projects under contract in the next few months.

Along with a major impetus for the reservoir work already getting under way, that would enable the first step, and a long step, toward completion of the levee system. The levees will serve a double purpose. They will be the ultimate reliance of communities in the lower reaches, where the effect of head water reservoirs trickles off toward the vanishing point. More immediately, they will provide emergency protection for cities and towns upstream as far as Pittsburgh.

The reservoirs are a long-time project, while the levees can be completed as rapidly as the municipalities and the Army Engineers get together on the details of type and location. The engineers have their plans ready, have had for several years, and now have revised them to meet the radical increase in estimated flood heights by the experience of 1937. They have paid particular attention to avoiding constriction of the flood plains, commonly cited as a dangerous factor in raising Mississippi flood heights. They have limited levee protection on the Ohio to urban communities, leaving the river room to overflow areas where the damage is negligible, and they say their Ohio levees will be no such factor.

THEY have figured precisely what is required to keep the cities safe, but within their specifications they have left a great deal of latitude for the cities themselves to choose the exact type of construction which fits not only the convenience, but also the civic esthetic sense of their citizens. In busy, congested districts concrete walls may afford protection and yet be out of the way and out of sight, whereas in some more open areas, as at Louisville, for example, a wide earthen levee, with an easy, spacious landward slope would afford opportunity for a scenic riverside boulevard.

In every case, as Division Engineer R. G. Powell emphasizes, the plan ultimately chosen would be the outcome of agreement with the people of the locality concerned, and the Federal authority would stretch every point except security in attempting to meet their wishes.

Levees will not turn the whole trick alone, not, to cite one factor, on a river where the range between high water and low exceeds 70 feet. Reservoirs also are essential. Reducing in some degree all the way down to Cairo the flood heights against which levees must protect, they are of particular value in the mountainous tributaries, where local floods are literally dumped down the slopes with a calamitous suddenness best described as doctors classify the abrupt course of a disease, "fulminative."

Knit together in a comprehensive system, they may give full protection against general floods on the tributaries and for many miles below. But the main Ohio is 981 miles long, and reservoirs on the headwaters would have little more practical effect on floods in the Lower Ohio than the levees down there could have on floods in the tributaries. Reservoirs hardly less than levees, as Colonel Powell explains, are primarily effective in the areas where they are constructed.

The nucleus of the comprehensive system has already been authorized by Congress. It comprises nine dams above Pittsburgh and five below, three on tributaries of the Kanawha, which enters the Ohio at Parkersburg, and two on the Licking, which enters opposite Cincinnati. An item toward the ultimate system is Norris Dam, built by Tennessee Valley Authority, as well as the Tygart reservoir and the Muskingum group under construction.

Colonel Powell estimates that the Tygart, Muskingum and 14 authorized reservoirs would reduce a flood equal to that of 1913—the record over most of the Ohio until this year—by 7.5 feet at Pittsburgh and Wheeling, 6 feet at Parkersburg, 3 feet at Cincinnati and 1.6 feet at Louisville, grading down to six inches at Cairo. The cost as figured on an annual basis left a $500,000 yearly "profit" from annual benefits as appraised in 1935. The valuation would be enormously enhanced now, when the disasters of 1936 and 1937 have demonstrated protection values sufficient to transfer an $800,000,000 project from the red ink side of the ledger to a plan for immediate action.

The second step in the comprehensive program, as indicated in published studies of the Army Engineers, would comprise the essentials of a "39-reservoir" plan on tributaries above Cincinnati, providing about 70 per cent protection, supplemented chiefly below Louisville by levees and sea walls. Earlier plans contemplating levees at 47 communities in this combination have been revised to meet the generally three feet higher maximum flood estimates indicated by the 1937 record-breaker, and to fit in with a construction program in which they serve an emergency function pending completion of the long-time project.

On its completion, the 88 reservoirs, as estimated by General Markham, will reduce floods like that of 1937 by 10 feet at Pittsburgh and nearly as much at Cincinnati, diminishing to 3 feet at Evansville, 2 feet 5 inches at Paducah and 2 feet at Cairo.

The continued need of direct protection—levees—is obvious on comparison of those figures with records of the flood that covered house tops in January throughout the length of the Ohio.

In themselves the comprehensive plan for the Ohio, these reservoirs would comprise the first step and approximate first half of the comprehensive reservoir plan for flood control on the Lower Mississippi. This billion-dollar project, worked out by the engineers as a guide for years in the future, would include 25 reservoirs on other tributaries above Cairo. Operated principally for tributary protection, with incidental benefits for the Mississippi, as conceived by the engineers, the entire system would reduce "super flood" crests on the Cairo gauge by 4 to 7 feet; but not enough in itself to obviate use of the Missouri floodway there or the Eudora floodway below Arkansas City. The 88 Ohio reservoirs alone, operated primarily for Mississippi flood control at some cost in Ohio Valley protection, could hold out of the river at Cairo in some floods an estimated half of the flow taken out by the Missouri floodway and accomplish an estimated equal reduction on the Cairo gauge.

OBVIOUSLY, then, the reservoirs are not a substitute, but a supplement for other means toward comprehensive protection. They afford full safeguard for the territory immediately below them. Kept away until the flood comes and operated on a complex schedule for the greatest combined efficiency, they trap a portion of the flood wave at its start, acting as a preventive, and reduce the hazards along all the Lower river in diminishing but measureable degree.

The preventive fails in the lower reaches, and here the engineers must provide a cure. For the Ohio, it is the system of levees and sea walls. For the Mississippi, it is a complicated but closely dovetailed scheme of treatment: Levees to protect areas which must be protected, channel improvement and straightening to carry of greater floods between the levees, and floodways to give the Father of Waters elbow room through less developed areas in floods which the levees cannot hold.

The combination when complete, preventive and treatment, says General Markham, will mean approximately 100 per cent cure. But not if the people on the banks, as they have in the past, take increased protection as an invitation to greater encroachment on the flood plain. There is only one 100 per cent preventive of damage by flood, and it is repeated over and over again in the engineers' studies of the Ohio:

"IT IS believed that at many places security from floods could best be obtained by the evacuation of the flood plain by those developments which are seriously damaged and which subject people to the many hazards of floods. . . . The cities would be more healthful and greatly improved in appearance. The river frontage would be open for use by developments . . . pertaining peculiarly to the river and for recreational purposes instead of being unsightly and congested as is often the case at present. . . .

"The freedom from flood hazards and damages would be absolutely dependable."

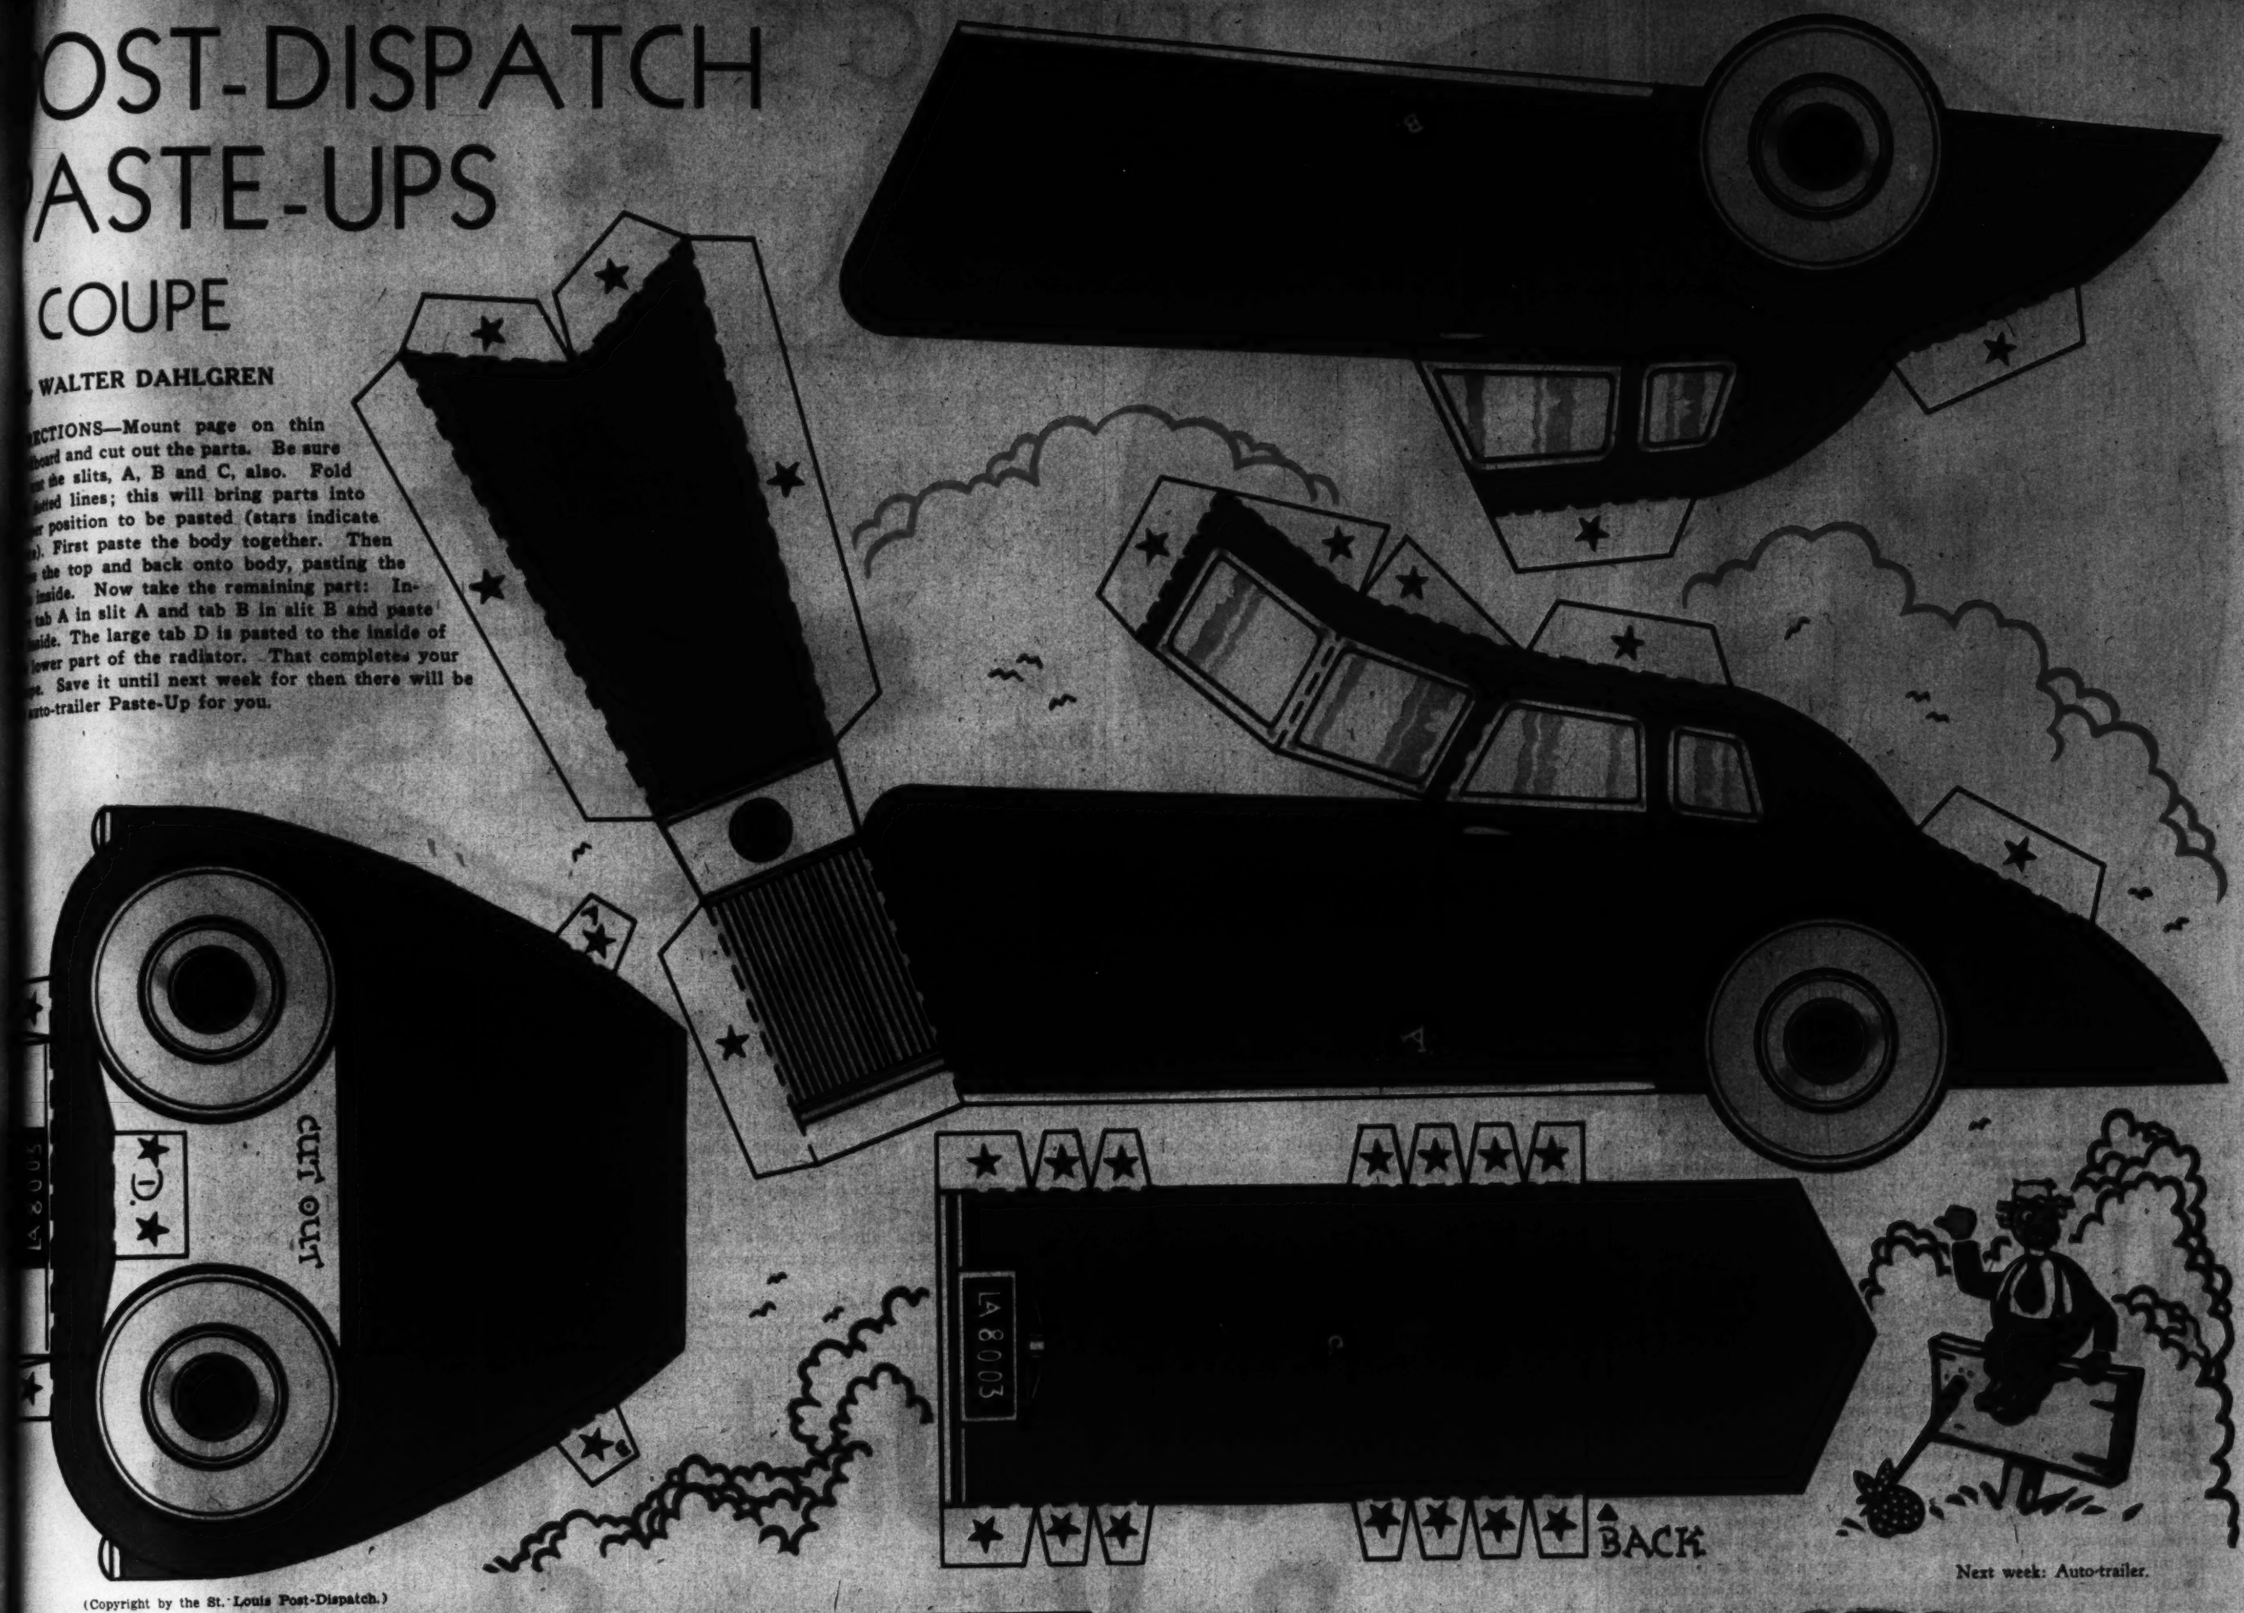
POST-DISPATCH PASTE-UPS

COUPE

By WALTER DAHLGREN

DIRECTIONS—Mount page on thin cardboard and cut out the parts. Be sure to cut the slits, A, B and C, also. Fold on dotted lines; this will bring parts into proper position to be pasted (stars indicate where). First paste the body together. Then paste the top and back onto body, pasting the tabs inside. Now take the remaining part: Insert tab A in slit A and tab B in slit B and paste inside. The large tab D is pasted to the inside of the lower part of the radiator. That completes your coupe. Save it until next week for then there will be an auto-trailer Paste-Up for you.



Next week: Auto-trailer.

HICKORY HOLLOW FOLKS

And the Things They Do

By WALTER QUERMANN

AN UNPLEASANT SURPRISE

THE CHARACTERS

HIPPERTY HOP—An unhappy little frog.
WILLIE WEB-FOOT—An equally unhappy duck.
TEMPEST—The monster who causes the storms at sea.

Poor Hipperty Hop and Willie Web-Foot are hopelessly out of place. Living on the bottom of the ocean was never meant for frogs and ducks. These two Hickory Hollowites have been there ever since that thoughtless old turtle, Commodore Shell-Back, found them on the beach, changed them into salt water breathers and brought them down into Neptune's kingdom. How strange everything is to them, and how they wish they were back in dear old Hickory Hollow. With that wish foremost in their minds, they are constantly looking for some way to get out of the ocean and back home. Just a little while ago they saw King Neptune force a monster, whom he called Tempest, through a heavy door, which the King bolted. As soon as Neptune left they went over to look at this door. We see them standing before it talking as

THE PLAY BEGINS

HIPPERTY HOP—King Neptune certainly didn't like that fellow Tempest.

WILLIE WEB-FOOT—I know. He said Tempest caused a storm on the ocean that sank a ship.

HIPPERTY HOP—I wonder why he put him in here? It doesn't look very much like a jail.

WILLIE WEB-FOOT—No, there aren't any bars on the door. And if Tempest was in there you'd think he'd be making some noise.

HIPPERTY HOP—That's right. You know, I'll bet Neptune made Tempest get out of his ocean—and this door takes you into a tunnel that leads up to the beach.

WILLIE WEB-FOOT—Gosh! Do you really think it does?

HIPPERTY HOP—I'm going to open the door just a little bit and peek inside. (They hold their breath while Hipperty tiptoes up to the door, takes hold of the bolt, and noiselessly slides it back. Suddenly the door flies open, knocking the surprised frog and duck back—and Tempest stands in the doorway, glaring at them. Hipperty and Willie scramble to their feet and run away as fast as they can and Tempest comes chasing after them.)

WILLIE WEB-FOOT—Puff! Puff! What will we do?

HIPPERTY HOP—Let's find King Neptune. Puff! Puff! Help! Help! King Neptune! Help!!! (The fish scatter to keep out of the way of one of the queerest races ever seen on the bottom of the ocean.)

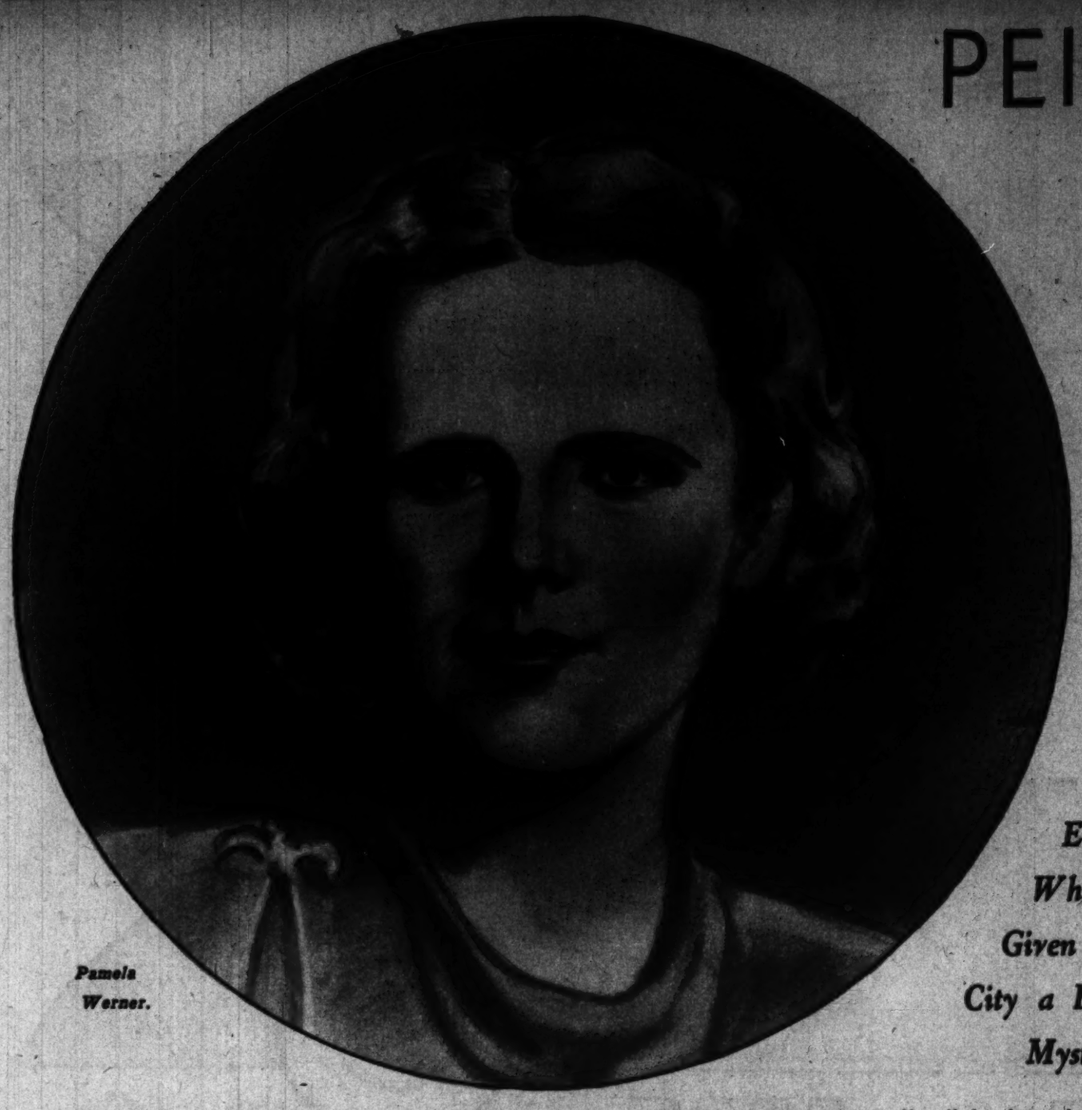
PEIPING'S 'PERFECT CRIME'



Pamela Werner.

The Murder of the English Girl Which Has Given a Chinese City a Baffling Mystery.

"What he saw in the ditch caused him to pick up his cage and run."

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

PEIPING, China.

WHEN the clock struck 11, E. T. C. Werner, British Consul from 1884 to 1914 in a dozen Chinese cities, took off his slippers, put on his boots and arose with an alacrity that was unusual for his 72 years. His adopted daughter, 17-year-old Pamela Werner, had told him at 4 o'clock that she was going skating and would be back for dinner at 7:30. She had not returned, although she was habitually punctual.

Unable to recall the name of the girl who was Pamela's skating companion, Werner decided there was nothing to do but walk along the Great Tatar City Wall road to French pond, less than a quarter-mile away, and see if there were any skaters whom he could question. He disliked the idea of telling the police he was worried; she might have suddenly decided to spend the night with her chum. Still she would not have been so thoughtless in regard to her foster-father, he felt.

She was very fond of Werner and the bond between them had grown stronger than ever since the death of Mrs. Werner years ago. She took an interest in his studies and the many books he had written on the history, sociology and mythology of the country. Tall, golden-haired, and decidely good looking, she always made a striking figure as she walked along with Werner.

As Werner bucked the cold north wind, he recalled that Pamela had seemed rather melancholy the past few days. On other brief vacations from the English boarding school in Tientsin, she had been her usual gay self. He always had wanted her to make more friends, but she was rather reserved despite her cheery disposition.

His reflections were interrupted as he stumbled over a rough place in the road, the moon having gone under the clouds. The Tatar Wall, five-century-old bulwark from which the road got its name, loomed menacingly it seemed to him. The darkness seemed even blacker as he came to the old garden that long had been the cemetery of the German community. Many years ago a German had committed suicide there and, according to native superstition, his ghost lurked about the cemetery ready to reach out its long arms and throttle the life from anyone who came near. Consequently, no native went near the place after nightfall.

A few minutes more and Werner was at the pond. There was no one there; neither were there any holes in the ice. There was nothing to do, Werner reasoned, but come to the logical conclusion that Pamela had gone home with her companion or one of the other girl skaters she met there, and had neglected to notify him.

As he trudged homeward, Werner heard a dog howling inside the German cemetery. That was enough to keep any native away, whether he knew of the legend or not, Werner thought.

The next morning, right after sunup, a fat little gentleman carrying a bird cage went mincing down the Tatar Wall road. Like many of the older generation, he had the habit of taking his favorite song birds for a morning airing. He walked along the ditch that paralleled the rough tracks for native carts. In that way one avoided the rickshaws, automobiles and bicycles that went whizzing by on the main dirt road a few feet away, disturbing one's contemplations. The birds could sing in peace on the path by the ditch.

Suddenly the birds stopped their singing. Their owner looked about to see what was disturbing them. What he saw in the ditch caused him to pick up his cage and run shouting to the main road. A few minutes later the old man had police at the spot. While they were still there, Werner arrived. He saw the body of the girl. It was so mutilated that recognition was almost impossible. Werner fainted.

He was put in an automobile and taken home. When he recovered consciousness he expressed the fear that the body was that of Pamela. Her bicycle and skates, however, were missing. A servant was sent to make the identification. He reported the blond hair left no doubt it was his master's daughter.

A short distance from the nearly nude body were her shoes, in one of which the girl's handkerchief and a comb were tucked. Robbery apparently was not the motive, for her gold watch was still secure on her wrist.

Police soon found that she had no enemies and no young men friends, except for a youth in Tientsin who could not have been in Peiping at the time of the murder. Tracing her movements, they found that her skating companion, Ethel Guravitch, 16, a Russian had invited her to tea and skating the day before.

The trip to the meeting place near the French Legation should not have taken her more than 15 minutes by bicycle, but she had arrived at 5 o'clock instead of 4, Miss Guravitch said. She added that Miss Werner explained that she had arrived early and had taken a little ride, staying away longer than she intended.

What happened during that hour, police concluded, is the key to the murder.

The two girls went to Miss Guravitch's house for tea. Miss Werner ate and drank little, saying she had no appetite. After discussing their old school days in Peiping, the girls bicycled to the French pond to skate. There they met a third girl, also an old school friend, and the three skated together in the crowd. Shortly before 7:30, Miss Werner said that although she was enjoying herself she must return home.

In the skaters' shed she took off her skates, put on ordinary shoes, slung the skates, attached to boots, over her shoulder and got on her bicycle. As she passed near the pond, her two friends called to her and asked if she was not afraid to go down the Tatar Wall road in the dark by herself.

"No, I'm not afraid," she replied. "What could happen to me in Peiping? Good-by."

Those were her last recorded remarks. Mystery veils the 12 hours between the time she wheeled off and the time the old man with the birds found the body. The bicycle and the boots with skates attached have never been found.

The autopsy showed she was killed by repeated blows on the head.

Police believed she was slain in a house and her body taken by automobile and thrown on the Tatar Wall road near the "haunted cemetery" in order to make it appear that she was murdered by some wanderer who seized her as she rode her bicycle. Superstitious natives say the "ghost" grabbed her. Others, pointing out that the heart was missing from the body, say she was the victim of a group of foreigners alleged to be students of the "Black Mass." Nearly everyone agrees with the police that the nature of the mutilations was "most unChinese."

The crime, which occurred in January, is referred to around Peiping as the "perfect murder."

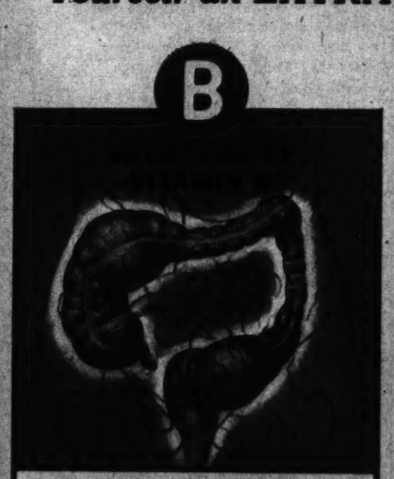
Health Is Undermined By Vitamin Shortage

Many People Don't Know Whether They Are Getting All the Vitamins They Need in Their Regular Meals—Until Bad Health Shows It. But—by Adding ONE FOOD to Your Diet EACH DAY, You Can Assure Yourself an EXTRA SUPPLY of These 4 Vitamins



WEAK intestines, distended bowels (as in picture above) and sagging stomach can result from a diet too low in Vitamin B—the NERVE VITAMIN.

NORMAL, healthy intestines and bowels (see above picture), steady nerves and a good digestion require an ample supply of this NERVE VITAMIN. Fleischmann's fresh Yeast helps to keep up your supply of Vitamin B. It is one of the richest known natural food sources of this vitamin.

TOO LITTLE VITAMIN G MEANS POOR GROWTH

Underweight, thin, sickly children are often found to be poorly supplied with Vitamin G—the important GROWTH VITAMIN. To aid proper development of the body tissues, rapidly growing boys and girls need a generous supply of this essential vitamin. Fleischmann's Yeast is rich in Vitamin G. Children from 5 to 12 years can be given 1 to 2 cakes each day.

DEFICIENT IN VITAMIN A

IF YOU CATCH COLD EASILY and your general resistance is low, you may be poorly supplied with Vitamin A. A lack of this vitamin can weaken linings of nose and throat, making you more susceptible to colds. Recent tests indicate a large percentage of people in this country do not get enough Vitamin A. Let Fleischmann's fresh Yeast give you an added daily supply of this necessary vitamin.

TOO LITTLE VITAMIN D

SOFT, poorly formed teeth (see plaster cast above) can follow too little Vitamin D—the important BONE VITAMIN.

AMPLE VITAMIN D

STRONG, attractive teeth (see above picture) require plenty of Vitamin D. Fleischmann's Yeast is rich in Vitamin D.

NO ONE can keep strong and healthy without a good daily supply of vitamins A, B, D and G. FLEISCHMANN'S fresh YEAST is rich in these 4 vitamins.

Nutrition experts say that the average daily meals of many people may fail to provide enough of these vitamins to keep health up to par.

The addition of this one food to your regular diet assures you of a special EXTRA supply of these 4 essential vitamins combined.

Fleischmann's Yeast is the only natural food that provides you with such a rich supply of all 4 of these vitamins at once.

Start today to keep yourself better supplied with these health-building vitamins. Eat 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast daily — one cake about ½ hour before meals — plain, or in a little water. Order two or three days' supply from your grocer. Fleischmann's Yeast keeps perfectly in the icebox.

THE STEEL-LIKE STRENGTH, energy and stamina of Lester Stoefen, famous six-foot California Tennis Star—show he has been well supplied with all 4 of these necessary, health-building vitamins—A, B, D and G.

TEACHING the MODERN CHILD 'PHRASE READING'

their facts inspirationally, carry the essence of Pitkin's wisdom in two per cent of his space. They say that books and pages are divided into natural units of thought. If one has a clear idea of what the biggest unit of thought is likely to mean, one can cover it at far greater speed. One should look ahead, glance through chapter headings, intercept the author who is writing on a familiar subject. Look for the whole thought, see how it is subdivided and finally force the eye to cover as large a unit as possible at a glance.

THEY suggest various measures which can help overcome poor comprehension in reading. They list as chief causes of poor comprehension: Incorrect eye movements, the habit of reading "with the lips," defects of vision or lighting, inadequate vocabulary and failure to acquire the whole concept for which a word stands, the habit of puzzling over unfamiliar words or looking them up at once when they are non-essential to the whole meaning, defective background in a specific subject, failure to think ahead and form a conception of the whole subject under discussion, the presence of irrelevant sounds, of cluttered surroundings and above all the lurking irrelevant ideas which invade the attention of most readers who have other business to do and can't smother.

Suggested cures are: Assimilate the idea of phrase reading and keep it in mind a certain length of time each day until it becomes habitual. Visit an ophthalmologist regularly to have vision checked. Become familiar with correct lighting methods. List unfamiliar or imperfectly comprehended words as they appear, but don't look them up until later unless they are essential to the meaning of an essential sentence. Take extra time out to learn the fundamentals, the background, of a technical subject and learn its special vocabulary before dipping into advanced discussions of the subject. Make it a practice to keep ahead of the author and to block in the whole theme of his work whenever possible; naturally this doesn't apply to novel reading. Try to keep track of the number of fixations made while the eyes cross a line of type. One should require no more than three stops to cross a line of light reading, four for textbook reading, six for difficult technical reading. Making unnecessary fixations doesn't help one to retain or understand. It breaks an idea into little pieces harder to assimilate than whole ideas.

One should also note the number of times it is necessary to go back and reread a phrase. This fault is an almost inevitable relic of the old-fashioned teaching methods and must be consciously dealt with to be overcome. Moving the lips, the tongue or the muscles of the throat while reading is distracting and complicates the mechanics of assimilating ideas, thus slowing down the reader considerably.

To count the number of fixations per line one must have an assistant. By placing a mirror on one page of a book while reading the opposite page, the eyes are made visible to an observer, who can count them after a little practice. To get a correct count, at least two pages must be read.

IT IS suggested that irrelevant ideas can frequently be cut down or eliminated by keeping a pencil and pad on hand. When fleeting worries, memories of forgotten chores and conscientious recollections of future duties interrupt the train of thought, it's just as well to jot them down. Sometimes the shortness of such a list is sufficiently reassuring so that the annoying idea is downed. On the other hand, maybe it would be a good idea to stop reading. . . .

Experts on the subject finally fall back on the admission that practice is the most necessary element in learning to read fast and well. It may take six months to break an old habit and substitute a new one. Most readers are never likely to put up with this. Hence the importance of the new teaching methods. Their bottom objective is to inculcate the simple habit of reading as fast, as efficiently and as absorbantly as the specific subject matter permits. Out here they call it "stream line reading."

PHILLIPPINE LABOR LEADER

restored, the Evangelistas and many others returned to Manila.

It was then that young Crisanto found he had the chance to go to school. He entered the first grade, but he was unable to continue for any length of time because he had to try to make money to help support his poverty-stricken family. All in all, he succeeded in getting about four years of school, with a number of interruptions. However, he did succeed in learning to speak good English and in mastering the printing trade. By 1906, at the age of 16, Evangelista passed the examination for junior craftsman and secured a job in the Government printing office in Manila. In that office he met Americans from whom he heard about trade unions.

"I became active in our organization of printers," explained Evangelista recently. "I began to realize the importance of trade unions for workers. I found out the kind of demands which the Americans asked from their employers and I urged our own groups to take similar lines of action, instead of being organized, as they were in 1911 only on a relief society basis. Our groups then began to agitate for higher wages, for better working conditions, for the control of apprentices, for an eight-hour day and for extra pay for overtime work. I did not stop at explaining the importance of unionization only for printers; I helped to organize other workers, too, the cigar makers, the carpenters and others. I felt that they should all take action similar to ours and I urged them to do so."

The name of Evangelista became known throughout the islands. He became a prominent worker in the Nationalista party and he became increasingly popular as a labor leader. He was greatly in demand as a public speaker; whenever he spoke he tried to convince the workers that they must keep out of political factions and intrigues and place emphasis on the bettering of working conditions. "Give all your efforts to your economic situation," was the kernel of his advice. "That is the most important thing for us to think of and remember always."

IN 1920 Evangelista was elected president of the Philippine Labor Congress. At that time he believed that the workers, through fighting for better pay and improved working conditions, could abolish poverty and have a happy world.

In 1920, the United States sent a committee to sound out sentiment of the Filipinos on independence. Immediately, according to Evangelista, the American daily newspapers of Manila started a campaign against the independence movement. Evangelista decided that this was a misrepresentation of the true facts and told the printers in his union that the newspapers were betraying the people by writing about them as though they were unable to accept the responsibilities of political freedom. As a result the union printers declared a strike and the American newspapers had to suspend publication for a week.

"The demonstration gave me a new light, too," Evangelista explained. "I began to see for the first time that organized labor may be used successfully to defend the ideals of a nation besides helping the condition of the workers. My trip to America in 1919 had also helped to give me this new light. I went to America as a member of the first Philippine Committee on Independence as a representative of the Philippine Labor Congress and the Philippine Labor Federation. In America, however, I visited the slums and the workers' quarters in many large cities and there I saw poor people sleeping in the parks, cold and hungry and homeless. That made me wonder whether labor unions alone could settle everything.

Evangelista continued to work and organize men into labor unions. In 1927 he went to Canton to the Pan Pacific Trades Union Conference. The conference directed that Evangelista go to the International Labor Union Congress in Moscow.

EVANGELISTA went to Moscow; he spent three months there and on his return he arranged several meetings of the Philippine Labor Congress and other trade union organizations and told them about the proceedings.

Since that time, Evangelista says that he believes that there is something fundamentally wrong with the capitalist form of government. He keeps on working among workers, urging them to unionize and to realize that they can better their own conditions.

Now that he is freed from imprisonment, he will return to his chosen task of teaching the workers of the Philippines that if they want freedom and bread they must learn to demand it and to fight for it through organization.

VIENNA'S MURDER MYSTERY

the place until he found another wooden box that held valuable jewels. Altogether, he left $2400 and several hundred dollars worth of jewelry.

He became frightened as soon as he got home, put all his loot except $100 in an old money bag, and buried it in the muddy bank of the Danube canal near his house.

At the time when Eduard Illetschko was arrested, his mother tried to commit suicide by inhaling gas. Now the police found out the reason. She had known about the murder and her son's blood money, since Eduard had told her two days after the killing.

So she and Karl, a younger brother, who also had known, were arrested and questioned, but later released pending the trial.

Also freed were, of course, Mrs. Ott and Mrs. Petrovits. They were released in August when the police were quite sure that they had not received another fake confession. Thus far Mrs. Ott has received an idemnification of $2500. She has filed suit against the State to get at least $1000 more. The resolute Mrs. Petrovits has collected $400, but is now suing for $5000.

Eduard Illetschko, together with his brother and mother went on trial in January. In the beginning of the trial, Eduard testified that it was Finni Brunner who had told him of Winkler's affluence and the hiding place of the money, and also had insisted that he "hit Winkler over the head, grab his money and run."

On the second day of the trial, however, when confronted by Finni, he admitted that she was in no way involved in the crime.

On the third day he was found guilty of first degree murder and sentenced to hang. But due to the straitened circumstances under which he lived and which kindled in him the idea to rob and kill, as well as due to his youth, it seemed that he might get further consideration.

Even the somber hangman of Vienna, Herr Karl Lang, telephoned Eduard's lawyer that he would sign a petition for clemency. And that is how the matter stands. Soon, the petition for clemency made by Eduard's counsel will come up in the Austrian Supreme Court. It is expected sentence will be changed to life imprisonment.

Miss Alice R. Thompson at the projection machine.

CAMERA WOMAN of the OPERATING ROOM

How a Rose Garden Started an Atlanta Nurse on a Different Type of Movie Photography.

Miss Thompson photographing an operation.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

ATLANTA Georgia. ED roses stirred by a summer breeze have inspired a strange avocation. For now Miss Alice R. Thompson, superintendent of nurses at Crawford W. Long Hospital here, makes movies that will never be shown in any theater. They deal with men in white, gleaming knives and destructive agents of disease. Miss Thompson makes movies of operations. Upon an elevated platform near the operating table she stands with a small camera and takes pictures of surgeons at work.

The summer garden that turned Miss Thompson into a movie camera woman of the operating room isn't her garden. She didn't even photograph it. A surgeon who loves roses is the owner of the garden and makes it his hobby. Working among flowers is his means of relaxation from his nerve-testing duties.

But he also began to tinker with photography, for he wished to imprison the beauty of the garden in a medium that would endure and not vanish with the summer. One June afternoon as a breeze ruffled the roses he made a short movie that caught the exact mood of the garden, and later as he watched the picture run off, scientist triumphed over esthete.

The little movie told the whole story. Everything was there, in exact emphasis. Why not pictures of operations that would reveal technique as this movie revealed beauty?

The surgeon spoke of his idea next morning to Miss Thompson as they worked together on a surgical case. The superintendent of nurses had done nothing more in the way of photography than take snaps with a camera. But the thought of pictures that told the whole story of the operating room appealed to her.

She began to experiment with outdoor movies. And in a short while she made her first pictures of an operation. Like the movie of the summer garden, they had a completeness of effect. And in addition they abounded in detail that made them a new type of text book on surgical technique.

A layman, looking at this strange movie, would likely find it a bit gruesome, but at the same time absorbingly interesting. And also he might gain a feeling of assurance at what goes on in operating rooms. For the pictures are visual proof of surgical skill.

More important, Miss Thompson's first movie contained close-ups showing exact technique used in meeting various surgical problems—"shots" that would prove valuable to other surgeons and source material to surgical students.

Since that beginning Miss Thompson has made many pictures, notably four surgical movies. One of these shows the removal of a tumor; another, the collapsing of a lung; the third, the excision of a cancerous section of the intestines; and fourth, a gastro-enterostomy, which is another way of saying that the surgeons made a new connection between the stomach and the intestines.

Miss Thompson stands on a portable platform beside the operating table. The platform is about 20 inches high, which lifts her and the camera well above the table and permits her, when desirable, to point the camera downward and make a shot straight into the incision.

"The pictures I make are ordered by the surgeons performing the operations," says Miss Thompson, "and they are needed for several reasons. Some of the surgeons teach at medical schools and they want the pictures to use in illustrating their lectures. But I think that most of all, the surgeons want the opportunity to watch their hands. While performing an operation they have no time for anything of the sort. They are too busy with their job. But when it is over, they would like to go back and see how their hands worked—what their technique was.

Miss Thompson led the reporter into her office at the hospital and walked to her little projection machine. An instant later doctors and nurses in white, their faces covered with masks, rubber gloves on their hands, came to life on the screen.

The precision of these surgeons' hands was the thing most evident even to the untrained eye. In spite of the rubber gloves, their fingers moved with speed and skill. It was as though every detail of the operation—the removal of an abdominal tumor in this instance — had been rehearsed.

The operation required an hour and a half. But much less time was taken in showing the picture, for it retained only the essentials, and yet it seems complete—a dramatic and truthful episode in the life of the hospital.

"A professional photographer probably could make clearer pictures than I do," said Miss Thompson. "But I have one important advantage. I know which scenes are important and I know how to keep out of the doctor's way.

"At that, I have run into quite a few difficulties in making pictures of operations. The most disconcerting thing is to have a doctor step right in front of the camera, the result being that you get a fine picture of his back instead of what's taking place on the operating table. It seems to me that this always has to happen at the most important moment. Perhaps the surgeon is so intent that he forgets about the camera, or it may be necessary for him to move to that position. The paramount thing, of course, is the operation, not the picture. But unfortunately, from the photographer's standpoint, we can't go back for retakes."

The platform on which Miss Thompson stands is equipped with a railing against which she can lean for steadiness. And over the operating table is a lighting arrangement unusual for an operating room. The shadowless spotlight there was insufficient for photographic purposes, so brackets were attached to hold four photographic flood lamps.

"An exposure meter measures the light for me," says Miss Thompson. "But there is another detail that gives me trouble. Sometimes I get so interested I forget to change the focus of the lens as I move the camera for a close-up. That is my biggest fault."

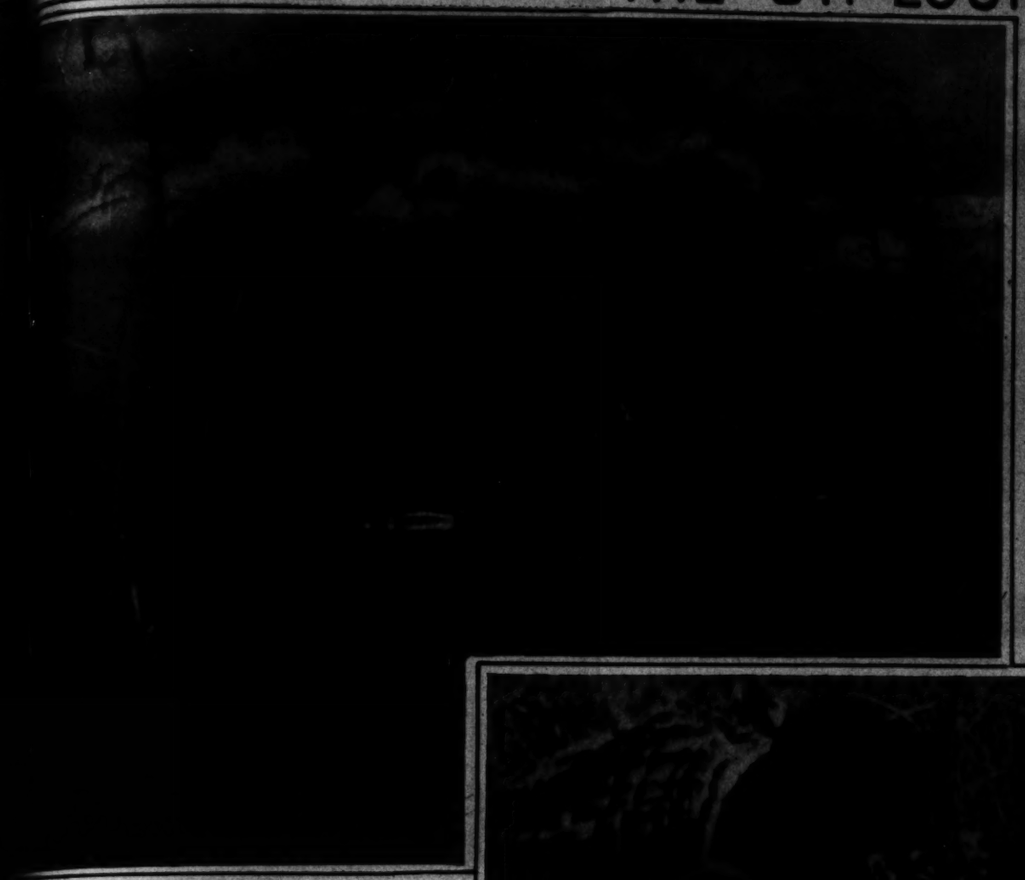
HOW THE SEMINOLE INDIANS CATCH ALLIGATORS

Trapping of Two of the Reptiles in a Florida Swamp

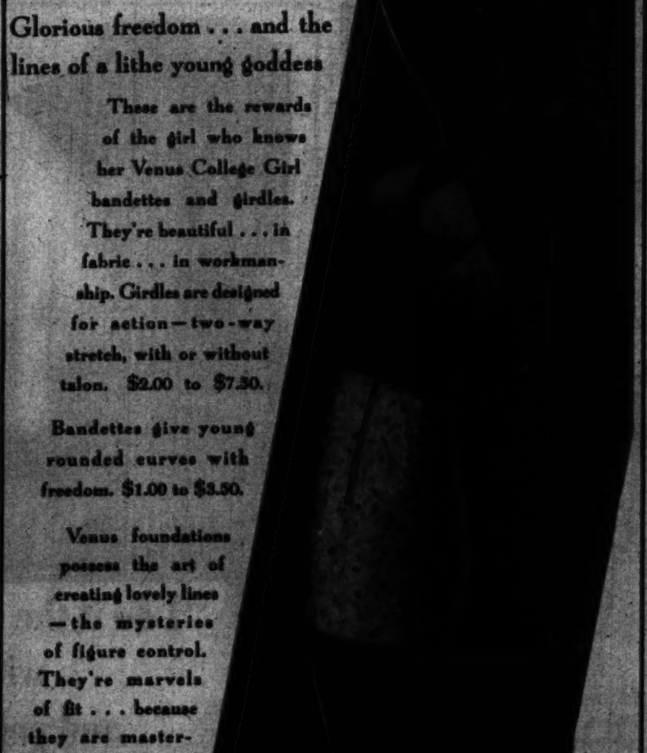


A struggle with an alligator they snared with their ropes.

In flimsy canoes, they start out on the hunt.

Tying his jaws.

With stubby feet tied over his back and long jaws securely bound, the former swamp denizen is carried like a sack of meal to the canoe.



Two fine specimens are lodged carefully in the canoe so they can't cause a commotion in the first step of their journey to some zoo or an animal buyer's collection.

TEXTURE couldn't BE AS SMOOTH BEFORE!

"Air-Spun" FACE POWDER

"Air-Spun" is not merely smoother than other powders. It is as different in texture as young skin is different from old!

Now Coty uses streams of air to refine face powder beyond any degree of smoothness known before! The powder is placed in sealed chambers. Then torrents of rushing air swirl each particle, while each tiny surface is buffed and softened.

Thus, "Air-Spun" becomes so soft that even the dullest skin looks less powdered. So warmly tinted that even sallow skin looks clearer!

Coty gives you "Air-Spun" in 14 flattering shades . . . in L'Aimant, Emeraude, and other precious Coty odeurs. $1.

New! Coty "Sub-Deb" Air-Spun Rouge! Buffed by air to new smoothness and color richness. 50¢.

ALWAYS WOKE UP TIRED
—Then a friend suggested that she ENO-IZE

A TRUE EXPERIENCE based on a letter from Miss A. B., of Washington, D. C.

A FRIEND TO THE RESCUE
I USED TO GET THAT "HALF-SICK" HYPER-ACID CONDITION TOO, ANN. NOW, WHENEVER I FEEL TIRED OR HEADACHY, OR HAVE A LINGERING COLD DUE TO CONSTIPATION, I ENO-IZE!
THEN I'D BETTER HAVE A GLASS OF ENO RIGHT NOW!

HOW ENO HELPS YOU
Eno clears the digestive tract by its gentle flushing action—and Eno helps to neutralize the hyper-acid condition which often accompanies that "sluggish feeling." Because of its alkalizing-laxative action, Eno gives quicker relief not only from sluggishness, but from lingering colds, headaches and other conditions when caused by constipation.

A WEEK LATER
NO MORE SLUGGISH FEELING NOW! I'VE FOUND THAT A LITTLE ENO REGULARLY IN THE MORNINGS HELPS TO KEEP ME FEELING BETTER ALL THE TIME ...AND ENO IS SO PLEASANT AND REFRESHING TO DRINK, TOO!

YOU'LL LIKE ENO the pleasant-tasting alkalizing laxative

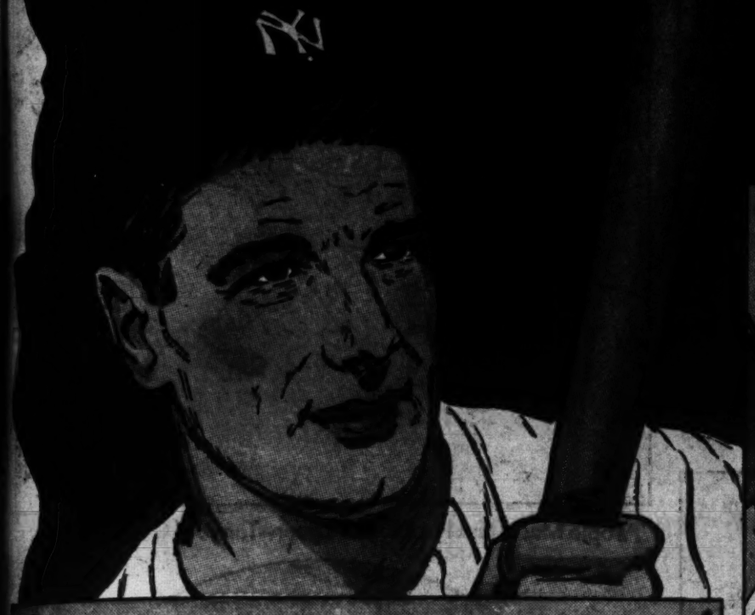
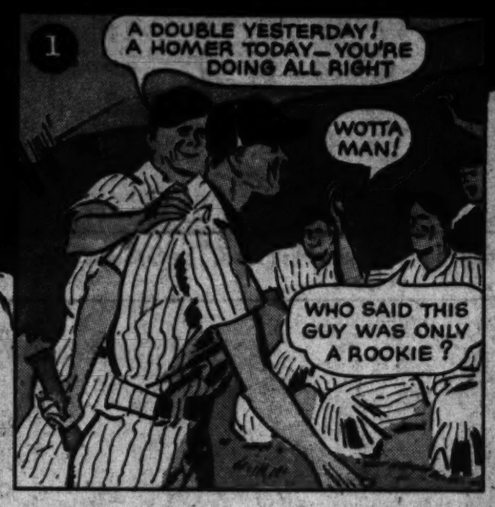
ALL HONOR TO A GREAT ATHLETE

LOU GEHRIG





THIRTEEN YEARS IN THE BIG LEAGUE. "Rookie" Gehrig signed up with the New York Yankees in 1923 and started making baseball history. September 27th that year he hit his first home-run. By 1927 he was the American League's MOST VALUABLE PLAYER. And won the same honor again in 1931, 1934, and 1936.

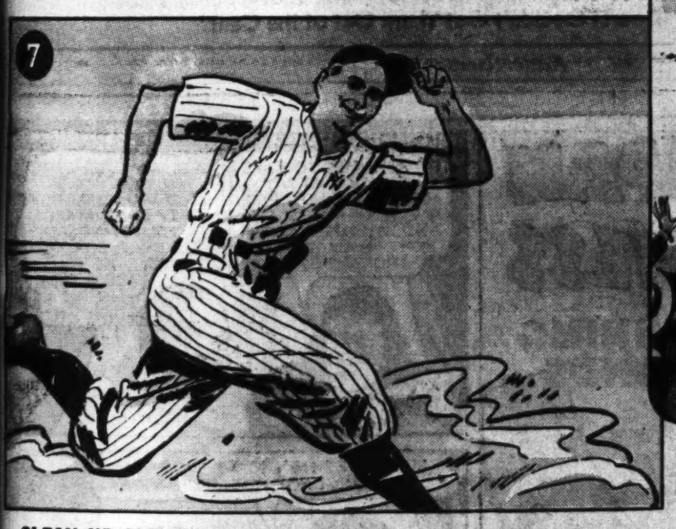
A GREAT FIRST BASEMAN. Lou's prowess as a slugger is matched by his brilliant play at first base. His record last year was only 6/1000ths short of PERFECT. He had 1,377 put-outs, 82 assists, and 128 double plays.

LOU HOLDS MORE RECORDS than any other man in the game today. Here are a few for any four-game World Series: most runs batted in (9); most home-runs (4); most bases on balls (6). During the regular schedule he has knocked 4 home-runs in one game—scored 100 or more runs and batted in 100 or more runs for 11 consecutive American League seasons. Lou has hit for 400 or more bases every year for the last five years.

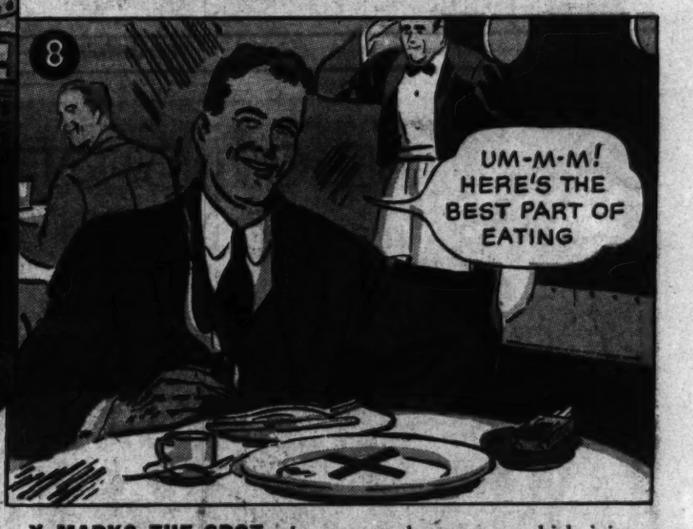
THE HOME-RUN KING! Gehrig has an average of 38 home-runs per season. In 1931, Gehrig shared the crown as the American League's home-run king by knocking out 46 circuit clouts. He led the league with 49 homers in 1934 and again in 1936. Gehrig's follow-through is shown above. With only 2/5ths of a second to size up a pitched ball, it takes healthy nerves to connect with one, and, as Lou says: "Camels don't get on my nerves."

BASEBALL'S "IRON-MAN"! When Lou steps out on the field, this month, for the first game of the 1937 season—he'll be playing his 1,809th consecutive game. His streak started 'way back on June 1st, 1925. Injuries never stopped "Iron-Man" Gehrig. Once he chipped a bone in his foot—yet knocked out a homer, two doubles, and a single next day. Another time, he was knocked out by a "bean ball," yet next day walloped 3 triples in 5 innings. Gehrig's "Iron-Man" record is proof of his splendid physical condition. As Lou says: "You can bet all the years I've been playing, I've been careful about my physical condition. Smoke? I smoke and enjoy it. My cigarette is Camel."

HERE'S LOU'S FAVORITE BAT and his favorite first baseman's mitt. His bat is especially made. It weighs 37 ounces—is 35 inches long. He wears out two mitts a season—and you can just imagine the knocks he absorbs doing it.



CLEAN-UP MAN for the most sensational slugging aggregation ever known. Pity the pitcher who faces the Yankees' starting line-up. Three heavy hitters to face—then Lou Gehrig steps up to the plate. Lou holds the American League record for runs batted in. No wonder he's walked more than any other man playing today.



X MARKS THE SPOT where once there was a thick juicy steak smothered in mushrooms—Lou's favorite dish. Gehrig is a big man—6 ft. 1 in. tall—weighs 210 pounds. And he has a big man's appetite. Lou eats what he wants and isn't bashful about coming back for "seconds." Read what he says below.

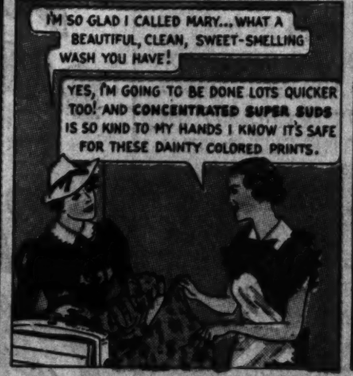
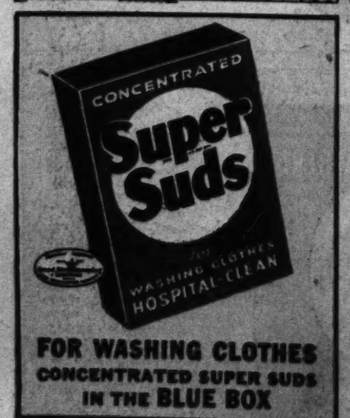
BE ON GUARD AGAINST DANGEROUS GERMS IN YOUR FAMILY WASH!

MRS. R. S. ROGERS of Mamaroneck, N. Y. (shown above with her son, Jack), is one of the many housewives whose wash was germ-tested by a noted laboratory.





FOR WASHING CLOTHES CONCENTRATED SUPER SUDS IN THE BLUE BOX

HOW CONCENTRATED SUPER SUDS WASHES CLOTHES HOSPITAL-CLEAN!

THE very first time you use Concentrated Super Suds, in the blue box, you'll be amazed at the way this marvelous new soap piles up richer, thicker, more active suds—even in hard water! Lively, long-lasting suds that literally soak out the dirt in a jiffy, and end once and for all the drudgery of washday scrubbing!

Best of all—you can be sure that germs are removed . . . that your clothes are really Hospital-Clean. That does not mean sterile, but it does mean that most of the dangerous germs are removed or killed in the washing process. Yet you'll find Concentrated Super Suds is so safe that clothes last longer.

Get Concentrated Super Suds, in the blue box, right away! A Colgate-Palmolive-Peet product.

DISHPAN REDNESS WAS RUINING HER HANDS

ROBERT, FAMOUS NEW YORK BEAUTY EXPERT, SAYS:

I recommend Super Suds in the Red Box because I know this soap is particularly mild. Besides, Super Suds in the Red Box is made in tiny hollow beads which dissolve immediately, completely. So there are no undissolved soap particles left in the water to irritate skin . . . to make hands red and rough.

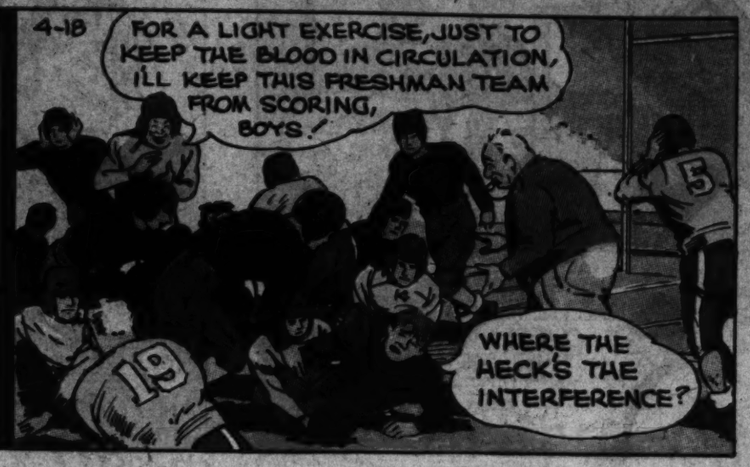
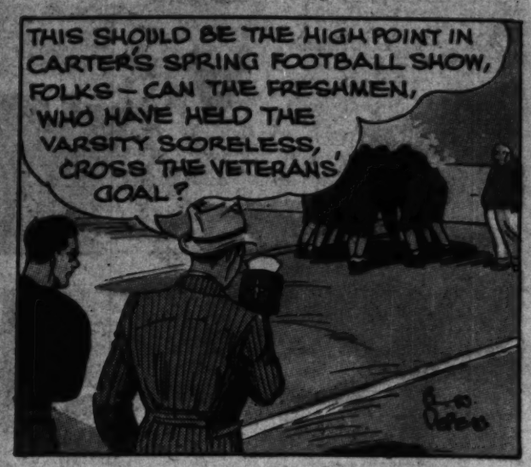
NED BRANT

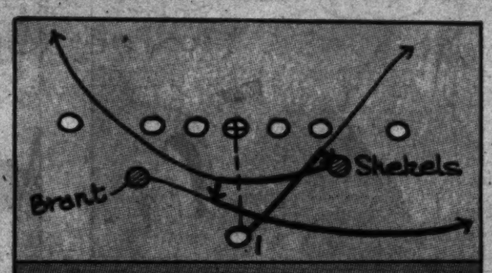
By BOB ZUPPKE

DRAWN BY B. W. DEPEW.

4-18







No. 1 receives the ball from center and fakes a smash off right tackle. He slips ball to Bud Shekels. Shekels fakes a reverse off left tackle and slips the ball to Ned Brant, who swings wide at his right end, passing to Shekels if he's hemmed in by tacklers.

Not a hand touched Brant as the entire varsity team was decoyed away from the play.

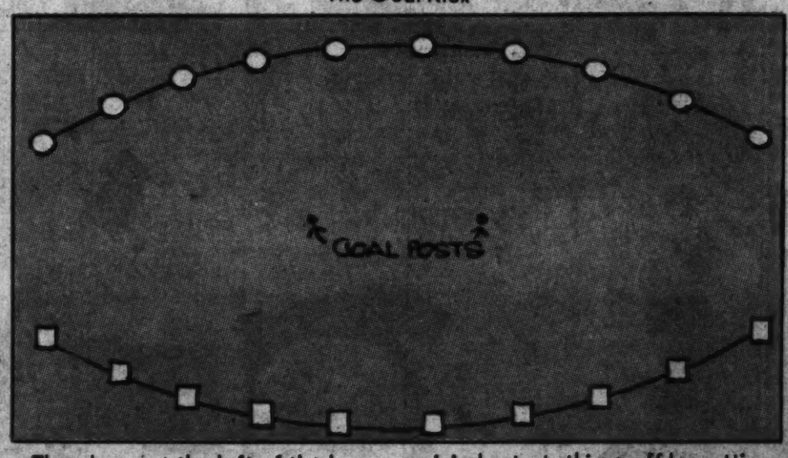
Soccer . . . . . By NED BRANT

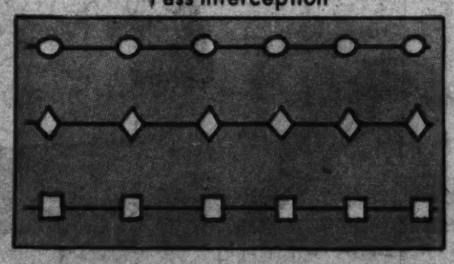
Drills to Develop Skill

The Goal Kick



The player at the left of the lower semicircle starts things off by setting the ball in front of him on the ground and endeavoring to kick it between the goal posts under the bar. The player at the left end of the upper semicircle retrieves the ball and it's his turn to kick it. When the last player has kicked, he goes to the opposite end of the line and the players move one place to the left.

Pass Interception



The purpose of this drill is to gain efficiency in breaking up passes between opponents. The center line of players attempts to intercept passes between the two outer teams.

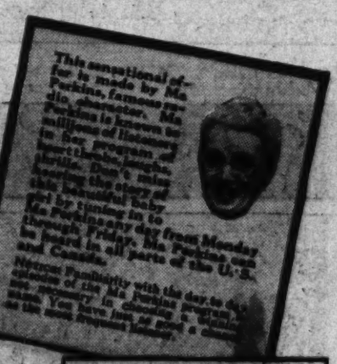
FREE! $10,000.00 in Cash



JUST FOR A NAME FOR THIS BABY GIRL

What Woman Can't Name An Adorable Baby Girl Like This? A Housewife Has A Better Chance Than A College Professor!

A girl about 9 months old, curly blonde hair, blue eyes! Found in Ma Perkins' lumberyard, in a blue blanket. Think of a name for this adorable foundling and you may win $5,000 cash! See details below.

GRAND 1ST PRIZE
$5,000.00 in CASH

702 OTHER CASH PRIZES

Contest Closes Midnight, April 30, 1937

Purpose Of Contest To More Quickly Induce You To Try This Far Faster-Washing, Whiter-Washing, "No-Scrub" Soap That's Safe As Can Be For Colors, Hands

● Think of it! $5,000 Grand First Prize for a first name for this adorable baby girl! It's so easy, so simple that even a College Professor has no better chance than you. Don't wait! Read on this page the circumstances surrounding the discovery of the baby, and send your entry in right away! If you don't win the $5,000 First Prize, you have 702 other chances—for there are 703 cash prizes in all!

The reason we offer these large cash prizes is to induce more women to try OXYDOL . . . the Ivory soap people's latest amazing "no-scrub, no-boil" laundry soap. OXYDOL is often called the "miracle soap of modern science," because of its great difference in action and results.

What It Does

Combining speed and safety in a way no single soap has done before, OXYDOL does these 4 amazing things:

(1) Soaks out dirt in 15 minutes without scrubbing or boiling. Even grimy collar bands come white with a gentle rub between the fingers.

(2) Gets white clothes 4 to 5 shades whiter than other soaps, proved by scientific Tintometer tests.

(3) Cuts washing time 25% to 40% in tub or machine.

(4) Yet so safe that every washable color comes out sparkling and fresh—your hands stay soft and white. Even sheer cotton prints have been washed 100 consecutive times in OXYDOL suds without perceptible sign of fading.

In addition to its marvelous results OXYDOL is economical, too. Tests show it will go ⅓ to ½ again as far as the latest soap chips on the market. Don't miss this chance to win yourself $5,000 in cash just for naming this adorable baby girl! All you do is follow instructions printed on the entry blank at the right. Get busy right away—send in your choice for a name and be sure to send your entry on or before midnight, April 30, 1937.

CONTEST RULES—Read Carefully

1. Read carefully the facts surrounding the mysterious discovery of the baby girl shown above. Then choose a name for the little girl, and write that name in the entry blank at the right. (The entry blank is only for your convenience, you may use any piece of paper that you wish.)

2. Buy a package of OXYDOL, tear off the top of the box and pin the entry blank to the box top (or facsimile). Then put them both in an envelope and mail them to OXYDOL, Department N, Post Office Box 668, Cincinnati, Ohio. All entries must be postmarked before midnight, April 30, 1937.

3. Send in as many entries as you wish, providing each one is accompanied by one OXYDOL box top, any size (or facsimile).

4. Judging will be under the direction of Miss Elsie M. Rushmore, Contest Consultant, and her associates.

5. Decisions of the judges will be final. The judges will make their decisions on aptness, uniqueness, suitability. Duplicate prizes will be awarded in case of tie. A complete list of winners will be published in the July 3 issue of the Saturday Evening Post, appearing on the news stands June 20.

6. Anyone may enter this contest except employees of Procter & Gamble, their advertising agencies, or members of their families.

7. This contest applies only to the United States, Canada and Hawaii and is subject to all laws and regulations. All entries and contents thereto become the property of Procter & Gamble. No entry will be returned.

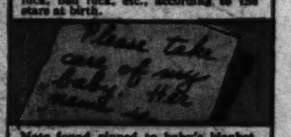
QUICK FACTS

X marks the spot where baby was found wrapped in a blue blanket by Ma Perkins' lumberyard. The baby is approximately nine months old, and has curly blonde hair and blue eyes.

Birthmark on left shoulder blade resembles a 4-leaf clover. Could this be any guide to the baby's name? In this fascinating contest you have just as good a chance to win as a college professor.

Old Almanac found in baby's basket with book marker at the "Signs of the Zodiac." Did the mother attempt to read the baby's future in the stars? Zodiac signs supposedly indicate good luck, bad luck, etc., according to the stars at birth.



Note found pinned to baby's blanket. Why didn't it give her name? $5,000 first prize for the winning name! 702 other cash prizes as well! Think of a name right now, and send it in!

JOYS and GLOOMS

IF YOU are one of those who cannot safely drink coffee...try Postum's 30-day test. Buy a can of Postum and drink it instead of coffee for a full month.

If...at the end of the next 30 days...you do not feel better, return the top of the Postum container to General Foods, Battle Creek, Michigan, and we will cheerfully refund the full purchase price, plus postage! (If you live in Canada, address General Foods, Ltd., Cobourg, Ont.)

All we ask is that you give Postum a fair trial...that you drink it for the full 30 days!

Postum, you see, contains no caffein. It is simply whole wheat and bran, roasted and slightly sweetened. Postum comes in two forms ... Postum Cereal, the kind you boil or percolate ... and Instant Postum, made instantly in the cup. Either way, it is economical, easy to make and delicious. You may miss coffee at first, but after 30 days, you'll love Postum for its own rich, full-bodied flavor. Postum is a product of General Foods.
